HAUPTMANN WILL BE REMOVED TO PRISON TOMORROW

Exact Time for Transfer Is Not Given by Sheriff—Condemned Man Regains Composure.

HE HOPES PUBLIC WILL AID IN APPEAL

Signs Petition to Justice Trenchard Asking State to Pay Costs of Record in His Appeal.

By the Associated Press.

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Feb. 15.—Sheriff John H. Curtiss announced today that Bruno Richard Hauptmann, convicted of the Lindbergh baby murder, would be removed from the Hunterdon County jail to the death house in State prison sometime tomorrow.

"We are going to take him down tomorrow. That's definite," said Curtiss.

Pressed for some definite information as to what time Hauptmann would start on the 20-mile journey to the prison, he said:

"It won't be before daylight," adding, with a chuckle "you boys can go home and get a good night's sleep tonight."

The Sheriff said he together with four or five of his deputies and an unspecified number of State police would accompany the manacled prisoner on the trip.

"I plan to get in touch with Col. (H. Norman) Schwarzkopf sometime today to arrange the final details of the State Police escort which will accompany us," said the Sheriff.

Has the Death Warrant.

The Sheriff stated that he would ride in the same car with Hauptmann and added "I have the death warrant here signed by the Judge, the Prosecutor and the Court Clerk."

He produced the slightly soiled single sheet of paper on which was typewritten Hauptmann's name and with the various dates filled in in ink. It bore the signatures of Supreme Court Justice Thomas W. Trenchard, who presided at the trial, Anthony M. Hauck, Prosecutor of the Pleas of Hunterdon County, and C. Lloyd Fell, the Court Clerk.

Asks State to Pay for Appeal.

Attorney Fisher said Hauptmann had signed the first papers in preparation for his appeal from the death sentence. This was a petition to Supreme Court Justice Thomas W. Trenchard, requesting that the State of New Jersey pay the costs of the record of the trial. The papers set forth that Hauptmann is a pauper.

Fisher said that under the statute persons convicted of murder in the first degree can, if they satisfy the presiding judge they are penniless, have the cost of the record paid. The bill ordinarily is paid by the county in such cases. In the Hauptmann case, however, the State would pay it. He said the signing of the order was wholly discretionary with the judge. The State will get notice if the order is signed and may oppose the payment.

Cost About $25,000.

Fisher said the total cost of an appeal would be at least $25,000, and that the record would cost between $7000 and $9000.

The next step Fisher will take will be to obtain from the court of errors and appeals a writ of error. This will automatically stay execution of the death sentence.

The next term of the court, he said, would begin on the third Tuesday in May, at which time the case would be argued.

Meanwhile briefs will be prepared as soon as the record of the trial is available.

Hauptmann today also signed a paper making Fisher trustee of the defense fund the prisoner hopes will be forthcoming through appeals to the public. To date, it was disclosed, only $70 has been received.

Fisher said Hauptmann today received a four-word cable message from his mother in Germany.

Accomplice Story Denied.

A published report that Federal authorities had evidence of an accomplice was denied in Washington by J. Edgar Hoover, head of the Department of Justice's division of investigation. The District Attorney of the Bronx, where Hauptmann was indicted for extortion, said all the evidence was to the effect that Hauptmann was alone in the crime.

Hauptmann's cell in the death house at the prison will be six steps from the death chamber. Col. George L. Selby, acting principal keeper, assigned the prisoner cell next to the electrocution chamber.

Four of the six other prisoners in the death house are to die with-

SENATE ASKS ICKES FOR HIS REPORTS ON FARLEY

Adopts Long's Resolution Calling for PWA Investigators' Statements—Secretary Says He'll Produce What He Has.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—At the request of Senator Long of Louisiana the Senate asked Secretary of the Interior Ickes today to furnish all reports of Interior Department investigators referring to Postmaster-General Farley.

Senator Robinson, Democratic leader, agreed to approval of the resolution after Long consented to a modification. As originally drawn, the resolution called for all reports gathered by Louis Glavis, Ickes' chief investigator, in connection with the public building program. Robinson protested that this data would be too voluminous.

As approved, the resolution requests Ickes to furnish all Glavis' reports "which affect, mention or report on James A. Farley, or any concern with which said Farley has been or is now identified."

It also asked for reports dealing with contracts to James Stewart & Co. on supplies furnished to that company by the General Builders' Supply Corporation.

"I will turn over anything we have as soon as I get formal notification from the Senate," Ickes said when informed of the action.

Long has charged the Stewart company was given preference in public works contracts and obtained supplies from the other company, which, he said, was headed by Farley's brother-in-law.

Long cited the law on disposition of postage stamps today and read a House address about Farley giving unperforated and ungummed stamps to friends. He said if those statements were true, Farley had given away stamps with a "souvenir value" of $80,000.

Yesterday he asserted Farley had violated "three Federal statutes and possibly a fourth" in retaining an interest in a building supply company furnishing materials to firms having Government contracts, and in seeking donations from Government employes to wipe out the Democratic party deficit.

"Being Whereased by Long, But Not Taking It Seriously."

By the Associated Press.

SARASOTA, Fla., Feb. 15.—Postmaster-General Farley today said he was not taking seriously the request made by Senator Huey Long in Washington for reports of Interior Department investigators referring to him.

"I am being whereased in Washington today by Huey Long, but I do not take it seriously," Farley said, at a banquet in his honor. He was here for the dedication of a new postoffice building.

A CHICAGO IDEA: LICENSE HANDBOOKS AND HIRE MORE COPS

Candidate Suggests Way of Raising Revenue to Pay 2000 Policemen.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 15.—Mortimer B. Flynn, Republican candidate for Mayor, favors the licensing the 4200 handbook operators he says are operating in the city and use the money to employ 2000 more policemen.

If gambling at the race tracks is legal, handbooks are legal," he said. "If elected Mayor I will ask the Legislature to authorize the city to license these handbooks at $1000 a year, an amount which they can afford to pay.

"About 4200 handbooks have been operating in Chicago, and each, I am reliably informed, has been paying $100 a month to politicians for 'protection,'" Flynn continued. "This graft has amounted to $420,000 a month or $5,040,000 a year. Under my plan the city would be given $4,200,000 a year in new revenue, the payment of which would not hurt anybody and would pay for 2100 more police, giving employment to that many more men who are idle."

'SUGGESTIONS OF GRAFT' IN HOLC PRESENTED

Three Congressmen Urge House Inquiry; One Tells of Complaints From 45 States.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15. — New charges of "inefficiency" and "suggestions of graft" were laid before the House Rules Committee today by Congressmen who demanded an investigation of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation.

Representative Sweeney (Dem.), Ohio, author of the resolution asking for the investigation, said he had letters from 45 states complaining about the HOLC. He quoted one letter from Michigan asserting that "state officials received loans almost immediately," while others had to wait months, and another from Connecticut saying that loan applicants had to get aid from "gambling promoters."

Representative Hoeppel (Dem.), California, asserted the entire HOLC in Southern California was a "McAdoo stepchild," being used to build up a "machine" for Senator McAdoo (Dem.), California.

Representative Pierce (Dem.), Oregon, said "If Oregon is a sample, we are going to have thousands of homes on the Government's hands."

GUARD KILLED AT BATON ROUGE

Shooting of Corporal Accidental, Military Court Decides.

BATON ROUGE, La., Feb. 15.—Corporal Hugh J. Belanger, 24 years old, of Houma, La., one of the National Guardsmen enforcing martial law here, was fatally wounded on the Statehouse grounds late yesterday.

A military court of inquiry, which succeeded the parish coroner under the martial law, held that the killing was accidental, but declined to disclose the name of the person responsible for it. Maj. W. D. Shaffer, Assistant Adjutant-General, said in New Orleans that Belanger was killed in the guard headquarters on the Statehouse grounds when an automatic rifle in the hand of another militiaman became jammed and was discharged. He said Belanger was shot in the abdomen.

GOLD MINE STRIKERS ROUTED BY DEPUTIES

200 Citizen Officers Burn Pickets' Field Headquarters at Jackson, Col.

By the Associated Press.

JACKSON, Cal., Feb. 15.—Two hundred armed deputies today burned and demolished the field headquarters of striking mine pickets at Kenedy Flat in California's historic Mother Lode country, after first dispersing 120 pickets and strikers.

In manner reminiscent of the rough and tumble days of old, when Jackson was a pioneer gold town, the 200 deputies moved against the strike which has paralyzed Jackson's only industry.

As dawn broke, the armed citizens gathered at the Amador County courthouse. Two men, presumably strikers, started to take notes on the license plates of the cars. They were ordered to leave.

About 40 automobiles sped down the hill on which the courthouse stands. They were packed with men and carried pistols, rifles and shotguns.

At Kennedy Flat, near the intersection of roads leading to the Argonaut and Kennedy mines—two of the four involved in the five-month strike-lockout—the caravan halted. Here was the headquarters for pickets guarding the way to both mines. About 120 pickets stood around the charred ruins of their tent.

Brandishing weapons, the deputies dismounted and drew up in semi-military order. "Get going!" was the order. The pickets retreated some 600 yards down the road. Meanwhile a shift of about 30 men went to work at the Argonaut—for the first time in months without passing a line of strikers.

SEVEN BRITONS KILLED IN PLANE CRASH IN SICILY

Officers and Men Were in Air Squadron on Flight From London to Singapore.

HAD STARTED ON WAY TO MALTA

Craft Had Been Forced to Break Trip at Naples Because of Trouble With Engines.

By the Associated Press.

MESSINA, Sicily, Feb. 15.—Seven British officers and men were killed late today in a crash of the seaplane, "Singapore," en route from Naples to Malta. The plane burned immediately after the crash.

The plane was one of four trimotored craft flying from London to Singapore. The squadron reached Naples two weeks ago and was forced to land because of engine trouble in two of the planes.

Late today two of the planes started toward Malta. In passing near the village of San Filippo, Sicily, one of them crashed to death.

Farmers of the neighborhood said the "Singapore" passed through cloud banks and emerged almost in the face of the summit of San Filippo Mountain. The pilot swerved the ship, but the right wing touched a jutting rock, they said. The plane wabbled on for about four miles while the pilot evidently sought some place to land. After passing the village of San Filippo, the ship nosed down suddenly and burst into flames as it crashed.

The bodies of Flight Lieut. Henry Longfield Beatty, who was in charge of the plane; Flying Officer John A. C. Forbes and another lieutenant named Willis, together with two second lieutenants, Allen and Bailey, Sergeant Wallace and a civilian named Penn have been identified.

RFC SAID TO HAVE EQUITY IN ILLICIT LIQUOR PLANT

Loan Made to Firm Whose Plant Was Raided by Federal Agents.

By the Associated Press.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Feb. 15.—The Post-Standard says the Federal Government appears to have an equity in the largest illicit liquor plant in this State since the end of prohibition.

The paper says it was learned in Washington that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation in November, 1934, authorized a loan of $40,000 to Charles L. Noble, trading as the Clyde Products Co.

The Clyde plant was raided last week by Federal agents, who reported a carload of 10,000 gallons of alcohol was found in a tank car on a siding. The alcohol ostensibly was for use in making vinegar. In the plant, the agents said, were 9000 gallons of apple brandy and 4000 gallons of vinegar.

The denatured alcohol found in the tank car, of which the plant was allowed one each month, was cleaned and reshipped to illicit distributers, the agents charge. Officials in Washington and New York were reported by the Post-Standard as being reticent when the RFC loan was mentioned.

ANNOUNCES NEW DISEASE, 'UNEMPLOYMENT NEUROSIS'

Spanish Physician Says Symptoms Resemble Neurasthenia and Include Definite Organic Inferiority.

By the Associated Press.

MADRID, Feb. 15.—Dr. Vallejo Najera, noted Spanish physician, announced last night the discovery of a new disease which he called "unemployment neurosis." He said his statement was based on five years of observation of patients in public hospitals.

Dr. Najera said the unsettled economic conditions were the cause of this disease, first phases of the illness resemble neurasthenia, he said, and include definite organic inferiority, insomnia and indications of pre-tubercular weakness. In most cases men were admitted to hospitals supposedly suffering from general debility and hypo-chondriacal pains. A strengthening treatment served only to restore them physically, he said, but they remained mentally cowardly, depressed, full of self-worry and fear.

Most of the persons suffering from "unemployment neurosis," Dr. Najera said, become easy recruits of extremist organizations and gangster bands.

TELLS OF BIG FEE OFFER TO HELP ON NAVAL CONTRACTS

Marine Architect Testifies Emissary of Builder Proposed to Pay Him Total of $475,000.

'DEAR PETE' LETTER TO WINNING BIDDER

Witness Styles Self a 'Sentimental Fool'; Pointed Way to Become 'Golden-Haired Child.'

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15. — A. P. Homer, Washington marine architect, told the Senate Munitions Committee today he had been offered a retainer of $475,000 to aid Laurence R. Wilder, a shipbuilder, get naval contracts in 1933 for Gulf Industries of Pensacola, but had not accepted it.

The witness had been described by previous witnesses variously as a former paint and revolving door salesman and close friend of President Roosevelt.

"I have tried to refresh my memory as to the time when the offer was made on behalf of Mr. Wilder," he told the committee. "I have only a vague recollection that an emissary, who was supposed to have come from Mr. Wilder, came to me about eight or nine days before the opening of the bids on July 26, 1933, and made an offer of a very large retainer ($125,000) and a contingent fee of $350,000, if I would undertake to advise the Gulf Industries in connection with the preparation of their bids to the Navy and the methods of financing the Gulf Industries if their bids were acceptable.

"As there was no possible way in which the Gulf Industries could place themselves in a position where I could be of service, I could not even consider it."

Discussion of a "Split."

Homer tentatively identified Axel P. Graven, Washington attorney, as the 'emissary" who made the purported offer on behalf of Wilder.

"I could not even consider it," he declared, and he explained that he had no confidence in the prospects of Gulf Industries ever to become a prominent plant because of its location. "I told him what I thought of the idea of building large yards with Government funds," Homer said, referring to an application of the company for a PWA loan of $30,000,000 to put up the plant. The loan was not made.

Homer declared he was not "positive" in his recollections of Graven as the one who offered him $475,000 on behalf of Wilder, but under committee questioning said he "believed it was."

'Surely you were not offered fees of $475,000 so often that you could not recall who made them," said Senator Clark (Dem.) Missouri. "It is my recollection it was Graven," Homer replied. 'He was one who was always waving millions around very carelessly."

Homer told the committee he recalled talking to its members in December about a "split" he had discussed with Graven of a proposed Wilder fee of $250,000. Previously Graven had denied having any such discussions with Homer, declaring he had offered the services of the architect merely as a technician and not as a "fixer."

$50,000 He Didn't Get.

The committee swung into examination of the witness about a purported diary he had kept telling of his efforts and asserted success in getting business for Bath Iron Works, headed by W. S. Newell.

The witness declared his entire interest was in obtaining work for the yards upon which he said the City of Bath, Me., is dependent. "I am a sentimental fool," he said, "but I hated to see an industrial city die."

The company obtained contracts for two destroyers, he related, and he billed it for $50,000 as a fee. The company earlier said the fee had not been paid. Homer explained the "diary" was a momoranda he submitted to his attorney to aid in a suit for it.

Homer said he fathered the idea of providing Public Works funds for Navy construction, considering it part of his service to Bath Iron Works. He said after he saw a news story indicating large appropriations expected for public works, he wrote to Newell, addressing him as "Dear Pete."

Wrote to Shipbuilder.

Dated April 1, 1933, three weeks after inauguration of President Roosevelt, the letter said:

"Now that the story has broken on the front page of the New York Herald Tribune, you perhaps understand why it was that I wrote you to come down to Washington.

"I want you to be the golden-

HAPPEL GETS LIFE TERM FOR MURDER OF HIS WIFE

Found Legally Sane; Says 'She Was Too Fresh and I Taught Her a Lesson.'

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 15.—John H. Happel today was found legally sane, convicted of first degree murder, and sentenced to life imprisonment by Superior Judge Charles W. Fricke for the murder of Mrs. Rose Marie Happel, his wife. He had waived a jury at his sanity trial. He told yesterday why he killed his wife Nov. 28 and crammed her body into a trunk.

"She was too fresh and I just taught her a lesson," said the 58-year-old defendant.

Happel then told Judge Charles W. Fricke of dismembering the body of the woman he had met and married 17 years before through a matrimonial mail order agency; jamming it into a trunk; getting something to eat; drawing their joint bank account of $431.50; buying a railroad ticket to St. Louis, and near there shooting and killing Henry W. Meyer, tenant on a farm his wife owned because "he wouldn't pay his rent."

He has pleaded not guilty by reason of insanity.

100 IN PALESTINE JAIL CONTINUE HUNGER STRIKE

Persons Held for Illegal Entry Do Without Water as Well as Food.

JERUSALEM, Feb. 15 (by Jewish Telegraphic Agency). — More than 100 prisoners in the Acre Jail, arrested for illegal entry into Palestine, have begun the third day of a hunger strike and made it complete by abstaining from water as well as food.

Many of the prisoners have served the terms to which they were originally sentenced. The Government cannot deport them, however, because they entered the country without passports and refused to disclose the lands of their origin.

LINDBERGH RANSOM MONEY TO BE HELD PENDING APPEAL

Bills Will Be Returned to Colonel When Case Is Finally Disposed Of.

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Feb. 15.—The $14,600 cache of ransom money found in Bruno Richard Hauptman's garage will eventually be returned to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, but not until after the courts have decided on Hauptmann's appeal and any possibility of a new trial is eliminated.

Pending the outcome of the appeal, the money will be carefully guarded together with the 300 and more exhibits the prosecution used.

No Gold Decision Before Monday.

VETERAN DROWNS SELF IN LAKE AT CEMETERY

Richard Mullmann, disabled veteran of the World War, was found dead today in a small lake at SS. Peter and Paul's Cemtery, 7000 Gravois road. He was 44 years old and resided at 3557 Caroline street.

The cemetery caretaker found the body about 8:30 o'clock, floating face down in three feet of water. He recalled that yesterday the man had spent much time around the Mullmann family plot in the cemetery. A telephone call to Albert J. Mullmann, 3405 Cherokee street, led to identification of the body as that of his brother.

Albert Mullmann said his brother had been discharged from the Veterans' Hospital at Jefferson Barracks only a week ago, and that he had provided a room for him at the Caroline street address.

INCREASES UP TO 70 PCT. IN FOOD PRICES IN YEAR

AAA Says Full Effect of Drouth and Curtailed Acreage Is Just Beginning to Be Felt.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—Officials of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration said today that retail prices were just beginning to feel the full effect of last year's drouth and curtailed acreage.

Bureau of Labor Statistics showed increases in the cost of food ranging from 44 per cent for butter to less than 1 per cent for wheat cereals. Only potatoes, onions, cabbage and bananas showed decreases.

Average retail figures for the country compared with a year ago showed these increases: Milk 4.5 per cent; cheese 10; beef 17.5; pork chops 34.2; lard 70.5; mutton 18.3; poultry 16.3; eggs 23.4; white bread 5.1; flour 8.5; canned corn 16.4; canned peas 22.5; peaches 10.9.

The possibility of a further rise in retail beef prices was suggested meanwhile, by the fact the Government purchased and slaughtered millions of head of cattle to keep them from starving in the drouth area.

NEW YORK STATE TAX RISE

Legislature Passes $55,750,000 Bill; Income, Gasoline Levies Increased.

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 15.—The Legislature voted $55,750,000 in new taxes last night, including a 4-cent gasoline tax and higher income taxes.

The gasoline tax adds 1 cent a gallon to the present 3-cent tax, an increase estimated to produce $16,250,000. The income tax rates apply on earnings of $3000 a year or more. The levy is expected to raise $22,000,000.

"PRESIDENTIAL SPECULATION BASED UPON PIOUS HOPES"

Michigan Republican in Senate Declares $4,800,000,000 Bill Is 'Blank Check for Biggest Sum Ever Passed in Single Transaction.'

'COUNSEL OF DESPAIR NO JUSTIFICATION'

'Most Amazing Proposal in History of Democracy,' He Says — Sarcastically Proposes $1000 Fine for Anyone Who Doesn't Like It.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—Opening a new Republican attack on the administration $4,880,000,000 works relief bill, Senator Vandenberg of Michigan, told the Senate today it was "a blank check for the biggest sum of money ever passed in a single transaction" and was calculated to "retard recovery, if we guess correctly what the administration contemplates."

He termed the measure the "most amazing legislative proposal in the history of this or any other democracy," and then sarcastically suggested the whole bill could be simplified by substituting two simple sections:

"1—Congress hereby appropriates $4,880,000,000 to the President to use as he pleases.

"2—Anybody who doesn't like it is fined $1000."

Vandenberg spoke after Chairman Glass of the Appropriations Committee, in charge of the bill, explained the amendments made by the committee to the House text, but refrained from recommending passage in its present form.

"I favored most of these amendments," Glass said slightly above whispered tones. "I proposed a good many of them and differed with some.

"It will be noted the amount of money has not been changed in any respect."

Glass voted in committee for the amendment of Senator Adams (Dem.), Colorado, to cut the appropriation by $2,000,000,000.

"Born in Mysterious Dark."

Vandenberg, who is considered a Republican presidential possibility in 1936, described the relief bill in these words:

"It represents four or five billion dollars' worth of lost liberty and the erection of a corresponding presidential speculation. It was born in the mysterious dark; it has defied intelligent illumination; its only merit is a pious, puzzling hope; its program is a lottery; and its only justification is the counsel of desperation.

"I deny that we are sunk to these necessities. On the contrary, I think there is enough encouragement potentially in sight to argue for a totally different program."

"Presidential Clinic."

Contending he did not question the "good faith of the presidential clinic from whence this strange statute comes," Vandenberg based his opposition on these grounds:

"First. It is an unconscionable surrender of the Legislature's functions, and a corresponding concentration of equally unconscionable power in a relatively irresponsible bureaucracy.

"Second. It is a blind adventure which commits the country to a year of dubious uncertainty at a moment when the return of stability is vital to a restoration of normal commerce.

"Third. It is a blank check for the biggest sum of money ever passed in a single transaction, and the use of the money is so unbound that it can warp the lives and livelihoods of every man, woman and child in the land, and even the character of American institutions.

"Fourth. It is not calculated to produce adequate and essential relief, but it is calculated to retard

SENATORS KEEP UP FIGHT FOR INQUIRY ON NRA

Nye-McCarran Resolution Sent to Finance Committee Over Plea That Commerce Group Handle It.

ACTION WITHOUT A RECORD VOTE

Independent Proposal by Senator King for Airing of 'Monopoly' Charges Is Reported.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—The Senate sent the Nye-McCarran resolution for an investigation of NRA to the Finance Committee today, despite the objection of its authors, who wanted the inquiry to be made by another committee.

The action was taken without a record vote, on motion of Chairman Harrison of the Finance Committee, who insisted that his committee should handle the inquiry as it would consider the shortly-expected administration bill to extend NRA for two years.

A few minutes earlier, Senator King (Dem.), Utah, had reported from the Senate Judiciary Committee an independent resolution proposing an inquiry into whether the National Recovery Act had "contributed to monopolies." It has the support of Borah of Idaho. King had the resolution referred to the Senate Audit Committee to approve an appropriation covering the inquiry.

Senators Nye (Rep.), North Dakota, and McCarran (Dem.), Nevada, authors of the resolution referred to the Finance Committee, asked that the inquiry should be made by the Commerce Committee headed by Senator Copeland (Dem.), New York.

Harrison objected. He said his committee would inquire into the operation of the NRA.

Besides the accusation that NRA had jeopardized small business, the Nye-McCarran resolution cited 20 other allegations, among them that the right of workers had been subordinated or ignored, that code authorities in some industries were dominated by elements that used their power to discriminate against others, that "hordes" of paid investigators practiced unlawful searches and seizures, that through "usurped power of fixing production costs, code authorities are indirectly fixing prices to the consumer."

President to Ask Congress to Extend NRA "in Few Days."

By the Associated Press.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Feb. 15.—President Roosevelt advised Gov. Paul V. McNutt of Indiana last night that he would ask Congress "within the next few days" to extend the NRA.

The message to the Governor, signed by the President, was prompted by what the President termed "the extraordinary misinterpretation" put on his "no" at a press conference Wednesday, when he replied to an inquiry as to whether he is asking for state NRA legislation at this time.

The President pointed out that the National Industrial Recovery Act expires June 16, and added: "It is fully expected that the Congress will shortly pass a new act extending the life of NRA with certain modifications and additions."

"It is equally clear," the letter continued, "except to those persons who seek to muddy the waters and block progress, that all of us believe the Federal Government will receive state co-operation with this new national legislation." It added, "within the next few days you will be advised of the general recommendations which I am sending to the Congress, and the suggestions of the National Recovery Administration for helpful state legislation to carry forward the industrial recovery program."

WOMEN COLLEGE STUDENT FOUND WOUNDED IN PARK

Taken to Hospital in Lynchburg, Va.; Says She Shot Self, but Inquiry Goes On.

By the Associated Press.

LYNCHBURG, Va., Feb. 15.—Miss Joy Koy, 18 years old, a sophomore at Randolph-Macon Woman's College, was found sitting on a curbstone in Riverside Park last night with two bullet wounds just below her heart.

Still conscious, she was taken to Lynchburg Hospital, where several hours later she was reported to have rallied so well that a blood transfusion was not necessary.

Police Capt. Virgil B. Grow said she told him she shot herself and a faculty member at the college was quoted as having told the same to President Theodore Jack of the college. Police, however, continued an investigation, particularly since the weapon was not found.

haired child in the Navy Department, and as certain other members of the shipbuilding fraternity have talked too much, you have a wonderful chance.

"Perhaps now that you see the possibility of eight or ten millions of dollars worth of work for the Bath Iron Works you may find time to come down. I hope so.

"Come and see us—we may be useful as there are certain angles in connection with this thing which nobody seems to have caught yet."

"What did you mean by the term 'golden-haired' boy?" Senator Vandenberg (Rep.), Michigan, asked. "Perhaps," said Homer, chuckling, "I used the wrong expression."

The comment in the letter that members of the "shipbuilding fraternity have talked too much" he described as referring to the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Company. He said that organization had circulated rumors among naval officials hinting the Bath Iron Works could not do large scale shipbuilding.

He declined to certify to correctness of all he had written in his "diary." "You wouldn't file a fraudulent claim?" Senator Clark asked. "There is such a thing as poetic license," Homer replied.

Letter About "Jerry Land."

A letter written by Homer to Newell carried what some committee members at first considered evidence the Navy Department knew weeks in advance of public works fund allotments for shipbuilding.

Homer commented in the letter dated May 25, 1933, that "Jerry Land," whom he identified as Rear Admiral Emory S. Land of the Navy, "feels as you do that when the big program comes through several of the destroyers will perhaps fit you better."

A threat of contempt proceedings by the Committee, caused Homer to change his mind and answer a question about how much he had "stretched" a conversation with Rear Admiral Land on allotment of destroyer jobs.

"Tell the committee how much you stretched the story Admiral Land told you," Senator Clark said. Homer hesitated, then replied: "I refuse to answer."

"Then I am prepared to ask the Committee to cite you for contempt," Clark said and turned to Chairman Nye (Rep.), N. D.

The chairman permitted Homer to take time out for a brief consultation with his attorney. On returning to the stand he told the committee he would reply.

"I reached the conclusion as to what I stated in my letter on the basis of a conversation I held with Admiral Land," he said, "but it was not based on any statement of Admiral Land." Earlier in the day Homer testified "perhaps I stretched it."

Previous testimony about Gravem has been ordered certified to the District Attorney here for inquiry as to whether possible perjury is involved in any of the testimony. Homer appeared today, after a two weeks' delay because of high blood pressure and a needed rest.

PARDONED AS INNOCENT, GETS 5 YEARS ON ANOTHER CHARGE

Man Released From Indiana Prison Is Going Now to South Dakota Penitentiary.

HURON, S. D., Feb. 15.—William A. Roberts, recently pardoned as innocent after serving five years in Indiana on a bank robbery charge, pleaded guilty of first degree robbery here yesterday and was sentenced to five years and a day in prison.

Robert was charged with holding up the County Treasurer's office here in July, 1929. A companion in the robbery is already serving a sentence. Roberts, former deputy sheriff, was returned here after his release from the Indiana prison.

HAUPTMANN WILL BE REMOVED TO PRISON TOMORROW

in the next month and will pass Hauptmann's cell as they walk to the chair.

Hauptmann, like other prisoners in the death house, will eat from paper plates, using paper spoons and works. He will be allowed to read books from the prison library, and magazines from which all stories of crime are deleted. He will receive no newspapers, but if he asks for them—and Selby said few prisoners do—he may have the sports and comic sections.

Wife Permitted to See Him.

Sheriff Curtiss, changing his mind, permitted Hauptmann's wife, Anna, to visit him yesterday. Orders were issued that the infant son, Mannfried, should not be taken again to his father.

With Hauptmann in the State Prison at Trenton, the Sheriff pointed out, arrangements can be made for visits by his wife and child.

Mrs. Hauptmann returned to New York with their son last night. She plans to obtain a furnished room in Trenton, so that she can visit her husband while he is in the death house.

Food failed to interest the condemned man as much as before his conviction. He ate virtually nothing yesterday until suppertime. Then he had three beef sandwiches, an orange, a cup of coffee and some cookies.

Nothing to Confess.

In his only interview during four months in the Hunterdon County jail, the Bronx carpenter was asked late yesterday whether he could not "possibly name persons connected with the kidnaping of the Lindbergh baby."

"As God is my judge," was the reply, "I cannot confess, for there is nothing to confess.

"If I had any confession to make, I would have made it months ago and saved my wife and child all this worry.

"I told everything, on my word of honor. That is, I mean I have not tried to cover up anybody."

To his attorneys Hauptmann delegated the task of obtaining funds for an appeal. They questioned him in vain, hoping to learn of friends or fraternal organizations which might help, and then expressed hope the public would aid.

Hauptmann said two $2 bills were all the money he had had since his arrest. They came from an unidentified contributor.

The prisoner said he turned them over to his wife, Anna, "because she needed them."

(Copyright, 1935.)

KAMENZ, Germany, Feb. 15.—Three dollars and sixty cents were sent to Bruno Richard Hauptmann by his aged mother today to help save him from the electric chair.

It was all she could "scrape together" to contribute to the appeal fund. But 69-year-old Frau Paulina Hauptmann placed the nine marks carefully in an envelope and sent them along with a plea to her son's lawyers to save his life.

With this contribution, Frau Hauptmann inclosed a letter to Edward J. Reilly, chief defense counsel, in which she wrote:

"I wish I had a million marks to save my innocent son from the electric chair.

"I would gladly sacrifice my last pfennig even though the case looks hopeless now. I want to save my son's honor and my family's honor and rescue an innocent man from death. Therefore I send you, Mr. Reilly, nine marks, which is all I can scrape together right now."

Death for Kidnaping in Oklahoma.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Ok., Feb. 15.—The Oklahoma Senate today passed by a vote of 29 to 0 a House bill making kidnaping punishable by death. The bill now goes to Gov. E. W. Marland for action.

Hauptmann Says He Would Have Confessed Five Months Ago If He Had Been Guilty

(Copyright, 1935.)

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Feb. 15.—"If I have to go to the electric chair, I will go like a man."

So declared Bruno Richard Hauptmann in an interview in his cell at the Hunterdon County courthouse yesterday afternoon. Two reporters, representing all the newspapers and press associations, entered the jail for the interview.

Hauptmann explained quickly, however, that he did not expect to go to the chair—that he felt sure his lawyers would be successful in their efforts to save him from execution.

Hauptmann said he wanted all of his friends who believe in his innocence to come forward and contribute to the "Hauptmann Defense Fund," which his attorneys have started.

Asked if there was any chance of him ever making a confession of any sort, he said:

"Confession? If I had to make a confession, I would have done so five months ago and would have saved my wife and my child and my mother all this misery. I have nothing to confess. I have told all I know."

Seems in Good Shape.

Hauptmann, when interviewed, was in his undershirt and trousers. He was walking up and down his cell when the two reporters and his attorney, C. Lloyd Fisher, entered the cell block.

The prisoner did not seem to be suffering any ill effects from the ordeal he had been through.

Hauptmann talked through the bars. He put one foot up on the cell bars and chatted quietly.

"What about an appeal?" he was asked.

"I am hoping my lawyers will be able to make an appeal but I must depend upon the public," he said. "I have no money. Not a dollar."

Asked if he had been treated well by the warden and his guards while he has been in the Hunterdon County jail, he said:

"The guards are excellent. Lieut. Allen Smith was fine."

He thought a moment, then added:

"Mr. Hovey Low (one of his guards who has been with him daily in the courtroom is the nicest fellow I ever met."

Insists on His Innocence.

Asked how he felt, Hauptmann replied:

"I am not worn out at all. Of course, there is a reaction. You could imagine that. And I have had a little reaction. But I feel all right."

"You still insist you are innocent?"

"I do," he replied, firmly. "I am an innocent man—just as I said when I was on the witness stand."

"Why, if they were to come into this cell and say to me: 'You can go free if you tell the story of this kidnaping,' I couldn't do it because I don't know anything about the kidnaping. I told the whole truth on the stand."

Asked what affects him most in finding himself in his present plight, Hauptmann answered:

"My wife and my child."

He was asked how het had been spending his time. He shrugged his shoulders.

"Walking and reading."

He said he had not been smoking much. No, he wasn't nervous.

Says Crowds Didn't Hurt.

He was reminded that his trial was attended by considerable publicity. Did he think that, and attendant crowds, had any effect upon the case?

"I don't think it had any effect one way or the other," he replied.

Did he think the State had "put him in New Jersey," on the night of March 1, 1931, when the Lindbergh baby was kidnaped? He had contended he was in New York City that night.

"No, they did not," he replied. "I don't see why they did not believe my witnesses. There were five witnesses, including my wife, who went on the stand to prove where I was on that night.

"They were not all friends, either. They are good people. I don't see how they could disregard that evidence."

He was asked: "Have you told all?"

"Not Covering Up Anybody."

Without hesitation, he replied:

"Everything, I told. I did not hold back anything (he pronounced it any-ding). There is some feeling on the part of the public that I am hiding something. But this is not so. In a case like this, there is no word of honor——"

He stopped.

It had to be explained what he meant by "word of honor."

He meant, it was brought out by Hauptmann himself, that he was "not covering up anybody."

"There is noboby to cover up," he said.

The thing that struck him as most ridiculous during the entire trial, Hauptmann said, was "the board in the attic."

He smiled broadly as he mentioned the attic board which was discussed day after day in court. The State had contended that part of the kidnaping ladder was part of a board which had once been in Hauptmann's attic.

"I got so many boards laying around my garage—why should I have to go into the attic?" he said, his face all smiles.

He seemed to think the board a joke.

As to the Defense Witnesses.

What did he think of the defense witnesses?

"Bad and good witnesses," he answered. "I am not responsible for all of them. Some of them may have been looking for publicity. It is just the same as on the State's side—good and bad witnesses.

"What do you think of your lawyers?"

Fisher started to leave but Hauptmann asked him to remain.

"They are OK—all of them," said Hauptmann. "They did all they could for me."

Did he take their advice? Yes. How about the charge of Attorney General David T. Wilentz that he was a man who wanted to boss, to rule everybody?

Hauptmann smiled, said:

"Wilentz puts me in the position he wants me, depending on what best suits him.

"Sometimes he makes me out a wise guy, sometimes he makes me out a dumbbell."

"I Will Die Like a Man."

Warily, the next question was asked: How does he feel about the prospect of dying in the electric chair?

"You can imagine how I feel," he said, his voice was very low.

He straightened up and said:

"For myself, I have no fear. I will fear for my wife and my child. My conscience is clear and if I have to die, I will die like a man. Certainly."

Hauptmann was asked if he is a religious man. This question caused him to stop for a second or two. He gave the impression, he thought, some people felt he was not religious.

"I am probably more religious than people who go to church every Sunday," was his reply. "I am a friend of nature. That does not mean I do not go to church. I did go to church."

Asked to what faith he belonged, he replied:

"I am a Lutheran: I will always be a Lutheran."

Does he pray?

"I do," simply.

"I Always Have Prayed."

He seemed to be a bit affected by this question and this reporter thought for a moment tears were about to come.

"Get this right," he said. "It isn't since I have been here (indicating his cell with a wave of his hand) that I have prayed. I always have prayed. It has been in my heart."

Is he writing to anybody while in jail? No, he is not permitted, he explained:

"I always tell my wife when she comes here to visit me to write to my mutter (mother)."

Hauptmann admitted he was more affected during the trial by the testimony concerning his mother when his wife, Anna, was on the stand, than anything else.

The question of the penalty Hauptmann is facing again came up. Was he afraid?

"No," he said. "I guess you would feel the same as I do if your conscience was clear and your heart was clean."

Was there any chance of his ever making a confession of any sort? He repeated that if he had any confession to make he would have done so five months ago to save his wife and child from misery.

Says He Saved Three Lives.

Hauptmann pointed out that when he was on trial "they" (the State) made the most of things they thought were derogatory to him.

"When they were searching my life history they were only following the black spots," he said. "But they didn't investigate and find out that I have saved three lives—saved three persons from death on different occasions.

"On two occasions, I saved persons from downing. The other time, a man was sliding down into a quarry which was about 100 feet deep. I reached down and caught him.

"I have always put my life in danger. Yet when I come to America the State wants to take my life—for nothing."

There was nothing emotional about Hauptmann at any time during the interview. He didn't cry out: "I didn't do it," or anything like that. He merely quietly denied that he had kidnaped the Lindbergh baby or had anything to do with the crime.

Asked if he thought the presence of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh in court throughout the trial had an influence on the jury, he said:

"I guess it did affect the jury. That is my opinion. Naturally, his presence had an effect."

Makes Appeal to Public.

"I make an appeal to the whole American public. If there is anyone in the United States who says I did any wrong to them or from whom I ever took a penny in a dishonest way, I would like such a person to step forward and say so.

"And likewise, if there is any man or woman who wants to help me now I want them to step forward. So many people want to help me, I know."

The talk shifted to his past habits and he suddenly said, as if making a blanket explanation:

"I am just a human being—like anybody. Just a human being."

As the two reporters and the lawyers shook hands with him in departing, Hauptmann said of his own volition:

"The thing that is holding me up now is my wife and my child and the knowledge that I am innocent."

ROBBER'S TERM CUT ONE-HALF AFTER JURY URGES MERCY

Five Years Imposed on Plea of Guilty After Trial Fixed Penalty at 10 Years.

As a result of a jury's request for leniency for Marvey Jones, Negro, who was convicted last night of robbery with a deadly weapon, his sentence of imprisonment was reduced from 10 years to five today by Circuit Judge Russell.

The jury, which deliberated from 7 o'clock to midnight, fixed the punishment at 10 years, the minimum under the charge. Before agreeing on the verdict, it inquired of the Judge if there were not some way in which a lighter penalty could be arranged. He refused to enter into a bargain.

Today, Judge Russell and Joseph Letorney, Jones' lawyer, agreed on a way of handling the situation. The Judge sustained a motion for a new trial, whereupon Jones pleaded guilty to a charge of robbery and the five-year term was imposed.

Jones held up Eugene Alford, Negro, an insurance company employe, the night of Oct. 3 at Channing avenue and Olive street, taking $4.12.

WHY 5 JURORS VOTED FOR LIFE SENTENCE

(Copyright, 1935.)

LEBANON, N. J., Feb. 15.—The real "inside" story of the eight men and four women who convicted Bruno Richard Hauptmann may never be known—but here is as much as anyone can find out today.

Two women and one man prevented a death penalty verdict on the first of the five ballots taken. All were agreed on guilt.

The 12 solemnly agreed in the jury room not to talk of the verdict. The reason is that they wanted to get even with a curious public whose appointed officials would not let the jury know what was going on in the outside world during those 42 days.

But George L. Voorhees, 45-year-old stock breeder, after a joyful reunion with his wife and three grown children, couldn't keep absolutely mum. So glad to be "out of the pen," he disclosed:

"My ballots, each of the five times, always were marked 'murder in the first—penalty death.'

"It was my observation from our conversation during the trial that the verdict would be guilty. The big problem was in appraising justice.

"Two women and a man held the opinion that the defendant had accomplices and that death in the chair might prevent the arrest of anyone who possibly aided him. For four ballots we couldn't get the death penalty and on the fifth we did.

"The scene that stirred our emotions most during the trial was the picture of Anne Morrow Lindbergh holding her murdered baby's garment while identifying it. The scene was as indelible as the defendant's guilt.

"They gave us classics to read. Awful! We'd read them all anyway, most of us. There was Shakespeare and Dickens they let us have officially—and one of us managed to smuggle in a volume of De Maupassant.

"That's all I'll tell. Let the public be curious. We were curious about the public—and a lot of good it did us!

"Every juror lost his sense of humor toward the end. Lots of 'evidence' was disregarded as irrelevant. We suspected some witnesses.

"We were afraid Case (Liscom C. Case, juror No. 11) would have a heart attack every time we entered the hotel. It kept us on edge. It was worth one's life to venture the slightest jest.

"It was a harrowing experience."

GIRL ON STAND TELLS OF 'DATES' WITH KENNAMER

Virginia Wilcox, Object of Alleged Extortion Note, Testifies for Defendant at Murder Trial.

HER BROTHER ALSO IS CALLED

He Says Accused Youth Told Him of Plot by Gorrell to Kidnap Young Woman.

By the Associated Press.

PAWNEE, Ok., Feb. 15.—Virginia Wilcox, 19-year-old daughter of a wealthy Tulsa oil man, testified today in defense of Phil Kennamer, accused of murdering John F. Gorrell Jr., because Kennamer contends Gorrell threatened to kidnap her.

Miss Wilcox, her face framed in a huge gray fur collar, spoke distinctly though in a low tone. A. Flint Moss, defense counsel chief, questioned her.

"Did you know Gorrell?" "No."

"At the time you first met Kennamer were your parents permitting you to have dates?" "He was my first date."

"How many dates did you have with him?" "Four or five."

They attended a progressive dinner, she said, four years ago.

Last "Date" in February.

"When was your last date with Phil?" "In February, last year."

"Where did you go?" "To dinner at the Mayo and a dance at the Sneddens. It was a Hy-Hat dance."

"Between this first date and the last you had one or two dates with Phil?" "Yes."

"He had asked for other dates." "Many."

"Have you heard from him or had telephone conversations with him?" "Yes, many. One time he asked me for a date two years in advance. I told him he could not have the date."

About Phone Conversation.

Moss then had her recount the conversation of last summer between herself and Jack Snedden about which Snedden had testified, saying Phil wanted her to write to him.

"Did you write to Phil?" "No."

"Why didn't you?" "I just couldn't see myself writing to Phil."

Kennamer's head was bowed, his hand over his eyes. He did not look up.

When asked if Phil sent her presents while he was in school at Durant, she replied "I don't remember."

"Tell the court please whether you have thought Phil was in love with you for the last two years." "I did believe it."

"Has there been any change in Phil's attitude toward you since last August?" "Yes."

"You mean there has been no change?" "Yes. I think it is the same," she said.

Heard of Plot From Snedden.

"Did Jack Snedden tell you about the kidnap plot before your brother did?" "Before."

"After Jack told you about the plot did you tell your father or mother?" "No."

"Why didn't you?" "We didn't believe it; we didn't want to worry them."

"Didn't you think to tell authorities about the plot?" "No."

"Has Jack ever sent you any flowers?" "Yes."

"Or candy?" "Yes."

"You don't think there is anything strange about that do you?" "No," Miss Wilcox replied. She was excused.

Homer Wilcox Jr. on Stand.

Homer F. Wilcox Jr., brother of Virginia, testified Kennamer had told him Gorrell planned to kidnap his sister, Virginia Wilcox. Young Wilcox, who paid a fine for shooting out a street light in the Forest Hills neighborhood where Gorrell later was killed, testified Kennamer told him of the plot "between the 10th and 12th of October." Wilcox said he had not believed the story.

"Junior, you pleaded guilty to shooting out street lights in Tulsa the night of the murder?" he was asked.

A. Flint Moss of the defense objected but the question was sustained.

"Didn't you shoot a street light out near the scene of where you learned later Gorrell was killed?" "Yes," was the answer.

Another highlight of the day's testimony was the admission of the State that Gorrell wrote an extortion note to Wilcox, the oil man, demanding $20,000 on threat of death to his children.

Tells of Shooting Out Lights.

Wilcox testified he shot out three lights.

"One of the lights was about a half block from the scene of the killing," said Wilcox.

"Wasn't it true you were right there on the spot when that boy was killed?" a State Attorney shouted. "No," he replied in an almost inaudible voice.

Moss then drew from Wilcox that one of the two girls with him shot one of the lights.

The State asked the names of the two girls with him.

"Alma and Betty Lou Vandever," said Wilcox.

"Why did you decide to shoot out those particular street lights at that particular time?" "It just happened."

"Did you leave soon after you heard Gorrell was killed?" "Yes, to Toledo."

The State's admission on the note followed brief testimony by Federal Judge Franklin E. Kennamer, father of the defendant, that "in my judgment" the handwriting was not his son's.

W. F. Gilmer Jr., of the prosecution, interrupted testimony of J. C. Shearman, Wichita, Kan., handwriting expert, to say: "If you are trying to show that Gorrell wrote that note, we'll save you time and trouble. We admit it."

"In view of this unqualified admission, we see no need of continuing this testimony," said A. Flint Moss, chief of the defense, and Shearman stepped down.

VANDENBERG SAYS 4 BILLION BILL IS 'BLIND ADVENTURE'

recovery, if we guess correctly what the administration contemplates."

For One Year Limit.

Previously, Republicans at a party conference agreed to fight for limiting the bill to one year as against two from next June.

Senator McNary, of Oregon, the minority leader, also announced an "overpowering majority" appeared to favor the McCarran prevailing wage amendment.

He said the Republicans were about evenly divided on the Adams amendment to reduce the appropriation by $2,000,000,000, that they seemed to favor the Metcalf proposal to give preference to war veterans in the relief set-up and also the Hayden amendment to require uniform wages and hours on public road projects and similar State projects.

The Republicans also discussed a proposal to send the bill back to committee so the $880,000,000 direct relief fund could be separated from it and voted immediately. There was a "mixture of support" for that proposal.

It was said that Senator La Follette of Wisconsin would seek to increase the works fund to eight or 10 billions. La Follette said he did not know when he would submit his proposal, predicting Senate debate on the bill would run well into next week.

The bill as it stands would appropriate $4,000,000,000 for public works and $880,000,000 for direct relief. It is proposed to report the latter back to the Senate for passage quickly so relief needs can be met, but to take plenty of time on the public works part, which contains discretionary powers for the President.

Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins, who places the total number now receiving Federal relief at 20,000,000, said the $100,000,000 allotted for February would be exhausted by the 19th or 20th of the month.

Debate on Bill Begun.

Efforts by Chairman Glass of the Appropriations Committee to gain immediate formal consideration of the bill failed when McNary of Oregon, Republican leader, objected on the ground that more time was needed to study the measure. Nevertheless, debate was begun yesterday.

Steiwer, a member of the Appropriations Committee, charged the measure "contains evils almost beyond description" due, he asserted, to "limitless discretion given the President." He said administration witnesses before the committee "admitted" that the measure was drafted in order "not to permit any legal restraint" on the President in the handling of the money.

Senator Johnson of California, Republican Independent, who has backed most of the Roosevelt measures, said: "I can't visualize any set of circumstances in which the money cannot be used under the measure."

Senator Byrnes (Dem.), South Carolina, reminded Johnson that the Appropriations Committee recommended an amendment to limit expenditures on projects now authorized or to be authorized.

Asserting he had no objection to voting for work relief rather than a dole, Senator Borah (Rep.), Idaho, joined in to say that "what troubles me is voting $4,000,000,000 when we don't know where it is going."

The entire bill, insisted Senator Glass, was "based on the theory that the President is going to do what he said he was going to do."

"I'm not challenging anybody's integrity or purpose," Borah said, "but you can't liquidate this relief problem in a few months."

Senator Long (Dem.), Louisiana, interrupted Borah to say "the Senator from Idaho will be a candidate for re-election," adding "he'll find out how some of it is spent."

New Prevailing Wage Fight.

A new fight over the amendment backed by the American Federation of Labor to force the Government to pay the prevailing wage rates was opened by McCarran, who offered his amendment requiring payment of prevailing wages on all public works projects. The bill now carries an administration-backed substitute, adopted by the Appropriations Committee, allowing the President to fix the wage rates and requiring him to raise them if he found the "security" wage of about $50 a month was threatening the private industry scale.

President Going Ahead.

President Roosevelt went ahead, meanwhile, on the apparent assumption that the bill would be passed substantially as written. He named Robert E. Wood, president of Sears, Roebuck & Co., to head a committee of business men to advise him in spending the works fund.

Wood visited the White House yesterday, accompanied by Secretary of Commerce Roper and H. P. Kendall, chairman of the Commerce Department's business advisory and planning council. Roper said the Wood committee would act only in an "advisory capacity to the President's board, or whatever instrumentality is agreed upon to handle the allocation of the proposed $4,000,000,000 work relief program."

CAMPBELL WILL SUIT 'CONSPIRACY,' LAWYER CHARGES

Trustees' Attorney Asserts Action Is in Interest of Relatives Unqualified to File Contest.

MOTION TO DISMISS PROCEEDING ARGUED

Contention That Wealthy Invalid's Guardian Was Coerced to Attack Bequest to Yale.

The attempt to set aside the will of Hugh Campbell, leaving his $1,250,000 estate in lifetime trust for his invalid brother, Hazlett Campbell, and after the brother's death, leaving most of the estate to Yale University, was discussed in argument, before Circuit Judge Ryan today by lawyers in the case.

Daniel N. Kirby, representing the trustees for Hazlett Campbell, called the will contest suit a conspiracy, and argued that Hazlett Campbell's legal guardian, Anton Schuler, in filing the suit, took an action that could not be of benefit to his ward. He said Schuler was coerced by threats of a suit on his official bond as Public Administrator to enter the "conspiracy." He asked that Judge Ryan dismiss the will contest suit, which he said was in the interest of relatives who, themselves, were not qualified to file a contest, not being heirs.

Already Has $1,750,000.

Kirby said that Hazlett Campbell, who is now 77 years old, helpless and speechless, had an estate of $1,750,000, now held for him by the trustees, Allen C. Orrick and the St. Louis Union Trust Co. If the will of Hugh Campbell should be set aside, Kirby argued, Hugh Campbell's estate would be added to his own present estate, giving him a total of $3,000,000.

The lawyer said that an addition to his estate would be of no value or benefit to Hazlett Campbell, who is now receiving every care and comfort that money can provide. He is in the care of servants in the old Campbell home, 1508 Locust street, the house being a relic of the days when that neighborhood was fashionable Lucas Place. The present care, which follows the provisions of Hugh Campbell's will, is "100 per cent perfect," Kirby said.

Kirby spoke of another pending suit, to set aside the trust conveyance by which Robert Campbell, father of Hugh and Hazlett Campbell, covered his property in his lifetime. This suit, he said, had the same purpose as the will contest suit, namely, to place all the Campbell property in Hazlett's possession, with relatives waiting to claim it after Hazlett's death.

Counsel for University.

Jacob M. Lashly appeared as counsel for Yale University, ultimate heir to most of the Hugh Campbell estate under the will. He said the interest of Yale, being a property interest, was secondary to the human and personal interest, the welfare of an invalid, as argued by Kirby. He supplemented Kirby's argument in support of the will, and for dismissal of the will contest.

Lashly reviewed testimony adduced in the will contest suit, intended to show that Hugh Campbell was eccentric, therefore presumably of unsound mind. "They may regard it as eccentricity," he said, "that a man would renounce social life to care for a helpless brother. If so, they are looking at the matter from the viewpoint of property only."

In Support of Suit.

The argument against dismissal was made by W. W. Henderson, who declared the guardianship was perfectly proper in order to place Hazlett Campbell's interests under care of the court, where they were placed by law.

Stating that Orrick had opposed appointment of Fred L. English as guardian on the ground the appointment was sought to enable a will contest, Henderson asked if Orrick had not been fearful of a contest because he realized there was basis for one. The request for appointment of English came from Otey McClellan, New York attorney and relative of the Campbells.

There was nothing unusual in McClellan's desire for a guardian for Hazlett Campbell to protect the property for benefit of the ward's relatives, Henderson argued, declaring the desire was simply in accordance with human nature and pointing out the relatives could assert no claim until after Hazlett Campbell's death.

Judge Ryan remarked that "the attribute was quite human."

Before the contest was filed, Henderson continued, Schuler and his former attorney obtained authority from Probate Court to institute the suit if justified.

Answering Lashly's argument about Hugh Campbell's alleged eccentricities, Henderson said the evidence showed a full investigation of the supposed eccentricities had been made before the contest was filed.

Time for filing briefs was allowed both sides. Harry Troll was associated with Henderson in representing Schuler.

$199,000 SUIT AGAINST SURETY FOR BOND FOR BANK

S. W. Souers Says Attorney Advised Him He Had Been Released From Liability.

Sidney W. Souers, a vice-president of the General American Life Insurance Co., was sued for $199,103 by the Government yesterday, as one of three sureties on a nine-year old bond guaranteeing payment of additional income taxes assessed against a New Orleans bank of which he was vice-president.

He said the deficiency was assessed for the year 1920 against two banks later merged into the Canal Bank & Trust Co., of which he became vice-president in 1925. On the bank's appeal in 1926, he said, he signed as surety with two other officers, both wealthy. Soon afterward one of the other officers died, he said, and after the bank was closed in the 1933 banking holiday it was released from liability as principal.

This release, he said his attorney had advised him, released his liability as surety. The Government's petition, filed in Federal Court here, asserted that on the bank's appeal the United States Board of Tax Appeals fixed the tax deficiency of the predecessor banks at a total of $390,140. Souers came here four years ago.

RECOUNT SHOWS 1018 VOTES TOO MANY FOR CANDIDATE

East St. Louis Primary Canvassing Board Reduces Nick J. Colgan's Total to 5432.

Tabulation of the East St. Louis primary vote by the canvassing board yesterday showed an error of 1018 votes too many in the count for Nick J. Colgan, candidate for Police Magistrate. The unofficial count gave Colgan 6450 votes, the recount, 5432. The other nominee for Police Magistrate, Dan Foley, received 6431 votes, a gain of five by the recount.

The tabulation showed small variations in returns for other candidates, not affecting the order in which they finished.

EX-MAYOR SELLING NEWSPAPERS HELD IN $400,000 THEFT

John S. Schnepp, 68, Wanted at Springfield, Ill., Since 1932, Identified, Arrested in West.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 15.—A news vender under arrest here has been identified as John S. Schnepp, 68 years old, who is wanted at Springfield, Ill., on a charge of embezzling $400,000.

Schnepp, a former Mayor of Springfield and a real estate dealer, disappeared in January, 1932, after shortages had been found in three estates for which he was conservator.

He was known here as John L. Mason but four former residents of Springfield said he was Schnepp. He was arrested at a downtown intersection while he was selling newspapers.

"I may find out who I really am when I get back there," he told police, declaring he could remember nothing of his past except that two years ago he found himself in a Houston (Tex.) hospital. He has wandered over the country since then, he said, trying to identify himself. He signed a waiver of extradition.

In his room, police found manuscripts of two novels, "A Madman's Romance" and "She Coveted Him." Two powers of attorney authorizing Clyde Schnepp of Springfield to handle publication of the novels also were found.

Dated Feb. 9, a letter addressed to "Clyde," also was found. It read:

"Dear boy: I have been told by a couple of men that you are my son, that I formerly was Mayor of Springfield and that I have embezzled $400,000. I have never knowingly harmed anyone. My mental equilibrium has been shocked seriously recent. I would gladly return to Springfield and determine whether I am Schnepp, although I know myself as Mason."

No explanation was made of how he had been shocked.

Claims of $700,000 Filed in Bankruptcy Proceedings.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 15.—State's Attorney A. H. Greening said yesterday that John S. Schnepp, under arrest in Los Angeles, had never been indicted but that he was wanted here on embezzlement and forgery charges.

The Illinois State Register quoted several former Springfield residents now in Los Angeles as identifying Schnepp.

Schnepp was a bankrupt when he left Springfield in 1932, and the Probate Court had ordered him to produce money which he had admitted appropriating to his own use. Claims of about $700,000, most of them unsecured, were filed during the bankruptcy proceedings.

Schnepp's brothers, acting as bondsmen, paid $42,050 to cover the deficits in three estates for which he was conservator.

Schnepp served three terms as Mayor here.

J. I. CASE CO. EX-CASHIER CONFESSES EMBEZZLEMENT

Russell T. Peterson Returned From Racine, Wis., to Face St. Louis Charges.

Returned to St. Louis today from Racine, Wis., Russell T. Peterson, former cashier and bookkeeper for the local branch of the J. I. Case Co., dealers in farm implements, 4260 Forest Park avenue, admitted to Chief of Detectives Carroll that he had embezzled company funds, as was charged in a warrant issued Wednesday.

The warrant charged misapplication of $941, but W. H. Sheffer, branch manager, reported to Assistant Circuit Attorney Murphy that the shortage would approximate $5000. Peterson declined to fix the figure in conversation with Chief Carroll, but admitted he spent the money. His salary, he said was $152 a month.

TEACHER IS KILLED IN FALL AT HOSPITAL

Miss Bertha Doellner Was Under Treatment for Nervous Disorder at Glendale.

Miss Bertha E. Doellner, a teacher in St. Louis public schools since 1900, died last midnight of a fractured skull suffered 12 hours before when she jumped or fell from the roof of a one-story building at Oakland Park Hospital, Glendale, where she was under treatment for a nervous breakdown.

Apparently she had climbed from the window of a second-floor bathroom and walked across the roof of the one-story addition. Hospital attendants heard the fall and found her unconscious. She also suffered a broken right leg.

A teacher in elementary grades at the Fanning School, 3417 Grace avenue, since 1907, Miss Doellner entered the hospital recently after obtaining a leave of absence Nov. 13. She was 57 years old and resided at 4004 Cleveland avenue. Before going to the Fanning School she taught at the Monroe School.

Surviving are two sisters, Miss Adele and Miss Emma H. Doellner, with whom she resided, and two brothers, Henry J. and Tuisco M. Doellner. Funeral services will be held at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the Robert Funeral Home, 1905 South Grand boulevard. Burial will be in Valhalla Cemetery.

30-HOUR WEEK DEMANDED IN ONE AUTO BODY PLANT

Union Submits Contract to Fisher Corporation in Cleveland, Opening Fight for Policy in Industry.

CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 15.—A provision for a 30-hour week was included in a contract submitted to the Fisher Body Corporation yesterday by the United Automobile Workers' Federal Union.

Labor leaders regarded the contract as the initial step toward a "showdown" on their demand for a 30-hour week in the automobile industry with Cleveland as the proving ground. They said the contract probably would be used as a pattern by other union groups in the industry.

Fisher executives made no comment on the contract other than to acknowledge its receipt. The union asked that an answer be made within 10 days.

In addition to asking for a 30-hour week of five six-hour days, the contract was designed to solve problems of labor obsolescence, wages and other working conditions.

One clause provides that when new jobs "are created or occur in the respective departments, the oldest employe laid off shall be the first to be re-employed." This is supplemented by a clause providing that employes who have given long and faithful service and who have become unable to handle heavy work "will be given preference to such light work in their line as they may be able to do."

The contract asks for an annual minimum wage of $1560 for unskilled workers and $1820 for skilled workers. It calls also for arbitration of all difficulties which cannot be settled by mutual agreement between the company and the union, and reinstatement, with full pay for time lost, of any employe found unjustly discharged.

The contract, which does not call for a closed shop, provides for promotion on the basis of "ability, fitness, and seniority," a provision which appears to be akin to the much debated "merit clause" in the auto code, which labor in the past has opposed.

CHILD'S DEATH LAID TO SERUM

Poisoning Indicated in Case of San Francisco Diphtheria Patient.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 15.—Dr. J. C. Geiger, city health officer, today investigated the death of 4-year-old Natalie Rojnavsky, after an administration of diphtheria serum.

Four other children who became more seriously ill after treatment in Children's Hospital were under observation, but Dr. Geiger thought they would recover. Twenty children were given the antitoxin a week ago. It was not until the autopsy that the cause of the Rojnavsky child's death was determined. Dr. Sherman Leland, autopsy surgeon, said she died of poisoning. In the absence of other infection he considered the serum was the cause.

Woman Dies From Effects of Fall.

Mrs. Kate Murphy, 65 years old, died today at City Hospital of complications resulting from a fracture of the hip, suffered last Dec. 27, when she fell in her home, 2315 Cherokee street.

NEW INSURANCE CODE OPPOSED BY FRATERNAL BODIES

Chief Objection Is That It Would Put Them Under Law Taxing All Premiums 2 Pct.

700,000 MEMBERS WOULD BE AFFECTED

Spokesman Declares That the Various Societies 'Have Cleaned House' and Are on Sound Basis.

By CURTIS A. BETTS,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 15. — Objections were made yesterday by fraternal insurance societies to provisions of the State Insurance Department's proposed insurance code placing the fraternal groups under the supervision of the State Insurance Superintendent, at a hearing before the Senate Committee on Insurance. The societies were stated to have 700,000 members in Missouri.

Though several points were raised in opposing the code, the chief was that it would bring the fraternal insurance premiums under the law taxing all premiums 2 per cent. Officials of the department estimated that fraternal premiums amounted to $5,000,000 a year in Missouri, and that the total tax on them would be about $100,000.

Under the present law all fraternal insurance is free from State supervision. The societies are managed by boards selected by the members, and the only regulations are in the by-laws of the organizations.

"We Have Cleaned House."

It was brought out through questions asked by Senator Clark of Richmond, who interrogated former Senator F. M. McDavid of Springfield, representing particularly the Modern Woodmen of America, and generally speaking for all fraternal groups, that in early days rates had been fixed at such a low figure that many of the organizations encountered financial difficulties as their members grew older and death claims increased.

To meet the situation it became necessary to increase rates and build up reserves. "We have cleaned house, so to speak," McDavid said, "and fraternal insurance is on a sound basis. It has gone through these depression years without difficulty."

The proposed code would place all fraternal insurance on exactly the same plane as old line stock company life insurance. If the code should be adopted by the Legislature the fraternals would be required to meet the same requirements as to investment of their funds, deposit of securities with the State Department, and would be regulated as are the old line companies.

$3 Fee for Solicitors.

Whereas they now pay no fees for their members or employes who solicit insurance, they would be required to obtain a license for each solicitor and pay a $3 fee.

Though there were several representatives of fraternal organizations before the committee with arguments against the provisions of the bill affecting them, the principal presentation was by McDavid.

He brought out that this is the first attempt in any state to place fraternals under the same regulations as old line companies, and said that it would "crucify the societies," and that under the code they would be unable to hold their members.

He stressed the fraternal features, the lodges, the orphans' homes, hospitals and schools maintained by various fraternal societies, saying that under the code they would not be permitted to use funds for such purposes.

Exempt From Taxation.

"For 40 years," he said, "the laws of Missouri have classed them as charitable and benevolent organizations, and because they were that, the law exempted them from taxation. They have built up their entire structures relying upon that declaration in the statutes.

"Their members are now carrying as heavy a load as they can carry. If the societies should be compelled to pay this tax they would have to assess their members to pay it and they cannot stand it."

Adoption of the code in Missouri, he said, would be but the start, and other states would quickly follow.

Senator Clark, who said he was a policyholder in a fraternal insurance company, asked McDavid whether the societies would be willing to come under State regulation if the premium tax should not be assessed against them, but McDavid said he was not authorized to answer the question.

"We have now established rates which will guarantee there will never be any empty treasury," McDavid said. "We have rectified the mistakes of earlier years and just when we have our house in order, it is proposed to fine us by this premium tax."

Other Protests Heard.

Representatives of farm mutual fire companies, assessment life companies and burial associations appeared to protest against being included in the code. All said it would eliminate them from the insurance field.

John Stapel of Columbia, representing farm mutual fire companies, said there was $500,000,000 of farm property in Missouri insured in mutuals on the assessment plan, and that these companies could not operate under the code. He said that there had been no failures in that class of companies, which insures property at very low rates, and that the service they give was satisfactory to 250,000 persons whose property was insured by them.

The proposed code provides that every farm mutual policy must contain on its face a statement that the company is not under the supervision of the insurance department. Strong objection was raised to this on the ground that it would carry the inference that the insurance was of doubtful value.

The committee will have another hearing next Thursday, when fire insurance interests will ask for several amendments to the code.

PLUMBING CODE CANCELATION

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 15.—The plumbing industry is canceling the marketing rules and fair trade practices of its codes immediately, R. Kennedy Hansen, secretary of the national code authority announced yesterday.

"Price chiseling has become unbearable," he said, "and the Government has failed to carry out prosecutions during the seven months of our code. Consequently the little manufacturers and honest concerns have suffered." Wages and hour provisions of the code are being kept intact, Hansen said.

TEN CANDIDATES SEEKING PLACES ON SCHOOL BOARD

FOUR MEMBERS' TERMS EXPIRING

Ben Weidle and A. A. Blumeyer to Run Again—Mrs. E. R. Kroeger and H. G. Cook to Retire.

With 31 days remaining for the completion of petitions of candidacy for the Board of Education, only 10 candidates are circulating petitions, while at least nine other persons have been considering whether they would run.

The last day for filing the nominating petitions will be March 18. A minimum of 5484 signatures of voters must be obtained in order for a candidate to get on the ballot.

For the first time, a law enacted by the 1933 Legislature for a bipartisan Board of Education will be operative in this election, which will be held at the time of the aldermanic election April 2. Under the law, two Democrats and two Republicans will be elected to the board. The candidates will be listed under the two parties and a voter will vote for two board members from each party. The two candidates of each party receiving the highest votes will be elected. The board, which now consists of nine Republicans and three Democrats, will have seven Republicans and five Democrats after the April election and, after the 1937 election, will be equally divided between the parties.

Four Terms to Expire.

Members whose terms are expiring are Mrs. E. R. Kroeger, director of the Kroeger School of Music; Howard G. Cook, patent lawyer; Ben Weidle, grand secretary of the Odd Fellows' grand lodge of Missouri, and Arthur A. Blumeyer, president of the Industrial Bank & Trust Co. Cook and Mrs. Kroeger, members since 1929, will not seek re-election. Blumeyer and Weidle, members since 1923, have announced their candidacies for third terms. All four are Republicans.

Cook, in announcing he would not run, said he feared the board was being used for political advantage, but added that he had no tangible information on the subject.

Candidates.

Candidates for whom petitions have been circulated are:

Blumeyer, 41 Washington terrace.

Edward A. Ferrenbach, lawyer, 5441 Bartmer avenue, Republican. He represented the Franklin District Neighborhood Association before the board last year in opposing the conversion of Franklin School, 814 North Nineteenth street, into a Negro vocational school.

Russell (Bud) Greer, jeweler, 5330 Pershing avenue, Republican. He announced his candidacy in the belief the election would be nonpartisan, but said today he would file under the party label.

George F. Koop, president-treasurer of H. D. Koop Hardware Co., 2022 Russell boulevard, Republican. He was defeated for the board in 1933.

Gerald B. O'Reilly, lawyer and president of the Humane Society, 5621 Waterman boulevard, Democrat. He said he would not file the petitions unless he received reasonable indications of support.

Thomas F. Quinn, president of the Building Trades Council and secretary-treasurer of the Steam & Gas Fitters' Union, 5206 Thrush avenue, Democrat. He said he had more than 25,000 signatures on his petitions, labor interests being active in his support.

C. George Saenger, bricklaying and general contractor, 3540A Minnesota avenue, Democrat.

Joseph J. Ward, lawyer, 2246 Mullanphy street, Democrat. He said he had more than 10,000 signatures, and expected support of the party organization.

Weidle, 3853 Lindell boulevard.

G. Howard Willett, general insurance broker, 5696 Kingsbury avenue, Democrat.

Prospective Candidates.

Persons who have been considering, with varying degrees of interest, whether they would run for the board, include:

Dr. Paul E. Eckardt, dentist, 2027 South Jefferson (Rep.), who was defeated for the board twice; Stewart D. Flanagan, lawyer, 3833 Bowen street (Rep.); Mrs. Lon O. Hocker, former Republican national committeewoman, wife of a lawyer, 39 Portland place; Dr. Rudolph Hofmeister, physician, 6101 South Grand boulevard (Dem.), who was highest among defeated candidates for the board in 1933; D. Calhoun Jones, lawyer, 4914 Argyle place (Dem.), who also was defeated for the board in 1933; Clarence L. Miller, salesman for the Measuregraph Co., 3440A Delor street, who has not declared his politics; Thomas E. Nester, member of the Republican city and State committees, 1300 Monroe street; William W. Phillips, publisher of fraternal directories and office supply dealer, 4279 Olive street (Rep.); Patrick J. Slattery, real estate dealer, 5107 Wabada avenue (Dem.), who was defeated for the board in 1933.

Some of those considering running pointed out that their decisions would depend on what political support they could obtain. One of them declared: "It's going to be a straight political situation this time. I don't want to be running after the party committee for support; it's up to the committee."

Indorsements by Ward Groups.

Chairman Hannegan of the Democratic City Committee said his group would not act as a body on the election of board members, but would leave indorsements to the individual ward organizations. Chairman Pape of the Republican City Committee did not know what his group would do. Political observers have anticipated that support of the party organizations, possibly with trading between ward leaders of the two parties, might play a strong, if not a ruling, part in the election of the board members.

The Public School Patrons' Alliance has appointed a committee to consider qualifications of candidates for the board. It probably will report March 11. Directors of the League of Women Voters, which in the past has taken an active part in board elections, decided this year not to bring out candidates or vote indorsements.

Citizens' Committee Revived.

The Citizens' School Board Committee, a nonpartisan group, which functioned in the elections of 1925, 1927, 1929 and, to some extent, in 1931, has been revived, with the object of selecting, sponsoring and supporting suitable candidates. It has opened an office at 319 North Tenth street, but organization has not been completed.

Elmer B. Klein, a broker, is president. He is vice-president of the General Council on Civic Needs and the Federation of Improvement Associations. Other officers are: Vice-presidents, W. Scott Hancock, lawyer; Mrs. Arthur J. Krueger, education chairman of the eighth district, Federation of Women's Clubs; Mrs. Julius Kunz, president of the St. Louis Council of Parent-Teachers' Associations; secretary, Mrs. Charles L. Passmore; treasurer, A. O. Wilson, banker; cochairmen of the Advisory Committee, William Stephan, coal dealer and president of the Downtown Lions' Club and the Gavel Club, and Mrs. Paul Blackwelder.

Terms of Board of Education members are for six years. They are not salaried. For a number of years heretofore the board has been elected on a nonpartisan basis, but previously there was an understanding between the Republican and Democratic committees whereby the board's membership was divided equally.

U. S. AGENTS RESCUED BY DEAL WITH GANG

Exchange of Hostages Frees Two Men Held by Boston Liquor Smugglers.

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, Feb. 15.—Joseph A. Maynard, collector of customs, announced the seizure last night of a liquor smugglers' boat and told how two customs inspectors had been saved previously from seizure and threatened death only after an exchange of hostages with the smugglers.

The vessel was the Clarence B. Mitchell, 38-year-old flounder dragger. When customs inspectors boarded it there was no evidence of a contraband cargo other than alcohol fumes in the hold and there was no one aboard.

It was the ship, Maynard said, that three customs inspectors came upon early Wednesday.

"There were 30 or 40 men taking alcohol off the boat and placing it in trucks," Maynard said.

"They put guns to our men. It's the first time they've done that in a long, long while. One of our inspectors, however, had remained at the head of the dock and had collared one of the fellows.

"The rest of them threatened that if their man wasn't let go, they'd carry our inspectors out to sea and kill them. So the exchange was made.

"They backed our men right off the wharf with guns and beat it out to sea with the boat. Trucks roared from the docks as the vessel left.

"We're going right out after them and show them they're not bigger than the United States Government," he added. He said he knew who the men were and that the evidence would be presented to a grand jury.

Garageman Abducted; Car Taken.

MAYSVILLE, Ark., Feb. 15.—E. F. Smith, who operates a garage and hotel here, was held up Monday night as he was closing his garage by three men who took his automobile after forcing him to drive with them three miles. The men had abandoned another car which Sheriff Earl Austin learned was stolen Jan. 24 in Texarkana.

THREE MEN CAPTURED AFTER 4-HOUR SIEGE

Accused Bank Robber Taken, Brother Shot in House in Hills Near Dora, Mo.

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Feb. 15.—After a four-hour siege by seven officers, Lando Gunter, alias Jimmy Harris, accused Richland bank robber and fugitive from the Pulaski County jail at Waynesville, was captured with two companions at 2 a. m. today in a farmhouse in the hills of Ozark County.

Clarence Gunter, a brother of Lando, was shot in the left shoulder as he ran into the house at the approach of officers. A doctor was called from Elijah to attend him this morning.

County officers and State patrolmen surrounded the house, hidden in a valley on a bend of Spring Creek, a few miles south of Dora, at 10 o'clock last night. Johnson was arrested as he sat in a car with a woman outside the house. Three other men fled into the house. The oficers fired, one of the bullets hitting Clarence Gunter.

No shots were fired from the house during the siege, officers said. The officers, however, fired intermittently at and over it, while calling on the occupants to surrender.

Early this morning six women came walking out, followed by Gunter, his wounded brother and White. One of the women, Sheriff S. W. Daniel of Ozark County said, was Gunter's mother, another his sister, and the third the wife of Clarence Gunter. The other three were not identified. None of them was held.

Charges of possessing a stolen automobile are to be filed against Johnson and White, Sheriff Daniel said. The car bore an Oklahoma license.

The men arrested had a pistol, an automatic and a sawed-off shotgun.

WATCH LIQUOR, WARNING GIVEN TO THE PUBLIC

Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the city board of health, today issued a warning to the public to be on watch against poisonous liquor in Chicago and asked that any place serving liquor that appears bad be reported to the police so samples may be analyzed.

During January, his bulletin stated, samples taken by police and analyzed by his chemists showed that a third were fair grades of drinkables. Eight samples were raw moonshine, containing fusel oil and other poisonous substances, although not in deadly quantity. Of these eight samples some were diluted with water to reduce alcoholic

Gloversville, N. Y., Jan. 30 (AP).—Medical skill sought to halt the ravages of a mysterious "creeping death" at a score of bedsides today as law enforcers looked for sources of poison alcohol which has killed 31 persons here and at Utica.

John Poyfair died here today, raising Gloversville's total to 15. Sixteen died at Utica since the first poison case was revealed last Thursday. Investigators established today that William Sinnot, 30, who was believed to have died in a Rome hospital, was clinging to a slender thread of life. He is blind and reported dying. WOOD ALCOHOL FOUND IN LIQUOR SOLD IN CHICAGO

Liquor containing wood alcohol, similar to that which caused an epidemic of deaths in New York state, is being sold in Chicago, Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the city board of health, warned yesterday.

Of seventeen samples of whisky from Chicago taverns, submitted by police to the health department for analysis, only about one-third were found to be wholesome, Dr. Bundesen said. Eight contained moonshine liquor and its Actual clippings from recent Chicago newspapers!

Where does the DANGER LIE?

In December the Walgreen Company published a message to the readers of this newspaper entitled "12 Months of Repeal"—on the subject of illegal liquors. That page gave rise to several questions. Here are the answers to them—

1. "Are illegal liquors really dangerous?"

They may be merely sickening—bringing violent headaches or nausea, with no disastrous or permanent after effects. Or, at their best, they may be no worse than unpleasant to the taste.

They may be deadly. They may kill or blind you and your friends. The newspaper clippings pictured here tell how some thirty-seven people died in agony from drinking illegal liquors—of how wood alcohol and other poisons were found in moonshine whiskies in Chicago.

The unescapable point is this: Every bottle of illegal liquor involves a serious risk—one that no man has the right to take.

2. "Is the quantity of illegal liquors exaggerated?"

We have said that "it is estimated that 50% of the liquors consumed today are bootleg liquors—made from unknown ingredients at some unknown source." That estimate comes from one of the outstanding figures in the liquor industry, a high executive of one of the foremost distilleries and an officer of a national dealers' association (name on request). It is based upon unique sources of accurate information. We believe it to be true.

Leading distillers and organizations of reputable wholesalers and retailers agree emphatically that the quantity of spurious liquors foisted upon the unsuspecting public has grown to alarming proportions.

3. "Where are these spurious liquors sold?"

We have no specific answer to this question. If we had, it would be a simple matter to give the facts to the proper authorities so they could stamp out the present traffic overnight.

Illegal liquors MAY be sold by anyone willing to be tempted by odd-lot merchandise at bargain prices. They may be sold by any one who does not investigate his sources of supply—and check the quality and purity of his purchases.

They may be sold by a man who is greedy for extra profit—or by a man who is merely careless—or by a man who lacks the resources and facilities to test his merchandise in the laboratory.

WE DO KNOW THIS! The faintest shadow of a doubt is enough to shut out any wine or liquor from the Walgreen Drug Stores.

4. "Does the Walgreen Company aid the authorities in fighting bootleg liquors?"

WE DO! We have reported all the cases where suspicious lots of questionable liquors have been offered to us. The agents of both Federal and State governments have thanked us many times for information that has made it possible to uncover vendors of illegal liquors and to stop the flow from their stills and processing tanks. Our reputation in this matter is so widely known that such salesmen no longer risk calling on us.

Let us state very clearly the purpose of this page.

We have no desire to alarm the public. This is no attempt to frighten people into making all their purchases at Walgreen Drug Stores.

Once more we state that there are many other reputable retailers, large and small, who are careful of the quality and character of the wines and liquors they offer.

Such retailers join with us in pointing out the foolishness of "taking chances." To buy questionable liquors—for the sake of a microscopic saving in time, money, or convenience—is silly, and far worse. For even if you are willing to assume the risk yourself, you have no right to ask your friends to do so.

When you buy at Walgreen Drug Stores
you take no risk at all!

Every bottle on our shelves must be able to meet three tests.

1. It comes direct from a strictly reputable source.
2. The distiller's description of the product has met our own rigid requirements.
3. A consumer or market test has shown it pleasant to the taste.

Finally, the accepted brands are offered with a scrupulously accurate description of their quality and character.

To this vigilant protection you can comfortably entrust yourself and your friends.

G. O. P. TO HAVE FULL ALDERMANIC TICKET

City Committee to Meet Next Week to Make Plans for Campaign.

A meeting of the Republican City Committee to make campaign plans for the city election, at which the president of the Board of Aldermen and 14 Aldermen from even-numbered wards will be elected, will be called for next Monday or Tuesday, Chairman Pape said today.

Although the last day for filing as candidates for the March 8 primary election is Feb. 25, no Republican candidates have done so. Fifteen Democrats have filed, including William L. Mason, candidate for President of the Board.

Pape said Republicans had delayed filing with the expectation that the Missouri Supreme Court would give its decision on whether the Constitutional amendment adopted at the November election authorizing St. Louis to elect Aldermen by wards instead of at large became effective upon adoption, without a city charter amendment.

Democrats have filed as candidates subject to city-wide vote as in the past and the question was placed before the Supreme Court by Republican Committeeman Rudie Goerts after the Board of Election Commissioners had refused to accept his declaration of candidacy subject only to the votes of residents of the Fourteenth Ward.

Regardless of whether the Supreme Court makes its decision before Feb. 25, Pape said a complete Republican ticket would be placed in the field. He said he did not think it would be necessary to draft candidates.

Two Republican Aldermen, Charles A. Neumann of the Twelfth Ward, minority leader, and Frank L. Wetzel of the Sixteenth, announced today they would file their candidacies for re-election shortly, whether the election would be at large or by wards. Neumann has been on the board since 1919 and Wetzel since 1925. Two other Republicans, Alderman Schwartz of the Twentieth Ward, and Kralemann of the Twenty-second, have announced they would retire.

The city election will be April 2. President Neun and 12 of the 14 Aldermen whose terms expire are Republicans. Each of the 14 Aldermen from odd-numbered wards elected two years ago is a Democrat.

PROPERTY TAX TIED ONTO STATE OLD AGE GRANTS

Senate Amends Bill to Force Voters to Approve Direct Levy if Age Limit Is Fixed at 65 Years.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 15. — Old age pension legislation received something of a setback today when the Senate, by a vote of 19 to 14, adopted an amendment to a pending resolution submitting a constitutional amendment to the vote of the people by which the people must vote a direct property tax if they would fix the age limit for pension at 65 years.

The vote followed a bitter denunciation of Senator Phil M. Donnelly of Lebanon, president pro tem, by Senator Joffee of Kansas City, and the vote may to some extent be considered as having been a vote of confidence in Donnelly rather than solely a vote on the merits of the proposal.

The question was on the age limit in the constitutional provision authorizing old age pensions. The present provision provides that the Legislature may adopt legislation for pensions for all needy persons more than 70 years old.

Joffee's Resolution.

In view of the settled policy of the national administration for pensions for those above 65, Senator Joffee introduced a resolution fixing that as the age.

The present constitutional provision does not limit the Legislature in the providing of funds for pensions, though it could not levy a property tax for the purpose withouta vote of the people.

Donnelly's amendment specifically would require the Legislature to levy a tax of not less than one-half cent or more than 5 cents on the $100 of valuation of all personal property and real estate in the State.

Under the Donnelly amendment, if the voters should reject the proposal for a property tax they also would reject the 65-year age limit, and pensions would be restricted to those more than 70 years old.

Senators Joffee and McDowell have pending a bill to place a 20 per cent tax on all tobacco products to meet the requirements for old age pensions.

Criticism of Donnelly.

Joffee, arising to speak in opposition to the amendment introduced by Donnelly, immediately began an attack on the president pro tem.

"We elected the Senator from Laclede as president pro tem," Joffee said, "with the expectation that we could rely upon his leadership. But we find that the Tobacco Trust is so powerful in this Legislature that we need new leadership.

"If his leadership is such that the property owners of the State are to be penalized while the special interests are dominating the Legislature, then I, for one, repudiate his leadership.

"The taxpayers are entitled to some leadership here. But we find that the representatives of the special interests are able to keep the tobacco tax bill and bills of other kinds to tax the special interests in the committees."

Defense of Donnelly.

Senator Rollins, who announced that he was opposed to Donnelly's amendment, delivered a strong defense of the president pro tem.

"I do not know what constitutes leadership in the mind of the Senator from Kansas City," he said, "unless it be agreement with everything he might say. Our leadership has been constructive and has not consisted of publicity stunts."

Closing the debate, Donnelly largely ignored Joffee's attack. He said there was no question of leadership involved in the offering of his amendment. He said it merely submitted to the people the question of whether they were willing to be taxed to pay old age pensions.

"If the Senator desires to repudiate any leadership," Donnelly said, "he can do so as far as I am concerned. I will say that I am not attempting to fool the people into the belief that they can pay old age pensions and not themselves pay the bill.

"There is no demagoguery in my position.

"I hold no brief for the tobacco interests or for any other interests, but I do say that any interests or any body of citizens have the right to come before this Legislature and petition for what they may believe to be their rights, just as a huge delegation of merchants came here a few days ago against the sales tax. I recognize their right to come, but I am not swept off my feet by them."

Defends Property Tax.

Donnelly said a property tax would mean security for the payment of pensions, while any other kind of tax voted by the Legislature might be repealed at some future session of the Legislature, and the aged left without pensions.

Several Senators, who had been expected to vote against the Donnelly amendment, voted for it, apparently considering the vote to mean an indorsement or repudiation of Donnelly.

Immediately after the vote was taken the Senate went to another order of business, leaving further consideration of the Joffee resolution as the first matter to be taken up when the Senate returns to the order of engrossment of bills Monday or Tuesday.

A resolution calling on the United States Senate to investigate the Forest City Manufacturing Co., 1627 Washington avenue, and the A. A. Ahner Detective Agency will be introduced at a mass meeting of organized labor at the Municipal Auditorium at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

The resolution charges that the Forest City Manufacturing Co. resorted to espionage in an effort to prevent workers from organizing under the Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, which recently called a strike at the plant. The meeting will call on Congress to amend the labor section of the NRA to give Regional Labor Boards power to send violators to prison. The resolution promises support of the strike at the Forest City concern, and calls on police to be neutral in handling strike demonstrations. The resolution will be presented by Martin Dillmon, of the Central Trades & Labor Union Laws' Committee.

Speakers at the meeting will include officers of the Central Trades and Harry Nelson, president of the Street Car Men's Union.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 15.—Two watchmen discovered 113 sticks of dynamite between the tracks of the Chicago & Illinois Midland Railroad, north of Springfield, early today. Bombers apparently had been frightened away, abandoning the dynamite and 400 feet of wire. Railroad officials said the dynamite was found five minutes before a train was due.

SWINDLER SEIZED, DECEIVED CLERGY POSING AS PRIEST

"The Rev. T. J. Buckley," Wanted in Five Cities for Check Frauds, Arrested With 'Nephew.'

A plump, middle-aged man in the habiliments of a Catholic priest was held at Police Headquarters today as a fugitive from justice. He admitted readily when apprehended yesterday that the authorities at Chicago, Lansing, Mich., Springfield, Mass., Brookline, Mass., and Cambridge, Mass., want him for forgery and obtaining money under false pretenses.

The prisoner, who said his real name is John A. Duvall, had been posing as a priest for about a year, he said. He attended a Catholic seminary in Washington for about eight years as "Jack Lorenz," he added, but was not ordained when he decided that the priesthood was "no vocation."

Also held is his fair-haired companion, Harry Palmore, 19 years old, of Taunton, Mass., who has been posing as the nephew of the bogus priest.

HELD AS FORGER

—By a Post-Dispatch Staff Photographer.
JOHN A. DUVALL.

All They Wanted to Know.

Duvall was limping along Twelfth boulevard at Olive street—he was injured in an automobile accident 18 months ago—when Detective-Sergeant James Doherty and Detectives McCarthy and Harberding, spotted him. They followed and one of the officers called Palmore aside to inquire "Who is the priest with the cane?" "Oh," smiled the handsome youth, "that's the Rev. T. J. Buckley, my uncle."

That was all the officers wanted to know. They had been looking for a lame bogus clergyman who sometimes pretended to be the Rev. T. J. Buckley of Brookline, who sometimes said he was the Rev. James F. Davey of Boston. At headquarters, while the "nephew" was telling one group of officers about Duvall's affection for him, Duvall related to another group the details of his scheme.

He has been going to churches, he said, when a funeral was in progress and posing as a friend of the deceased. During the services it was his practice to become ill, whereupon he would be escorted to the rectory and usually left alone there, which would give him an opportunity to steal blank checks and letters which would indicate that he was the priest in whose church he had become "ill." Then, in a nearby town, he would cash the checks.

Took Checks in St. Louis.

He did this in Father Buckley's church in Brookline and in Father Davey's church in Boston, as well as in two churches in Chicago and one in St. Louis, the St. Boniface Church, 7622 Michigan avenue, where he says he stole three checks belonging to the Rev. Herman Nieters. However, he said, he has not cashed any of those stolen here.

Since they arrived in St. Louis, two weeks ago, Duvall and his "nephew" have been rooming at 1926A Geyer avenue, where yesterday afternoon, the police found a number of pawn tickets. Duvall explained that he purchased several watches on credit in Chicago, posing as a Chicago priest, and pawned them here.

SAYS NRA HAS SETTLED OR ADJUSTED 70,000 CASES

Compliance Director Rumely of Chicago Addresses Code Authority Council.

More than 70,000 of the 90,000 cases referred to the NRA in Washington in the past year have been settled or adjusted, C. F. Rumely, NRA Compliance Director for the sixth region with headquarters in Chicago, said in a talk before a dinner meeting of the Code Authority Council, of Greater St. Louis at Hotel Chase last night.

Keith Carlin, NRA compliance attorney for the region, said all but 2 per cent of industry has come under codes. The Chicago regional office, established at the beginning of the year, handles compliance cases from Missouri, Illinois, Indiana and Wisconsin without the necessity of their being sent to Washington for action.

HURT IN RESCUING GIRLS

Kansas City Policeman Tosses Two to Safety, But Is Hit by Truck.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 15.—Leaping in front of a truck which was bearing down on twin 6-year-old school girls here today, William Burch, 30 years old, a patrolman, tossed them to safety but was struck down himself. Burch suffered severe injuries to his right knee and left wrist.

Burch, on duty at the E. C. White School, had halted traffic to permit a group of children to cross the street. The truck, driven by Roy Hodessheldt, threatened to run down Sally Jean and Betty Jane Anderson. Burch caught the girls in his arms and tossed them out of harm's way as the truck struck him. Hodessheldt was arrested.

SCULLIN URGES SINGLE LICENSE FOR ALL LIQUOR

St. Louis Excise Commissioner Tells State Senate Group This Is Necessary to Law Enforcement.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 15.—Excise Commissioner Scullin of St. Louis told the special Senate sub-Committee which is drafting a revised liquor bill yesterday that unless there is but one license to cover the sale of all liquor, beer included, proper enforcement of the liquor laws would be impossible in St. Louis.

There is little likelihood that a bill containing such a provision will pass the Legislature because of certain rural opposition. If, however, the committee reports favorably a bill along the lines of Gov. Park's bill, which is before it for consideration, there is a way in which St. Louis could achieve the same end.

Gov. Park's bill repeals the present 3.2 per cent beer law and defines any liquor containing more than one-half of one per cent alcohol as intoxicating and places all liquors under the supervision of the Liquor Department. The license for sale by the drink would be $300 a year as now, and there would be a license of $500 for anyone selling only beer of not more than 5 per cent.

Power of City.

The city, however, has the power to make ordinances for the regulation and control of all intoxicating liquors, the ordinances not to be in conflict with State laws. With all liquor containing more than one-half of one per cent of alcohol defined as intoxicating, the city could regulate all beer and establish a city license for the dealer who gets only the State beer license so that the two together would approximate the higher licenses for the sale of all liquor by the drink.

This, Scullin and E. J. Becker, supervisor of liquor control, thought, would enable the city to get at the dealer who now has only a beer license and sells other liquors on the side.

If the Legislature, however, would approve a bill along the lines of the one introduced by Senator Phil M. Donnelly, which keeps the present definition of 3.2 as non-intoxicating, the city would have no control over the dealer selling only 3.2 beer.

"Could Clean St. Louis."

Scullin said that he "wanted no beer license at all." "We want to make it so that no man will have the urge or the need to cheat," he said. "With all liquor under one license and the inspectors and police given the power of search and seizure, we could clean up St. Louis in 90 days."

Scullin also asked that the present provision in the law which permits a wholesaler to sell small quantities of beer to persons without a license "for home consumption" be repealed. "That is the way all our beer flats get their beer," he said.

Scullin was the first person heard by the subcommittee. Regular hearings on the liquor bills before the combined judiciary and criminal jurisprudence committee have come to an end and the subcommittee will only hear a few persons at its own invitation.

BRYAN UNIVERSITY UPHOLDS ANTI-EVOLUTION STATUTE

Urges Tennessee Legislators to Kill Bill for Repeal of Teaching Law.

By the Associated Press.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 15.—Faculty and students of the William Jennings Bryan University, which came into being at Dayton as a memorial to the Commoner, following the famous evolution trial there in 1926, petitioned the Legislature today not to pass a pending bill to repeal Tennessee's anti-evolution statute.

The Legislature was told in a letter placed on members' desks that "passing of this bill would be a backward step of serious and far-reaching consequences. . . . Since the evidence for the teaching that man descended from a lower order of animals would not be sustained in any court in the land, we further hold that it should not be taught in tax-supported institutions at the expense of those whose beliefs are contrary to the unproven theory of evolution," said the letter which was signed by Judson A. Rudd, president of the university; D. W. Ryther Jr., dean, and Lloyd E. Fish, student representative.

Repeal of the law has been recommended for passage by the House Judiciary Committee. It was introduced by Representative Cecil Anderson, 22-year-old legislator and Vanderbilt University student.

DOCTOR TELLS WHY WOMEN MAY LACK SENSE OF HUMOR

Eye Strain, Improper Diet or "Insulted Feet" Often the Reason, Speaker Says.

Lack of a sense of humor in women often may be traced to eye strain, improper diet, or "insulted feet," Dr. Harriet S. Cory, executive secretary of the Missouri Social Hygiene Association, said yesterday in addressing the Zonta Club, a group of business women.

Dr. Cory said that modern medical practice had greatly strengthened the physical body of woman and minimized some of the traditional mental hazards which have long intimidated her. "Woman has passed beyond the foot-binding and waist-binding period," she said. "Her physical diaphragm is no longer constricted, but her mental diaphragm has not yet been given free play. Women are inclined to be too stoical or too complaining."

Discussing nutrition, Dr. Cory said that self-chosen diets were frequently dangerous and futile. "It is better to take a chance on a well-balanced diet than on fads," she said.

Huge Main Lock Nearing Completion at Alton Dam

Concrete Structure 600 Feet Long, 110 Feet Wide, With 50-Foot Walls—May Be Opened for Navigation in May.

Construction of the Alton dam—$10,000,000 link in the Government's Mississippi River improvement program—has progressed to a point where the huge main lock is nearing completion and may be opened to navigation in May.

After a year's work, entailing the driving of 650,000 feet of piling into the sands to support the 400,000-ton locks, the wooden forms are being removed from the main lock and preparations made to hang the electrically operated iron gates.

Both the main and auxiliary locks are scheduled for completion next autumn, representing an expenditure of $3,500,000. When the main lock—a structure 600 feet long, 110 feet wide and with 50-foot walls—is put into use in May, work will begin on the dam proper, stretching 1724 feet into the river.

Barring floods or unforseen mishaps, the entire project, instrumental in providing a 9-foot channel to revive river commerce on the Mississippi, will be completed in the late summer of 1937, army engineers announced today. The dam will create a pool flooding 18,000 acres and reaching up the Mississippi 40 miles to Cap A Gris, in Lincoln County, and up the Illinois to La Grange, mid-way to Peoria. A system of mechanized gates will permit the passage of flood water.

Work on the Lock.

Just now interest is centered in the work on the lock, which in the last few months has afforded tangible evidence of the size of the undertaking. It resembles huge cement battlements on the edge of the river, at the eastern approach to the Lewis and Clark bridges.

Finishing touches are being put on the concrete work on the main lock, which represents more than 75 per cent of the cost of the two locks. Construction activities are in the 26-acre pit of a big cofferdam. The auxiliary lock, which will be built next summer, will be 360 feet long and 110 feet wide.

The land wall of the locks will be 32 feet thick, rising about two feet above the level of the railroad track on the bank. The intermediate wall, 47 feet thick, alone contains more concrete than the entire locks of other navigation dams on the Upper Mississippi.

900 Men Employed.

About 900 men, representing a weekly payroll of nearly $40,000, are on the job now. Although bad weather last December and a cold period last month caused delays, the time has been made up and work is running ahead of schedule.

Workmen who complained of cold last month compared conditions then with periods last summer when temperatures around 125 degrees were common within the cofferdam area. Steel sheet piling—1800 tons of which were used to protect the main lock foundations—had to be handled with gloved hands.

The work of building a solid foundation on sand, entailing the driving of 12,000 timber and 4000 concrete piles, was completed by November and the pouring of concrete was started.

Then the lock began to take definite shape until today it bulks hugely along Alton's river front. The cofferdam area resembles a city of concrete, the work attracting constant crowds of spectators.

MAN, THREE BOYS, QUESTIONED ABOUT COUNTERFEIT MONEY

Lad Says He Found 150 Coins in Basement of His Home.

A man and three boys were held today for Federal authorities in connection with the appearance of counterfeit half dollars in North St. Louis.

One of the boys, arrested yesterday, told police he found about 150 of the coins in the basement of his home. The man, he said, told him they were counterfeit, and took most of the coins from him. The boy said he gave several to two young friends and kept a few for himself.

The man who got most of the coins told police he had thrown them into the Mississippi River. The boy who found them told police that three years ago he had seen two men working with plaster molds in the basement of his home, and he thought the coins had been made at that time.

YEATMAN GRADUATES WANT NAME RESTORED TO SCHOOL

Ask That the Next Building Erected Be Named Central.

Graduates of Yeatman High School in 1910, meeting to celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary at the Missouri Athletic Association on Wednesday, adopted a resolution requesting restoration of the name of Yeatman to the high school building at 3616 North Garrison avenue. Central High School has used this building since its own structure was ruined by the tornado of 1927.

The resolution requested the Board of Education to transfer the name of Central to the next high school erected. The board soon will start construction of a new high school, as yet unnamed, at Kingshighway and Arsenal street. Yeatman, named after James E. Yeatman, a distinguished St. Louisan of a century ago, was opened in the building erected for it in 1904. It was disbanded as a senior high school in 1926, but for the next four years the Yeatman Intermediate School was conducted in the building, which was shared with Central from 1927 to 1930.

Central, first high school west of the Mississippi River, was established in 1853. A proposal to drop its name, a number of years ago, was abandoned after strenuous protests from its alumni.

HOUSE COMMITTEE REPORTS ON 'UN-AMERICAN' ACTIVITIES

Investigators Recommend Laws to Bar Foreign Propaganda and Outlaw Agitation for Change by Violence.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—Legislation to protect the United States from foreign propaganda and revolutionary activity was recommended to Congress today by a House committee which spent more than a year investigating "un-American" activities.

In its unanimous report the committee, headed by Representative McCormack (Dem.), Massachusetts, charged in effect that Soviet Russia has violated its pledge against harboring groups which advocate the overthrow of this Government. It declared that tons of Nazi propaganda had been smuggled into this country, and complimented "twenty-odd-million Americans of German birth or descent" for resisting efforts "to bring them into the Nazi program."

Suggested Legislation.

These recommendations for legislation were made:

(1.) That all publicity, propaganda or public relations agents of foreign governments, foreign political parties or foreign commercial firms be required to register with the Secretary of State.

(2.) That the Secretary of State be empowered to shorten or end the stay in this country of a temporarily-admitted foreigner if he disseminates propaganda or engages in "political" work.

(3.) That the United States negotiate treaties with other nations for the deportation of undesirable aliens to their native lands.

(4.) That it be made unlawful to advise soldiers, sailors or reserves to disobey their laws or regulations.

(5.) That United States Attorneys be empowered to prosecute persons who refuse to testify before congressional committees.

(6.) That it be made unlawful "to advocate changes in a manner that incites to the overthrow or destruction, by force and violence, of the Government of the United States" or any state.

15,000-Word Report.

The committee reported it had "recently received evidence which justifies an inquiry into reports showing interference by a Consul of the Mexican Government assigned to San Bernardino, Cal., with the religious practices and religious freedom of some of our people."

"This evidence has been submitted to the State Department and assurances have been given that an immediate inquiry will be made," the committee said.

In the 15,000-word, 24-page report, the investigators repeated some of the testimony obtained in hearings throughout the country, and presented separate summaries dealing with Naziism, Fascism, Communism, the "Silver Shirts"—which they said were patterned after the Storm Troops of Germany—and other organizations.

The committee said that Nazis used "all kinds of efforts and influence, short of force and violence," to "consolidate persons of German birth and descent" in this country "into one group, subject to dictation from abroad."

At "youth summer camps" in different localities, the report asserted, children were taught to recognize Chancellor Hitler of Germany as their leader. The report added that the committee's disclosure in open hearings had started a "disintegration of the movement."

Findings on Fascism.

Of Fascism it said:

"There have been isolated cases of activity by organizations which seemed to be guided by the Fascisti principle, which the committee investigated and found had made no progress."

However, it reported there was evidence which would "justify an investigation" of alleged "Fascist activity by an Italian Vice Consul at Detroit."

The committee recalled the pledge, given by Soviet Russia at the time of American recognition. In December, 1933—a month after the pledge—the Communist Internationale in a meeting at Moscow approved a platform calling for the "overthrow" of the "exploiting classes," the commitee said.

That resolution plainly advocated "the bringing about by force of a change in the social or political order of the whole or any part of the United States, its territories or possessions," the committee contended, adding that it was approved by the Communist Party of the United States in a convention at Cleveland in April, 1934.

Although the committee held that communistic activity in this country was not such as to constitute an immediate danger, it warned that there must be protective action.

There were findings that Kurt Georg Wilhelm Luedecke, who gained access to White House press conferences and the congressional press galleries, used "his position of traveling representative for a German commercial house as a smoke screen behind which to disseminate his propaganda"; that Carl Byoir and associates of New York City circulated "propaganda" in this country for the German tourist agency; that the firm of Ivy Lee-T. J. Ross "sold their services for express propaganda purposes" to I. G. Farben Industries; that George Sylvester Viereck helped the Byoir firm get its contract.

It added that Dr. Otto H. F. Vollbehr, who sold some rare books to the United States recently for $1,500,000, spent his own money for distributing "memoranda" and was warned by Dr. Hans Luther, German Ambassador, not to "mix in American politics."

OPPOSES POLITICS IN CHARITY

St. Louis Group Against Bill Affecting State Eleemosynary Workers.

The St. Louis Chapter of the American Association of Social Workers has gone on record as opposing any requirement that employes of State charitable institutions shall state their party political connections. The chapter, meeting yesterday, indorsed the stand of State Senator Allen McReynolds of Carthage in opposing a bill to record employes' political affiliations.

"Party politics," its resolution stated, "cannot be anything but a great detriment to the humane and efficient care of the mentally ill and feeble-minded, and the administration of all social services of the State."

Miss Lucille Barnes of Carthage, president of the Missouri Federation of Music Clubs, led a delegation to Jefferson City yesterday to oppose the bill. WITNESS ASSERTS CASHIER DID NOT FOLLOW ORDERS

Ernest Boyd Says Henry Giessenbier Failed to Credit $7000 to Wife's Account as Instructed.

Testimony in the trial of Henry Giessenbier, cashier of the closed Scruggs, Vandervoort & Barney Bank charged with misapplication of $19,700 of its funds, has turned to his handling of the financial affairs of the Boyd and Gibson families, the subject of much litigation pending in Circuit Court.

The trial was resumed today before a 13-man jury in Federal Judge Davis' court, with the Government seeking to show that Giessenbier used the money of depositors of the bank for his own stock market speculations in 1931.

Ernest Boyd of Baden, a public accountant, testified that Giessenbier had not followed instructions to credit one check of $7000 to the account of Boyd's wife, formerly Miss Cora Gibson.

Tells of $20,000 Loan.

He told of arranging with Giessenbier, who was then president of the Reserve Discount Co., in addition to being an officer of the bank, for a $20,000 loan, in October, 1931. The loan was made to him, Boyd testified, in the form of three checks for $8000, $7000, and $5000.

Subsequently, Boyd testified, he drew about $16,000 in checks against his wife's account, and learned that there was an overdraft of about $7000, because the check had not been deposited according to his instructions.

During the cross-examination of C. J. Prince, vice-president of the bank, who preceded Boyd as a witness, it was indicated that the $7000 check, and $2937 charged against the bank account of Miss Maude Gibson, a sister of Boyd's wife, had been used to obtain a cashier's check for $9937 which was made payable to a brokerage firm. The cashier's check paid off a debit balance in an account the broker carried under the designation, "Henry Giessenbier, agent." Prince, responding to a question by Forrest C. Donnell, of defense counsel, said he had heard that was done, but did not know it of his own knowledge.

Denies Giving Authorization.

Boyd denied, however, that either he or his wife had ever given Giessenbier authority to act as their agent in buying stocks.

Donnell brought out that Giessenbier had handled a great many financial matters for Boyd, his wife, and her sisters, and had never made any charge for his services. In 1929, the witness agreed, Giessenbier had aided him in obtaining loans with which he purchased $60,000 of Burroughs Adding Machine Co. stock.

The defense attorney asked if Giessenbier had not acted for Boyd and his wife in arranging loans of about $100,000 in October, 1931, from the Scruggs bank, and from other banks. Boyd answered that $41,000 of the loans to which Donnell referred was in controversy with the Scruggs bank, and that he was resisting that claim.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Feb. 15.—Douglas Fairbanks Sr. and Sylvia, Lady Ashley, sailed from Southampton today on the East Asiatic liner Europa for the Virgin Islands.

The American motion picture star was irritated because of the discovery of his plans for a world cruise. The Europa will land the pair at St. Thomas.

The titled former chorus girl appeared in high spirits. She smiled kissed her sister goodby just before the boat train pulled out for Southampton.

At St. Thomas Fairbanks will take possession of a yacht belonging to Jesse Livermore for the remainder of the cruise.

Friends who plan to join Fairbanks and Lady Ashley on board the yacht include Fred Astaire, the dancer; Donald Ogden Stuart, author; Benita Hume, British film actress, and her fiance, Jack Dunfee, automobile racing driver.

Fairbanks called a policeman to protect him against inquirers and became annoyed when the officer showed appetite for the task. Fairbanks thereupon strode about the station platform shouting, "Keep away from me or I'll sock you in the nose."

COMMITTEE KILLS 11 BILLS IN 25 MINUTES

"Graveyard" Group in Missouri House Functions as Expected.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 15.—The House Committee on Criminal Justice was in a bill killing mood last night and disposed of 11 of the bills pending before it, with adverse recommendations, in a committee session that lasted only 25 minutes. The wholesale slaughter of bills, most of which were opposed by House leaders, established a committee record for this session of the Legislature.

This committee has acquired a reputation as a "graveyard" committee, due to its tendency to report bills adversely. It is known that Speaker Christy refers to this committee many of the bills which are not viewed with favor by the House leaders, including some of the "old timers," imposing various taxes, fees or regulations on business and other interests, which have been introduced session after session in recent years.

The committee made no favorable recommendations of bills last night. The 11 bills it reported "do not pass" will die automatically, unless the authors or sponsors are able to muster a constitutional majority of the House to override the adverse reports.

Some of Bills Killed.

Among the bills killed by the committee were the following:

Prohibiting the practice of clairvoyance, fortune telling or palmistry, where money is obtained on a pretense of exercising occult power, introduced by Representative Fontana of St. Louis.

Prohibiting the erection or maintenance of advertising signs more than three feet in height, within 100 feet of a State highway, introduced by Representative Brady of St. Louis.

Making drastic changes in the present law on libel, and eliminating some of the defense to libel charges permitted by the present law, introduced by Representative Karst of St. Louis.

Repealing an act of 1933 which granted loan and investment companies certain additional powers to lend money and sell certificates of indebtedness, and limiting the "extra hazard" service charge on loans on automobiles to not more than $20, introduced by Representative Brady of St. Louis.

Small Loan Interest.

Reducing the interest rate for so-called "small loans," of not more than $300, from two and a half per cent a month, as authorized in the present law, to 1 per cent a month, introduced by Representative Caldwell of Ralls County.

Providing for separate assessment of a mortgage on real estate and the equity of the owner of the mortgaged realty for taxation purposes, introduced by Representative Falzone of St. Louis County.

Requiring county officers of St. Louis County to pay into the county treasury all fees collected, and requiring that the number of employes of such county officers, and the salaries of these employes, must be approved by the County Court, introduced by Representative Russell of St. Louis County.

Prohibiting the holding of lotteries of drawings by business establishments, theaters or other places of amusement, in which no consideration other than admission or attendance is an element of the gift enterprise or lottery, introduced by Representative Catron of Lafayette County.

The committee will meet again next Thursday night to take up another group of bills referred to it.

JEWELER PLEADS GUILTY OF POSSESSION OF LOOT

Alton Man Paroled and Two Other Indictments Are Dismissed.

Rudolph Munsinger Jr., Alton jeweler, pleaded guilty yesterday in the Circuit Court at Edwardsville to a charge of receiving stolen property, and was admitted to parole. Juries had disagreed twice when he was tried on the charge. Two other indictments for receiving stolen property were dismissed.

The indictments charged that jewelry stolen in a series of burglaries in Alton homes two years ago had been found in Munsinger's store. State's Attorney Geers is holding the jewelry, including 106 small diamonds, for proof of ownership.

Negro Industrial Commission.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—An industrial commissoin on Negro affairs, made up of five members to be appointed by the President, was proposed in the House yesterday by Representative Mitchell (Dem.), Illinois, Negro Congressman. An appropriation of $300,000 was proposed so that the commissioners might make a thorough investigation into the economic conditions of Negroes. Not more than three of the five members could be Negroes.

WOMAN, MAN FREED ON ROBBERY CHARGES

Indictment Based on Holdup and Rescue at Collinsville Nov. 21 Nolle-Prossed.

An indictment charging Mrs. Lorraine Marie Loppnow and John E. Lindley with attempted robbery of a filling station at Collinsville, Ill., Nov. 21, was nol-prossed by State's Attorney Geers at Edwardsville yesterday.

Geers said that none of the witnesses, who had identified photographs of Mrs. Loppnow as the woman with the rifle who rescued her male companion when he was overpowered by the men he had tried to rob, could identify her as the woman, although the filling station proprietor said she "might be" the woman. None of them could identify Lindley, Geers added.

The two were caught in Memphis, Tenn., a few days after the filling station was held up, in the company of Harold Clifford Bay, an escaped convict from Waupun, Wis., who has been returned there to finish his sentence.

The woman's husband, T. W. Loppnow, of Galena, Ill., from whom she had been separated, appeared in Edwardsville yesterday and took his wife home. Lindley, who said he met Mrs. Loppnow and Bay in Arkansas, departed for his home, Alicia, Ark.

OLD FRANKLIN SCHOOL GROUP TO HOLD REUNION

Class Which Was Graduated in January, 1910, to Have Faculty Members as Guests.

The class which was graduated from the old Franklin School in January, 1910, when the school was at Seventeenth street and Lucas avenue, will celebrate its twenty-fifth anniversary with a reunion at Hotel Jefferson at 7 p. m. next Wednesday. Members of the faculty in 1910 who will be guests at the dinner will include Miss Anna Merriman, Miss Margaret Bryant, Mrs. Otto Leffler and Miss Annie Cameron.

A committee appointed to direct the reunion consisted of Daniel Bartlett, Miss Sadie Roth, Mrs. Edwin Lewis, Harry Kaiser and Edgar Schreihagen. It announced that it wanted addresses of the following members of the class who could not be reached with invitations: Verneda Bannon, Alta Belle Miller, Nellie Cole, Ruth Loretta McCarthy, Vera Hoerle, Montrose Copeland and Victor Woloshen.

RUSSIANS MAKE MORE SOAP

Production Increased 67 Per Cent During 1935.

MOSCOW, Feb. 15.—Joseph Stalin has kept his promise to give Russians more soap, official figures for 1935 production show. The figures released yesterday, placed the year's output at 347,000 tons, an increase of 67 per cent over the previous year. In the spring of 1933 a delegation of collective farmers complained to the Soviet leader that farms were inadequately stocked with soap, and requested particularly the fragrant kind. It was then Stalin made his promise.

The statistics showed the Government's annual plan for increased food production was 98 per cent fulfilled in 1934. Beet sugar production was up 40 per cent, butter 5.

$7000 JUDGMENT AGAINST SAM BREADON AFFIRMED

Appeals Court Holds Him Liable for Associate's Obligations in Real Estate Deal.

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals, Eighth Circuit, has affirmed the judgment rendered by District Judge Davis here, holding Sam C. Breadon, owner of the St. Louis Cardinals, liable for about $7000, the obligation of a business associate, W. C. Anderson, in a deal involving exchange of Florida fruit land for St. Louis real estate. The Court of Appeals added to the judgment an item of interest at 6 per cent, from the date of the obligation, July 1, 1932.

Breadon, Anderson and a third partner obligated themselves to pay $35,000 in the realty deal, and their stock in the Eagle Fruit Co., owning the Florida land, was supposed to secure the obligation. It developed that Anderson's stock had been pledged for loans to two banks, one of them the Vandeventer National Bank, and the bank's receiver sued to enforce the claim against Breadon.

WRAP-CHECKING CONCESSION AT AUDITORIUM ABOLISHED

Commission to Have Management Conduct Service; Alleged "Split" of Profits Under Inquiry.

The Municipal Auditorium Commission, with several members absent, voted unanimously yesterday to abolish the wrap-checking concession at the auditorium and have the service conducted by the management. The motion for this was offered by Deputy Comptroller Cunningham and seconded by Alderman Slay.

From the time the auditorium was opened last April until Jan. 29 Leo E. Riley had the concession. He told the commission the day his privilege was canceled that he had divided $30.45 profits for the first six months of his contract with Aldermen Lietchen and Israel. Israel has denied the charge. Lietchen, a member of the commission, who was absent yesterday, has refused to discuss it. The charge resulted in an investigation by the Board of Aldermen, which has been started.

New bids for the concession were received by the commission Feb. 9, but yesterday's action ended consideration of them.

RELIEF WORKERS ON STRIKE

Some Frightened Away From Jobs Near Joplin, Mo.

By the Associated Press.

JOPLIN, Mo., Feb. 15.—About 50 per cent of relief workers whose turn it was to go on duty today were on strike, relief headquarters here said. The same condition prevails over the county, they said.

Various factory activities employing women here were operating with 100 per cent forces under police protection, but 12 Negroes employed on a ditch job refused to go to work for fear of trouble. Workers on a school project at Belville, near here, were frightened away by strikers who went to the scene from Joplin in automobiles.

BILL AIMED AT REDS IN STATE APPROVED

Would Bar From Ballot Any Party Advocating Overthrow of Government by Force.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 15.—The House Committee on Elections last night approved a bill which would bar from election ballots in Missouri any party which "advocates the overthrow of local, state or national government by force or violence" or carries on a program of sedition or treason against existing governments.

No one appeared to discuss the bill. It was introduced in the House by Representative Fyan, of Webster County, a World War veteran and member of the American Legion. It also provides that no newly organized political party shall be given a place on the ballot until its officers or representatives have made affidavits that the party does not advocate the overthrow of existing governments.

Absentee Voter Law.

Two bills changing the election law relating to absentee voters also were approved. They provide that an absentee voter may cast his ballot anywhere in the State, the ballot to be forwarded to the city where he resides. Another provision is that the voter can request an absentee ballot by mail. The present law requires the voter to ask for his absentee ballot in person and to vote it by mail in advance of the election.

The committee killed a bill requiring all voters at primary elections to State, in voting a certain party ticket, that they have voted for all of the candidates of that party at the last general election and to make an affidavit that they would vote for all that party's candidates at the next general election. It thus would have prohibited the voting of split tickets. Penalty for violation was to have been disfranchisement for five years.

The bill was introduced by Representative Bowling of Schuyler County. Bowling failed to appear before the committee and no one else appeared to discuss the bill.

Permanent Registration.

A bill permitting cities of more than 35,000 population to establish a permanent registration system on petition of 5 per cent of the legal voters was also killed. The measure would have exempted cities which set up permanent registration systems of their own.

The committee also voted down a bill to require the printing of non-partisan ballots in primary elections containing the names of all candidates who filed as non-partisans.

Representative Bourke of Kansas City, chairman of the committee, announced that a hearing would be held Feb. 28, at 8 p. m., on the St. Louis permanent registration bill introduced by Representative Walsh of St. Louis, and supported by the League of Women Voters of St. Louis, and the Young Men's Division of the Chamber of Commerce. Chairman Waechter of the St. Louis Election Board announced yesterday he was preparing a substitute for the bill.

H. I. HARRIMAN'S VIEWS OF JOB INSURANCE BILL

Wants Workers to Bear at Least 1 Pct. of 3 Pct. Payroll Tax.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—Henry I. Harriman, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, appeared before the Senate Finance Committee yesterday to present his organization's views on the administration's social security program.

He asked that workers bear at least 1 per cent of the 3 per cent payroll tax for unemployment insurance, that farmers, domestic servants and casuals be exempted, that the tax apply only to salaries over $250 a month and that permission be given for present company unemployment insurance plans to continue.

He asked, also, for exclusion of farmers, domestics and casuals from taxes and benefits under the compulsory old age pension plan, that existing private annuity plans be continued, and opposed Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau's proposal for an increase in taxes to set up annuity reserves.

Changes in Old Age Plan.

The House Ways and Means Committee completed tentative changes in the proposed old age pension system. The changes would let state agencies instead of the Federal Government fix the size of old age pensions and permit variations within a state between urban and rural centers. They will be submitted later for President Roosevelt's approval.

The committee figured out a way to reconcile its views on State control over old age pensions with the President's insistence on $15 a month as the maximum Federal contribution

As the plan was presented to the committee, a Federal agency could have fixed the amount of pensions in any State. As amended by the committee, the State may stipulate a $40 pension in New York City and a $20 pension upstate.

The Federal Government's contribution in such a case would be only $15 on the $40 pension and $10 on the $20 pension, under the amendment.

Also, the committee decided that instead of requiring a person to reside in a State five years out of the preceding 10 before he could be eligible for a pension, the residence requirement should be five out of the preceding nine years with one of the five immediately preceding that in which a pension application is made.

Amendments as to Children.

New restrictive amendments were written tentatively today into the administration's plan as it applies to dependent children.

The House Ways and Means Committee decided that instead of permitting lump sum allocations to states out of a $25,000,000 Federal fund, the allocations should be on a per capita basis.

Under an amendment tentatively accepted—subject to later approval by President Roosevelt—the Federal money will be limited to $6 a month for the first dependent child and $4 for each additional child.

The committee retained the proviso that each Federal dollar must be matched by two state dollars.

DOG KILLING TO HIGHER COURT

Prospective Jurors in Justice Court All Admit Bias.

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, Kan., Feb. 15.—This city's dog "murder" case may go to District Court. Otis Stevens, a relief worker, is charged with the "murder" of Duke, an 8-year-old Gordon Setter and the city's "dog about town." Technically the charge is destruction of a domestic animal.

Because prospective jurors said they were biased in favor of the dog, a six-member jury could not be obtained when the case was called yesterday in Justice Court. Learning of this, County Attorney C. E. Shouse said he would file the case in District Court so that an unprejudiced jury panel could be obtained. Stevens had admitted killing the dog because it annoyed his children. He is at liberty under a $100 bond.

CONVICTED OF KILLING STUDENT

Man Arrested in St. Louis Tried in California for Shooting.

OAKLAND, Cal., Feb. 15.—Damon Pease, 23 years old, was convicted last night of the murder of Hugh Malloch, Berkeley service station operator and University of California sophomore. The verdict carried a life imprisonment recommendation.

Pease was arrested in St. Louis, where he fled after the shooting of Malloch. The latter thought he recognized Pease's automobile as the one used by robbers in holding up his service station two days previously, gave chase and was shot.

HELPS JUDGE CONVICT HIM

Willie Johnson Jr., 34-year-old Negro, appeared in Judge Griffin's Court of Criminal Correction yesterday charged with larceny of $30 worth of scrap iron. He pleaded not guilty and waived a trial by jury.

"Ever been convicted before, Willie?" the Judge demanded sternly. "Yes, sir." "How many times?" The Negro hesitated, then answered reluctantly, "We-l-l, Judge, your honor, this'll be the third." And it was. Sixty days in the Workhouse.

Receivership Inquiry to Continue.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15. — The Senate voted today to continue its investigation into bankruptcies and receiverships. Senator McAdoo (Dem.), California, recently was chosen to head the committee in place of Senator Ashurst (Dem.), Arizona.

WOULD UNIFY LAND, AIR AND WATER TRAVEL

Advisers to Co-Ordinator Propose Single Countrywide Passenger Service.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—Transportation experts are giving close study to a proposal for single country-wide passenger service in which all land, water and air facilities would be used.

The proposal originated with advisers of the Federal Co-ordinator of Transportation. It was suggested that the Association of American Railroads be charged with the establishment of the service by unifying railway terminals, equipment and schedules and working out contractural and rate arrangements among the highway, rail, air and water carriers.

The loss of passenger traffic by the railroads was laid by the co-ordinator's department to "failure to keep pace with modern methods of marketing, servicing and selling."

Result of Study.

An analytical study made by the co-ordinator of the cost of travel by private automobile led to the conclusion that if the railroads invaded that field successfully they must fix a rate of about 1 cent a mile. The division making the study said this was what the majority of travelers using private automobiles believed it cost them, although it fixed the average cost at 2¼ cents a mile, including depreciation and insurance.

Officials said experiments in reduced fares now beng made in the South and West pointed definitely to the need fcr drastic reductions in the basic fare, at least for local service.

A 1½-cent a mile fare in the South was said to have brought a 70 per cent increase in coach travel and an 8 per cent increase in coach revenues. Revenues from passenger service dropped 16 per cent, however, because of decreases in other classes of fares.

In the West, where a 2-cent a mile rate was in effect, travel miles increased slightly, but there was a 32 per cent decrease in revenue.

In the East, no general reduction was made and the travel remained about the same, but excursions and other special rates cut income 18 per cent.

Comparative Figures.

The latest figures so far compiled for passenger service covers the year 1933. During that period, the railroads received $503,000,000 from hauling passengers. Estimates were that it cost the railroads $706,000,000 to provide this service.

During the same period, highway carriers for which reports were available, received $44,000,000 from passengers and spent $43,000,000. Air carriers reported receipts of $26,000,000 from passengers and spent the same amount.

On this basis and that of additional data, it was figured that the railroads lost 8 cents for every mile they hauled passengers, the busses made half a cent a mile and the airplanes came out even.

GREECE ACCUSES BULGARIA; TO STRENGTHEN BORDER FORTS

Charges Neighboring Country With Violation of the Treaty of Neuilly.

By the Associated Press.

ATHENS, Feb. 15.—The Greek Government, charging Bulgaria with violation of the Treaty of Neuilly, today announced its intention to spend $15,000,000 on frontier fortifications. Greece is compelled to take this action, the Government announcement said, "to safeguard its integrity."

The fortifications are planned for the Greco-Bulgarian frontier in East Macedonia and Thrace.

In an official statement, Greece said Bulgaria was maintaining a military force superior to that sanctioned by the treaty and that Bulgaria was building a system of roads and railroads toward the Greek frontier.

The Treaty of Neuilly, signed Nov. 27, 1919, formally ended hostilities between Bulgaria and the Allied Powers. Besides depriving Bulgaria of sections of territory, the treaty limited its military establishments to a total of 33,000 men, including regular army troops, gendarmes and frontier guards. It also fixed the amount of reparations Bulgaria was to pay at about $450,000,000.

25,000 VOTERS' NAMES ADDED IN ST. LOUIS REGISTRATION

Indications are that about 25,000 persons signed the poll books in the supplementary registration of voters yesterday in preparation for the municipal election. Cost of the registration was about $60,000, which would make the cost for each additional voter enrolled about $2.40.

Only 40 of the 669 precincts had reported the number registered by this morning. The average enrollment in these precincts was about 35, the largest number being 62 in a precinct of the downtown Sixth Ward and the smallest about 15, in several scattered precincts. Complete figures will not be available until tomorrow.

Registration previously was 375,077. In the canvass to be started tomorrow there may be more names removed from the poll boks, is cases where voters no longer reside at addresses from which they registered, than were added yesterday.

GERMANY AGREES 'IN PRINCIPLE' TO AIR TREATY PLAN

Willing to Negotiate but Seeks Separate Discussions First on 'Basic Questions.'

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Feb. 15.—The German Government advised France and England tonigh that Germany had "a sincere desire to promote the safeguarding of peace" and advised those two nations that the European questions they raised in the recent London conversations would be thoroughly examined.

The reply was made to the Franco-British proposals to Germany, which were based on an agreement reached two weeks ago. The text of the German reply follows:

"Germany is in agreement with the British and French Governments in a sincere desire to promote the safeguarding of peace, the maintenance of which is in the interests of Germany's security as well as in the interests of the security of other European states.

"The German Government welcomes the spirit of trustful discussion between the individual governments which animates the reports from the British and French Governments.

"Sincere Desire for Peace."

"The German Government will thoroughly examine the whole documents concerning the European questions contained in them. This examination will be conducted in the spirit of a sincere desire for peace as well as a concern for the security of the German reich in its geographically especially exposed situation in the heart of Europe.

"The German Government will especially examine the question of with what means the danger of air armaments can be avoided in the future, which danger has arisen from the abandonment by the heavily-armed states of disarmament as prescribed by treaties.

"The German Government is convinced that only the spirit of free agreements between sovereign states as expressed in the Franco-British communique can lead to durable international regulations in the realm of armaments.

"The German Government welcomes the proposition to increase security against sudden attack from the air by a convention to be made as soon as possible which shall provide for the immediate employment of the air forces of the signatories in favor of the victim of an unprovoked attack.

Agrees "in Principle."

"The German Government is ready in principle to employ its air forces as a mean of deterring disturbances of the peace.

"It is therefore willing to seek, in free accord with the Powers concerned, ways and means by which such a convention can be realized, which shall guarantee the fullest possible security to all signatories.

"The German Government is of the opinion that negotiations on a large scale, which have not been sufficiently prepared, lead naturally and from experience to friction which in the interest of working out such a completely novel air convention should be avoided.

"Before the German Government participates in such negotiations, it believes it is desirable to clear up a series of basic preliminary questions by means of individual discussions with the Governments concerned.

"It would, therefore, welcome it if—after preliminary Franco-British discussions—the British Government were first to declare its readiness (as a partner of the London discussions which is, at the same time, the guarantor of the Locarno pact), to enter into a direct exchange of views with the German Government.

Point of Accord.

"The German Government is in accord with the British and French Governments in the view that the conclusion of an air convention would be an important step on the road to the solidarity of the European States, and may well be suitable to lead to a solution satisfactory to all the other European problems."

LUMBER DEALERS CRITICISE HOUSING ACT ADMINISTRATOR

Secretary Tells Congressional Committee That Moffett Does Not Have Sufficient Experience.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—The National Retail Lumber Dealers Association criticised James A. Moffett's administration of the new housing act yesterday before the House Banking Committee. I. P. Leven of Cincinnati, secretary of the association, told the committee:

"The Housing Act became a law and was put into operation nearly eight months ago, and I am frank to say that we have not yet got the results that we anticipated. Mr. Moffett is laboring under difficulties, but I don't think Mr. Moffet has gotten up to this time the best results he could under this act. I don't think he has had the necessary experience—he is primarily an oil man—and he doesn't have around him the men who have got the experience. We have tried to give him some advice, but we have not had much success."

He said very few men have been put to work under the Housing Act.

SWEDISH PRINCE CALLS JOURNALIST "A LOUT"

Wilhelm Resents Editorial; Later Makes Apology for Remark.

By the Associated Press.

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 15.—The latest member of Swedish royalty to protest, in effect, against the restrictions placed on royalty, is Prince Wilhelm, once married to Maria Pavlowna, Grand Duchess of Russia.

Standing in a theater lobby, Prince Wilhelm exclaimed to a Swedish journalist, as near as it can be translated: "You are a lout!"

For that second Prince Wilhelm was a private individual, exercising the privilege to say what he thinks. The next day the Swedish Telegraph Agency sent out a short apology, signed by the Prince, to be published if desired by the Stockholm newspapers, despite the fact that the press carried no direct mention of the incident. In the offering of the apology Prince Wilhelm was once more, not a private individual, but a member of royalty.

Royalty Highly Respected.

In Sweden royalty is highly respected. It in turn is democratic and respectful toward the public. Even royalty, however, may rebel against the constant reminder that it may not act with the freedom of the man in the street.

The rebellion of Prince Wilhelm came about in this way. A Stockholm newspaper had been attacking a publishing house on the ground of monopoly and influence. In rebuttal another Swedish daily carried a proclamation defending the publishing house. The proclamation was signed by a number of Swedish writers—including Prince Wilhelm.

The first newspaper retaliated with an editorial in which, without mentioning Prince Wilhelm by name, it criticised a "certain person for forgetting that he was in no position to take part in such a quarrel."

Why He Made Remark.

One evening Prince Wilhelm came face to face, in the theater lobby, with the journalist he thought had written the editorial.

"Who wrote that editorial?" asked the Prince. The journalist bowed: "I can't reply. That is a newspaper secret that I can't divulge." Prince Wilhelm voiced his reprimand.

The next day Stockholm's newspaper circles talked over the incident. Sympathies ran both ways.

Prince Wilhelm is today at 50 one of the most popular, active persons in Sweden. He writes, directs travel films and participates in dozens of community enterprises. He was married in 1908 to Grand Duchess Maria, but the marriage was dissolved March 17, 1914.

ANNIVERSARY OF SINKING OF MAINE OBSERVED IN CUBA

U. S. Ambassador Caffery Tells of Progress of Two Nations in Reviving Hope and Confidence.

By the Associated Press.

HAVANA, Feb. 15.—United States Ambassador Jefferson Caffery today said the United States and Cuba in the past year have "made real practical progress in restoring people to work, in paying better wages, in increasing national income and in bringing about conditions that revive hope and confidence."

The address was delivered at ceremonies commemorating the thirty-seventh anniversary of the sinking of the battleship Maine in Havana harbor. President Carlos Mendieta also spoke, as did other Government officials.

"Although this act of commemoration painfully recalls a catastrophe that shocked the entire world," the Ambassador said, "at the same time its recollection serves once again to direct attention to the mutual interests of Cuba and the United States. Geographical propinquity brought Cuba and the United States into close contact with one another during the colonial era. These early relations were later amplified and strengthened by ties of historic sentiment. Cuba, therefore, occupies a special place in the relations of the United States with other countries of the world. It is not only geographically next door, but is also our closest neighbor in sentiment."

Girl Scouts have raised $5050 in advance of general solicitation in their $24,000 campaign, Mrs. Arthur Stockstrom, campaign chairman, has announced. Of the total, $1700 was reported at a meeting of the downtown campaign committee yesterday.

General solicitation will begin Monday, except in Webster Groves, where a house-to-house canvass was begun today in an effort to raise a $3000 quota.

More than 400 girls will participate in the Girl Scout Pageant at Municipal Auditorium Saturday, Feb. 23.

Argentina's Reply on Wheat.

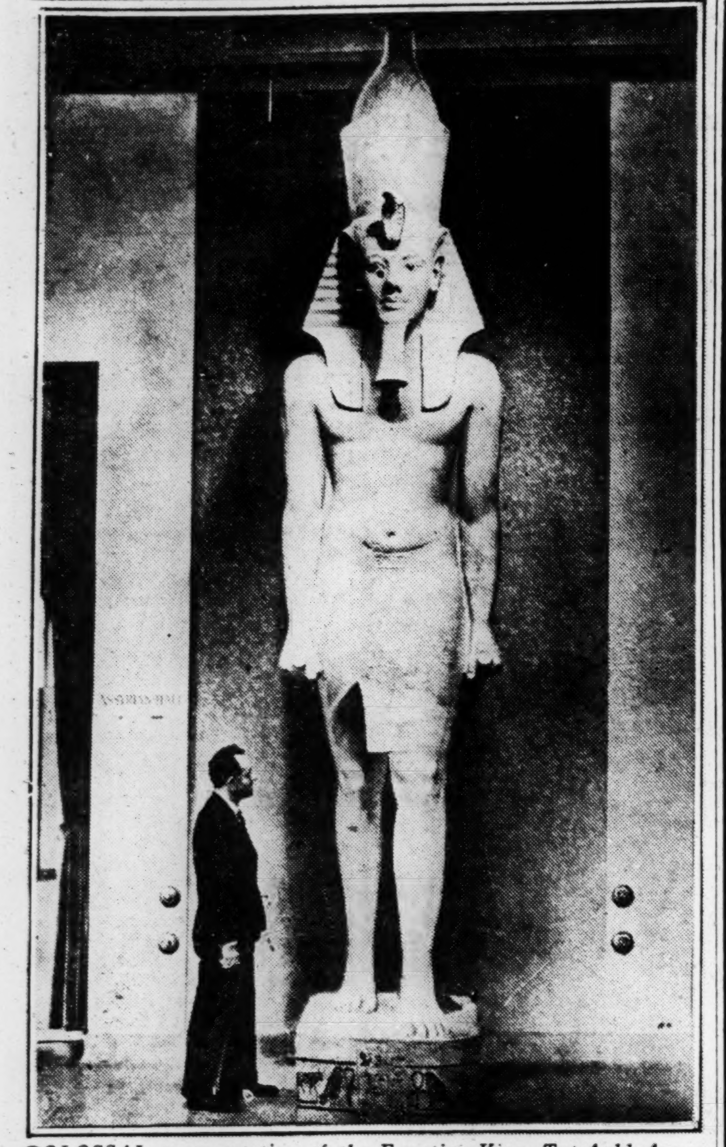
King Tut Statue Put on Exhibition



COLOSSAL representation of the Egyptian King, Tut-Ankh-Amen, of the 18th dynasty, which has been placed on exhibition in the Oriental Institute of the University of Chicago. The statue is one of two discovered by the architectural survey of the Oriental Institute. It was found in the debris of the broad columnar hall in the mortuary temple built by two Kings, Ay and Harmhah, north of the great temple of Rameses III of Medinet Habu, across the Nile from modern Luxor. The companion statue is on exhibition in the Cairo Museum in Egypt.

TRIAL OF EIGHT IN INCOME TAX CONSPIRACY PUT OFF

Judge Faris Defers Cases Until April Pending the Appointment of His Successor.

Federal Judge Faris today continued to April 22 the trial of eight former executives of the Universal Aviation Corporation and the Aviation Corporation on charges of conspiracy to evade income tax of $201,255.

The trial had been set for next Monday, but Judge Faris informed counsel that no District Judge would be available to try the case, and counsel consented to the continuance. Judge Faris has been promoted to the Circuit Court of Appeals and, although he is still sitting in the District Court in certain matters, he is not undertaking any extensive trials.

The defendants are Dan W. Jones, Halsey Dunwoody and George B. Schierberg of St. Louis, and William D. Loucks, Graham B. Grosvenor, A. O. Cushny, Frederick J. King and Alex H. Beard of New York.

MANSLAUGHTER INDICTMENTS IN TWO AUTOMOBILE DEATHS

Roy Woodson and Charles Divis Accused Following Two Fatalities.

Indictments charging manslaughter in connection with deaths due to automobile accidents were voted by the grand jury yesterday against Roy Woodson, 27-year-old parking lot manager, and Charles Divis, 22, of 3142 Cherokee street. Woodson also was charged with leaving the scene of injury to a person.

Woodson's automobile killed 12-year-old Charles A. Young Jr. last Jan. 12 as the boy was walking with his uncles, Oliver and Joseph Fischer, at Jefferson avenue and Utah street. Woodson did not stop. He was arrested at his home, 4108 Castleman avenue, the following day.

The charge against Divis grew out of the death of Frank Schoenborn, 3454 Louisiana avenue, who was fatally injured in an automobile collision while riding in Divis' car last Dec. 31. The accident occurred at Compton avenue and Chippewa street, Divis' car turning over after colliding with a machine driven by Monroe Garcelon, 4028A Lafayette avenue.

NAVY OFFICER ADMITS OFFER TO PRIVATE FIRM

Commander Weyerbacher Says He and Lieut. Harper Sought Places as Advisers to Plane Company.

THINKS ACTION WAS NOT UNETHICAL

Denies Rejecting Work of Cairus Co. Because His Proffered Services Were Refused.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—To a naval court of inquiry, Commander Ralph D. Weyerbacher, naval aircraft procurement officer, acknowledged today that he and another officer had offered their services as technical advisers to the Cairns Development Co. and Cairns Airplane Co. of Naugatuck, Conn.

In a brief he said he made the offer for himself and Lieut. C. B. Harper, now retired, in a letter to J. L. Livermore, Wall stret operator, who then was backing the inventions of Edmund Z. Cairns.

The court of inquiry is making an investigation at the behest of a House committee.

Weyerbacher said he wrote the letter in May, 1930, when he was commander of the naval aircraft factory at Philadelphia. He insisted he had "no consciousness of having committed any unethical, much less illegal act."

Before making a detailed offer, Weyerbacher said he had obtained a ruling from the Navy Judge Advocate-General that it was permissible for him to serve as adviser to a private concern if it did not interfere with his duties in the navy. The ruling, he said, was transmitted through Ernest Lee Jahncke, then Assistant Secretary of the Navy.

Capt. W. W. Wensinger of the Marine Corps, prosecutor for the court, contended that, although Waverbacher may have thought his activities were within the law" as long as the Cairns companies were not bidding for Government contracts, the result was such as to bring "suspicion" and discredit" on the navy.

Weyerbacher said that after his transfer to duty as a procurement officer for the navy, he had rejected one of Cairns' designs. He added that he had told Cairns the navy was not interested in the commercial planes the latter was designing. He insisted, however, that he had nothing to do with the rejection, and denied Cairns' assertion before a House Committee that he had brought about the rejection because the offer of his services was refused.

His duties, Weyerbacher said, required that he inquire into the testimony by Cairns, but he denied using "unauthorized" methods. He admitted having reproached Cairns for his statement, but said he did not know then it was before the House Committee.

In his brief, Weyerbacher said Cairns was "irrational" and that he had the "obsession" that he was being "persecuted."

Weyerbacher said the Rogers Committee had shown itself "sympathetic and eager to have Mr. Cairns tell all that he would."

CARDINAL ANDRIEU DIES; ARCHBISHOP OF BORDEAUX

Succumbs at 85 After Brief Illness; Famous as Pulpit Orator.

BORDEAUX, France, Feb. 15.—Paulin Pierre Cardinal Andrieu, Archbishop of Bordeaux and dean of French Cardinals, died here early today. He was 85 years old.

The Cardinal was ill only for a week. He was surrounded by members of the Cathedral chapter. He had heard a last mass Thursday and remained conscious until his death.

Born at Seysses, near Toulous, Dec. 8, 1849, Cardinal Andrieu worked his way through the seminary at Toulouse and was ordained a priest in 1874. He was stationed at Marseilles and soon became the most eloquent preacher that Southern France had heard in many years. His crusades against vice in that cosmopolitan seaport are still remembered.

He became a Bishop in 1901 and a Cardinal in 1907.

During the war he took an interest in the welfare of American soldiers and officers stationed in the permanent camps around Bordeaux. Several times he received Catholic chaplains attached to the various units arriving from overseas and he gave them advice as to how they should counsel the soldiers on moral matters.

ILLINOIS RELIEF BILL HITS NEW HIGH IN JANUARY

Total Is $12,528,243 Spent in Caring for 316,283 Families or 1,250,000 Persons.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 15.—Relief expenditures in Illinois hit a record high in January, the monthly financial statement of the Illinois Emergency Relief Commission showed today, with the total bill coming to $12,528,243.

The money went for the care of 316,283 families, estimated as comprising 1,250,000 persons. The total January "case load," while surpassed previously only by the relief list in March of 1933, is considerably below estimates for February, in which relief rolls are expected to reach the highest point in the State's history.

January's relief bill compares with a total cost of $12,019,666 for December. For the State as a whole, 29 per cent of the total or $3,632,944 was spent for work relief. Direct relief took 61.74 per cent, or $7,734,436. To administer relief in January cost $1,160,863, or 9.26 per cent of the total cost.

CONGRESS COMPLETES ACTION TO EXTEND AIRMAIL CONTRACTS

United Airlines to Be Permitted to Operate Two Primary Routes Till April 1, 1936.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15. — Congressional action on a bill extending present air mail contracts until April 1, 1936, was completed yesterday when the Senate accepted an amendment made by the House.

This legislation, if approved by the President, will permit United Airlines to continue its operation of the San Diego, Seattle airmail line in conjunction with its transcontinental route.

Under the terms of the Black-McKellar airmail bill passed last session, no airline could hold two primary mail contracts after March 1 this year. Since United's transcontinental line and its coastal route both were defined as primary the company would have had to abandon one within the next two weeks.

FRENCH RELIEF PLAN APPROVED

Deputies Give Premier Vote of Confidence, 444 to 124.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Feb. 15.—Premier Flandin won a vote of confidence in the Chamber of Deputies today on his policy of aiding the unemployed. The vote was 444 to 124. Flandin denounced the "money powers fighting his financial policy which tends to loosen credit."

He told the Chamber "powerful forces" were unwilling to give full co-operation. His statement was generally accepted as referring to groups within the Bank of France, that oppose the Government's desire to get the bank to discount treasury bonds. Flandin said his effort to ease money would be followed "despite the resistance particularly of a certain oligarchy."

CHINESE EASTERN BOMB PLOT

Manchoukuan Police Arrest Four Russians on Suspicion.

HARBIN, Manchoukuo, Feb. 15. —Manchoukuan police arrested four Soviet employes of the Chinese Eastern Railway today on suspicion of a plot to dynamite the railway bridge at Ta Lai-Tao, south of Harbin.

They reported that the plot was frustrated.

REDISTRIBUTION OF WEALTH NECESSARY, NORRIS SAYS

Senator Declares It Is Essential to Preserve Civilization and Suggests Ways.

By the Associated Press.

LINCOLN, Neb., Feb. 15.—Senator George W. Norris, speaking at a University of Nebraska Charter Day program, said today redistribution of wealth was a necessity if civilization were to be preservd.

"This does not mean," said the Republican independent, who received an honorary degree from the university, "that we should take the property of A and give it to B. It means only the taking of money from the estates of the very wealthy, where it can perform no real service for humanity, and the giving of it, in the form of taxes, to all the people, from whom it was originally taken, and under whose laws it was accumulated."

Norris advocated a progressive inheritance tax to accomplish this purpose and described what he called the tendency toward concentration of wealth in America into a few hands.

"We are rapidly approaching a condition," he said, "where the dangers of accumulated wealth are becoming apparent to all. It will do no good to heap abuse upon the heads of those who have the courage to tell the truth. The cry of Socialism, anarchy, Communism, heaped upon the heads of those who are moved by the love they have for their fellow men to raise the dangr signal will not stay the disaster which must follow, unless heed is taken of Nature's warning sign."

BRITISH AND CHINESE UNITE TO CLEAR SEAS OF PIRATES

Campaign Started as Result of Captain of Vessel With Mission School Children.

LONDON, Feb. 15.—British and Chinese authorities have begun a co-operative campaign to sweep pirates from China's waters, it was announced officially here today.

Intensive effort to clear the seas of the marauders is the result of the recent pirate capture of the S. S. Tungchow, when mission school children were terrified for three days.

It was disclosed the plan of action was outlined at a conference between Canton officials and British Consular authorities.

Two British war vessels are co-operating in the campaign, but it was said policing activities ashore would be confined to Chinese service men. The wireless will be used extensively in tracing pirate craft.

SAYS RIPPING OFF OF FIN CAUSED MACON DISASTER

Petty Officer Tells Court of Inquiry Gas Cell Was Broken When Structure Was Torn Away.

HAD NOTICED LEAK IN HULL PREVIOUSLY

Witness Asserts Ship's Angle Was Too Great to Permit Dropping of Planes to Lighten Craft.

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 15.—A structural failure where the upper fin joined the hull of the dirigible Macon caused the airship to crash into the Pacific Ocean Tuesday evening, Chief Boatswain's Mate Robert J. Davis told a Navy court of inquiry today.

"It sounded to me as if the fin structure loosened from the frame at the extreme aft portion of the ship," said the petty officer, who completed an inspection of the stern of the airship shortly before the accident. "Immediately there was a rush of gas felt and the ship lurched as if struck by a severe but sudden gust of wind.

"It sounded to me as if the structure was pulling out where the fin was bolted to the structure. Undoubtedly the structure tore the gas cell. The fin was carried away.

Break in Cell Netting.

"Between 3 and 4 p. m. Tuesday the Macon hit some rough weather. I told the men to watch the fin surfaces and the control wires and gas cells.

"By this time it began to rain a little. I noticed a few leaks in the surface and the cell netting holding the gas cell was broken.

"A crew member brought some cord and in 10 minutes we repaired the break. In one place there was a bad leak where rain was coming in. We lashed a canvas bucket to catch the water.

"I heard a crash a little after 5 p. m. as I was inspecting the forward part of the top fin. I noticed a rush of gas. Steele (J. E. Steele, aviation ordnance man) was going forward. I called the control car. The phone was busy. Gas was rushing into the ship. We went forward.

Unable to Drop Planes.

"I sent the airplane crew to the hangar, but the ship was at such an angle we delayed launching the planes."

Lieutenant-Commander Herbert V. Wiley testified yesterday he had ordered one of the four planes dumped overboard as a means of lightening the ship as it fell.

In addition to the three members of the Court of Inquiry and its Judge Advocate, Wiley, in command of the Macon at the time of the wreck, was present as an "interested person" and his second in command, Lieutenant-Commander Jesse L. Kenworthy, as Wiley's counsel. Wiley and Kenworthy were so designated to permit their presence in the court throughout the inquiry, Navy officials said. It was emphasized there was no charge standing against Wiley.

All testimony at yesterday's board of inquiry placed the seat of trouble aft, but no definite cause was determined.

Testimony touched lightly on the wind and rain as possible contributing factors and bore heavily on intimations a break in the controls in the rear might have caused the "bad casualty" that started the Macon downward to its end and the

Refers Pottery Company Case to Compliance Board for Removal of Blue Eagle.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15. — The National Relations Board, in a ruling yesterday on the dispute at the Kokomo Sanitary Pottery Co. of Kokomo, Ind., declared it to be a "flagrant case" and ordered it referred at once to the compliance division of the National Recovery Administration for removal of the company's Blue Eagle.

The announcement said the board took this action on the ground that the company "engaged in a deliberate violation of Section 7A" and has exhibited an "undisguised hostility toward the law of the land and the authorities appointed to enforce it." Usually the board grants the employer time to make restitution in such cases.

The decision emphasized that "the facts show more than an employer refusing to offer counter-proposals to unacceptable collective demands by his employes' representatives." "They demonstrate in addition, deliberate dawdling in a manner obviously intended to defeat the aims of collective bargaining, and an ultimatum by the employer that he will deal with representatives of his employes only if the form of organization suits his whim and fancy."

ETHIOPIAN KING DEFIES MUSSOLINI IN SECOND NOTE

Charges Italy Is Aggressor and Says Mobilization of Troops Hurts Peace Negotiations.

By the Associated Press.

ROME, Feb. 15.—A second defiant message from Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia was received by the Italian Government today. It charges Italy with aggression and calls its troop mobilization a threat to peace negotiations in the African border dispute.

Premier Mussolini maintained silence concerning the note and his future policy. He conferred with members of the Fascist Grand Council.

A meeting of the Supreme Council of Defense was called for this afternoon and it was understood the Ethiopian situation would be one of the principal matters for discussion.

Meanwhile there appeared to be no change in plans to send first contingents of the African expeditionary force from Cicily to Eritrea and Italian Somaliland tomorrow.

It is reported that native troops from Tripoli already have left for Eritrea. Another report says troops now being mobilized in Italy may be sent to Tripoli for a month to get them accustomed to the climate before dispatching them to the desert further south.

Hoover on Way Home by Auto.
By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 15.—Former President Herbert Hoover began a motor trip today to his home in Palo Alto, Cal. Arriving from New York this morning, Hoover met his son Allan, and they began their trip in fog and drizzle. John Shaw, a friend, said their route would take them through Kansas City.

RUSSIA WILL SIGN NO PACT THAT DOES NOT BIND JAPAN

Tells Disarmament Convention Soviets Won't Accept Any Agreement Unless Neighbors Also Agree to It.

By the Associated Press.

GENEVA, Feb. 15.—Soviet Russia will sign no convention for the control of manufacture and trade or arms to which Japan does not adhere, the Soviet delegate told the world disarmament conference here today.

The projected convention must be approved by all of the principal powers, the Soviet delegate said, "but particularly by all neighbors of Russia."

He approved the United States proposals as a basis for the arms control plan, but said he desired to see them strengthened especially by close supervision of the materials used in chemical warfare. Also, he said, raw materials employed in war industries must be harnessed and embargoes arranged against nations which engage in war.

Hugh Wilson, United States delegate, told the Powers that the people of the world want something done and done quickly to control the manufacture and traffic in war materials.

Replying to attacks made on the American plan particularly by England and Italy, Wilson reminded the delegates the Americans merely fashioned their proposals along lines likely to command general support. The American plan contemplates supervision over both production and commerce.

England and Italy desire to have the convention restricted only to the traffic in war materials.

"Our plan," he said, "is founded on the conviction of people everywhere that something must be done and in a relatively short time."

Canada backed the American project, especially the feature for international supervision of arms manufacture.

Walter Alexander Riddell, the Canadian delegate, said, "Canada congratulates and thanks the Americans for their effort, which is certain to hasten the solution of the problem."

He added Canada was convinced the manufacture of armaments would eventually be restricted to state establishments. Until this is achieved, he said, adequate control is essential.

Switzerland characterized the American plan as "an important contribution to the cause of peace" and insisted the convention must deal with the manufacture as well as the traffic in arms if it is to receive Swiss support.

The conference was adjourned until Tuesday when it will hear the first reading of the American draft. Meanwhile, delegations will prepare amendments for submission.

Alberta Single Men Want Care in Own Homes.

BLAIRMORE, Alta., Feb. 15. — Forty-five single unemployed men of this Crow's Nest mining town squatted in the town hall today on a hunger strike they said would last until something was done toward their relief. They started their fast last night.

The men had appeared before a council meeting and got the promise that two councillors would visit Edmonton and plead their case before the Alberta Relief Commission which insists the men must go to relief camps. The men demanded they be provided for in their homes here.

M'DONALD WINS CONFIDENCE VOTE ON ISSUE OF DOLE

But Debate in House of Commons Brings Out Hints of Scandal in Collapse of Pepper Market.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Feb. 15.—Prime Minister MacDonald's Nationalist Government, safely past the Laborite threat of a vote of non-confidence, faced a new problem today in the disastrous pepper market speculations.

The House rejected the motion of censure for the Government's handling of the dole problem by a vote of 374 to 68.

The pepper gamble, however, was brought up in the debate and seized on by those who have been clamoring for an investigation of the identity of the prime movers in the ill-fated speculation.

Maj. Harry Louis Nathan, Liberal member from Bethnal Green, called attention to "ugly rumors" and "grave suspicions."

"Do not let the Government lead the House to believe," he said, "that it was fear of a general election which affected the city stock exchange.

Hints at Big Scandal.

"It was rumors and suspicions of what was taking place, what it has led up to, and who is involved in these speculations. The reason foreigners sold securities is that the wireless from Paris last Tuesday broadcast that these speculations would involve this country in a scandal which would equal the Stavisky scandal in France."

The Government has yet to answer a series of questions placed on the order paper dealing with activities in the pepper and shellac markets. They are to come up for discussion Monday and Tuesday.

The most pointed of these questions was fathered by the Laborite member, David Grenfell, who has prepared to question Neville Chamberlain, Lord Chancellor of the Exchequer, on whether he intends to take any action regarding loss of confidence as a result of commodity speculations.

Grenfell also has asked that the investigation of Walter Runciman, president of the Board of Trade, shall call for particulars regarding the persons owning shares and the names of the four companies which would have profited if the pepper gamble had succeeded.

Runciman said last night he had

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare; never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Child Labor.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I READ your editorial, "The Child Labor Amendment," with interest but without conviction. You were open-minded in regard to the issues, but it seems to me you are not giving enough weight to the movement as a whole, or to the health and welfare of the child and citizenry in general.

I suppose all the more enlightened students of social legislation will agree that the scale of exploitation of child labor has been lessened ever since the half-way mark of the nineteenth century was reached, when laws were necessary to curb the actions of the New England manufacturers.

At the present time, some of the states have enacted social legislation to remedy the evil of child labor. Compulsory school laws have greatly aided in keeping the child out of industry until he or she has reached a fairly mature age.

To your contention that, if the amendment were passed, it would only add to the number of towering and inefficient bureaucratic controls in Washington, I give due consideration. However, I am convinced that it would be the lesser of two evils. If the future of state child labor legislation and enforcement can be judged by the past, I would say that your state control argument is merely a confusion of ideas.

I would like to add that I am in favor of making the 1924 child labor law part of our Constitution, because it would go to the aid of labor, employment in general and further the cause of elevating standards of living, always a goal of all the nations and peoples. This in turn would improve business.

I know that it is a hard job to get any social work done in our "pure and efficient" democracy, of which we are so proud, but, perhaps, if the public leaders, business men and the public in general would look at the question of child labor from a purely business standpoint, that of profit only, I believe they would realize that long-run results of a more social and humanitarian nature are, after all, more profitable than our old methods and our present methods.

Oh, Mrs. Carr!

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

INCLUDE me in your list of mourners—mourning, of course, your fall from infallibility. Walter Winchell, Ripley and finally your editorial page have been caught napping, and to these I add the name of Mrs. Carr. Several nights ago, she erroneously stated that Jeannette McDonald played opposite Tibbett in "Rogue Song."

Just to keep the record straight, it was Catherine Dale Owen. I am absolutely certain about this, because her unforgettable beauty and unforgivable acting made such an impression on me.

A Reply to Mr. Kretzschmar.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

IN REPLY to the Rev. Mr. Kretzschmar's letter to the Post-Dispatch: I am unable to understand how an Evangelical Lutheran pastor can, in the light of Christ's teaching on the value of the child, state that the child labor amendment smacks of Communism. When Christ said, "Suffer little children to come unto me," He did not want them maimed by 10 to 15 hours of work per day in the cotton mills, in the shrimp canneries or in the beet fields. Is the church interested in saving souls, but not in saving bodies and minds? It is not necessary to go into the social, economic and political arguments against child labor here. However, does he favor the subjection of one human by another for the personal gain of the subjector?

ANNEMARIE KRAUSE.

Carbondale, Ill.

The Mayor and the Plaza Commission.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

MAYOR DICKMANN is to be commended for many of the things he has done in connection with his administration. The great mass of people are with him, and this is equally true of most business interests.

His attitude regarding the Plaza Commission was wholly wrong, and it is a pleasure to see that he is big enough to reverse himself when he finds out he is wrong.

It would be the height of folly for the city to undertake to put up municipal buildings without the guidance, counsel and experience of competent architects.

ONLOOKER.

Applauds Mr. Richberg.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I AM opposed to the New Deal. I have always taken the pranks of those school boys at Washington with abundant salt. But it did my old eyes good, the way Richberg answered the labor leaders. I think that what he meant was that he wasn't going to stand for labor dictating to Uncle Sam, and I don't blame him. As I have said before, these labor unionists have broken the agreement that we as a race made at Runnymede, and what we as a nation reaffirmed at Philadelphia: that a man should be master of his own cave provided he digs it. But now they say that the cave belongs to anybody that can get up a big enough gang to kick him out of it.

Coulterville, Ill. J. PERTIUSE.

THE NATURAL GAS INQUIRY.

The natural gas inquiry instituted by the Board of Aldermen opened this week with a statement by Robert M. Boyles of the firm of C. E. Smith & Co., consulting engineers for the city.

Mr. Boyles spoke from the point of view of the city—its necessity to solve the smoke problem, the abundance of natural gas in its southern and southwestern hinterlands, the virtual isolation of the city from a movement that is going around it to points as far away as Chicago, and the comparatively higher rates which the local community is paying for gas while soot and grime destroy property and impair the health of the people.

Mr. Boyles explained why the Laclede Gas Light Co. has not made natural gas available to the people of St. Louis at a price which would make it an attractive smokeless fuel for heating. It has not done so for reasons with which readers of the Post-Dispatch are quite familiar. We have stated them again and again. We have said that because of its financial practices and alliances, Laclede as now controlled is useless in the situation. We welcome the corroboration which Mr. Boyles brings to our own representations, as we welcome the inquiry which the Board of Aldermen is making into a state of affairs that has become intolerable.

It is more than a matter of comparative gas rates, though in this respect the position of St. Louis is bad enough to warrant inquiry. Mr. Boyles' report shows that in 15 other cities of Missouri, all using natural gas, the cost is lower. The table follows:

City.	Population.	Cost of 20 therms.
St. Louis	822,000	$3.34
Kansas City	400,000	2.19
St. Joseph	81,000	2.80
Springfield	58,000	2.50
Joplin	33,000	1.54
Hannibal	23,000	2.92
Jefferson City	22,000	2.80
Sedalia	21,000	2.80
Columbia	15,000	2.80
Independence	15,000	2.80
Carthage	9,700	2.50
Mexico	8,300	2.80
Marshall	8,100	3.00
Nevada	7,800	1.60
Poplar Bluff	7,500	2.50
Webb City	8,600	2.50

The major consideration is the smoke problem. Make no mistake about the seriousness of the smoke problem. It has progressed to a point where there is no dissent from the necessity to come to grips with it. Nor is there any wide dissent from the belief that the smoke problem can best be attacked by making available to the community smokeless fuel which can compete with the cheap cost of raw soft coal. Mr. Boyles pressed this point effectively in his report to the aldermanic committee. He said:

> For all practical purposes, St. Louis is at the very door of the greatest natural gas fields in the country and has been in the heart of natural gas activities ever since the development of long-distance pipe lines. But, in spite of this, St. Louis is being denied the benefits of this fuel while the supply which logically belongs to it is diverted to neighboring communities and even to the distant Eastern markets.

Of course it is. So are many other cities being deprived of a great natural asset, the abundance of which has become one of the revelations of our time. It is estimated by the United States Bureau of Mines that in the Texas Panhandle a single petroleum company is wasting 700,000,000 cubic feet of natural gas per day; that at only one of its plants more than 400,000,000 cubic feet of natural gas are going up into the air daily, or twice as much gas as both St. Louis and St. Louis County would consume for domestic purposes in a day.

Imagine this natural wealth being thrown away to get at oil; a wealth which might be a convenience and comfort to the people, a means of purifying the very air they breathe, a means of making their cities clean and wholesome, a means of letting sunlight into the festering gloom which results from an insufficient combustion of carbon. If one company is wasting 700,000,000 cubic feet of natural gas per day, as the Bureau of Mines says it is, how many years of comfort and convenience, of health, of light where there is no light, of value where there is no value, might be possible, save for the appalling folly of having this treasure thrown away by many companies!

The inquiry at the City Hall will be resumed next week. It serves the purpose of bringing into the open a matter which the people of St. Louis should know all about. The committee will, of course, hear everybody. It has no prejudice against any smokeless fuel. It seeks only the way out of this Black Hole of Calcutta in which we live. That is what we all seek. More power to the investigation.

AN ENGLISH VIEW OF HUEY LONG.

How Huey Long's fame is spreading is shown by an editorial in the Manchester Guardian entitled "The Kingfish." The English newspaper ridicules the Square Deal Association's revolt against Long, and continues:

> The man is not a mere mouthing demagogue. He has executive capacity. The archaic machine of State Government has been reorganized during his regime; he has built good roads; he ran a remarkable campaign to stamp out illiteracy; in pursuance of his slogan, the equalization of incomes, he has shifted the main burden of taxation from the poor to the rich. He has triumphed in Louisiana not merely by his methods of political campaigning, but because his opponents have had nothing to offer as an alternative.

Considering that thousands of American citizens have not yet waked up to the growing importance of Long as a national political factor, and insist on regarding him as a mere buffoon, this editorial, written thousands of miles away, across the Atlantic, has an added significance.

ON THE ITALO-ETHIOPIAN FRONT.

The conflict between Italy and Ethiopia has consisted, thus far, of border clashes, mobilization and repartee. Each side accused the other of responsibility for the border clashes. Italy's mobilization of 250,000 men was met by Ethiopia's boast of 1,000,000 soldiers available to fight for their country. The Ethiopian defiance, in fact, is more worthy of the ancient Roman tradition than Italy's announcement of readiness to spend $850,000,000 in a two-year military campaign.

Says Ethiopia: "We will not attack, but we will defend ourselves. We will pay no indemnity. We expect no allies, and will need none." For this audacious frankness, she is rebuked by France and England. The spectacle of a "backward" country defying a major European Power is disturbing to other bearers of "the white man's burden."

Italian repartee is voiced by a familiar, though shadowy, figure, the "official spokesman." About the enemy's explanation of the affair at Afdub, he shot back: "The Ethiopians said they could not have attacked Afdub because the Italians had already evacuated it, but that they did not enter. How, therefore, could they have known the Italians had evacuated it?"

Latin forensic talent is not at its best in that effort. Modern war differs from the pre-Machine Age model, but it still has outposts, patrols, spies and reconnoitering parties.

PLYING THE PARTY LASH.

Senator McReynolds of Jasper County is getting a taste of the party lash. He offended the Democratic rulers of the Senate the other day by opposing the thoroughly bad Quinn bill. This bill would put all the departments of the State Government, excepting that of the public schools, on a partisan basis, by requiring employes to register politically—either as Democrats or Republicans, or whatever affiliation they professed. Mr. McReynolds tried to purge the measure by striking the word politics from it. His proposed amendments were scowlingly rejected. Take politics out of the Quinn bill and there's nothing left but a carcass.

Now, it happened that Senator McReynolds had previously introduced a bill to provide decently adequate medical attention for the patients in the State hospitals. No objection had been offered when the bill was perfected and placed on the informal calendar, with a statement from its author that he would call it up in ample time for action by the House. But objections poured in when he offered his hospital bill for passage. The Old Guard was alertly on the job. The omnipresent Casey was there with an amendment. Senator Kinney deplored the additional cost that would be imposed on the always available taxpayer. Senator Brogan gravely approved the Casey amendment. Other voices regretfully intoned their fears. McReynolds was taken for a parliamentary ride by skillful, experienced legislators who know how to punish party insubordination with a solemn, righteous air.

True, the cost of the McReynolds proposal is inconsequential, being only $25,000. Its necessity was impressively presented. Medically, our State institutions are seriously understaffed. Comparative figures from neighboring states were cited. But what are facts as against the enterprise of party patronage? As for the unfortunate wards in public institutions—well, a Senator concerned for their proper treatment must first learn to play the game of spoils politics.

That is the moral of Mr. McReynolds' experience in Jefferson City. It is a typical instance. The Senator from Jasper is trying to serve the people. His opposition to the vicious Quinn bill may be offered in evidence. His hospital bill, now held up in reprisal by the senatorial board of control, is an admirable measure written out of the author's personal knowledge of conditions.

But such is the tyranny of the Casey-Kinney-Brogan rule of the Senate that it brooks no opposition. At the least sign of opposition from Senators who are not members of the inner clique, out comes the party lash. Only once during recent years has the Casey-Kinney-Brogan group been successfully challenged, and that was by Russell Dearmont and his following. The time is over-ripe for another revolt against the triumvirate.

THE HAUPTMANN VERDICT.

We imagine that the public feels a great sense of relief at the conclusion of the Hauptmann trial. It had people on edge. The publicity it received was beyond all precedent in the reporting of trials; that was natural, in view of the high place of the Lindberghs in the affections of the people, and the atrocious nature of the crime of which they were victims. They stood in the public mind as the symbol of the American home, menaced by the terrible forces loosed by modern crime.

In the public's attitude as it followed the trial day by day, there was far less than the usual amount of misplaced sympathy for the defense. The people were thinking in this case, primarily, of the victims of the crime.

Nor do we believe, notwithstanding unseemly demonstrations at the scene of the trial, that the people were moved by the blood lust that actuates a vengeful mob. There was the hope, the sober and prayerful hope, that the evidence in the case would be so convincing, on one side or the other, as to lead the jury to a verdict beyond the challenge of any reasonable doubt.

We believe that the State did present such evidence and that the verdict of the jury finding the defendant guilty, without recommendation of mercy, is upheld in the court of public opinion.

PROGRESS ON PERMANENT REGISTRATION.

Following Mayor Dickmann's announcement that he is in favor of the principle of permanent registration, Chairman Waechter of the Election Board declared he was drafting a bill for that purpose to submit to the Legislature. The Walsh bill, sponsored by the League of Women Voters and the Young Men's Division of the Chamber of Commerce, is now before the Legislature. However, Mr. Waechter, along with Chairman Hannegan of the Democratic City Committee and Miss Emma Bobb, former chairman of the Election Board, claims it is open to numerous objections.

As we have said before, we are not wedded to the Walsh bill and do not question the sincerity of Mr. Waechter and the others in their disagreement with certain of its provisions. It does not matter who writes a permanent registration bill, so long as it conforms to certain standards set up in other states, and, as a matter of fact, it is possibly preferable that those charged with its administration should draw it up. That places responsibility where it belongs, as well as deepening it.

We believe that any bill worthy of commanding the support of citizens, however, will contain strong safeguards against fraud, and that first among these safeguards should be the signature requirement. That means that voters who go to the polls must write their names and that election officials must compare the handwriting with that on the registration card, filled out previously. This is a common feature of permanent registration laws elsewhere and has proved highly successful in identifying voters.

We welcome Mayor Dickmann and Chairman Waechter into a field of election reform that has long been neglected, and await with interest the Election Board's bill.

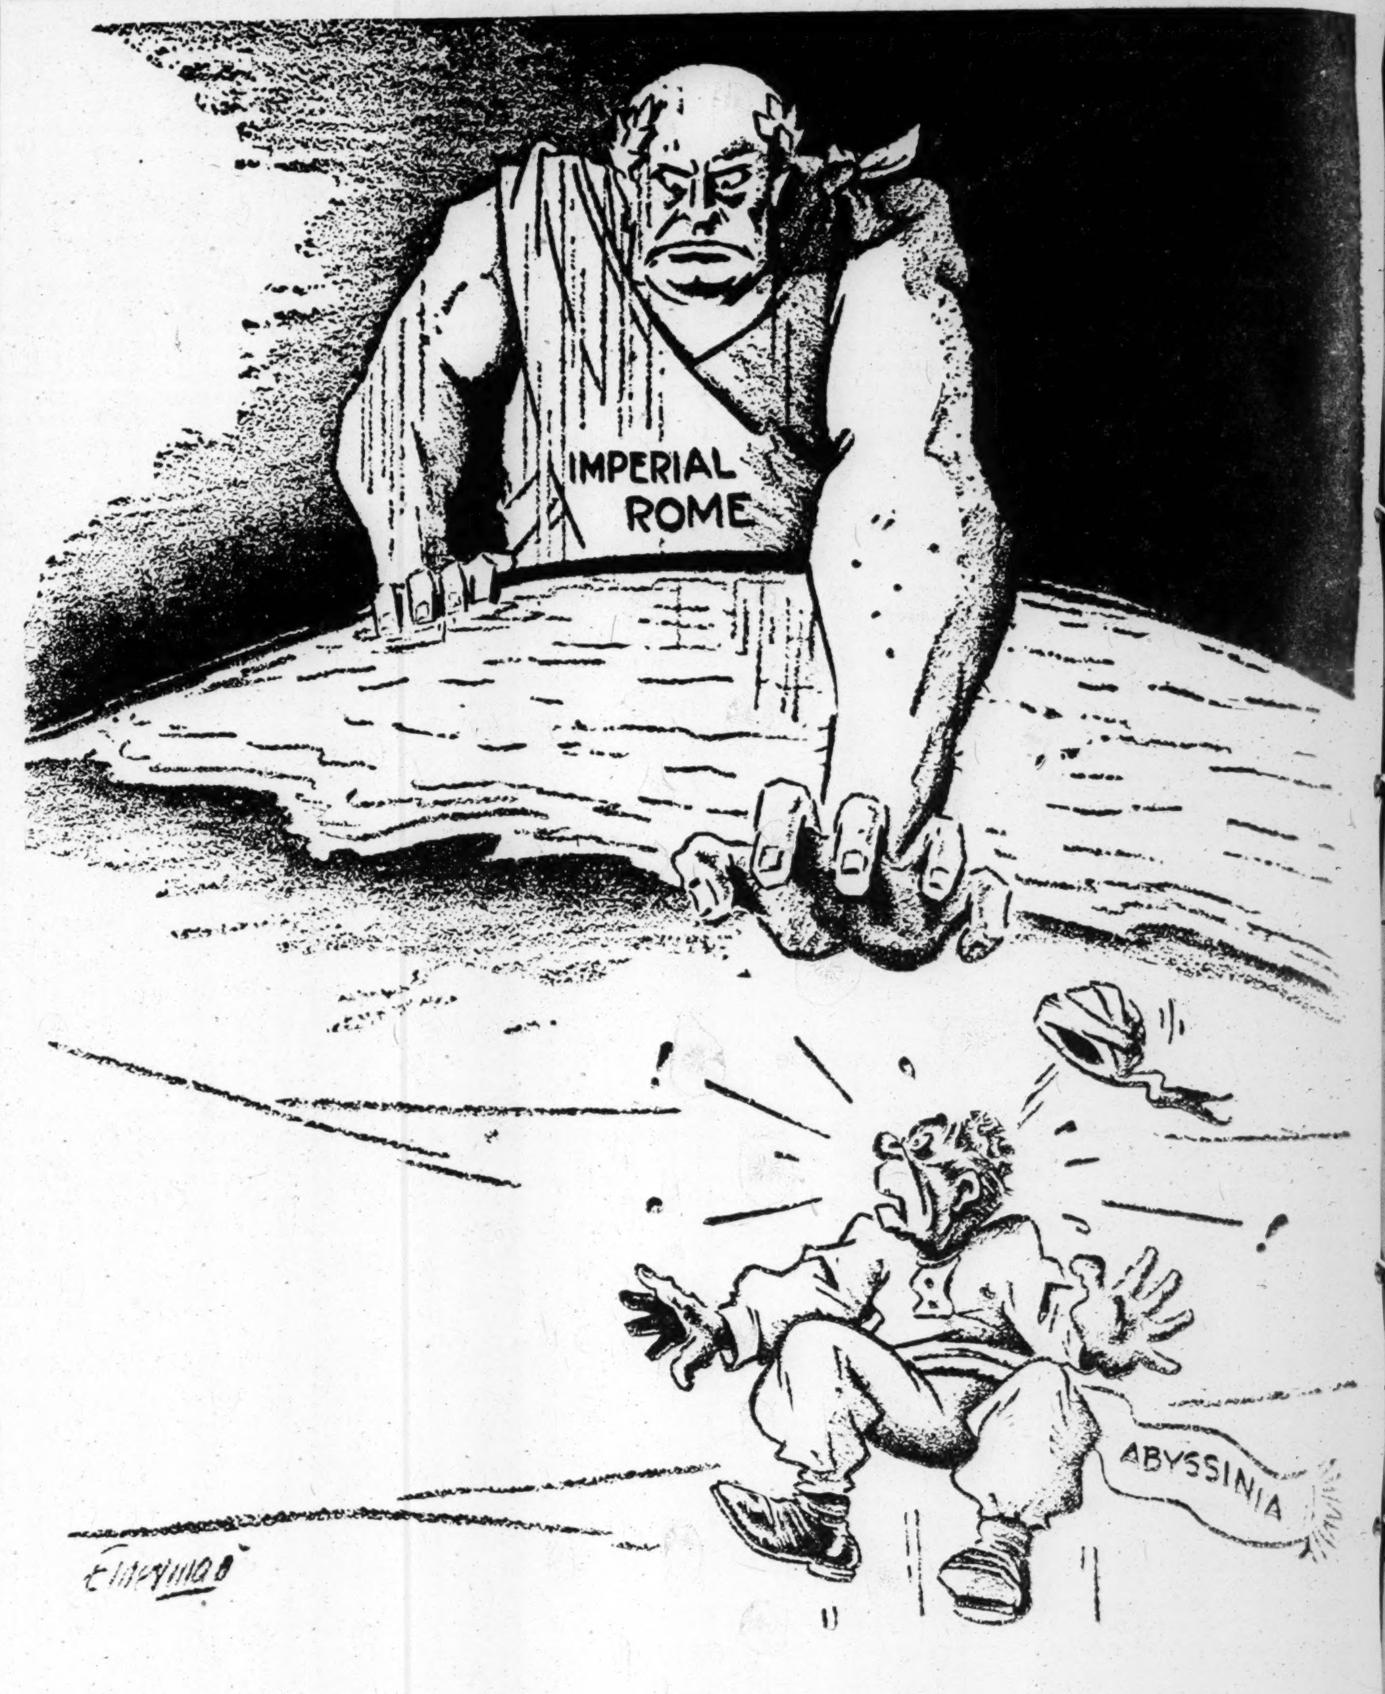
The famous crooner case is ended, in which the presiding Judge exhibited no trace of the judicial temperament.



GREAT CAESAR'S GHOST!

—From the Washington Post.

TODAY AND TOMORROW

By Walter Lippmann

Zig-Zag Between Right and Left

THE latest bulletin from the front is that Mr. Roosevelt has taken "a turn to the right." Before long, there will be another bulletin saying he has turned to the left. For I have a strong suspicion that Mr. Roosevelt will continue to use all his political gifts to continue on this zig-zag course.

Though it is disconcerting to those who want to nail fast the rudder and drive ahead, Mr. Roosevelt is no mean navigator and he knows that in the teeth of the wind and amidst hidden rocks, the good sailor moves most safely if he can tack and turn.

As a matter of historical experience, it is clear that a responsible and effective statesman can rarely be classified as all conservative or all radical. George Washington led an armed revolution against the established order and then helped to make a Constitution which has conserved the results of that revolution. The Tory party in Great Britain introduced political democracy into the British Constitution. Bismarck established social insurance in Germany. Theodore Roosevelt brought the railroads under regulation, and Woodrow Wilson, aided and abetted by William Jennings Bryan, presided over the making of the Federal Reserve System, which is now regarded by many conservatives as sacrosanct.

It is all very confusing to those who would like their politics neat and simple, black or white, right or left. But human affairs are more complicated than human formulae and, therefore, especially bewildering to those who are so conservative that, as someone has said, they will not look at the new moon out of respect for the old, and to those who are so radical that, as George Santayana once said, they redouble their efforts when they have forgotten their aim.

One useful clew to what is going on in Washington behind all these "turns," now to right and now to left, is to realize that all kinds of pressure groups have converged upon the President and his lieutenants. If they happen to be composed of trade unionists or farmers or debtors or unemployed, their demands are classified as of the left. If they happen to be business men or bankers, their demands are described as of the right. But when a responsible legislator or administrator begins to examine these demands in their concrete detail, he soon discovers that this classification is more often than not quite meaningless.

Take, for example, the demand of Mr. Green and the A. F. of L. leaders that the "prevailing wage" shall be paid on public works in order to safeguard existing wages in the construction industries. Mr. Green would rather have a man earn a very small income by his working a few hours at a high rate than have him earn a larger income by working at a lower rate.

Take next the case of the old-line steel companies under NRA. They have tried to keep up their unit prices just as the A. F. of L. has tried to keep up its hourly wage rates, because, like the old-time unionists, they prefer to sell a small volume of goods at a high price to selling a larger volume at a lower price.

Now, if the administration resists Mr. Green's monopolistic theory of wages, it is promptly called conservative. If it resists the Steel Corporation's monopolistic theory of prices, it is called radical. But almost certainly the truth of the matter is that if the administration accepted the rigid wages of labor and the rigid prices of business men, it would make unemployment and depression rigid, too. This would drive it either to inflation, which is an indirect way of breaking down rigid wages and rigid prices, or to state socialism, which is a way of regulating rigidity.

Under inflation, Mr. Green and the Steel Corporation would find that their wage and price structures had been reduced, though the dollar return was the same. Under state socialism, they would find that the monopolies they have created were being administered not by them but by the Government.

Thus an administration which opposed monopolistic wages and monopolistic prices would appear to be conservative when it was dealing with wages and radical when it was dealing with prices. That is, as a matter of fact, the present tendency.

A year and a half ago, the New Deal was approving monopolies for labor and for business men under the NRA, and when it was doing that, the conservatives cried out that it was owned by labor and the radicals cried out that it had sold out to big business.

There has been a fundamental change in policy. But it is not a change from left to right. It is a change from acquiescence in monopoly to resistance against monopoly. It is a change of national policy, brought about by the discovery through practical experience that the early theories of the New Deal led either to inflation or to socialism, whereas the country and the administration want neither.

Another point to bear in mind amidst all the rumors about the rise and fall of radical or conservative members of the administration is that it requires one state of mind to grow indignant and to agitate about a social evil, another state of mind to invent a legislative remedy, and still another state of mind to administer the remedy so that the reform sticks and works. A few men, but very few, can agitate, legislate and administer; most men are good at one stage in a reform and not at another. And, therefore, a President who is interested in reforms that endure because they work is bound to use different men at different times.

To the men themselves, except those who have some philosophy, this raising of officials to prominence and then reducing them to relative obscurity usually looks like ingratitude, the betrayal of the cause, surrender to the enemy and what not.

A very good illustration is to be found in the Securities and Exchange Commission under the rule of Joseph P. Kennedy. When the abuses of the security markets were being exposed, Mr. Kennedy took no part in the exposure, and presumably little would have been done about them if it had depended upon him. Nor is it likely that he would have taken a leading part in the drafting of the legislation.

But once the laws had been enacted the men who had the courage and the ardor to write them were far from fitted to administer them. They had fought a victorious war, and, like so many warriors, they did not make peace. Then came Mr. Kennedy, as suspect by the warriors as a pacifist by triumphant Generals, and in a short time, by sheer political and administrative wisdom, he made the new financial system a practicable reality and then insured its survival.

He illustrated very well the remark of F. S. Oliver that revolutions can be successful only if at just the right moment politicians take charge. For it is the politician, using the word in its favorable sense, who knows human nature as it is in normal times and is not so fanatical about principles that he cannot bend them to human nature.

Perils of Forced Arbitration

From the New York Post.

A FEW weeks ago, it was reported, on the authority of unnamed persons in Washington, that labor advisers of the President had suggested application of the terms of the Railway Labor Act to all of industry. This act provides for compulsory arbitration of grievances and for compulsory mediation of wage and hour disputes.

Now the Washington correspondent of the New York Journal of Commerce declares that an administration bill has been put into private circulation which calls for establishment of compulsory arbitration for all of industry. A new National Labor Board would be established, given power to intervene in any labor disputes. Its decisions would be "valid and irrevocable other than by court action."

Thus the right to strike would be taken away from labor as it has been in Italy, Austria and Germany. That the administration would support such a move is incredible, and the Post hopes that the White House will publicly dissociate itself from any such policy. Legislation of this character would be wholly alien to American tradition.

No one denies the waste, for both capital and labor, involved in strikes. Industrial peace would be to the benefit of both sides. Voluntary settlement of disputes is almost always beneficial, even if it involves sacrifices on both sides. But peaceful dealings rest upon equality of strength, and to deprive labor of its only weapon—the right to strike—would leave it helpless to deal on equal grounds with capital.

The promise of the New Deal was the promise of a better distribution of the national income. A larger share for labor means more stable purchasing power, more stable business, a more stable society.

Labor cannot win that larger share of the profits of industry if it has no weapon of last resort to force consideration of its demands. It cannot depend on the Government to win its battles.

Compulsory arbitration might transform a free nation into something the Founding Fathers would shudder to behold.

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.

NOTHING in the Nation's Capital is more pitiful these days than the long and dolorous face of Henry Wallace.

He is going around telling all his friends how much he regretted the "purging" of the AAA, what stanch support he had from the liberals he was forced to put on the street.

Undoubtedly this is true.

And this brings out a certain fundamental but interesting difference between Wallace and Big Jim Farley, his direct opposite in the Cabinet.

Jim will fight for a man to the last ditch, provided he has contributed to the cause of Democracy. He never wavers. You can always be absolutely certain where he stands.

Wallace, on the other hand, has a fine and idealistic conception of fitness for public office, has picked an above-average group of men to run his department.

But under pressure he will surrender.

One explanation of Henry Wallace these days may be the secret which some of his best friends are whispering regarding him—that he cherishes presidential ambitions.

Wallace is young, could wait until Roosevelt filled another term, then be just about ripe for the White House.

And the Federal Council of Churches, realizing this, has sent him a letter urging that he groom himself for the "succession."

RFC Loan.

HERE are the highlights of a bona fide application from a wholesale grocer in Danville, Ky., for a loan from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation:

"History of my Cash Wholesale Grocery Business. Established June [illegible] 1932." We done a business of $600,000 a year. The market crashed in 1929 and I never recovered financially.

"I married into a Prominent Family of Kentucky people. I work hard every day I have no bad habits strictly all Business all the Time. I never bet on horse races. Never attended one in my entire life. I live with my mother-in-law in Danville.

"Danville is the Greatest Little City in Kentucky has Two Million Dollars worth of Paved Streets. Thousands of Railroad People live here. Cattle sheep and hogs to Day are Living off Blue Grass fields that Blue Grass is a foot high. My father sold a Lot here for Two Hundred and Fifty Dollars per foot.

"No banker here was ever sent to Prison. . . . My wife is heir to $50,000. I have a son who is a government radio wizard.

"We are firm believers in the NRA Greatest thing since God was here on earth."

Rewarded.

WHEN the President gave Alabama's veteran Representative John McDuffie a life-job appointment on the Federal bench recently the news received scant public notice.

But there is an interesting story behind the reward.

In the historic special session of 1933, one of the major measures sponsored by the President was the economy bill that slashed hundreds of millions from Government payrolls and veterans' allowances.

Speaker Joe Byrns, then majority floor leader, was asked to take charge of the measure in the House.

But he demurred.

The bill was political dynamite. And although, as administration spokesman, it was Byrns' job to handle it, he shied away.

In this dilemma McDuffie came to the President's rescue.

Taking his political life in his hands, he accepted formal responsibility for the bill, did a masterful job in ramming it through the House.

The President was deeply grateful and when a Federal Judgeship became vacant in McDuffie's district he offered him the choice plum in appreciative remembrance of his loyal service "under fire."

Career Censorship.

THERE is no brotherhood like that of career diplomats. It makes no difference what the administration in power—Republican or Democratic—they stick together.

Not long ago, Sumner Welles, Assistant Secretary of State, but not a career man, was scheduled to deliver an address in Atlanta. Shortly before the date of delivery he was taken ill and his speech had to be given by a substitute.

But before delivery, what he had to say underwent a surgical operation. It contained some references to past State Department policies which career diplomats thought reflected on their ex-colleague, Francis White, former Assistant Secretary of State.

So they cut them out.

Roper-Conscious.

YOU will soon be hearing more about "Uncle Dan" Roper. He has taken steps to see that you do.

Long distressed over the inconspicuous role he filled in the public eye, the ambitious little Secretary of Commerce finally decided to remedy the situation.

So he has employed Harry R. Daniel, one-time newspaper man and more recently high pressure publicity wangler, to make the public Roper-conscious.

Daniel has the title of "publicity co-ordinator." But his real job is to publicize Roper.

According to inside Commerce Department reports, it is to be a far-flung campaign, with the press, radio, movies and lecture platform rallied to the cause.

Merry-Go-Round.

CHAIRMAN FRANCIS BIDDLE, of the National Labor Relations Board, and Lloyd Garrison, his predecessor, have launched a vigorous campaign to build up public sentiment for Congressional enactment of the Wagner labor disputes bill, which the White House scuttled last year. In an article in "Survey Graphic," Garrison, now dean of the Wisconsin University law school, bitterly assails company unions, demands a law banning them. Biddle, in a recent speech in Cincinnati, declared that enforcement of section 7A "has broken down," and called for the enactment of new measures to safeguard the right of workers to bargain collectively. . . . Financed by a PWA grant of $570,000, Government forestry agents have begun a determined fight to eradicate the Dutch elm disease from the Northeastern section of the country. All trees infected with the blight will be cut down and destroyed. . . . Mrs. Caroline O'Day, New York's Democratic Congresswoman-at-Large and close friend of Mrs. Roosevelt, says that she is not interested in "society," but does believe that "our most intelligent and 'best' people should have more representation in Government."

RECIPES FOR NEXT WEEK

Baked Oysters.

Use individual large scallop shells, oyster shells or a shallow baking dish. For six portions, three dozen large oysters will be needed. Drain the oysters and look them over carefully to remove any bits of shell. Cut eight slices bacon in small squares and fry them until crisp and brown. Remove the bacon from the pan, add to the fat three tablespoons minced green pepper and one teaspoon minced onion. Cook slowly for three to five minutes, but do not brown. Divide the bacon, peppers and onions evenly between the six shells or baking dishes, arrange the oysters on top and pour two tablespoons thin cream over each portion. Sprinkle lightly with salt, pepper and very fine dry bread crumbs. Bake in a hot oven 10 minutes or until the oysters are plump and the edges curled. Serve immediately in the shells.

Pear and Watercress Salad.

Use halves of canned pear, or the ripe winter pears. If the fresh pears are used, chill them, peel, cut in half and place on a plate with the rounded side up. Coat each half with a layer of mayonnaise thinned slightly with thin cream and seasoned with a little sherry and a few grains of sugar. Just before serving place the pears on lettuce, cut each piece of pear across in slices without separating them and arrange sprigs of crisp watercress between the slices. Canned pears should also be chilled but may be spread with the dressing any time. The fresh fruit discolors on exposure to the air and must be covered with the dressing to prevent this.

Colonial Custard.

Scald one quart of milk. Mix two-thirds cup granulated sugar with two teaspoons cornstarch and one-fourth teaspoon salt. Add four eggs and beat to a thick light cream. Pour the hot milk slowly onto the eggs, stiring constantly. Return to the saucepan and stir over a slow fire until the custard is thickened to the consistency of thick cream. Remove at once from the fire and let cool. When almost cold add rum or sherry flavoring or one-third cup of either rum or sherry. Crumble a small square sponge cake into a serving dish large enough to hold the custard also. Melt one glass of currant or raspberry jelly in two tablespoons hot water and pour over the cake. Sprinkle with chopped almonds and then pour the custard over it. Chill for several hours and serve garnished with whipped cream and chopped candied or maraschino cherries. Serve six.

Sponge Cake.

Beat the yolks of six eggs until very light. Then gradually add one cup fine granulated sugar and continue beating for five minutes. Stir in one teaspoon grated lemon peel, two tablespoons lemon juice and two tablespoons cold water. Sift one cup flour with one teaspoon baking powder and one-fourth teaspoon salt. Sift again and stir into the egg yolk mixture. Beat the whites of six eggs until stiff enough to hold their shape and fold them thoroughly and lightly into the cake. Pour into a large, very lightly greased angel cake pan and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 50 minutes. Reduce the heat the last 15 minutes of cooking if necessary. When done, remove from the oven, invert the pan and let stand until cold before attempting to remove the cake.

Corn Fritters.

Mix one and one-half cups canned whole kernel (shoe-peg) corn with one cup milk, one teaspoon sugar and one teaspoon salt. Add pepper to season. Mix one and one-half cups flour with two teaspoons baking powder. Beat two eggs until light. Add the eggs to the corn mixture then stir in the sifted flour. Beat to mix and fry in a hot frying pan one-third full of hot fat. Drop the fritters from a tablespoon into the hot fat, cook until brown on one side then turn them. When done, drain on soft paper and serve hot with bacon or with syrup or gravy. Serves six.

BROILING REQUIRES SIMPLE PROCEDURE AND CAREFUL TIMING FOR SUCCESS

Connoisseurs tell us that broiled foods are more easily digested than fried foods since very little grease has actual contact with the food. Besides the digestible part of it broiled steaks and chops, crisp and brown on the outside and oozing juices, are much more appetizing than those that are fried. The first requisite for good broiling is a hot flame. This seals in the juices that really make the steak or chop delicious. The meat should be turned every 10 seconds for the first minute of cooking and less frequently later.

With this approximate time table broiling becomes quite simple. Rare beef steak one to two inches thick should broil for 15 minutes. Medium to well done requires 20 to 25 minutes.

Rib lamb chops one to two inches thick require 10 to 12 minutes; loin lamb chops must broil for at least 12 minutes.

Rib veal chops should broil 15 minutes if they are cut medium. A half inch thick veal cutlet requires 15 minutes.

A slice of ham one-half inch thick should cook 20 to 25 minutes.

Chicken requires from 20 to 30 minutes under the flame.

Seasoning with salt and pepper should be reserved until the meat is almost done. The steak or chops should be removed to a hot platter, the meat juice poured over it and a garnish of crisp parsley or water cress should not be omitted.

PEPPERMINT FROSTING TOPS PLAIN OR DARK RICH CAKE

Even the simplest one egg cake need not be downcast when it can flaunt a fancy icing. And when that icing is pink and carries the pleasant bite of peppermint the cook too can hold up her head. The recipe given below combines especially well with a chocolate cake and the flavor is an excellent foil for its rich sweetness.

Pink Peppermint Frosting.

Two egg whites, unbeaten.
One and one-half cups sugar.
One-third cup cold water.
One tablespoon light syrup.
Ten drops oil of peppermint.
Pink coloring.

Put all the ingredients except the flavoring and coloring in the top part of a double boiler. Beat with a rotary egg beater until thoroughly mixed. Place over boiling water and add a bit of coloring to make a delicate pink. Beat steadily with the rotary beater until the frosting will stand in peaks or about seven minutes. Remove from the fire, add flavoring and continue to beat until thick enough to spread.

PUKKAH SAHIBS LIKE THIS ANGLO-INDIAN DISH

A DISH for pukkah sahibs, or whatever it is the Anglo Indians call the men of the family, should not be overlooked in American households. The English who adopted curry powder along with East Indian patois showed very good taste. There is nothing like it to give meat a certain amount of tang.

Curried Beef.

Put two tablespoons butter in saucepan, add two small onions sliced, and let fry until light brown. Add one and one-half tablespoons curry powder and mix well. Cut two pounds of beef into small squares and put with the onions and seasoning and add one-third pint of milk. Simmer for half an hour. Serve with a little lemon juice and boiled rice.

DEVILED SCRAMBLED EGGS

Four eggs.
Two tablespoons butter.
One cup shredded dried beef.
One teaspoon prepared mustard.
One tablespoon vinegar.
Cayenne.

Melt the butter. Add beef and seasonings. Add eggs slightly beaten and cook slowly two minutes until the eggs are set. Serve at once.

A LITTLE CHAT ABOUT NEXT WEEK'S MENUS

Use of Low Cost Meat Cuts Helps Reduce Meat Bill for the Week.

Sliced oranges make a good change from orange juice and on Sunday mornings there is usually more time to prepare the breakfast fruit than during the week. Peel the oranges, selecting firm, large ones. Remove the white rind down to the pulp, then cut across in thin slices, allowing one or more oranges to each portion. If the fruit is tart, sweeten slightly with powdered sugar or honey, and be sure the oranges are well chilled before serving.

Roast veal is the choice for Sunday, a cut of loin, rump or shoulder weighing about five pounds for a family of four to six. If you have it boned, be sure to use the bones for soup stock. The roast may be cooked in the oven or pot-roasted, but whichever method is used, be sure to cook it slowly, allowing about 25 minutes per pound. If oven roasted, baste frequently with the drippings that form in the pan.

Veal Croquettes for Monday.

Veal croquettes made from leftover veal form the meat course for Monday dinner. Put the meat through the meat chopper or cut it in small dice. There should be about two cups of the chopped or three cups of diced meat. Season the meat with salt, pepper, one-half teaspoon grated lemon rind, two tablespoons minced parsley, one teaspoon minced onion and one-half teaspoon Worcestershire sauce. Make two cups white sauce from four tablespoons butter, one-third cup flour and two cups milk. When thick and boiling, add the seasoned meat and spread out to cool on a platter. When cold, shape into croquettes, roll in beaten egg diluted with one teaspoon cold water, and then in very fine, dry breadcrumbs to completely cover the croquettes. Fry in deep hot fat or bake in a very hot oven. Croquettes should be crisp and brown on the outside and moist and creamy within.

Lamb Cut Inexpensive.

Breast of lamb makes the casserole mixture for Tuesday's dinner. Buy four or four and one-half pounds for six servings and have the meat cut in medium sized pieces. Sprinkle them with salt, pepper and flour and brown in a frying pan with a little hot fat. Place the browned meat in a deep baking dish, or casserole, with a dozen small white onions, a shredded green pepper, one cup diced carrots, one cup diced white or yellow turnips and one-half cup sliced celery. Add one cup boiling water, sprinkle with one teaspoon salt, cover closely and bake in a slow oven for two or three hours. The oven temperature should be about 325 degrees. Before serving, one cup canned peas or one cup sliced mushrooms may be added. Thicken the gravy with one tablespoon flour mixed with cold water and serve the meat and vegetables from the dish in which they are cooked.

Another inexpensive meat dish is the short ribs of beef served on Saturday. Make allowance for the large amount of bone in buying these, and buy about four or five pounds for a family of six. Have the short ribs cracked and cut in pieces for serving. Sprinkle with salt, pepper and flour and brown quickly in a little hot fat in a frying pan. Place in a deep sauce pan and add water to about half cover, two tablespoons vinegar, two large onions, one teaspoon Worcestershire sauce and four tablespoons tomato catsup. Cover closely and cook very slowly for two to three hours, or until the meat is very tender. Thicken the gravy and serve the meat with boiled noodles or mashed potatoes and grated horseradish or mustard pickles.

NEW BEAN SOUP WILL WORK MIRACLES WITH A MENU

Since winter time is bean soup time it may just as well be lima bean soup time for a welcome change. A cream soup of this kind may get your nicest luncheon off to a proper start or it may put your family in the dress-for-dinner mood.

Cream of Lima Bean Soup.

One and one-half cups cooked lima beans
One tablespoon finely minced parsley.
One cup milk or cream
Three tablespoons butter
One tablespoon flour
One teaspoon salt
One-fourth teaspoon pepper
One small onion sliced thin

Put beans through a coarse sieve or ricer. Melt the butter in a saucepan, add the onion and cook for five minutes. Remove onion and add flour to the remaining butter. Stir until smooth, add salt, pepper, milk or cream and bean puree. Bring to boiling point. Serve hot in bouillon cups and just before serving top with a little island of whipped cream and sprinkle with the finely minced parsley.

Molded Supper Salad.

Dissolve one package of lemon flavored gelatin in two cups of boiling water. Add two tablespoons of vinegar, one teaspoon salt. Let it cool until it begins to thicken. Then fold in one cup chopped celery, one cup shredded cabbage, one-half cup of grated carrot and chopped green pepper. Turn into a mold. Serve on crisp lettuce.

APPLES MAKE MODERATELY PRICED FOUNDATION FOR MANY DISHES

Apples are a relatively cheap winter fruit and their uses are many. When combining them raw with other foods, keep in mind that their firm texture makes them best with celery, nuts, pineapple, cabbage, grapefruit, etc. Cooked, they combine best with tapioca, rice, bread, custard, pastry mixtures. They may be used in muffins, in gingerbread, in fritters and croquettes, as a filling for omelets or a spread for pancakes. Fried apples and bacon make a whole-meal sandwich when placed between slices of white or wholewheat bread.

Apple Rye Bread Pudding.

Run stale rye bread through the meat chopper (drying the slices in the oven if necessary to make them dry enough) to make two cupfuls. Mix them with one-half cup melted butter and press in the bottom and around the sides of a baking dish. Fill with chopped raw apples, one-half cup seeded raisins, two tablespoons chopped walnuts, sugar to sweeten and the grated rind and juice of one lemon. Cover the top with more crumbs and bake in a moderate oven for 45 minutes, having the pan covered the first 25 minutes. Serve warm with hard sauce.

Apple Sauce De Luxe.

Mix four cups slightly sweetened, strained apple sauce with one cup crushed, drained canned pineapple and two tablespoons finely chopped preserved ginger. Chill and serve with sponge cake for dessert, or pour over cold boiled rice and serve for dessert.

ECONOMY PUDDING

One cupful of fine dry bread crumbs.
One cupful of milk.
One cupful of sugar.
One-fourth cupful of shortening.
Two tablespoonfuls of molasses.
One-half cupful of flour.
One teaspoonful of cinnamon.
One-half teaspoonful of cloves.
One-half teaspoonful of allspice.
One teaspoonful of soda.
One-half cupful of nuts.

Soak the bread in the milk. Cream sugar and shortening together, add molasses, then flour which has been sifted with spices and soda. Add the softened bread crumbs and mix. Add nuts last and stir in thoroughly. Bake 45 minutes in a slow oven (325 degrees). Serve cold with whipped cream.

Chopped mushrooms sauted in a little butter with a tiny bit of minced onion, then mixed with salad dressing and spread on small rounds of toast make a fine appetizer to serve with tomato juice cocktails.

USE COLONIAL DISHES FOR FESTIVE SUPPER

For Washington's birthday celebration what is better than a Colonial supper or dinner (the evening meal was always "supper" in Colonial days) made up of some old-time southern foods? George Washington was noted for his hospitality and open house was always kept at Mount Vernon. Although Washington once wrote: "My manner of life is plain and I do not mean to be put out of it. A glass of wine a bit of mutton are always ready and such as will be content to partake of them are always welcome. Those who expect more will be disappointed," Martha Washington's cookbook which is in the possession of the Pennsylvania Historical Society, proves that much more than the "bit of mutton" was provided for such guests!

Most Dishes Adaptable.

Time or labor meant nothing to the colored cook of Washington's time, as is evidenced by reading some of these old-fashioned recipes. The quantities of foods used are also amazing until we stop to consider the number of people who were sometimes on hand and the prodigious appetites of the day! However, there are some of the recipes that may be readily adapted, without changing their flavor or appearance, to present day customs. A menu such as used below might well have been found at Mount Vernon or any of the other Colonial estates.

Oysters were a favorite food and the waters of Chesapeake Bay provided a goodly supply for Virginian tables. Oysters then must be on our menu; chicken of course in some form; corn was one of the few vegetables available in the winter months for it could be dried and then freshened and stewed. Salads were practically unknown, but relishes and pickles and jellies were used liberally. Custards in various forms always appeared, and some kind of hot bread, usually biscuits, Sally Lunn, hoecakes or cornbread.

Washington Birthday Supper.

Oyster Stew or Baked Oysters
Virginia Chicken Pudding
with Gravy
Stewed Corn Celery Jelly Pickles
Colonial Custard or Jellied
Fruit Ring.

The recipe for baked oysters given in another column may be used in the menu, as may the Colonial Custard.

Oyster Stew for 12.

Pick over three pints of small oysters and remove any bits of shell. Drain the oysters, saving the juice. Melt one-fourth pound butter in a deep saucepan, add one teaspoon salt, one teaspoon celery salt, one teaspoon paprika, one-fourth teaspoon pepper and a dash of cayenne pepper. Let boil up, then add the oysters and let simmer, stirring occasionally, for 10 minutes. Meanwhile scald three pints rich milk. When the oysters look plump, pour in the milk, and serve at once in hot plates. If you have an old-fashioned soup tureen, now is the time to use it. Pour the stew in the hot tureen and serve at the table, ladeling it out into hot soup plates.

Virginia Chicken Pudding.

Cut up two young chickens as for frying, put in a saucepan, cover with hot water, add two teaspoons salt, an onion, parsley and two pepper corns, and boil gently for an hour, or until tender. Remove the chicken when it is tender, and cool slightly. Slip out the bones, as many as you can—it will not be possible to remove them all. Discard the necks. Put the chicken in a deep, large earthen dish. Make a batter by mixing four cups milk with four well beaten eggs and one-and one-half cups sifted flour. The batter will be very thin, but must be free from lumps. Beat with an egg beater if necessary. Pour the batter over the chicken and bake in a moderate oven for about an hour. or until the pudding is firm and well puffed. Serve as quickly as possible, with plenty of gravy made by thickening the chicken stock (obtained from boiling the chicken) with flour and seasoning it with salt, pepper, a little grated lemon rind and, if liked, a little sherry.

Stewed Corn.

Use the shoe-peg or whole kernel canned corn, allowing two No. 2 size cans for 12 servings. Drain the corn. Melt four tablespoons butter in a saucepan, put in the corn with salt and pepper to season, and add one-third cup thin cream. Stir until well heated.

SPANISH SANDWICH

Two tablespoons chopped onion.
Two tablespoons melted butter.
Three cups canned tomatoes.
One green pepper chopped.
One-half cup chopped celery.
One tablespoon flour.
Salt and pepper, chile pepper if you wish.
One-half pound sliced bacon.
Ten slices bread.
Thin slices American cheese.

Cook the onion for a few minutes in one tablespoon of the fat. Add the tomatoes, green pepper, and celery. Simmer uncovered for 15 to 20 minutes. Blend the remaining fat with the flour. Add it to the sauce with the salt and pepper. Stir until it thickens slightly. Fry the bacon until crisp. Toast the bread on both sides until golden brown. Make sandwiches of the bread and bacon and lay thin slices of cheese on top. Pour over the sandwiches the hot tomato sauce.

SAVORY SAUSAGES MAKE AN EXCELLENT SUPPER DISH

Sausages for Sunday morning breakfast is the good word with some housewives. They overlook the fact that sausages in combination with a vegetable make an excellent, quickly prepared supper dish.

Savory Sausages.

One pound small sausages.
One-fourth cup diced celery.
Four tablespoons ketchup.
One tablespoon hot water.
Salt and pepper to taste.
Creamed potatoes.
Minced parsley.

Prick the sausages and fry slowly until done. Remove to a hot platter and pour off all the fat from the pan except two tablespoons. Cook the diced celery in this, stirring well to keep from burning. Add ketchup, seasoning and hot water to make a sauce. Pour over the sausages and surround with creamed potatoes. Sprinkle parsley lightly over the top and serve piping hot. Buttered onions and deep dish apple pie complete the menu.

EASTERN DISHES ADD TO SUPPER PARTIES

Smart Hostess Who Likes the New and Different Can Make These in Advance.

Now that ingredients from the Far East are available, the smart hostess who follows the rule of being just a bit different in her choice of food for informal suppers can serve dishes that have always been associated with places of mystery. Chop suey, not Chinese at all but concocted for American tastes they tell us, makes a delicious supper dish. It can be prepared in advance and then reheated, a thing that most busy hostesses with many last minute tasks to perform will appreciate.

If you want to carry through the Oriental touch, serve those tiny crisp noodles with the lettuce, and be sure to have a side dish of cococoanut. This is supposed to be the last word in contrasting flavors which refined palates enjoy. The macaroons can be prepared the day before and the fruit cup too can be put in the refrigerator until time for serving. Tea is the drink, served with lemon and sugar or without any trimmings as the Chinese take it.

Chicken Chop Suey

Two cups cooked chicken.
One cup diced celery.
One-half teaspoon salt.
Dash of pepper.
Two tablespoons chop suey sauce.
One can chop suey vegetables.
One tablespoon bead molasses.
Two small onions sliced, or mushrooms cut thin.

Cook celery, onions and mushrooms in a skillet in lard or butter until tender, taking care that they do not burn. Add cooked chicken and vegetables and stir all together. In another saucepan thicken one cup meat stock or water with one tablespoon flour or cornstarch, add molasses, seasonings and sauce and pour over the chicken mixture. Heat thoroughly, adding a little more stock if the mixture looks too dry.

Fruit Cup.

Three large oranges peeled and diced.
Two cups pineapple, diced.
Three bananas, diced.
One cup thinly sliced water chestnuts, toasted, shredded cocoanut for garnishing.

Mix the diced fruits and sprinkle with the juice of half a lemon. Add water chestnuts and chill thoroughly. Sprinkle with toasted cocoanut just before serving. Serves eight.

Oriental Macaroons.

Two egg whites, beaten stiff.
One cup sugar.
One-half cup nuts, chopped.
One can chow mein noodles.
One-half cup shredded cocoanut.

Fold the sugar into the stiffly beaten egg whites, then the nuts and last of all the noodles and cocoanut. Drop from a teaspoon on a greased cookie sheet and bake in a very slow oven for 15 or 20 minutes.

Dip marshmallows in beaten egg, then completely cover with fine dry bread crumbs and fry for one minute in deep, hot fat. Drain, place each on a slice of sauted pineapple and serve with pork, with roast duck or goose, or as a luncheon entree.

PLAIN STEW DESERVES GOOD TREATMENT

Good Combinations and Proper Cooking Make Excellence of Homely Dish.

Someone should rename the stew, that good, substantial deliciously blended dish which has a flavor combination not to be excelled by even the juiciest and tenderest roast. Somehow stew is always so plebian in name that we steer clear of it as a company dish.

Perhaps, it's because most stews are rather anemic looking concoctions carrying all the bits of leftover vegetables, rather scrappy bits of meat and always too much gravy. With a few leading suggestions, we leave you to solve the riddle of when a stew is not a stew.

Many of the least costly cuts of meat may go into a stew. Neck, breast, shoulder, flank and even the shank are tender and good flavored if properly cooked. The first requisite is to have the meat and vegetables cut in good sized individual pieces, not tiny little bits that lose all identity in cooking. If the breast cut or short ribs are purchased, ask the butcher to saw the bones into lengths of about two inches.

Brown Meat Thoroughly.

For the best meat flavor, be sure to brown the meat thoroughly before adding the water. This simple expedient does away with all chance of an insipid color in the stew. It will help both the meat and the gravy to roll the meat in flour before browning it in fat. The flour browns easily, and later cooks out into the water to form a thin gravy.

It makes no difference whether the water that is added to the browned meat is hot or cold, but which ever is used should be brought to the boiling point quickly, then the fire turned very low. And remember that if the gravy is not to be excessive, the water added must not quite cover the meat. The final secret of success is the slowness with which the stew is cooked. Even the simmer burner on your gas stove will give enough heat to keep the water hot, but not boiling. Keep the lid on tight and the fire low and you'll not need to worry about adding more water as it cooks.

Give It Individual Touch.

So much for the cooking process in general. It's the specific and individual touch that make the stew "different." A beef stew combines well in flavor with tomatoes, whole potatoes, whole carrots or onions. Some celery and sliced onion browned together before adding them to the stew take on new flavor. Sometimes tomato juice is used for part of the liquid and other whole vegetables added. Just one bay leaf and a clove does wonders for a beef stew. Both should be removed before serving the meat.

A veal stew is remarkably helped by browning small pieces of ham or salt pork with the meat. Celery, cut in one-inch lengths, wide noodles and a green pepper cut in strips makes a good combination with veal. Lamb stews are made the same way, but seem to need other vegetables. Slices of carrot, whole small onions and new peas make a perfect blend of flavor.

Chicken Stew Delicious.

Chicken is delicious when first browned in butter, then simmered slowly done with an eighth of a teaspoon of cinnamon in the gravy. Serve this with hot fluffy biscuits, dumplings, noodles, spaghetti, even cubes of toasted bread are good additions to the stew and serve to change its every-day dress.

When the stew is done and the aroma makes the whole family sit up and take notice, don't spoil the picture by pouring it into an uninteresting bowl. Put it into your best casserole, with a fluting of mashed potatoes around the edge, or arrange in a deep platter with meat in the center and vegetables over the top, and garnish with some fresh crisp celery or endive, or some crisp rings of green pepper. Pour just enough gravy over it to moisten the meat.

Veal Stew With Noodles.

Cut two pounds of breast of veal or neck of veal into pieces the size of individual servings. Flour them and brown in the fat fried from cubes of salt pork. Add cold water to cover, season, cover, and allow to simmer for two and one-half hours. Thirty minutes before the stew is served, add one cup broad noodles and one cup of celery cut in short lengths. Serve the stew with the meat in the center of the platter, surrounded by the noodles and celery, and garnish with parsley or a sprinkle of paprika.

Lamb Stew.

Cut two pounds of lean raw lamb into small pieces and roll in flour. Melt two tablespoons of butter in a skillet, add one-half cup sliced onion, cook until it turns yellow, and add the meat. When the meat and the onion have browned delicately, transfer them to a kettle, and add one quart water, after first pouring it into the skillet so as to get full benefit of the browned fat. Cover and simmer for one hour. Then add three cups diced turnip, one green pepper, chopped, and salt and pepper to taste. If the stew is not thick enough, add one tablespoon of flour mixed with two tablespoons of cold water, and cook for several minutes longer, stirring constantly. Serve piping hot with browned potatoes and garnished with parsley.

WAYS TO SERVE SPINACH INFINITE AND VARIOUS

When you have just about exhausted your ingenuity for finding different ways of serving spinach try it this way. As mushrooms are a meat substitute you can cut down the amount of meat used for the meal and the family won't miss it.

Creamed Spinach and Mushrooms.

Two cups cooked spinach.
One-third pound mushrooms.
Two tablespoons butter.
Two tablespoons flour.
Salt and pepper to taste.
One-half cup liquid from spinach.
One cup milk.

Put the butter in a skillet and add the mushrooms which have been peeled and sliced. Cook until delicately browned. Sprinkle flour over the mushrooms and blend well. Add spinach liquid and milk and seasoning, stirring and cooking until slightly thickened. Fold in spinach lightly and heat thoroughly before serving.

HONEY DATE DESSERT

Two cups of dates.
One-half cup of nutmeats.
Two eggs.
Three-fourths cup of honey.
One-half cup of flour.
One teaspoon of baking powder.
One-fourth teaspoon of salt.
One-half cup of bran.

Seed the dates and chop them finely. Cut the nutmeats fine. Beat the eggs lightly, then add the honey alternately with the flour and baking powder and salt, which have been sifted together. Add the bran, the dates, and the nutmeats. Mix the ingredients well, then bake 20 to 30 minutes in a moderate oven (325 to 350 degrees). Cut into squares or break into irregular pieces and serve with cream, whipped or plain; or roll strips of it in powdered sugar and serve as fruit sticks of the type of date bars.

Asparagus Continental.

Make sauce of three tablespoons butter and four tablespoons flour, mixed, and two cups milk. Add one-half teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon paprika, one-half cup grated cheese. Place three cups cooked asparagus in baking dish, pour over sauce and top with buttered bread crumbs. Bake 20 minutes in moderate oven. This may be served over buttered toast.

A WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY CAKE FOR ENTIRE FAMILY

It is quite possible that the original of this recipe which called for huge quantities of butter and eggs might have been put together in the kitchen at Mount Vernon. The old recipe calls for an ingredient which would disconcert most modern cooks, pearlash for leavening. The recipe has been modernized and in place of currants a mixture of currants, raisins and citron is recommended since the cake is a kind of light fruit cake.

Washington Cake.

One-half cup butter.
One cup sugar.
Two eggs.
Two and one-fourth cups flour.
Three and one-half teaspoons baking powder.
One teaspoon vanilla.
Two-thirds cup milk.
One-half teaspoon grated nutmeg.
One-half cup currants.
One-half cup raisins.
Three tablespoons chopped citron.
One-fourth teaspoon cinnamon.

Cream the butter, add sugar gradually and beat in the beaten egg yolks. Sift the dry ingredients and add to the mixture alternately with the milk and vanilla, beating well after each addition. Add floured fruit and mix thoroughly and fold in the beaten egg whites last. Bake in a greased loaf or angel cake pan for one hour and fifteen minutes in a slow (300 degrees) oven. When cool cover with a fluffy white icing and decorate with halves of maraschino cherries in honor of the occasion.

HONEY KRUSHED WHEAT BREAD PRAISED BY THANKFUL FATHER

"I have three growing children," writes J. E. Ehrhardt of Blaine Avenue, "all of whom eat your new Honey Krushed Wheat Bread at every meal. In the mornings—toasted—they prefer it to anything else. It certainly has taken a worry off my mind, for the roughage and other ingredients it contains have completely eliminated the necessity of giving them cathartics for faulty elimination. I have only the highest praise for this delicious bread, and urge others to try it."

Many who have eaten Honey Krushed Wheat Bread regularly report that constipation has been permanently relieved. This is accomplished because Honey Krushed Wheat Bread contains the entire wheat kernel, pure honey and other ingredients which give the diet required roughage and thus eliminates the necessity for dosing with drugs or purges.

MAKE THIS 10-DAY TEST

Are you constipated, run-down, pepless? Are you forced to take purges or perhaps habit-forming drugs? Then eat Honey Krushed Wheat Bread regularly with each meal for ten days. Make this pleasant test. See for yourself—as thousands of others have—how Honey Krushed Wheat Bread relieves constipation and helps to restore your vitality.

Your independent grocer receives sliced, cellophane wrapped Honey Krushed Wheat Bread oven-fresh daily. Ask him for it—accept no substitute. Made by the St. Louis Bread Company, who also bake Toastmaster White Bread. Tel: FOrest 4381.

RASPBERRY FLUFF

Thirty marshmallows.
One cup raspberry jam.
Two tablespoons lemon juice.
One-half pint whipped cream.

Cut marshmallows in quarters and soften over hot water. Fold in one cup raspberry jam and add two tablespoons lemon juice. Mix thoroughly. Fold in unsweetened whipped cream gently, and chill.

Try HIP-O-LITE with hot Chocolate or Cocoa. Simply add a teaspoon of HIP-O-LITE to each cup. More delicious and economical than whipped cream.

MOIST DARK CAKE WILL FIND WELCOME IN ANY HOUSEHOLD

There are very few households in which moist devil's food cake is not a welcome dessert. With a contrasting icing such as a peppermint flavored seven-minute frosting which forms a smooth complement to the richness of the cake, you have a combination that is hard to equal.

Devil's Food Cake.

Two cups flour.
One teaspoon soda.
One-half cup shortening.
One and one-fourth cups brown sugar.
Two whole eggs.
Three squares melted unsweetened chacolate.
One cup milk.
One teaspoon vanilla.

Sift flour and soda. Cream shortening well, add sugar gradually and cream until light and fluffy. Add eggs one at a time and beat well after each addition. Now add melted chocolate and blend. Add sifted flour alternately with the milk beating until quite smooth. Add flavoring last of all. Bake in two greased nine-inch layer pans in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 25 minutes. When cool spread with fluffy peppermint frosting.

ONE EGG CAKE

2 cups flour.
2 teaspoons baking powder.
¼ teaspoon salt.
4 tablespoons shortening.
1 cup sugar.
1 egg, unbeaten.
¾ cup milk.
1 teaspoon vanilla.

Cream butter, add sugar and beat well. Add egg and beat, and then flour and baking powder, which have been sifted together, alternately with milk, beating well after each addition. Add flavoring and pour into two greased cake tins and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees for 25 minutes).

Put together with your favorite icing.

A Cookie Note.

Cut cookies carefully to get as many as possible from the first rolling. Cookies cut from dough that has been rolled more than once are never quite as tender. Save all scraps of dough until last and roll them together.

PROPER WINTER DIET FOR YOUNG CHILDREN

Must Include Vegetables, Milk, Eggs and Energy Foods to Keep Them Healthy.

This is the time of year when some children get droopy and appetites seem to be at lowest ebb. Grandmother thought it was high time to get out the sulphur and molasses bottle but we turn our thoughts to food.

Children eat with less coaxing, it has been found, if the surroundings are pleasant and the table, chairs and eating utensils are their own small size. If the food is interesting both as to texture and flavor, and in each meal one crisp, one soft and one chewy food is served, there will be fewer "you must eat this."

Daily Diet Has Variety.

Be sure that the daily diet of the two to five year old includes three to four cups whole milk (meaning milk and the accompanying cream) a whole egg; a serving of meat; three or four vegetables (one raw, one leafy and one starchy); two to three fruits; an ounce of butter and a serving of whole grain cereal.

Be sparing with salt when cooking a child's food and never use sharp seasonings. Too much sugar or any ingredient which tends to mask the natural flavor of the food is not good. Remove excessive amounts of fat from meat which is to be cooked and see that it is cooked thoroughly. Bacon should be cooked until it is crisp and dry. Vegetables should be cooked in a small amount of water, that is, all except strong flavored vegetables. Care should be taken not to overcook.

Baked Egg in a Nest.

Three-fourths cup tomato.
Three-fourths cup cooked rice.
One-fourth teaspoon salt.
Six eggs.
One-half teaspoon butter.
One-half teaspoon chopped parsley.

Place rice, tomato, salt, in six ramekins. Drop an egg (raw) into each ramekin after the tomato rice mixture is in. Sprinkle a few grains of salt, one-half teaspoon butter and one-half teaspoon chopped parsley on top. Place the ramekins in a pan of water and bake in a moderate oven until the white of the egg is firm.

Vegetable Timbales.

One-fourth cup diced potatoes.
One-fourth cup cooked peas.
One-fourth cup cooked carrots.
One cup milk.
Two tablespoons butter.
Two tablespoons flour.
One egg yolk.

Make a sauce of milk, butter, flour, salt and egg yolk. Add the cooked potatoes, peas and carrots. Place in individual baking dish; set in a pan of hot water and bake in a hot oven (400 degrees) until the mixture is firm.

Prune and Rice Fluff.

One-half cup cooked rice.
One tablespoon gelatin.
One-fourth cup cold water.
One-fourth cup orange juice.
One tablespoon lemon juice.
Two cups strained prunes.
Two tablespoons sugar.
One egg white.
One-half teaspoon salt.

Soak gelatin in cold water about 5 minutes and then dissolve over boiling water. Heat together rice, orange juice, lemon juice, sugar and salt. Add dissolved gelatin and blend together very thoroughly. Allow mixture to cool slightly and then add prune pulp. Again allow mixture to cool and when starting to thicken fold in egg white which has been beaten stiff and dry. Fill sherbet glasses and chill. Top with whipped cream or finely cut nuts. Serves six.

Oatmeal Wafers.

Mix two tablespoons butter with one-third cup hot milk. Add four tablespoons sugar, one cup of flour mixed with one-third cup rolled oats and one-half cup fine oatmeal, one-half teaspoon salt and one teaspoon lemon juice. Roll very thin, shape in squares and bake in a slow oven until light brown.

CHEESE BARS

Two cups flour.
Four teaspoons baking powder.
One-fourth teaspoon salt.
Four tablespoons fat.
Two-thirds cup milk.

Mix flour, baking powder and salt. Cut in fat and, mixing with knife, slowly add milk. When soft dough forms, pat it out until one-eighth inch thick. Spread one-half with the following mixture:

Four tablespoons soft butter.
One-half cup grated cheese.
Two tablespoons salad dressing.
One-eighth teaspoon salt.
One-eighth teaspoon paprika.

Turn other half over on to cheese and press well with spatula. Using sharp knife, cut into bars, one-fourth by two inches. Carefully remove to greased baking sheets. Bake seven minutes in moderate oven. Serve warm.

Use for Fruit Juices.

Dried fruits, canned fruit juices, and canned fruit that is put up in water instead of syrup may all be used to make a winter supply of jams, conserves and jellies if your regular supply runs short, or if your storage space is so limited that small amounts must be made at a time. Grape juice, dried peaches apricots, prunes, canned apples, peaches, cherries, all make excellent jellies, jams or conserves.

When ready-cooked or uncooked cereals such as oatmeal are added to cake or cooky recipes, the flavor is greatly improved if the cereal is browned in a slow oven.

ONE DISH MEALS ARE LAST WORD IN THRIFT

Combinations That Have Full Quota of Food Values to Meet Rising Prices.

With food prices beginning to spread their wings, the old watchword, "It's smart to be thrifty," is coming to have much significance for the thoughtful housewife. Simple dishes that have their full quota of food values, use of left-over meats that will not cause the family to grumble, all these are of great import to the woman who is trying to keep food costs within moderation.

Food combinations that are not stews but are baked to improve their flavors and retain their identities are always good news. A scallop which is a kind of one dish meal can be served with lettuce salad and cottage pudding with apricot sauce for dessert. With a menu of this kind you can feel that you have done your duty by your family.

Meat Scallop.

Two cans spaghetti.
One and one-half cups ground left-over meat.
Buttered bread crumbs.

Chop spaghetti so that the pieces are about two inches long. Arrange a layer in a greased baking dish. Spread a layer of meat and alternate, topping with a layer of spaghetti. Cover with buttered crumbs and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for about 20 minutes. Serves four generously.

For the dessert, use any recipe for plain cake and bake in muffin tins. For the sauce use one cup of cooked apricots, add sugar to taste. Thicken the juice, about one cupful, with one tablespoon cornstarch and cook until the sauce is thick. Put one or two whole apricots on each cup cake and pour the sauce over all.

Fricasse of Lamb.

Two pounds stewing lamb.
Twelve small onions.
Eight carrots.
One teaspoon salt.
One-half bay leaf.
Two teaspoons worcestershire sauce.
One can spaghetti.

Cut lamb in pieces, place in a kettle and almost cover with boiling water, add salt and bay leaf. Cover closely and simmer for two hours or until lamb is tender. Add onions and carrots half an hour before lamb has finished cooking. Heat spaghetti and when ready to serve, arrange lamb and vegetables in the center of a platter and garnish with a border of spaghetti.

Thicken the gravy with a little flour and serve with the main dish. For dessert, apple sauce cooked with a little lemon rind and juice and served with sugar cookies is delicious.

Savory Salmon.

One can salmon.
One tablespoon butter.
Three small onions, sliced.
Two cans spaghetti.
Buttered bread crumbs.

Remove skin and bones and flake salmon. Melt butter in frying pan and cook sliced onions until light yellow. Mix salmon and onions and spaghetti and turn into a greased casserole. Cover with buttered bread crumbs and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for about 20 minutes or longer.

The dessert, apple brown betty with hot lemon sauce may be baked at the same time.

Green vegetables and milk are necessary to make an adequate supply of calcium. The diet of growing children should include these to the sake of well formed teeth and bones.

CEREAL RELIEVES DAUGHTER SO WHOLE FAMILY USES IT

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Corrects Constipation*

An enthusiastic and voluntary letter: "We have a daughter who has been troubled all her life with constipation.* About three months ago, we discovered ALL-BRAN. From that day to now we have not given her any form of laxative.

We have become "ALL-BRAN" users, and now it is a part of our daily diet. We have told many of our friends and they, too, are getting results."—Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Pope, 562 Maple Ave., Elmira, N.Y.

Constipation due to insufficient "bulk" in meals.*

ALL-BRAN provides gentle "bulk" to aid regular habits. It also furnishes vitamin B and iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is often more effective than the "bulk" in fruits and vegetables, as it does not break down within the body. Two tablespoonfuls daily are usually sufficient. If not corrected this way, see your doctor.

Isn't this food much pleasanter and safer than risking patent medicines? Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

These plums are grown in the State of Oregon on trees the saplings of which originally came from Italy.

The stones of these Plums are the "free stone" variety similar to those found in peaches . . . this causes the meat to leave the stone with ease. The color is a rich dark red, the flavor is tart-sweet, being packed in heavy syrup. There are twelve to fourteen plums in the 2½ size can, making ample servings for four or five people.

Sugar in Cookery Has Way Entirely Its Own

Good Cook Must Know About the Uses of Sugar and Its Near Relatives if She Wants Complete Success.

Sugar is a food that has ways entirely its own and a good cook must know about them if she wants to have complete success, says the Bureau of Home Economics of the Department of Agriculture.

All fruits and milk contain sugar; so do some vegetables. Besides these natural sugars many made dishes are sweetened by the addition of sugar or syrups or molasses. Sugar in its refined form is known variously as granulated, cube and powdered or confectioners' sugar. These are so highly refined that their only flavor is sweetness and their only food value is energy value. There is also brown sugar.

Two Kinds of Sugar.

White sugar is made from sugar cane and sugar beets. Chemically it is exactly the same substance and in cooking it behaves exactly the same way. Experts who tried to distinguish between cakes, jellies and candies made of both types of sugar were unable to do so. Brown sugar is partially refined cane sugar. It cannot be made from the sugar beet. The different grades sold run from a light cream color to a very dark, moist brown, varying in richness of flavor according to the depth of color.

The chemical name for sugar is sucrose, a carbohydrate that behaves quite differently from its near relative, starch. For one thing, sucrose dissolves in cold water and still more easily in hot water. A solution of sugar and water thickened by cooking is wonderfully useful in cooking, canning and preserving. Fruit that is cooked in water goes to pieces and makes a sauce. When, on the other hand, fruit is dropped into hot syrup, it takes up some of the dissolved sugar and the flesh stiffens enough to hold together. This happens when fruit is cooked for dessert or when it is cooked for canning. When it is cooked longer in a thicker syrup, a preserve is the result.

Melted Sugar Has Real Flavor.

Sugar flavor can be developed by melting the sugar. This is done by heating the sugar in a saucepan over a slow fire until it turns into a clear liquid which is known as "barley sugar." This is the kind of sugar that one reads of in the older English literature which doubtless went into the making of sugar plums and barley sugar horses and figures. Additional heating of "barley sugar" will cause it to caramelize slightly, producing a new flavor and a different color. When this liquid is cooled it becomes very brittle. Here is the foundation for brittle candies. In baking a cake or other sweet food some caramelization takes place on the surface and makes the cake brown more quickly. Some of the browning of course, is due to the starch in the flour.

When sugar is cooked with fruit or any other acid such as cream of tartar, an "invert sugar" is produced. A chemical action takes place which breaks up the sucrose into two other sugars. "Invert sugar" does not crystalize or "go to sugar." Therefore when you do not want candy to go to sugar you add acid (vinegar, corn syrup or cream of tartar), producing enough invert sugar to do the trick.

Syrups Excellent Flavoring.

Most of us think of syrups in connection with the breakfast pancake or waffle. Sauces and candies are flavored with syrups, gingerbread, spiced cakes, brown breads and puddings are made with molasses or sorgho. The chief difference between the syrups is the amount of acid they contain. Molasses and sorghum syrup contain most and it is for this reason that soda is used for leavening gingerbreads and cakes made with these syrups.

There are so many varieties of table syrups on the market that it is worth while to know just what goes into the making of these products. Cane syrup, sorghum syrup and maple syrup are not made from sugar as such but from the concentrated juice of sugar cane, sorghum, and sap of the sugar maple tree before any sugar is taken out. The law prohibits the use of these names in labels on syrup made from the sugar instead of the juice.

Molasses Source of Iron.

Molasses is the "mother liquor" left from the cane juice after the raw sugar has been removed. In the refinery, another crystalization leaves a liquor which is sold as "refiner's syrup" and is thinner and less sweet than molasses. Corn syrup is manufactured from cornstarch turned, for the most part to sugars (dextrose, glucose or maltose) which are not very sweet. It is usually flavored with refiner's syrup or maple syrup or perhaps cane or maple sugar. Honey which is a natural syrup is composed chiefly of levulose and dextrose the two sugars derived from sucrose. Levulose is quite sweet and this accounts for the sweetness of honey.

Molasses and cane sugar are excellent sources of iron and contain food sources other than sugar. Sugar is purely an energy food. Therefore it is well to remember that concentrated sweetness cloys the appetite and too much of it will keep one from eating the other foods that are needed to make up a balanced diet.

WHITE LAYER CAKE

Three-fourths cupful of butter.
Two cupfuls of sugar.
Two and one-half cupfuls of flour.
Two and one-half teaspoonfuls baking powder.
One-eighth teaspoonful of salt.
One cup of milk.
Five egg whites.
One teaspoonful of vanilla.

Cream the butter thoroughly and add the sugar gradually. Cream together until very light and fluffy. Sift the flour once before measuring. Measure, add the baking powder and salt and sift together. Add this to the creamed mixture alternately with the milk. (Be sure to add some of the flour before adding any of the milk). Fold in the egg whites and the vanilla. Bake in two greased and floured 9-inch layer-cake pans in a 350-degree oven for 25 to 30 minutes. Cool and ice.

Tomato Cauliflower Puree.

Cook one medium head of cauliflower until tender. Press through a sieve. Press the contents of one can of tomatoes through a sieve also, and add with the contents of one can of consomme and one cup of water to the caulflower. Bring to boiling. Saute one tablespoon of minced onion in two tablespoons butter for a few minutes. Add three tablespoons flour, stir until smooth, thin with a little of the hot soup, and then add the remainder of the soup and cook until creamy. Season to taste with salt and pepper. This serves six persons.

TOP SUNDAY DINNER WITH ICE CREAM

New Flavors Add Distinctive Touch to the Usual Sunday Dessert.

Ice cream as a dessert to follow the Sunday dinner has much in its favor. With mechanical refrigeration so universal the making of this dessert is no longer the chore that it used to be and the choice ranges from simple custard foundations with fruit and flavoring additions to elegant concoctions of heavy whipped cream.

Ice cream made in freezing trays must be stirred or beaten to keep it from becoming grainy, that is, those made with a custard foundation. The mousse or whipped cream dessert can be put in the refrigerator and all but forgotten. Here are some distinctive recipes:

Cherry Brandy Ice Cream.

Two-thirds cup condensed milk
One-half cup water
Sixteen large maraschino cherries, finely chopped.
One teaspoon brandy or brandy extract
One cup whipping cream.

Blend condensed milk and water thoroughly. Add maraschino cherries which have been finely chopped, and brandy or brandy extract. Chill. Whip cream to custard-like consistency and fold into chilled mixture. Pour into freezing pan and place in freezing unit. After mixture has frozen to a stiff mush (one to two hours) remove from refrigerator. Scrape mixture from sides and bottom of pan. Beat two minutes. Smooth out and replace in freezing unit for one hour or until frozen for serving. Two to five hours is the total freezing time. Serves six.

Biscuit Tortoni.

One cup sugar
One-half cup water
Six egg yolks
One pint cream whipped
One cup pounded macaroons
Two tablespoons sherry.

Cook sugar and water for five minutes and pour slowly on the beaten egg yolks. Add macaroons, sherry and whipped cream and pack in small paper cups. Set in the freezing tray and freeze for four hours. Just before serving sprinkle with chopped toasted almonds.

Date Ice Cream.

Two-thirds cup condensed milk.
One cup water
Six dates cut fine
One cup whipping cream
One-half teaspoon vanilla.

Cut dates in small pieces and cook in one cup water until tender. Blend condensed milk, one-half cup liquid drained from dates, dates, and vanilla. Chill. Whip cream to custard-like consistency and fold into chilled mixture. Pour into freezing pan. After mixture has frozen to a stiff mush (one to two hours) remove from refrigerator. Scrape mixture from sides and bottom of pan. Beat for two minutes. Smooth out and replace in freezing unit for one hour or more, or until frozen for serving. This recipe serves six.

Economical Steak.

Take the end of a steak, cut it up into small pieces and boil. Add carrots, celery and other vegetables. Place all in a baking pan, covering with bread crumbs and put it in the oven to bake. This dish is simple and economical and just the thing when unexpected company drops in.

Industrial Shares Lead Upturn in Prices—Scattered Utilities Give Ground During Session.

By the Associated Press

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—Renewed demand for industrial equities, both preferred and common, gave the stock market a rallying appearance today. The utilities later turned soft, however, and stemmed the rising tide. The close was a little irregular, but the trading volume stepped up to approximately 750,000 shares.

While the news was not exceptionally stimulating, the boardrooms were much more cheerful. A substantial upturn in some of the mining stocks helped sentiment and investment buying was reported in various parts of the list. There was said to have been a mild revival of inflationary phychology. Grains and cotton pointed upward, bonds were better and foreign exchanges quiet.

Shares up around two to three points included U. S. Smelting, Cerro de Pasco, Howe Sound, American Smelting, McKeesport Tin Plate, Coca-Cola, American Can, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, Allied Chemical and Continental Can. Among gainers of fractions to a point or so were U. S. Steel, National Distillers, Johns-Manville, American Sugar Refining, Great Western Sugar, South Porto Rico Sugar, Dome, McIntyre, General Motors, Chrysler, American Chain, J. C. Penney and Caterpillar Tractor. American Chain preferred jumped about four points. The rails lost early gains and finished about even. United Corporation preferred dropped three, Consolidated Gas preferred was off more than two, and Columbia Gas and Commonwealth & Southern were down about a point each. American Telephone was slightly higher.

Sterling Eases Late.

Wheat ended with gains of ¾ to 1¼ cents a bushel and corn was up ½ to 1. Oats, rye and barley firmed around ¼ to ⅞. At Winnipeg wheat was up ⅜ to ½. Cotton advanced 30 to 45 cents a bale. Bar silver was raised ⅜ of a cent an ounce to 54¾ cents.

Sterling, at mid-afternoon, had eased ¼ of a cent to $4.87½ and French francs were .00¼ of a cent lower at 6.59¼ cents. Guilders, Swiss francs and belgas were about unchanged to down .02 of a cent. Canadian dollars were also unchanged at 99.81¼ cents.

The rails were not particularly disturbed by a decline in car loadings for the week ended Feb. 9, of 5604 cars under the previous week. The decrease was a little more than seasonal but the total of 592,560 was 18,662 over the corresponding week of 1934.

Weekly Bank Summary.

Banking circles saw in the weekly Federal Reserve Bank report the disappearance of one of the last reminders of the currency circulation troubles attendant upon the crisis of 1933.

The New York Reserve Bank reported the complete retirements of its Federal Reserve Bank notes, outstanding in the amount of $24,324,000. This left only $1,192,000 of this kind of money extant for the entire system. These bank notes which were an outgrowth of the banking crisis two years ago at one time reached a peak of $208,000,000.

More clement weather conditions resulted in a revival of retail trade activity, Dun & Bradstreet reported.

Day's 15 Most Active Stocks.

Closing price and net change of the 15 most active stocks: Studebaker, ⅜, down ¼; Columbia Gas, 5¼, down ¾; United Corporation, 2, down ¼; United Corporation pfd., 25½, down 2¾; National Distillers, 28, up 1; Pierce-Arrow, ⅞, down ⅛; Chrysler, 39⅛, up ¼; General Electric, 23⅞, up ⅛; General Motors, 31⅛, up ¼; Consolidated Gas, 17¾, down 1; Servel, 8⅞, up ½; Briggs Mfg., 28⅜, up ⅞; U. GRAIN MARKET UP OVER A CENT ON LOCAL BOARD

GRAIN FUTURES HIGHER AT CLOSE IN CHICAGO

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 15.—Influenced by correct guesses beforehand that Government figures as to livestock on farms would show big reductions, grain prices went higher today.

A leading unofficial specialist said the Government report indicated that in grain-consuming units the livestock total is about 20 per cent less than a year ago and 19 per cent less than the five-year average, 1928-1932. He added that stocks of feed grains on farms are about 40 per cent less than a year ago and 43 per cent less than the five-year average.

Wheat closed firm, ¾@1¼ above yesterday's finish, May 97½@97⅝, corn ½c to 1 cent up, May 86¼@86⅜, oats ½-¾ advanced, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 5 cents.

Fresh advances of hog prices were a stimulus to the corn market, and there were suggestions that considerable domestice winter wheat southwest must depend on one chance out of 10 for frequent and heavy rainfalls in May. Opening ⅛c lower to ⅛c higher, May, 85¼c, corn soon rose all around. Wheat started unchanged to ¼c off, May 96½c, and subsequently made a general advance.

A good deal of notice in some quarters was taken of semiofficial assertions that the Canadian wheat carryover Aug. 1 next would be under 100,000,000 bushels and perhaps only 81,000,000. Trade authorities here said, however, this would apparently require average export of 6,000,000 bushels of wheat from Canada throughout the remainder of the season. Winnipeg messages today said overnight export business had been done from boat coasts, with seaboard houses taking all offerings at today's opening in Winnipeg.

Wheat in Chicago advanced moderately on fair commission house buying, but met with enlarged selling at above 97c for May. Some of the selling was regarded as due to speculative operations in the nature of spreads against corn. Demand for corn, though, proved for the time being to be insufficient to hold the corn market higher than 86c for May.

Oats were responsive to upturns of corn and of wheat.

Provisions averaged higher, responsive to action of grains as well as hogs.

Wheat futures purchases yesterday totaled 6,908,000 bushels, corn 7,455,000. Open interest in wheat was 99,585,000 bushels, and in corn 64,814,000.

GENERALLY HIGHER CLOSE TO BONDS

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—Under leadership of U. S. Governments and better grade corporation issues, the bond market closed generally higher today in all sections except utilities, which were inclined to drag.

Gains up to ¼ of a point were well scattered among U. S. Treasury, Liberties and indirect obligations to the Government, with trading heaviest in the short-term Treasuries.

Among corporation issues selling a point higher were Santa Fe 4s at 110⅜, Chesapeake & Ohio 4½s at 118 and Union Pacific 4s at 102⅝. Transfers aggregated 10,663,000, par value.

Although utility loans failed to share in the general upturn to the extent that industrials did, several of them ended a shade higher including American Telephone 5s and North American 5s. Columbia Gas & Electric 5s were a shade lower.

McDONALD WINS CONFIDENCE VOTE ON ISSUE OF DOLE

no power to take action against persons or companies financing the transaction.

Financial editors particularly have been campaigning for exposure of the pepper gamble names in order to restore confidence.

Chamberlain's speech which wound up the debate last night was interpreted in some quarters as a rejection of the "new deal" program advanced by David Lloyd George.

Chamberlain again set forth the Cabinet's opposition to a public works policy, adding:

"We won't jeopardize the success of our policy for dealing with the unemployed by departing from the financial policy we have hitherto pursued."

He said the increase in our exports has been remarkable. There is no other country in the world, unless it be Japan, that can show a similar increase."

MacDonald Faces Uproar.

MacDonald, striking out in reply to his critics in the Labor and Liberal camps, charged the Labor party with "making political capital out of the unemployed."

He had a difficult time getting a hearing. He was constantly interrupted and heckled by Laborites. Amid such an uproar that the speaker had to interfere at one point to restore order, MacDonald said:

"The Laborites, instead of making party capital out of the unemployed, would have done better to co-operate with the Government in devising practical schemes to end unemployment."

George Lansbury, veteran Labor leader, who moved the motion of non-confidence in the Government, asserted MacDonald's Ministry had "forfeited the confidence of the country" in handling the unemployed assistance bill.

As loud cheering echoed from the labor benches, Lansbury said:

"I do not want to say we are charging the Government with dishonorable conduct in the ordinary sense of the word, but we are charging it with gross incompetence."

A financial crisis would result if the Labor party ever came to power, MacDonald told the House, thus increasing instead of decreasing unemployment.

He attacked sharply those responsible for circulating rumors concerning the likelihood of general elections soon. These rumors, the Prime Minister said, were causing much uncertainty. He declared the reports were spread for financial rather than political purposes.

BILL AGAINST STRAW POLLS

Matter Would Be Barred From Mails Under Measure.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—Representative Pierce (Dem.), introduced a bill yesterday to check straw polls to be announced prior to the official elections.

The bill would make any matter relating in any way to a poll "where candidates and issues are different" non-mailable matter. Mailing any such material would be punishable by a $1000 fine, one year's imprisonment or both.

EIGHT SEIZED FOR QUESTIONING IN ILLINOIS COAL BOMBINGS

Investigation Started by United States Agents, State Officials and Railroad Detectives.

By the Associated Press.

HARRISBURG, Ill., Feb. 15.—Co-operating directly with the Illinois Attorney-General's office, Department of Justice operatives, within the last 24 hours, have seized for questioning eight men allegedly connected directly with or in possession of information concerning the recent series of bombings in the coal fields. One man has been arrested and warrants have been prepared for the arrest of several others, it was learned today.

Many suspects have been questioned and a lie detector has been used. For months 300 secret agents for railroads, coal companies, State and Federal authorities have been combing the coal fields.

Rewards totaling nearly $50,000 have been offered by four railroads and other victims of bombers and incendiaries.

Prominent in the action are Emory Smith, assistant to the Attorney-General of Illinois; Charles Wilson, research engineer of the Scientific Crime Detection Laboratory of Northwestern University; Hinton W. Clabaugh, former chief of the Department of Justice office in Chicago and former head of the Parole Board of Illinois; T. P. Sullivan, superintendent of the Illinois State Bureau of Criminal Investigation and Identification; L. M. Taylor, acting chief of the State Highway police, and members of the Chicago police "bomb squad."

CUTTEN'S ATTORNEYS ASSAIL GRAIN FUTURES TRADING ACT

CHICAGO, Feb. 15.—Counsel for Arthur W. Cutten, grain trader, barred from further trading by Federal order, denounced the decree of the Grain Futures Commission and asserted the constitutionality of the grains futures act would be tested through the courts, even to the Supreme Court, if necessary.

Effective March 1, the commission barred Cutten, the man who made a $1,500,000 "killing" in corn in 1924 and controlled $7,000,000 worth of wheat in 1931, from American exchanges. It left him the alternative of moving his activities to the Winnipeg exchange or of paying a quarter of a cent commission to brokers on each bushel traded, double the amount he had paid as a member of the board. Cutten, however, remained silent on his business plans.

Should he and his counselors make an appeal, the Circuit Court of Appeals at Chicago would be the scene of the action.

death of two members of the crew of 83.

Thinks Fins Failed.

In an interview Lieut. Scott E. Peck, chief navigator of the Macon, who will be called to testify later, gave as his opinion that 'if the fins had been constructed strongly enough the accident never would have happened."

Peck also expressed the belief that the edge of the fin next to the body of the ship was first to give way and that jagged pieces of the fin's metal work finally pierced the helium gas cells.

Commander Wiley said he felt no particular severe wind at the time of the disaster.

He reminded the court he had opinions as to the cause of the trouble, but was told the board "would come to that later."

Construction of Fins.

Kenworthy said if the rear structure crumbled first it would probably have torn the gas cell, disintegration of which was the first notice the Macon was doomed. A second cell followed in a few moments.

Touching on the same structural phase brought up unofficially by Commander Peck, Wiley testified both the Macon and its sister ship, the Akron, were different in construction from other dirigibles, in that "the leading edges of the fins extended for some distance forward of the point where they were secured to the ship's frame."

Taps for the two navy men who lost their lives—E. M. Dailey, radio operator, who stood by his post until the last moment, and Florentino Edquiba, Filipino mess boy—will be sounded in memorial services Sunday at Sunnyvale.

All of the 28 Macon men treated for various minor injuries suffered in the disaster have been released from the hospital.

Airships Mishandled, Foolish to Give Them Up, Mitchell Says.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—A defense of the dirigible and excoriation of the Navy Department for mishandling those airships the United States has lost marked testimony by William Mitchell, former assistant chief of the Air Corps, before the House Patents Committee yesterday. He pronounced even the decommissioned Los Angeles—lone survivor of four—"perfectly sound right now." He told the committee that "for us to abandon airships would be just a sign of moral decrepitude."

Mitchell said the Shenandoah, which was destroyed in a storm over Ohio in 1925, came to its end because it was sent on an "advertising" junket, over protests of its commander, "to visit county fairs."

"It was due absolutely to the culpability of the Navy Department," he declared.

"Stupidity, Nothing Else."

The Akron, which plunged into the Atlantic, was lost, he said, because of "stupidity, nothing else."

Mitchell, who is out of the army because of differences with the high command over aviation policies, said he did not know what happened to the Macon night before last, but did say "it is silly to try to keep an airship above the fleet all the time when it should maneuver around storms, if it has to go a thousand miles."

"It would be very foolish to give up our airship development," he said, "particularly in view of conditions in the Far East at this time. If we continue to disarm we will be an easy target for any Asiatic country that comes along. If we had 50 Zeppelins properly manned and equipped we could go straight to any Asiatic country and destroy it."

Testimony on Material Incorrectly Reported, Aluminum Co. Says.

HARTFORD, Conn., Feb. 15.—Denial that Dr. Karl Arnstein, chief engineer of the Goodyear-Zeppelin Corporation at Akron, O., testified in Federal Court Tuesday, a few hours before the Macon disaster, that material used in constructing the dirigible had a yield point and tensile strength lower than expected, is made by counsel for the Aluminum Company of America. The denial is borne out by the transcript of the testimony.

Dr. Arnstein testified in the $3,000,000 suit of the Bausch Machine Tool Co. of Springfield, Mass., against the Aluminum Company of America, which is being retried in Federal Court here before Judge Harland B. Howe and a jury.

Edward F. McClennen, chief counsel for the aluminum company, said Dr. Arnstein, in his testimony, referred to first bids by the aluminum company and that materials actually used in the dirigibles came up to the expectations of Dr. Arnstein and were "fully in line with the yield point offered by other sources," namely, a guaranteed yield point of 44,000 pounds.

Counsel said Dr. Arnstein testified that it was the guarantee and not the actual material that was not at first satisfactory to the Goodyear Company.

HUSBAND'S FAKE SUICIDE CAUSES WIFE TO SHOOT SELF

She Is in Serious Condition; He Fired Pistol, Sprinkled Catsup After Quarrel.

YONKERS, N. Y., Feb. 15.—John Rosendale faked a suicide so realistically that his wife, in remorse, tried to kill herself.

She is in serious condition in a hospital with a bullet wound near her heart.

The Rosendales, married two years, quarreled last night and Mrs. Rosendale left in anger, saying she would never return. While she stood outside their apartment waiting for an elevator, Rosendale, a policeman, got a bottle of catsup, sprinkled it generously over his head, then took his service pistol and fired a shot into the living room sofa.

When his wife entered the apartment, after summoning the apartment house superintendent, she saw Rosendale sprawled on the sofa apparently dead. Hysterical, she seized the pistol and fired a bullet into her side.

Rosendale was arrested.

$20,000 AWARDED WORKMAN AT THIRD TRIAL OF INJURY SUIT

The third trial of the personal injury damage suit of Harold Poe of Clinton, Ky., against the Illinois Central Railroad Co., resulted in a jury verdict in his favor of $20,000 in Circuit Judge McAfee's court yesterday. While employed in a yard of the railroad in East St. Louis, Dec. 18, 1928, Poe stumbled over a pile of gravel, as a result of which, he alleged, his left leg was permanently injured.

At the first trial a verdict for $9150 was returned but the Supreme Court ordered a new trial because of error in instructions. Last November, at the second trial, Poe obtained a verdict for $10,000. Circuit Judge O'Malley, who presided, sustained the railroad's motion for a new trial on the ground the verdict was against the weight of evidence.

In his suit Poe alleged negligence on the part of the company in not providing a reasonably safe place to work. The company contended that the ailment said to have resulted from the accident was due to an old injury suffered prior to his employment.

It was also asserted that Poe had accepted $850 in settlement of the claim. He explained he accepted the sum believing it was back pay.

CHARGED WITH AIDING ESCAPED SUSPECT IN BREMER KIDNAPING

CHICAGO, Feb. 15.—The arrest of Matthew Gleason, Aurora (Ill.) tavern keeper, was disclosed yesterday when Federal agents who seized him last Thursday brought him before United States Commissioner Walker on a charge of harboring Volney Davis, Bremer kidnaping suspect.

Davis escaped Feb. 6 from agents of the Department of Justice who were returning him by plane from Kansas City. The prisoner slugged one of his captors and fled after a forced landing at Yorkville, Ill., 50 miles west of Chicago.

Gleason's case was set for Feb. 21 and bond fixed at $3000.

TESTIMONY MUSCLE SHOALS HAS CREATED NEW FERTILIZER

TVA Official Tells of "Triple Super Phosphate" in Suit Against Government Program.

By the Associated Press.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Feb. 15.—A new fertilizer, "triple super phosphate," has been developed in the remodeled nitrate plant at Muscle Shoals, J. C. McAmis, head of the agricultural division of the Tennessee Valley Authority, testified in United States District Court yesterday.

McAmis' testimony came after several forestry and soil experts had been on the stand to defend the TVA program against a suit for an injunction to restrain the authority from continuing with its "electrification program" in North Carolina. The suit was brought by 14 preferred shareholders of the Alabama Power Co., after the utility had entered a contract to sell to the Government agency about $2,200,000 in property in Northwest Alabama.

Local Option Bill Approved.

By the Associated Press.

ATLANTA, Feb. 15.—The House temperance committee voted yesterday to report favorably a local option liquor bill which would repeal the State's old bone dry laws and make every county dry until it voted wet. It was the first time in years that a committee had approved a liquor repeal bill in Georgia. The vote was 18 to 8.

MAN KILLED WHEN AUTO HITS BASE OF TRAFFIC SIGNAL

Earl J. Lurtz, Officer of Brewery Supply Company, Victim of Accident on Market Street.

Earl J. Lurtz, vice-president and treasurer of the Meyer Supply Co., 22 South First street, was killed when his automobile collided with the concrete base of a traffic beacon in Market street, at Garrison avenue, last night.

Miss Bessie Lambert, 1506 North Forty-fourth street, East St. Louis, said she was driving east in Market street at 10:20 o'clock behind Lurtz's sedan, which swerved and hit the traffic beacon. From the description given by Miss Lambert and her sister, Tessie, riding with her, police believe something went wrong with the steering gear of the Lurtz car. Lurtz, thrown against the windshield, was pronounced dead at City Hospital, and the body was taken to the morgue.

Lurtz, 46 years old, resided at 6537 Walsh street. At the time of the accident he was on his way to Union Station to board a train for Chicago. Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Mildred Lurtz, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry F. Lurtz, and a stepson, Marvin Hegg. The Meyer Supply Co deals in brewery supplies.

Woman Run Down by Auto on Hodiamont Avenue.

Miss Nell Burke, 35-year-old dancing teacher, 956 Hamilton avenue, suffered concussion of the brain and bruises when run down by an automobile at Enright and Hodiamont avenues last night. The driver, Walter Huggins, 1219 Buckner avenue, Wellston, said he was blinded by headlights and failed to see Miss Burke.

Two men were hurt in a collision between the automobile in which they were passengers and a truck in the 1400 block of Vandeventer avenue last night. Fred Rickley, 3221 Potomac street, suffered injuries of the head and spine. William Goebel, 4516 Alaska avenue, was cut and bruised.

Man Killed by Auto Near Home in County.

Benjamin H. Spengler, 50 years old, was struck by an automobile and killed while attempting to cross St. Charles road near his home at 9:45 o'clock last night. His sister-in-law, Mrs. Charles Harris, 6811 University drive, University City, was also hit, suffering skull and internal injuries.

The driver, Dr. Edward H. Gibbons, a physician, 2618 Louisiana avenue, said the pair ran in front of another machine into the path of his car. The accident occurred 30 feet west of Boswell avenue, at St. John's Station. Spengler died of a fractured skull. Mrs. Harris was taken to County Hospital.

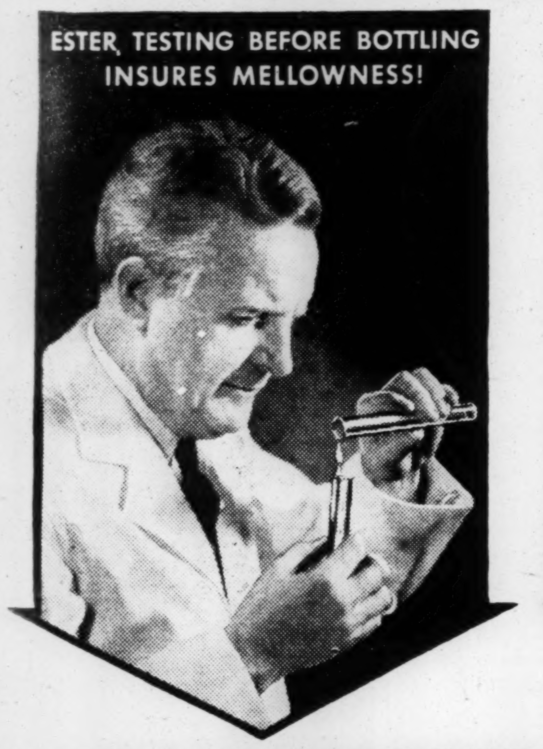
ESTER TESTING BEFORE BOTTLING INSURES MELLOWNESS!



PROVE THIS EXTRA MELLOWNESS FOR YOURSELF...THIS EASY WAY!

The MATCH TEST
The volatile, aromatic esters are quickly driven off by heat. Hold a lighted match under a little "BOTTOMS UP" in a glass. Smell the extra mellow fragrance in this ester-tested whisky.

WANT WHISKY PRE-TESTED FOR Mellowness?
.. TRY "BOTTOMS UP"

If you are like thousands of others, you have been asking for a Kentucky straight whisky, low in price but made and aged in a way that would give it a definite degree of mellowness. Here it is.

The mellowness of "BOTTOMS UP" is now definitely proved by the ester test before any of it is bottled. Esters give whisky its finer qualities of flavor and smoothness. They develop by aging. Each quantity of "BOTTOMS UP" is ester-tested before bottling. Unless it meets the necessary high requirements, it is left in the deep-charred oak casks for further aging.

"BOTTOMS UP" is high in esters, and in other fine whisky qualities, for a number of very definite reasons. First, it is made by a formula that has been famous in Kentucky for more than 65 years. Second, it is made with a high percentage of more expensive small grains, which produce a more delicately flavored, smoother, pleasant-tasting whisky. Third, it is aged in warehouses kept at warm summer temperature and controlled humidity the year round. Fourth, it is now being aged a year, present distillation being December, 1933.

You can now get this finer, seasoned, quality product for your money. The price is surprisingly low. Dealers everywhere are offering "BOTTOMS UP" for its fine qualities which brought it into instant popularity.

CORBETT SIGNED BY RUSSOS FOR MUNY SOCCER ELIMINATIONS

J. SHELDON OF WELLSTON HIGH SCORER FOR LEAGUE GAMES

By Dent McSkimming.

Bob Corbett, a center forward who scored seven goals in one game for the Hellrung-Grimms in the Municipal League, has been drafted by the Russo New Deals to assist them in the elimination series, starting Sunday. In permitting this post-season addition to the Russo roster, the Executive Committee of the muny league departed from its rules because the Russos had lost one of their outstanding stars, Les Hatchard, through an automobile accident. Hatchard, a city fireman, was seriously injured when the pulmotor truck he was driving crashed into a coal truck, two weeks ago. The Russos were operating with a small squad and could put only 12 men in uniform, according to Manager Pat Di Maggio.

Corbett was booked for graduation to the Hellrungs of the professional league.

Sheldon Topped Scorers.

A list of the leading goal scorers of the Municipal Soccer League race just concluded discloses among other interesting things that few of the leaders are members of clubs that won their group championships. These group winners were of necessity excellent goal producers, but the particular business of putting the ball into the net did not fall to the lot of one player. Here are the leaders for the season:

14 goals—J. Sheldon (Wellstons).
13 goals—R. Corbett (Hellrungs).
12 goals—P. Marino (Balsanos).
11 goals—E. McInerny (Wellstons).
10 goals—H. Maher (Voglers); G. McGann (St. John's).
9 goals—G. Rudloff (Alpen Braus); W. Fogarty (Alpen Braus); G. Parker (Russos); J. Green (Balsanos).
8 goals—J. Prindable (Russos); W. Rogles (Germans); E. McDonnell (American Zinc).

A total of 214 players participated in the scoring of goals in the senior division.

Among the junior clubs, Oscar Menendez of the Spanish Caballeros led with 11, followed by W. Murphy of Holy Rosary with 10. Other leaders were: G. Dunn (Unbacked Wonders) with 9, A. Weiss and E. Dueker (18th Ward Democrats) with 8.

Fine Game Is Expected.

The winner of the third game on Sunday's program should go a long way in the elimination series. On the season's record the Balsanos would appear to have just as tight a defense as the Alpen Braus and a better attack. The Alpen Braus scored 37 goals and permitted only 8 by the opposition, and the Balsanos scored 47 times while allowing only 8. It is generally admitted, however, that the Alpen Braus were playing against stronger opposition, which may make a big difference in scores.

As is customary in Municipal League playoff games, there will be six officials in charge of each match; two referees, two side linesmen and two goal linesmen. Ten of the 18 officials are former professional league players.

EAGLES REFUSE OFFER FOR FORWARD BRYDSON

Glen Brydson will be in the Eagles' lineup tomorrow night when the St. Louis National League Hockey Club opposes the Boston Bruins. This was definitely announced by Clare M. Brunton, general manager of the Eagles, who said that the Chicago Black Hawks' bid for the forward has been refused. President Quain recently said that no more stars would be sold.

The St. Louis team will need all its best men when the Bruins call. The Boston sextet is staging a thrilling race with the New York Rangers and the Black Hawks for first place in the American Division.

Granite City Is Favored to Win From Wood River

Wood River's game at Granite City features the Madison-St. Clair High School Basketball Conference's schedule for tonight.

East St. Louis goes to Collinsville and Alton entertains Belleville. A non-league game of importance will send the Edwardsville Tigers against Heath High of Paducah, Ky., while Cleveland High is guest of Madison.

Granite City went to the lead in the standings with a victory over Collinsville last week, and now owns a half-game margin. Wood River extended Collinsville to two overtime periods last week and is expected to give Granite City plenty of opposition.

Collinsville is favored over East St. Louis, with the Belleville-Alton game a battle for last place.

Heath High of Paducah, Ky., won the prep school championship of Kentucky last year and has a point average of 50 a game this year. Edwardsville has met defeat but one time on its home court.

All games are scheduled to begin at 8 o'clock.

The Season's Surprise—Valley Park's Team, County Basket Leaders

Valley Park Five Favored To Win League Title in Second Year of Competition

By Reno Hahn.

With a squad made up of players who have played basketball for only two years and are competing for the first time in a league, Valley Park High School's basket five is leading the county division of St. Louis County Basketball League with a record of seven victories and no defeats. They will play Jennings tonight in a game that may decide the league title.

Basketball started last year at Valley Park and naturally the team didn't win many of the few games played. But this season, with five men carrying most of the burden, the Valley Park team has won nine of 10 games played, its only loss coming from the Jennings five, which defeated Valley Park in the opening round of the Ferguson tournament.

Team Has Strong Defense.

Defense has been mainly responsible for the success of the team, Jennings and Hancock scoring the most points, 22, made against the team. Ferguson, which had averaged 39 points a game in nine previous contests, could make only 19 against their defense.

Five men have done most of the playing. They are Dale Holland, forward, 5 feet 6 inches; Aubrey Slavens, 5 feet 9 inches, the forwards; William de Rousse, 6 feet 2 inches, center; Henry Dennis, 5 feet 9 inches; and Raleigh Singleton, 5 feet 7 inches, the guards. Singleton is the leading scorer, with 85 points in the 10 games.

A. R. Mottesheard is the squad's coach. He coached one year at the Hartville (Mo.) High School and there he coached a championship team that was undefeated in 1929 and won the title in the Altitude League.

Worried Over Jennings' Game.

Tonight's game has Coach Mottesheard worried, and with reason, for playing Jennings, a strong team every year, on its own court, is a tough job. Jennings owns the only victory scored over Valley Park this season, and is tied with Ferguson for second place in the standings. A defeat for Valley Park would place the three teams in a tie for the lead.

If Valley Park wins, it has only Brentwood, victor in but two of its six games, to defeat.

Valley Park's record this year:

Valley Park	18	Bayless	12
Valley Park	24	Fairview	21
Valley Park	33	Riverview Gardens	10
Valley Park	23	Fairview (non-leag.)	19
Valley Park	22	Eureka	15
Valley Park	36	Brentwood (non-lea.)	21
Valley Park	23	Hancock	22
Valley Park	19	Jennings (Fer. tour.)	22
Valley Park	48	Affton	20
Valley Park	23	Ferguson	19
Valley Park	269	Totals	181

CENTRAL-SLAVIA SOCCER CUP GAME SET BACK A WEEK

The second round national soccer cup match between the Centrals of St. Louis and the Slavia club of Cleveland, scheduled for Sunday, has been postponed one week to Feb. 24, it was announced this afternoon by Phil A. Riley, president of the St. Louis Soccer League. The postponement was obtained through the United States Football Association Cup Committee at the request of the Central club management, which is seeking to avoid a conflict in attractions with the Municipal League elimination series, which opens here Sunday.

An effort is now being made by the professional league and the Centrals to induce the executive committee of the Municipal League to leave Feb. 24 open, to avoid a conflict with the national cup game.

Slavia Club Has Won 18 Straight Soccer Games

CLEVELND, Feb. 15.

THE Slavia Club, which opposes the Centrals at St. Louis in a second round national soccer cup match, are Ohio State champions for the fifth straight year and have won 18 straight games: They have already clinched the American League championship (Cleveland's major soccer league).

Several individual stars, among them Goaltender Ramsey, are rated Ohio's best.

Bears to Open Trip With Game Against Tulsa

TULSA, Ok., Feb. 15.—With their hopes for the Valley basketball title in the balance, the Washington University Bears were here today to open a three-game trip with a game against Tulsa University tonight. In a previous game between the two, the Bears won at St. Louis by a 21—13 score. The Bears play the Oklahoma Aggies at Stillwater tomorrow night and, Monday, meet Washburn at Topeka, Kan. Victories over their three opponents would give the Bears an excellent title chance.

Coach White's Washington five has shown remarkable improvement in recent games as attested by victories over Drake and Creighton, both of whom have won from Tulsa. In the starting lineup tonight for Washington will be the two kids, Tommy Ozment and Louis Sauer. Mickey Martintoni will be at center while Capt. Moller and Bob Hudgens will take care of the guard posts.

Tulsa has been inconsistent in the season's play. Now and then the combination shows a real punch but, in most games, the team has been rather easily held by the opposition.

Champion Baer Opposes Poreda In Benefit Bout

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 15.

THIS city, scene of a tragic episode in Max Baer's early fight career, tonight will get its first chance to view Baer in action since he won the world's heavyweight championship.

Baer will battle Stanley Poreda, the New Jersey warrior with the record of 18 knockout victories, in a four-round bout. Poreda, conqueror of Primo Carnera and Tommy Loughran in 1932, is eager for his "crack" at the championship.

Tonight Baer fights in the memory of Frankie Campbell, the unfortunate San Francisco fighter, who died a few hours after fighting Baer here nearly five years ago.

Baer is donating his purse to Campbell's widow and small child. He volunteered his services and insisted upon paying his own training expenses.

NAVY REFUSES TO COME HERE TO PLAY BEARS

By a Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 15.—The Navy has declined to travel to the Middlewest to play a football game with Washington University, on the ground that to do so would interfere with the scholastic work of the players on the Naval Academy team, according to correspondence made public by Congressman John J. Cochran of St. Louis today.

For several weeks Cochran has been in correspondence with the superintendents of West Point and the Naval Academy at Annapolis in an effort to arrange a game in St. Louis with one of the service teams. The Army has definitely replied that a full schedule for 1936 and 1937 prevents consideration of a possible game with the Bears until a later date.

But the high hat stand of the Navy has called forth a protest from Cochran. In a letter to Admiral D. F. Sellers, superintendent of the Academy at Annapolis, he pointed out that the Navy team has played in Chicago and on other occasions has journeyed long distances from the Eastern seaboard.

"We have a park that will comfortably take care of 40,000 people," Cochran said in his letter of yesterday. "I admit that this is not as large as some of the parks that you play in, but Washington University is willing to give to the Naval Academy any per cent of the gate receipts that they desire that will make up the loss of money that might result by not having 40,000 people at the game. The value of the Navy in playing a game in St. Louis cannot be underestimated. It would, I feel, stimulate interest in the Navy."

NYIKOS NAMED FRESHMAN COACH OF BILLIKENS

COLUMBIA, Mo., Feb. 15.

DON FAUROT gave Missouri's lean and lethargic football tiger a big kick in the ribs yesterday.

The new head coach, beginning months in advance to restore the university's gridiron prestige, sounded a call for more interest.

"There are not enough football men reporting for gymnasium work," he said.

"These gymnasium practices are most important. Plays which will be used during the football season are now being introduced."

Seventy men have reported for the daily drills.

Coach Faurot announced that the starting date for spring football practice has been changed from March 1 to March 4.

Mike Nyikos, basketball coach at St. Louis University, this year will have added duties which will make him an all-year member of the Billikens' athletic department. Nyikos, last night, was named freshman football coach.

Nyikos, who has done splendid work with basketball teams at St. Louis since 1929, played football at South Bend (Ind.) high school but, during his college days at Notre Dame and Indiana U. specialized in basketball and was awarded all-star honors in the Big Ten one year at Indiana.

MEMBERS OF NEGRO BOXING SCHOOL DOWN TO ACTIVE TRAINING

Boys in the St. Louis Argus free school of boxing which opened two weeks ago under the direction of James G. Brown in the gymnasium of the Pine Street Y. M. C. A. have settled down to a steady grind that will carry them to the eliminations which is scheduled for March 1 at the Coliseum. Ninety-five Negro youths between the ages of 16 and 21 years have submitted to some pretty stiff workouts and hard drills for the fistic contests next month.

The three Kesslers—Benny, Sol and Harry—have taken turn about each school night to assist Brown, physical director at the Pine Street Y. in training the boys in the rudiments of boxing.

Tonight the boys under the direction of Benny Kessler will be instructed in foot-work and how to handle the gloves. Getting the muscles into shape and wind into regular breathing was a harder task than instructing the boys in how to handle punches.

Winners in the Coliseum card March 1, will get an opportunity to meet the outstanding stars in the national boxing contest which will be conducted here in April at the Arena.

CHINESE DAVIS CUP STAR IS ELIMINATED

MANILA, P. I., Feb. 15.—Leonardo Gavia, top ranking tennis amateur of the Philippines, yesterday eliminated Guy Cheng, newly named member of China's Davis Cup team, in the second round of the annual "all-comers" tournament here. The score was 6—2, 6—1, 6—4.

The Chinese team of which Cheng is a member will meet the United States team in the first round of the Davis Cup sectional elimination tournaments this year.

HELPFUL TIPS ABOUT BILLIARDS by C. A. STORER

No. 4—Follow Shot.

Before attempting to make shots one should repeatedly review and practice the four preceding lessons—they are the most important of all because they constitute the development of the necessary "follow through" stroke.

"Follow" means that the cue ball goes forward or follows after contact with the object ball. The follow action is attained by striking the cue ball about center. (See Lesson No. 4.)

Diagram No. 7 explains the different courses the cue ball will take according to the different speed it is traveling when it contacts the object ball. To practice the "follow" place the balls approximately as shown in Diagram No. 7. The heavy black line between the two object balls indicates the course the cue ball will take when shooting with slow or medium speed. The center dotted line indicates the course of the cue ball when you increase the speed of your stroke. The outside dotted line indicates the course of a ball when using extreme speed in your stroke. From this you will understand the speed of your stroke has much to do with accuracy.

To become acquainted with the different actions according to speed and how far above center you cue the ball, one must practice this first fundamental of the follow shot. Deliver the stroke with your cue as near level with the line of aim as possible, but be sure to let your cue follow through when striking the cue ball.

WRAY'S COLUMN

One of the Finest.

JOHNNY KILBANE, press notices relate, is selecting and training the team of Cleveland boxers which will oppose a St. Louis team in amateur intercity matches at the Arena next week. If Johnny has been able to impart even a part of the skill which he himself possessed and, on occasion, displayed in this city as a featherweight champion, our Mound City warriors are going to have a busy evening.

Kilbane's name means little to the current crop of boxing followers, but a quarter of a century ago he was internationally famous as the cleverest man in all fistiana. He had proved it in 1910 by defeating that will-o'-the-wisp Abe Attell decisively. It took a champion to lay a glove with any weight behind it on the phantom-like Abe, in those days.

KILBANE

Late in his career they overmatched Kilbane, sending him against the lightweight king, Benny Leonard, in 1917. That was suicide, because Leonard was almost as fast and clever as Kilbane and carried a knockout wallop besides. In three rounds it was all over—Johnny was kayoed. But he fought on.

In 1923, at the age of 35 and when his spark had gone, Johnny risked his title against the Frenchman, Eugene Criqui, and was stopped in the sixth round. Criqui couldn't have laid a glove on Johnny in his prime, but he gained the world's featherweight crown by defeating a burned-out relic.

Kilbane Could Hit.

FANS of his day were inclined to consider Kilbane a "powder-puff puncher." But that was erroneous. Against hard-hitting, clever foes, Kilbane usually fought cautiously.

But it is on record that he flattened in three rounds the most dangerous hitter of his day and class. "Knockout" George Chaney, who had a record of 100 KO's. Patsy Kline, Willie Jackson, George Kirkwood, Kayo Mars, Eddie Moy and many other noted boxers were knocked out by Johnny.

It was in St. Louis that Kilbane showed his knockout punch on one occasion. That was against Oliver Kirk, Olympic champion of 1904 and St. Louis' finest hope at that time.

Kirk, a graduate amateur, was matched with Kilbane in 1913 for a bout at the Future City Athletic Club. Kilbane at the time was champion and entitled to the courtesies usually conceded to top-ranking fighters. One of these was the privilege of entering the ring last and getting the benefit of the crowd's applause.

But Kirk decided it would help him if he worried Kilbane. So he allowed Johnny to enter the ring first and then kept him waiting. Kilbane fidgeted and fumed internally—perhaps he had to catch a train. His temper mounted and perhaps his original plan to go easy with the local pride went astray.

At any rate, it was a grimfaced fighter that Kirk faced when the referee finally waved them together for the fight. Or, rather, for the finish. Kilbane overwhelmed Kirk and took him in the second round.

Dedicated to Ban Johnson.

PROFESSIONAL baseball officials like to remind the world that baseball is the national sport. But they have been singularly remiss in leaving any permanent memorials to men who pioneered the game through early difficulties—men whose genius made it possible for the enormous development that followed.

It is a fact that as far as Organized Baseball is concerned, there is no permanent public memorial to Ban Johnson, through whose aggressiveness and genius baseball was rescued from the doldrums and parlayed into the big money.

This, perhaps, is due to the fact that Johnson went down fighting for a regime which modern baseball men felt was obsolete, and he became so embittered that he alienated even friends. Still, it does seem that the league at least owes him a "Day" or some other courtesy that would perpetuate its founder's name.

Yesterday, in Hot Springs, a gesture was made toward establishing a permanent though unofficial memorial to Johnson. George Sisler, the first man officially to be awarded the honor of the "most valuable player" by Johnson's league—that was in 1922—dedicated a baseball field at Hot Springs to the memory of "Uncle Ban." The field is the permanent grounds of the Ray Doan baseball school, in which Sisler, Hornsby, the Dean boys and other noted players are "professors."

The choice of Sisler was appropriate because it was Johnson who named Sisler as first baseman of his all-time, all-American League team; and he also had Sisler used as a model for his baseball statue, when he presented a silver trophy to Mexico.

The new "Ban Johnson Field" was the gift of the City of Hot Springs to the cause of baseball.

Congress Disapproved.

JOHNSON, during his lifetime, once tried to get national recognition of baseball. He wanted the Government to permit the erection of a monument in a Washington park, dedicated to baseball. Senator George Wharton Pepper interested himself in the project which, however, failed.

It seems strange that no city in the American circuit has seen fit to honor the man who devised the first national agreement, by naming a field or a stadium after him. In the American League today we have only locally significant names like Fenway Park, Yankee Stadium, Shibe Park, Griffith Stadium, Sportsman's Park etc. Why not "Ban Johnson Stadium," for one of them?

Inter-City Bouts Feature Olympic Club's Program

Jack Nichols, light-heavyweight ace of the Business Men's A. C., and former Western A. A. U. champion of his division, and Ralph Puhse, rugged Madison A. C. bantamweight, have been paired with Cleveland scrappers in two of the inter-city events heading the Olympic Athletic Club's amateur boxing tourney at the Arena next Wednesday night. Nichols will be pitted against Mike Minnich of the Cleveland team, while Puhse is slated to oppose Frankie Kara. Matchmaker Willie Miller announced both bouts today.

Nichols' sparkling triumph over Paul Luptak of Chicago, and Sailor Jack Nelson of Peoria, on the last two Arena programs, earned him Miller's selection for the match with Minnich, a fighter recommended by Johnny Kilbane, former featherweight champion of the world, as one of the best boxers in the Cleveland district.

Kara won the Cleveland flyweight title a year ago and fought his way to the semifinals of the annual Golden Gloves tourney in the Ohio metropolis last month. Kara is 18 years old.

Other Cleveland boxers on the coming Arena card include Al Anderla, Ohio American Legian champion and Golden Gloves finalist, and Frank Bojack, winner of lightweight title honors in both the Chicago and Cleveland tourneys last year. Anderla will trade punches with Irwin Streibel of the South Broadway A. C., Western A. A. U. heavyweight champion, and Bojack engages Johnny Martin of Springfield, Ill.

McKinley High School basketball Goldbugs ended their season with a 39 to 27 decision over Soldan yesterday afternoon in the Emmaus gymnasium. That gave McKinley a final record of five victories and one defeat, while Beaumont so far has won all four of its league engagements.

Soldan Stars Out.

That Soldan suffered its second defeat in five stars, was due partly to the absence of John O'Connell, who is hobbling around on crutches and of Sanford Werner, who has been out of school with a throat infection. Both these boys are regular guards and guarding was something that the West Enders were very much in need of against McKinley.

The Goldbugs enjoy playing on their own floor—three of their five decisions were gained there—and their familiarity with its confines simplifies their scoring problem. During the time that Soldan was endeavoring to orient itself in the short Emmaus gymnasium, McKinley had jumped into a commanding lead.

At the end of the first quarter the Goldbugs were out in front, 13 to 4, and at the close of the half, 27 to 10. Coach Harry White was of the opinion that his second team could perform as well against McKinley, so at the beginning of the third period the second stringers started.

Soldan's reserves out-manuevered the Goldbugs and out-scored them, 6 to 5, in the third quarter. The regulars returned to the battle in the final eight minutes and also out-scored McKinley, 11 to 7, but the handicap gained by the Goldbugs in the first half was too much for Soldan to overcome.

Walter Songer, McKinley right guard, added eight points to put his season's total at 62 for six games. This is 11 more than Ray de Greeff, in second place, owns. Ray January of Soldan retained third place by also getting eight points to put his total at 49.

Russell High Scorer.

Charles "Mickey" Russell was the high pointer of the afternoon getting 12 of McKinley points. Songer was next and then came Bill Roberts with seven. Gene Globig, Singler and Carl Willman each counted four points. Carl Steimnitz was second to January on the Soldan side with six points.

CAVALCADE'S FOOT SO SORE HE IS UNABLE TO WEAR SHOE

CATAWBA ENTRY IS FAVORED TO WIN IN $20,000 DERBY AT ANITA

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 15.—What price Cavalcade starting in the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap? Just about 10 to 1 to 500 to 1 that he won't, according to the various degrees of certainty on the part of practically every competent trainer on the grounds here.

It may be good publicity to let on as if the mighty Cavalcade has a good chance to go in the $100,000 Santa Anita, and maybe he has. But, if he does, then every reliable horseman at the track has guessed wrong.

Cavalcade's right front foot is so sore that he can't endure a shoe on it.

Mrs. Isabel Dodge Sloane, Cavalcade's owner, arrives from the East tomorrow morning, but decision to withdraw the horse may hang fire until the day before the race. The nomination fees have been paid for Cavalcade and his owner has a right to wait until 10:30 a. m., next Friday, to decide whether he is fit enough to try for the hundred grand.

Equipoise's trainer, Tom Healey, has decided to give old Ekky another race before the big event. If he can find a heat with the conditions right, over a short route, about Teusday, he will enter the Whitney champion, believing that one more race will put the horse right on edge.

Catawba Entry Will Be Favored for First Derby.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 15.—Silvio Coucci, star jockey of the Greentree Stables, was due here today to ride Preadventure, Mrs. Payne Whitney's three-year-old, in the $20,000 Derby tomorrow.

Sound Advice and Polar Flight, Catawba Stable entry, were expected to be the favorites for the event, the result of which was expected to have much affect on the Kentucky Derby future book since the top thoroughbreds here have been nominated for the annual classic in May.

Both Sound Advice and Polar Flight have shown to good form here, but at least half a dozen others have better than an outside chance. Along with Preadventure will be Gillie, as the Greentree entry. C. V. Whitney has Rough Diamond. Pitter Pat will carry the colors of the Belair Stud. Bluebeard, owned by W. R. Coe, also is liked.

Most of the Derby starters worked yesterday. Gillie breezed six furlongs in 1:14 3-5. Preadventure went the mile in 1:42, while Bluebeard took the same distance in 1:43 and Rough Diamond was clocked in 1:48.

Roman Soldier to Carry Top Weight in Race.

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 15.—Roman Soldier, which W. Sachsenmaier bought for $7500 from Max Hirsch early in the season, draws top weight of 126 pounds for the Bahama Handicap, one of Hialeah Park's major stakes for three year olds, tomorrow.

Mrs. Charles S. Bromley's Brannon, winner of two races at Hialeah, will pack 122 pounds, as will F. Spatowa's Wise Prince. The Maemere Farm's Mantagna is allotted 119 pounds and the B. B. Stable's Good Harvest 117.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Feb. 15.—Speeding up action to permit openin gof the scheduled spring meeting at Oaklawn Park, Hot Springs, on Feb. 22, the Arkansas Senate today passed a House bill legalizing pari-mutuel betting on horse racing.

An emergency clause, making the bill a law immediately upon signature by the Governor, was attached by the Senate.

Lewis Surprises by Defeating Browning; Now for Return Bout

By Damon Kerby

About once every season or two an upset takes place in wrestling. The upset doesn't hurt anybody and it gives the customers something to talk about for a while. When critics of wrestling point to the many, many build-ups that take place with monotonous regularity, the faithful follower can say:

"But what about that match between Goofus and Palookas? You yourself said Goofus was due to win and he didn't. It looks all right to me."

Getting around to the point, the season's upset, if you care to call it that, took place at the Arena last night when the ancient Strangler Lewis slugged and headlocked his way to victory over Jim Browning of Verona, Mo., before 5396 paid customers. Lewis, eliminated by Champion Jimmy Londos here only two weeks ago, was picked as the probable loser.

It had been announced that Browning, if victor, would be sent against Londos here, early next month. Now it is considered a possibility that Browning and Lewis will be signed for a return bout with the winner (and it may be Browning) getting a shot at Londos on a later card.

Rest, Not Wrestling Holds?

Despite the outcome of the bout, which was obviously a surprse to a majority of the customers, the affair in many spots was drab and dreary. Some of the cynical ringsiders charged the performers with using an unusual number of "rest holds," but those weren't "rest holds." They were punishing holds. Of course they were! You wouldn't let yourself believe for a minute that athletes of Lewis' and Browning's standing would put it on for the customers, would you?

Browning gave the spectators two or three glimpses of his airplane scissors, but the job of picking up Lewis and whirling him with the legs appeared just a little too tough for Big Jim. And why wouldn't it be, granting that Lewis weighed only the announced 248 pounds? If Lewis weren't the man of his obvious high standing in the pure and wholesome wrestling world one would almost be inclined to believe that he co-operated the two or three times that the flying scissors hold was applied.

In the final flare-up, without which no headline wrestling event is official, Browning punched Lewis several times, Lewis returned the blows and then slapped on headlocks. He bounced to his feet, a winner in 46 minutes 15 seconds.

The earlier events left much to be desired and the saddest of all was the 30-minute draw between Ray Steele and Hans Kampfer. They apparently could not enter into the spirit of the occasion. Spectators booed throughout the affair. But they were both in their trying. Of course they were!

A bright spot in an otherwise dull evening, at least to those around ringside, was furnished by the addition of a "knockdown" timekeeper, whose duty it was to toll off the seconds when a wrestler was under the ropes or out of the ring. During the early bouts this worthy counted by hitting the ring post with a hammer, much to the delight of those around him. In the final bout he put away the hammer and counted with his arm. It was said at ring side that the Missouri Athletic Commission was responsible for this pleasing local innovation, which gave an extra touch of tone and class to the proceedings.

A performer in the first event, Jack Warner, was counted out in his bout with Joe Herman after 7:35. He still was part way out of the ring when the timekeeper reached "20."

Otto Kuss, a clean cut appearing young fellow who says he's from Pine City, Minn., won over Tommy Marvin with tackles and a body block after 14:19, and Bronko Nagurski won over Joe Cox with tackles and a body block in 14:39.

Receipts were $4151.40. Federal tax was $386.73, State tax was $215.70, aud city tax was $186.24.

Lovelock and Beccali Are Sought for Mile Race With Cunningham on March 16

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—A plan to bring at least three of the world's greatest mile runners together for a race in Madison Square Garden the night of March 16 was announced yesterday by the Knights of Columbus Games Committee.

The committee has asked the Amateur Athletic Union to invite Jack Lovelock of Oxford, and Luigi Beccali, Italy's 1500 meter Olympic champion, over for a race against Glenn Cunningham, America's ace of aces, as a climax to the annual K. of C. meet. If Bill Bonthron and Gene Venzke would like to join they probably will be given the opportunity.

Cunningham holds the present outdoor record of 4:06.7 for the mile and the indoor standard of 4:08.4. Lovelock held the former outdoor mark of 4:07.6 while Beccali held the "metric mile" record of 3:49 for 1500 meters until Bonthron shaved two-tenths of a second from it last summer at Milwaukee.

Cunningham has won the Columbian mile, feature of the annual K. of C. indoor games two years, doing 4:12 in 1933 for the best mark of the season and his record 4:08.4 last March.

Venzke set the then world mark of 4:10 in winning it in 1932 so the last three times have seen the race the climax eight furlongs of the indoor campaign.

As neither Lovelock nor Beccali is familiar with indoor running it is considered doubtful if they will accept, although Beccali dallied with the idea of coming over last winter.

Crowd of 15,689 Sees Rangers Win From Toronto, 3-0

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.

EVERY goal-tender may have his "on" day, but it's an unusual coincidence when three of these well-padded heroes of ice hockey pick the same night for their most sensational exploits.

That happened last night. The New York Rangers, Chicago Blackhawks and Montreal Canadiens rolled on to new national hockey league triumphs each by a shutout. Young Wilf Cude of the Canadiens; Dave Kerr of the Rangers and Lorne Chabot of the Blackhawks were the goalies who repelled all rival thrusts.

The Rangers, whose spectacular comeback has amazed the hockey world, whipped the Toronto Maple Leafs, 3—0, to remain in a tie with Chicago for first place in the American section. Chicago, meanwhile, trounced Detroit by the same score while the Canadiens, third in the International section, turned back their Montreal rivals, the Maroons, 2—0.

The largest crowd of the season, 15,689 customers, jammed the garden to see the Rangers triumph.

SEVEN BIRD DOGS STAND OUT IN U. S. FIELD TRIALS

MEXICO, Mo., Feb. 15.—As finals for the National Quail Championships for bird dogs, conducted by the Association Amateur Field Trial Clubs of America, neared a conclusion today, a poll of observers in the mounted galleries showed several decided favorites, based on performances to date over the 16,000-acre game sanctuary in Central Missouri, near here, where the events are being held.

After today's braces, only two dogs of a field of 26 entries, remain to be shown before the judges confer the 1935 title of quail champion tomorrow, or call for an added run-off series of heats devoted to speed, range, consistency and endurance, to guide them to a final decision.

Eastern dogs with loyal supporters are General Jackson Jr., setter, owned by Dr. F. J. Boyd of Cincinnati; Four Winds Arrow, 1934 national pheasant champion, owned by Dr. H. E. Longsdorf of Mount Holly, N. J., whose performance was not quite what was expected; Shore's Frosty Mist, owned by Dr. N. J. Ford of Winston-Salem, N. C., and Radio Matilda, owned and shown by Raymond Hoagland, New York sportsman, who is president of the national field trials body.

Among the younger dogs, observers were pleased with Fort Sill Ranger, Oklahoma two-year-old, owned by Maj. J. J. Waters of Fort Leavenworth, Kan., and handled by Harry McNamara, Sedalia, Mo., amateur. The field was reduced from 27 to 26 dogs today by the scratching of Nepken's Carolina Bill, withdrawn by Jay F. Carlisle, New York City.

Football Rules Committee Begins Annual Tinkering

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—The annual overhauling of the football rules begins today at the Seaview Country Club in Absecon, N. J.

For the next three days, the National Football Rules Committee will study the playing code and changes suggested in it. On Monday the committee through its veteran secretary, W. S. Langford, will make public what changes, if any, have been decided on.

Three Possible Changes.

The discussions will center largely on three changes suggested by the associations of officials and coaches whose representatives sit with the committee in an advisory capacity.

The officials have proposed that the goal posts be returned to the goal line and that forward passing be permitted at any point behind the line of scrimmage instead of a minimum of five yards. The coaches want a clearer explanation of when a ball carrier's forward progress has been stopped, particularly as it affects lateral-passing.

In advance of the discussions, it appeared as though a majority of the committee was in favor of letting the rules stand as they are on the ground that they have succeeded in opening up the game without sacrificing the safety of the players.

Members of the Rules Committee in addition to Langford and Chairman Walter R. Okeson are Amos Alonzo Stagg of College of Pacific; W. J. Bingham, Harvard; Dana X. Bible, Nebraska; H. J. Stegeman, Georgia; Fielding H. Yost, Michigan; Ray Morrison, Vanderbilt; W. O. Hunter, Southern California; W. G. Crowell, Philadelphia, and L. Mahoney, Rocky Mountain Conference.

Other Representatives.

Lou Little, Columbia; Noble Kizer, Purdue; O. E. (Babe) Hollingberry, Washington State, and Morley Jennings, Baylor, represent the coaches, and A. B. Maginnes, S. S. Scott and Al Farrier, all of New York, the officials.

WOMEN'S TITLE TRACK MEET SET FOR MARCH 22

Missouri Valley Indoor Meet Will Be Held March 2

By the Associated Press.

DES MOINES, Ia., Feb. 15.

THE Missouri Valley Conference indoor track and field meet will be held at Drake University March 2, it was announced yesterday by Franklin (Pitch) Johnson, Drake track coach.

Preliminaries will be held Saturday morning and all finals will be staged at night. Entries are expected from all the seven conference schools.

The women's national indoor track and field meet of the National Amateur Athletic Union will be held at the Arena, Friday night, March 22, it was announced yesterday by Charles J. Gevecker, president of the Ozark division of the A. A. U., and Dr. Jesse Robinson, president of the Olympic A. C., which is sponsoring the meet.

A dirt track will be used instead of the usual boards, this being made possible by the fact that the national meet will follow a program of indoor automobile racing.

The track has been tried by runners following the last two auto shows, and has been found to be firm and as fast as the board track. The track is 10 laps to the mile and 25 feet in width, which is wide enough to allow eight runners to start at one time.

In addition to the women's events, it is planned to have several exhibition events. Invitations have been extended to Glenn Cunningham, former Kansas University miler, who holds the world's record for the mile run; Charles Hornbostel, middle distance runner, and Ivan Fuqua, sprinter, both former runners at Indiana University.

A special university relay race and possibly a high school relay race are also being planned.

30-DAY SUSPENSION BY NATIONAL A. A. U. FOR STELLA WALSH

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 15.—Stella Walsh, Polish-American running champion, today was ordered suspended for 30 days, effective immediately, by Daniel J. Ferriss, chairman of the National A. A. U. Registration Committee.

She was charged with professionalism by the Niagara Association of the Amateur Union, which contended she violated two A. A. U. rules by playing on a basketball team at Buffalo against an unsanctioned team and participating on the same program with two professional quintets.

McBride Skaters Triumph.

McBride High School's skating squad won a meet from the Downtown Y. M. C. A. skaters yesterday at the Winter Garden. McBride swept the three places in the half-mile race, with Kalbfleish first, Schaff, second, and McCarthy third, and the first two places in the 440-yard dash, with Schaff first and Fritche second. Walter of Downtown was third. Point totals were: McBride 110, Downtown 10.

M'SPADEN, KANSAS PRO, TOPS GOLFERS IN COAST TOURNEYS

YOUNGSTER WON $2900 IN PLAY; WHITE, ST. LOUIS COLLECTED $444

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 15.—Youth walked off with the greater share of California's golfing gold this season.

Figures compiled here yesterday showed that Harold McSpaden, 26-year-old Kansas City, Kan., professional, gleaned $2904.05 to head the parade as the golfers moved East after $33,000 worth of tournaments in California and Lower California.

Second to the Midwesterner, who won three championships, was Henry Picard, 27-year-old Hershey, Pa., professional and Agua Caliente Open champion. The Pennsylvanian won only one title, but collected cash in all but one of the other events and tied for second in the Oakmont Open, Glendale, a day after taking the Lower California event. His total was $2324.16.

Following closely in third, was Vic Ghezzi, Deal, N. J., youth, who captured the classic Los Angeles Open. His earnings for slightly more than two months of play were $2195.03. John Revolta, the fourth of the youngster quartet to set the pace, received $2154.33, although the Milwaukee player failed to take a title.

Horton Smith, Oak Park, Ill., was fifth with $2068.73, and MacDonald Smith, sixth, with $1960.

Four others won better than $1000—Ky Laffoon, of Chicago, $1809.66; Henry Cooper, Chicago, $1563.90; Willie Goggin, San Francisco, $1267.50, and Jimmy Hines, Los Angeles, $1117.66.

It was a tough season on most of the veterans. Olin Dutra, National Open champion, earned only $215.46, finishing thirty-first.

Paul Runyan, White Plains, N. Y., National P. G. A. champion, failed to compete in three of the events, but collected the small sum of $211.66 in the others for thirty-third postion. Gene Sarazen, New York, who set the pace in 1930 by winning the Agua Caliente championship and $10,000 first prize, gathered $670 this season.

Renaissance and Celtics to Continue Series at Coliseum

Teamwork, built in many years of playing together, and individual brilliancy will be on exhibition tonight as the original New York Celtics and the Renaissance battle at the Coliseum in the second of their series to determine the world's professional cage supremacy. The game is scheduled to get under way at 9 o'clock.

Teamwork, such as has been seldom attained in sport, is exemplified by the Celtics. For years this combination of players has worked together and, playing in almost 2000 games together during that time, has developed an almost uncanny passing and smooth-flowing game.

Dutch Dehnert, who devised the pivot play and has worked it to its highest capabilities; Captain and Manager Joe Lapchick and Pete Barry, who rely on Dehnert's passing to work in for dead-eye shots, and Davey Banks, tiny speed merchant of the back court, have been playing together since the team was organized 20 years ago.

Besides their other capabilities they are also regarded as the "iron men" of basketball. Only one substitute is carried by the team and he, Pat Herlihy, and Nat Hickey change off at the standing guard position.

The Rens, on the other hand, boast some of the greatest individual stars the game has ever known. Captain "Fat" Jenkins is regarded as the speediest dribbler in the game. "Pappy" Ricks is said to be the most accurate shooter ever to don gym shoes, having averaged, in 140 games last year, over 14 points per game. "Tarzan" Cooper, giant center, is a strong man in addition to being an accurate shot and amazing ball handler.

Last Friday, in Chicago, the Celtics downed the Rens, 28-20, in the first of the title series so both teams will be "out for blood" tonight. A year ago, 8000 saw the Celtics nip the Negro team, 38-35, at the Coliseum here.

ST. FRANCIS DE SALES WINS SODALITY TITLE

The St. Francis de Sales basketball team won the Thursday night division title of the South Side Sodality League last night by defeating the Holy Trinity five, 22—19. The winner will play St. Joseph's Croatians, Wednesday night at the St. Joseph's hall in the first of a three-game series to decide the league champion.

St. Joseph is the champion team of the Wednesday night division.

In the other game last night, the St. Agatha five won from the SS. Peter and Paul squad, 28—21.

32 WOMEN WILL PLAY IN INDOOR TENNIS TOURNEY

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—With the entry of Mme. Sylvia Jung Henrotin, second ranking woman tennis player of France, furnishing the international angle, 32 players yesterday were drawn for the United States women's indoor tennis championships opening Monday at the Seventh Regiment Armory.

Mme. Henrotin, surpassed only by Mme. Rene Mathieu in her own country, was given top ranking in the seeding together with Dorothy Andrus of Stamford, the United States' No. 4 player, who was placed at the head of the four seeded American stars.

Outranked by Miss Andrus nationally, Norma Taubele of New York, the defending champion, was seeded second above Jane Sharp of Pasadena, the country's sixth ranking player, and Helen Pederson, also of Stamford. Miss Taubele, who also was on the winning doubles and mixed doubles teams last year, holds seventeenth place nationally, while Miss Pederson is unranked.

The French star will have two of the seeded players to contend with. She was placed at the bottom of the lower half of the draw, which also includes the defending champion and Miss Pederson. Miss Andrus heads the upper half, in which Miss Sharp also was seeded.

Washington U. Swimmers Meet Illinois Team

Opening their varsity swimming season, Coach Artie Eilers' Washington University team tonight opposes the strong squad from Illinois College. Nine events are on the program which will start at 8 p. m. in Wilson Pool.

Coach Eilers' squad is regarded as a strong contender for the Missouri Valley Conference championship. Two of his outstanding performers are Fred Varney in the free style events and Capt. Paul Payne who swims the 440.

Illinois College's team is built about Capt. Dewey Morberg, who takes part in the sprints and fancy diving.

NORMANDY FIVE AGAIN LOSES CONTEST IN LAST PERIOD; CLAYTON WINS

That habit of Normandy High School's basketball team of losing games in the final period continued last night, when the Vikings played Clayton on even terms throughout most of the game, and then let its offense bog down in the final minutes to let Clayton win, 27-21, and go into a second-place tie with Webster Groves in the Suburban League standings.

It was the ninth defeat in 10 games for Normandy and most of them came after the Vikings had led or been close to the lead throughout the game. Last night, Clayton jumped into a 7-0 lead, but the Vikings replied with 11 points before Clayton could score again. Clayton held a 12-11 lead at the half.

The score changed repeatedly during the third period, with Normandy ahead, 19-18, after three quarters. But one field goal was all the Vikings could score in the last session, while Clayton made nine points, three on free throws.

MARQUETTE U. BOXER WILL OPPOSE EVANS IN COLISEUM BOUT

A St. Louis boy who is a member of the Marquette University boxing squad, Johnny Fisher, is returning to display his wares before a home town crowd. Fisher has agreed to meet Floyd Evans, East St. Louis featherweight, in one of the five inter-city matches, featuring Benny Kessler's amateur boxing show next Thursday night at the Coliseum.

In two recent bouts, Evans handed those Madison (Ill.) sockers—Tommy Starr and Ralph Puhse—lacings.

In three other inter-city matches already closed, Paul Spica, North Side Italian, meets Clem Kopydolowski, Wisconsin A. A. U. featherweight champion; Bruce Fero, 118-pounder, who is another Badger State monach, takes on Louis Wallach and Harold Smercina, St. Louis U. dental student, battles Henry Dutkiewicz, Milwaukee Golden Gloves star.

VASHON AND SUMNER BASKET TEAMS MEET

The Vashon High School and the Sumner High basketball teams will play the second contest of the three-game series at 8 o'clock tonight in the gymnasium of the Pine Street Y. M. C. A. In a previous meeting, Vashon won by a 50 to 29 decision.

A preliminary game between the alumni teams of both schools has been scheduled to precede the championship contest.

MUNY TENNIS BODY PLANS INSTRUCTIONS FOR YOUNG PLAYERS

A program for increasing interest in tennis on the public parks courts of St. Louis has been planned by the Municipal Tennis Association. The three principal parts of the program are:

First—Coaching for beginners, a need which has long been felt, but which has hitherto been lacking.

Second—A membership campaign to be carried out by the different park clubs and which is necessary to the growth of the organization.

Third—Ranking of the first 10 players in each park club to facilitate the Municipal Tournament Committee in seeding players in the various tournaments and putting players in their proper positions on the teams playing in the Municipal Interpark Tennis League.

Detailed plans to carry out these three major and the other minor details will be submitted to the next meeting of the association in March.

14 SKATERS TO START HERE IN PRO MARATHON

By Harry McKanna.

Eight professional speed skaters, four from Cleveland headed by Ben O'Sickey, co-winner of 1933 six-day race at Madison Square Garden, New York, and four from Detroit including Charles Delphier are due to arrive in St. Louis late today for the first professional marathon at the Winter Garden Sunday night.

The eight stars will be joined tomorrow, by other speedsters from Syracuse, Schenectady and other New York points and a field of 14, including two St. Louis entrants, will work out at the Winter Garden Saturday to fit themselves for the 26-mile, 385-yard race.

The track will be laid out tomorrow afternoon. It will be 16 laps to a mile and the winner will have to travel 419½ laps to pull down first money.

O'Sockey, who with Bobby McLean of Chicago, won the team race in New York, is the pre-race favorite. His competition will include Tony Rogers and Herman A. Perleberg, runnersup to the O'Sickey-McLean duo. Strodel of Syracuse and Eddie O'Herin of Cleveland, fourth place winners in the Madison Square Garden event. Others entered are Paul (Pop) Boudreau of Syracuse, an endurance skater, who is expected to be the "dark horse," John Tobias of Detroit, fifth place winner in the seven-day Pittsburgh race last year, Ford Hatfield of Detroit, State pro champion. Maurice De Loof, runnerup to Art Staff in the Canadian pro championship, Peter C. Dubo, trainer for Staff and McLean, Bobby Lamb of Astoria, N. Y. and Jimmy Jamieson and Bill Minster of St. Louis.

Ben Blanke, promoter of the marathon, will hold an ice circus in connection with the marathon, and among the attractions will be Renee Flemmer, four-year-old figure-skater, Lela May Wideman, a five-year-old fancy skater, Douglas Duffy and "Red" McCarthy, two stunt skaters.

GAERDNERS DEFEAT PABS FIVE, 26-21

The Gaerdner basketball team of Belleville, Ill., scored its second victory in three games with the St. Louis Pabs last night at Belleville winning 26-21. The fourth meeting between these teams will be Sunday afternoon at the Maplewood High School gymnasium.

The first half was a see-saw battle, with the lead changing eight times with the Belleville team leading 11-10 at the half. The Pabs took a lead at the start of the third quarter, but then the Gaerdners went into the front and held the lead until the end of the game.

Death for Hauptmann.
Useful Warning.
$850,000,000 for $49,000.
Poor Ethiopia.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.

(Copyright, 1935.)

HAUPTMANN, in the language of crime has been sentenced to "burn" in the electric chair the week of March 18. Few of the delays that make our legal system more profitable to lawyers than to justice will play any part in this matter. Public opinion would not tolerate it, although granting one appeal is mandatory.

Organized crime is warned, once more, that kidnaping means death. The warning means little, for you cannot deal successfully with smallpox by attacking each sore as it appears on the surface, or imitating savages who scrape the entire body with sharp shells. It is necessary to go deeper and stop the smallpox.

The United States must go deeper than killing an occasional criminal. It must find a way to inspire respect for law.

Newspaper men and others trained in the observation of crime had no doubt of the prisoner's guilt. The Judge's charge clearly expressed his belief that guilt had been proved, and one of Hauptmann's own lawyers told a reporter what the verdict would be, before the jury had been out five minutes, although he did not speak for publication.

All four of the women jurors wept after sending Hauptmann to death, their tears due to emotion caused by painful duty.

No male juror wept, and in New York State, where a law is proposed permitting women to sit on juries, some will say that weeping indicates woman's unfitness for jury work. Others, more intelligent, will say it proves that women should sit on juries, the tears demonstrating higher emotion and conscientiousness.

One miserable creature, more or less, in the death chair, does not help justice.

But cold-blooded criminals, planning for profit crimes not based on sudden impulse or the desperation of hunger, will consider carefully the profit and loss possibilities in kidnaping.

Bruno Richard Hauptmann may convince other professional criminals planning a "snatch" that kidnaping with its uncertainties, plus the electric chair, when convicted, does not pay.

The conviction of Hauptmann confirms the statement that Al Capone, jailed in Chicago for failure to pay his income tax, made to this writer who visited him immediately after the Lindbergh kidnaping, urging him to help trace the child through his many crime connections.

Capone said "if they let me out I will put my kid brother here in my place, as hostage. I don't suppose anybody would suggest that I would double-cross my own brother. I'll go out and see what I can do. I have many angles, and if this kidnaping is a regular job by any regular mob, some one of my angles ought to turn up something. But take it from me, this is not the work of a regular mob. They would know too much to try that kind of crime. It is the work of some fool operating on his own account."

Capone was not released to utilize his "angles" and it turns out that his judgment was sound. "A fool, working on his own account," did commit the shocking crime.

Mussolini, who uses "airplane language," wants from Ethiopia $49,000 for injuries inflicted on Italians by wild Ethiopian tribes. To get $49,000 Mussolini is prepared to spend $850,000,000 on a war.

That seems a good deal of money to send after $49,000, but possibly, "national honor" is involved. Also, there may be gold mines and other things in Ethiopia that might be worth collecting.

We marvel at any nation suggesting a "war" to cost $850,000,000. In this land of 'easy marks' if we even talked about war European nations would borrow $5,000,000,000 or $6,000,000,000 from us instantly, and Ethiopia, itself might get $850,000,000 of our foolish dollars. If we had war, the first group of dollar-a-year patriots, would spend at least a billion for us, without any results. You remember two billions' worth of airplanes that would not fly and floating ships that never left the harbor. How do Europeans wage war so cheaply?

France also would like a little change from Ethiopia, s'il vous plait—for Ethiopian border tribesmen killed some French policemen, very valuable. Perhaps England will make it unanimous, then the poor Ethiopian Emperor, direct descendant of King Solomon and the Queen of Sheba in his own opinion, would know how Poland felt in the

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

WHEN I was a girl, and a young housewife, the veranda rocking chairs got busy about 1:30 p. m.

Elsie Robinson

Creak—creak—creak! Up and down the long, shaded streets you'd hear their slow, comfortable chorus. .see the plump pleasant figures swaying above them, hair released from frizzing pins, scoured faces beaming rosily, white aprons tied crisply over "second best" alpaca or mohair.

Busy institutions, these rocking chairs. Nine-tenths of the dressmaking of our American world was done on these porches and verandas. Stockings to darn, petticoats to patch, father's old suit to be cut down for Junior. Miles of lace—acres of unbleached cotton—tons of buttons! Yet there was no hurry. The needle-pricked fingers took their time.

Leisurely Life.

Creak—creak—creak! And in between, the slow clopety-clop, clopety-clop of the old horses and buggies—the whining whirr of the lawn mowers—the thud of a cane whacking someone's carpet in a backyard—the lazy chat of a neighbor dropping in for a cookie recipe.

A leisurely life. A life in which slow bodies and sluggish minds could function readily without fear of defeat. For little had happened, yet, to quicken the human tempo. In 1885, 1895—even in 1905—life still moved at much the same gait it had followed a thousand or a million years before.

Somewhere, in those vague and alien districts beyond the veiled horizon, automobiles were beginning to toot, telephones were shrilling, the Machine Age was getting under way. But these things had not yet touched our common village life.

Disruption.

No shining 60-cylinder monster competed with old Dobbin or tempted the youngsters down back lanes. No sleek and silky stenographer, swift and sophisticated, challenged Mom's slow, hit-or-miss technique. No movies to make home life a tiresome, meaningless discipline. Life still ambled along—

Then, with the sudden, disruptive violence of an explosion, all that old, slow life went up—never again to be assembled. And today our world is filled with pitiful people who can't snap into the tempo of 1935.

But why—they wonder, in pitiful bewilderment—should that be held against them? They are all the good things their parents taught them to be a scant thirty years ago. They're industrious, reliable, honest, careful, patient, thrifty, kind. And utterly loyal to anyone associated with them.

They've no bad habits. Their "word is as good as their bond." They are immeasurably more conscientious than the current young squirts who got all the good jobs. Then why—why can't they find a place, or hold one, in this modern world?

The Reason.

A pitiful chorus. And most pitiful of all are the voices of the wives and mothers whose hearts still cling to The Rocking Chair Brigade. They haven't, they passionately assure you, "a thought outside their homes and families." They're willing—so tragically willing—to "work their fingers to the bone." Then why—why—isn't that enough?

Because—cruel as this answer may seem—they prefer the shelf.

They CAN go ahead with life—if they wish. But it means haste and pressure. Harder yet, it means competition and criticism—this hideous, impersonal modern criticism which ruthlessly strips away all sentimental pretense and insist on Brass Tacks.

And they can't—they WON'T—take it! Vainly, pitifully, they still hope that the good old rocking chair will come back!

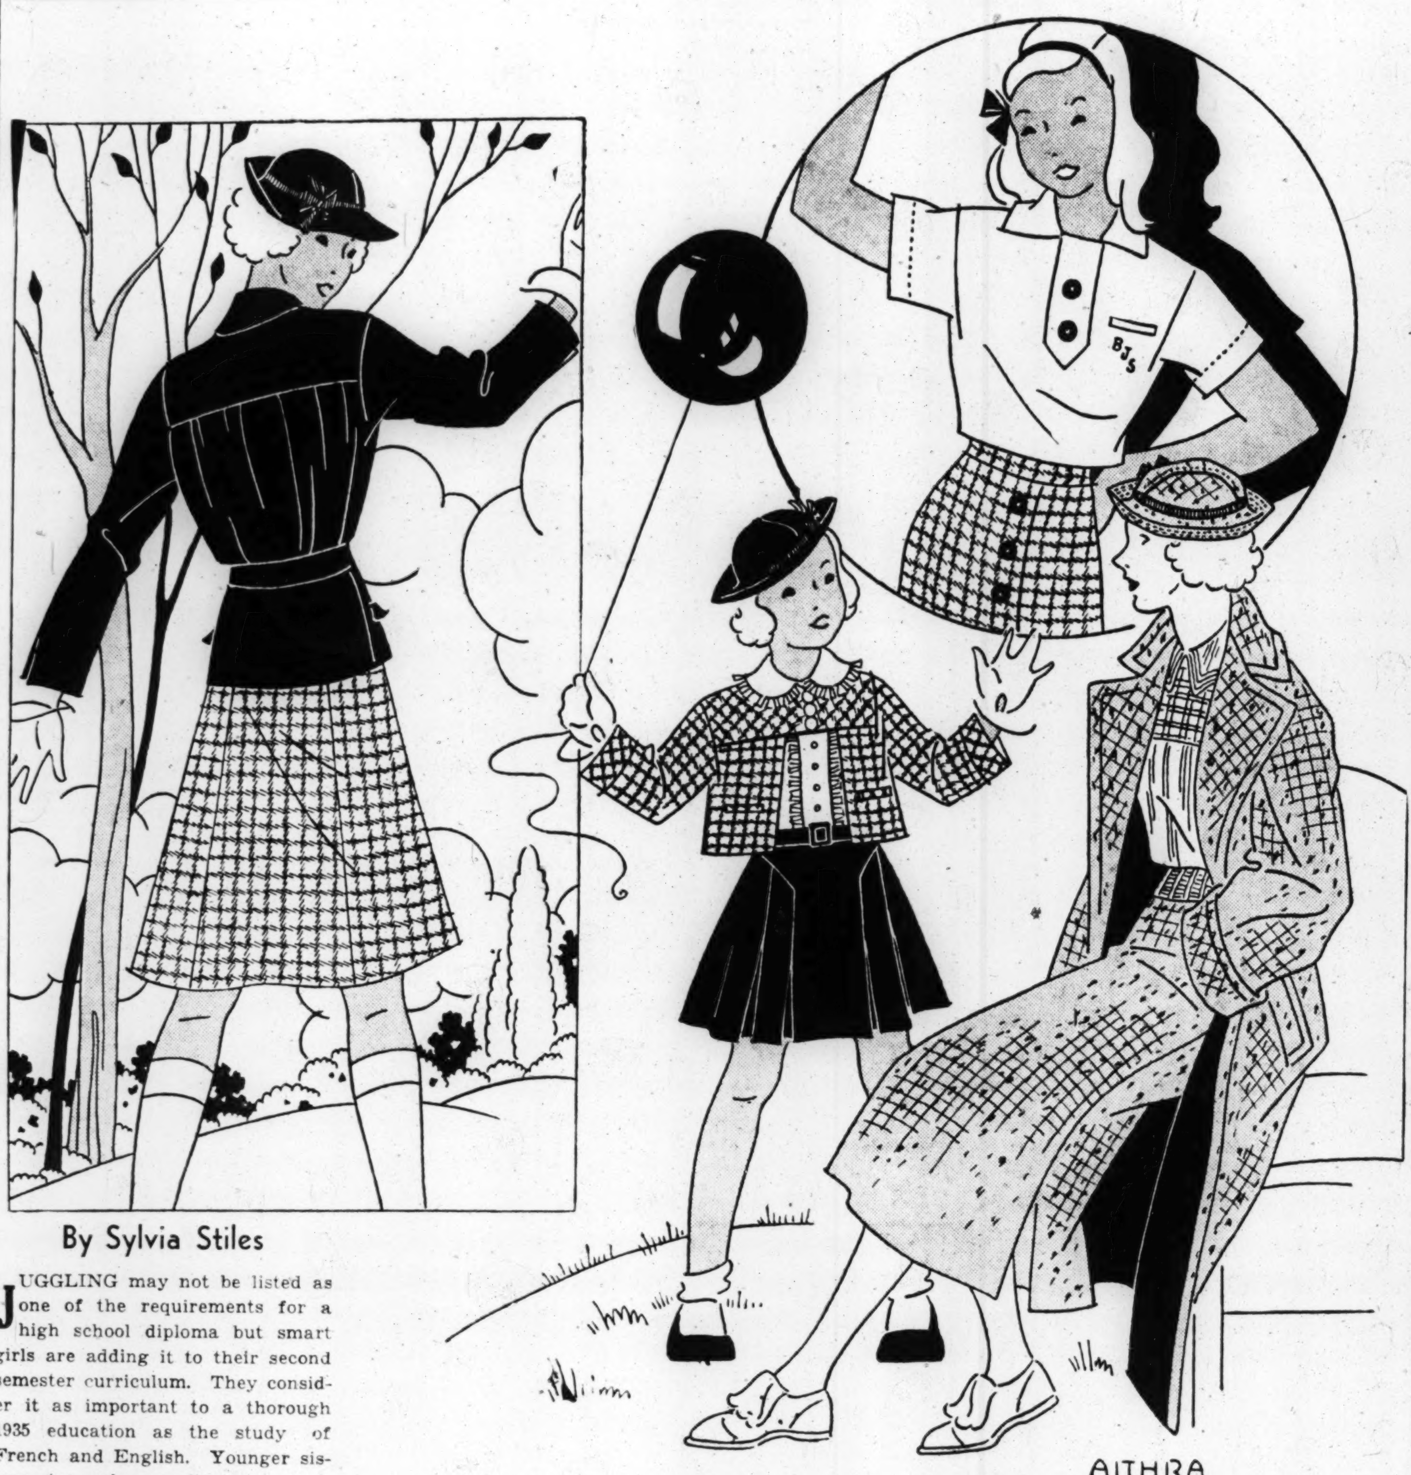
VARIETY in GIRLS' ENSEMBLES

Fashion Sketches Made in Stores of St. Louis



By Sylvia Stiles

JUGGLING may not be listed as one of the requirements for a high school diploma but smart girls are adding it to their second semester curriculum. They consider it as important to a thorough 1935 education as the study of French and English. Younger sisters, too, who aren't more than seven years of age are following the example of the 14-year-olds.

To become proficient in the art as it is practiced by youthful enthusiasts certain essentials must be considered. There is the matter of a good teacher and also that of materials or properties, if such they may be called. Everyone who has watched a skilled juggler at work knows that good showmanhip is one of the tricks of his profession, so the instructor must be a good showman besides having the prescribed articles with which to juggle.

Since the art in which school girls are so primarily interested has to do with the juggling of clothes, Dame Fashion is the cleverest and most exacting teacher. No one can doubt her showmanship and no one can question her familiarity with the trickiest properties. She takes five or six different garments that she considers distinctive and by certain slight of hand performances produces a variety of costumes.

In teaching girls how to juggle their clothes according to the latest rules of style, Dame Fashion prefers to start with a suit as the basis. She does this because suits are primarily important now and because a suit which has a warm topcoat can be used immediately in the juggling process. Girls can get started with their lessons without waiting for spring weather.

The more pieces a suit has, the easier a girl learns to perform juggling tricks. It may consist of a boyish topcoat, skirt, hat and sweater or it may include a short-jacketed suit and reefer style of topcoat. Both are chic this season and both are practical for experimentation.

Add to these properties a blouse or two, an extra skirt, a clever jacket and a few well chosen accessories, and there is scarcely any limit to the fun she'll have. Hats, even, can be juggled this spring to suit individual whims—a brim being turned up in Breton fashion in the morning and pulled down over the right eye during the afternoon.

The girls' departments of St. Louis stores are concentrating now on clothes which help in teaching a school girl to juggle a spring wardrobe. Those that are sketched are typical. The suit which the older girl is wearing has four parts—a full-length boyish coat, skirt, hat and sweater. The suit material is tweed in a warm beige tone. The coat has a vent at the back, rather wide lapels and a squared line to the raglan shoulders. Three brown wooden buttons that fasten it are decorative. The most interesting feature of the skirt is the slit at the side seams.

The short-sleeved zephyr wool sweater which accompanies this suit has a novelty stitch forming a decorative yoke and a turn-over collar. It has a fitted waistband which is worn over the skirt. The hat is made of the suit material, its brim stitched and upturned. A bow of the tweed and a small green and tan feather form the trimming.

With a skirt of such an indefinite pattern, a girl who wants to purchase an extra jacket may select one that is plain or has a definite checked design. The little jacket illustrated is a sample of the styles which young girls like. It is available either in the plain or checked material and in navy blue or brown flannel. The Clark Gable back with the gathers below the yoke and at the belt is a popular feature.

The selection of an extra skirt for wear with this jacket depends upon other parts of the costume. To be very smart this season, a plain skirt is worn with a checked jacket and a checked skirt with a plain jacket. The yoke sketched with the jacket is of checked material. It buttons at the center front and is gored, this goring assuring graceful lines.

The hat which the girl in contrasting jacket and skirt is wearing is of brown felt. It has a snap brim that is pulled down at the front and turned up at the back, but may be worn several other ways. The crown has a graduated tuck.

Several blouses are essential to a juggling wardrobe and one of these is certain to be a strictly tailored model. St. Louis girls have been enthusiastic about the one sketched, its chief claim to fame being the monogram below the pocket. This blouse, or shirt, as the girls prefer to call it, is of broadcloth and most popular in shades of blue or honey as well as white. The collar is convertible and quite small. Two dark buttons appear on the front. Sleeves are short.

To demonstrate how the smaller girl is following her older sister in a costume that has parts that may be juggled, the suit for a 7-year-old is included. The skirt is of navy wool crepe and has pleats at either side of a front panel. It buttons to the white pique blouse, a belt concealing the buttons. A pleated frill adorns the collar and the front of this blouse. The jacket is of navy and white cheeked wool. A bias yoke, bias pocket binding and a bias band at the bottom of the sleeves supply all of the trimming that is needed. The hat is of navy felt and has an upturned brim that may be snapped down if preferred. A tuck marks the center of the crown. Grosgrain band and a little red feather carry out the tailored theme.

Necessity of Co-operation In Contract

Rule That Two Hands Be Played as One Still Most Important.

By P. Hal Sims

I CAN think of no better way to start this article than to give the following quotation from Chambers' Encyclopedia on whist:

"And, lastly, and most important of all, players should play to the score. Thus, wanting but one trick to save or win the game a winning card should be played at once. The example is stated as for one trick, but it should be kept in mind how many tricks are requisite to save or win the game, or even a point, and the play should be varied accordingly. In order to become a skillful player, it is necessary to bear in mind that the game is not one of any given player's hand against the other three, but a combination of two against two. In order that two partners shall play their hands to the best advantage, they must strive, as much as possible, to play the two hands as though they were one. To this end, it is advisable that they should pursue some uniform system of play, in order that each player shall understand the plans of the other, and be so placed in the most favorable position to assist him in carrying them out."

P. Hal Sims

And no one has been able to improve on these precepts for the last 200 years. The following hand is given as an illustrative example of the correct play:

	♠A 2 ♥Q 8 7 5 ♦Q J 7 2 ♣9 6 5
♠K Q 5 ♥6 4 2 ♦10 8 4 3 ♣K 8 4	NORTH WEST EAST SOUTH	♠10 3 ♥K J 9 ♦A K 6 5 ♣A 10 3 2
	♠J 9 8 7 6 4 ♥A 10 3 ♦9 ♣Q J 7

Bear in mind that there is no dummy in whist. The four of hearts was turned up in West's hand, and North, the leader, opened the deuce of diamonds. East went up with the king, showing that he held the ace. He returned a small club. East and West took the ace and king of clubs, and put South in with the queen. South returned his best suit—spades. West played the queen and North the ace, returning the seven of diamonds. South's play of the nine guaranteed the 10, or none. East played the ace and South ruffed with the trey of hearts, playing back another spade, which West won with the king.

West played back the five of spades, which North trumped with the seven of hearts, and East over-trumped with the nine. To get out of his hand, East played the thirteenth club. North over trumped West's six with his eight and returned the queen of hearts. East covered. South won the ace and played back the 10. East won the trick, but held nothing but diamonds, so he had to give North the last two tricks.

North and South scored the odd trick. Today East and West would play the hand for one no trump and make exactly one no trump.

An inverted pie plate over the top of the apple pie will cook the apples more quickly and thoroughly and prevent the crust from becoming too brown before the apples are done.

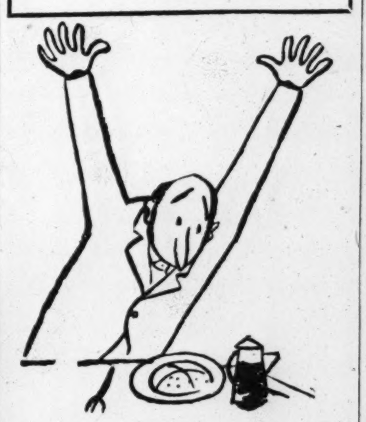
HOW TO TORTURE A HUSBAND



A father and husband, in middle age,
Can work for a microscopic wage
Month in, month out, and never whine,
Though shirts are frayed and trousers shine.
He'll dry a wife or daughter's tear
With dresses chic and stockings sheer;
He'll walk, chin out, on the narrow path,
Weather storms of domestic wrath,
Pay the doctor, butcher and try
To keep up appearances—Lord knows why!
But there comes a crisis, a turning point
That throws a husband out of joint,
Unleashes anger, breaks the dam
And makes a lion of the lamb—
And that is when he sits him down
To eat a waffle crisp and brown
But gets, instead (it knocks him groggy),
A waffle that is limp and soggy.

Views Shown In Quotations About Doctors

Many Harsh As Well As Kind Things Are Said of Them.

By Logan Clendening, M. D.

I ENJOY books of quotations. Not for reference only, but for reading. They are like the stew you find in the restaurants on Monday—the concentrated essence of the delicacies of the past. So I have had a good time with Burton Stevenson's "Home Book of Quotations."

He has a novel section on doctors. Not entirely flattering to our ego. "A physician is a person who pours drugs of which he knows little into a body of which he knows less."—Voltaire. Pausanius said to a physician who remarked on his great age, "That happens because you are not my doctor."

The costs of medical care loom ever—

"The alienist is not a joke;
He finds you cracked and leaves you broke." —Keith Preston.

And grave (usually unfounded) suspicions. "There are worse occupations in the world than feeling a woman's pulse"—Sterne.

"The physician is superfluous among the healthy"—Tacitus, who lived before the modern doctrine of the annual physical examination or health audit. Along the same line is Mrs. Piozzi's, "A physician can sometimes parry the scythe of death, but has no power over the sand in the hourglass"—a doctrine I have long expounded, but less pungently.

Some of these will be more appreciated by the profession than the laity. For those who are always wanting consultations—so one doctor can "check" on the other, as if they were a pair of accountants—we recommend:

"A single doctor like a sculler plies,
And all his art and all his physic tries:
But two physicians, like a pair of oars,
Waft him right swifty to the Stygian shores."
—John Booth.

Rabelais' proverb: "Happy the physician who is called in at the end of the illness," applies to the familiar fact that some diseases run their natural course, uninfluenced by treatment. The patient blames the succession of doctors who fruitlessly treat him during the course of the disease, and gives all credit to the last who arrives just at the time it is going to get well anyhow.

But we get some praise. "A country doctor needs more brains to do his work passably than the 50 greatest industrialists in the world require"—Walter B. Pitkin. And I like the description of the surgeon: "In a good surgeon, a hawk's eye, a lion's heart, and a lady's hand"—Leonard Wright in 1589, mind you.

The most familiar of the quotations is perhaps "A good bedside manner." It is ascribed to George du Maurier in Punch, 1884. The complete text—"What sort of a doctor is he?" "Well, I don't know much about his ability, but he has a good bedside manner." Next most familiar is "Physician, heal thyself," flung at every sick doctor by every egregious ass to the point of fury. And next, "Every man is a fool or a physician at 40." Some, I may add, are both.

But the most familiar of all doctor quotations is not here. "Elementary, my dear Watson." Watson is that Dr. Watson who was associated with the only fictional character of modern times whose name is universally a household word—Sherlock Holmes.

By H. H. NIEMEYER

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 14.

ANY TIME you really want to find out something, anything, about making motion pictures get in touch with the average studio stenographer. [illegible]

[illegible] You see, they have a roving commission in the stenographic department of their studio and are assigned to wherever they may be needed. Today they may be called in as an extra worker for some front office executive who is planning a big production and who can't spell the words. Tomorrow she is sent to help a high salaried writer prepare his story which has been put off until the last minute and the next day is likely to find her acting as "script girl," a sort of assistant to the director of a picture under way who has to follow every spoken line and check up on every item of dress and scenery. It's a great education. So what? There is no record of it having led to anything and the pay is considerably less than that of an extra girl although more regular. The one requirement is ability to spell. But don't get excited and rush to California. Hollywood is full of good spellers now—except in the front office.

EDNA MAY OLIVER

Public Garbo No. 2.

You'd never guess it to see her acting but when it comes to retirement and secretiveness it's about a toss up between Edna May Oliver and Greta Garbo. One gets the impression, after watching Miss Oliver in a film, that she is a whole-souled, lively sort of a person. Perhaps she is but she keeps it under cover. [illegible] She was married just once, was divorced 10 years ago and does not expect to try it again.

Cabannes Carry on.

Julie Cabanne is among the youngsters signed up by Fox for a screen career. Julie is a daughter of Christy Cabanne who jumped from St. Louis into the movie business when pictures were just getting under way and became a director with D. W. Griffith. He has been making pictures ever since but Julie is the first one of the old St. Louis family to go in for acting.

Maybe You're Next.

If you happen to be a handsome young man with stage ability perhaps you will live to be Marlene Dietrich's leading gentleman in one of her future films. [illegible] Miss Dietrich wrong but that's her story, or Von Sternberg's, and she's going to stick with it. Most stars, however, do consider it bad business—bad business for them to share the spotlight and screen prominence with a player of the opposite sex more than once. One would imagine that the stars' personal ego would make them believe that no other actor could steal their glory but, all the same, few want to take the chance.

In her newest picture Dietrich is supported by Caesar Romero, a comparative newcomer to the screen but with a good Broadway stage history. Before that her leading men were Gary Cooper, Emil Jannings, Clive Brook, Herbert Marshall, Brian Ahrene, John Lodge and Victor McLaglen. And then there were one or two, like Joel McCrea, who started but didn't last through the film.

MARLENE DIETRICH

So, you see, you've got a chance. She is bound to run out of leading men some day.

In Our Set.

Studio press agents can think of the funniest things . . . Universal's head man, for instance, gravely announces that the New York cook who used to prepare Diamond Jim Brady's meals will be brought out here to see that the screen food used in the forthcoming "Diamond Jim" film are absolutely authentic . . . Virginia Sale, sister of The Specialist, has been cast for a role in Fox's "It's a Small World" . . . Stepin Fetchit is off for a personal appearance tour in the East and South . . . says he wants to polish up his dialect for "Steamboat 'Round the Bend," his next picture with Will Rogers . . . Clarence Brown will direct Garbo's next drama, a revival of the old play, "Anna Karenina" . . . It was necessary to postpone making "Ah Wilderness" so Brown could get the assignment . . . The title of "Caprice Espagnol," Marlene Dietrich's latest, has been changed to "The Devil Is a Woman" . . . Maybe Joe Von Sternberg, who directed, had a hand in the switch after his latest blow up with Marlene . . . Fritz Leiber, his wife and their son have left Shakespeare flat for the time being and are seeing the wheels go round in Hollywood . . . There are rumores that with things the way they are in the legit, the family may give the movies a treat.

WHY 5 JURORS VOTED FOR LIFE SENTENCE

Member Says Three Believed Hauptmann Had Pals and Execution Might Bar Capture.

(Copyright, 1935.)

LEBANON, N. J., Feb. 15.—The real "inside" story of the eight men and four women who convicted Bruno Richard Hauptmann may never be known—but here is as much as anyone can find out today:

Two women and one man prevented a death penalty verdict on the first of the five ballots taken. All were agreed on guilt.

The 12 solemnly agreed in the jury room not to talk of the verdict. The reason is that they wanted to get even with a curious public whose appointed officials would not let the jury know what was going on in the outside world during those 42 days.

But George L. Voorhees, 45-year-old stock breeder, after a joyful reunion with his wife and three grown children, couldn't keep absolutely mum. So glad to be "out of the pen," he disclosed:

"My ballots, each of the five times, always were marked "murder in the first—penalty death."

"It was my observation from our conversation during the trial that the verdict would be guilty. The big problem was in appraising justice.

"Two women and a man held the opinion that the defendant had accomplices and that death in the chair might prevent the arrest of anyone who possibly aided him. For four ballots we couldn't get the death penalty and on the fifth we did.

"The scene that stirred our emotions most during the trial was the picture of Anne Morrow Lindbergh holding her murdered baby's garment while identifying it. The scene was as indelible as the defendant's guilt.

"They gave us classics to read. Awful! We'd read them all anyway, most of us. There was Shakespeare and Dickens they let us have officially—and one of us managed to smuggle in a volume of De Maupassant.

"That's all I'll tell. Let the public be curious. We were curious about the public—and a lot of good it did us!

"Every juror lost his sense of humor toward the end. Lots of 'evidence' was disregarded as irrelevant. We suspected some witnesses.

"We were afraid Case (Liscom C. Case, juror No. 11), would have a heart attack every time we entered the hotel. It kept us on edge. It was worth one's life to venture the slightest jest.

"It was a harrowing experience."

GIRL ON STAND TELLS OF 'DATES' WITH KENNAMER

Virginia Wilcox, Object of Alleged Extortion Note, Testifies for Defendant at Murder Trial.

HER BROTHER ALSO IS CALLED

He Says Accused Youth Told Him of Plot by Gorrell to Kidnap Young Woman.

By the Associated Press.

PAWNEE, Ok., Feb. 15.—Virginia Wilcox, 19-year-old daughter of a wealthy Tulsa oil man, testified today in defense of Phil Kennamer, accused of murdering John F. Gorrell Jr., because, Kennamer contends, Gorrell threatened to kidnap her.

Miss Wilcox, her face framed in a huge gray fur collar, spoke distinctly, though in a low tone. A. Flint Moss, defense counsel chief, questioned her.

"Did you know Gorrell?" "No."

"At the time you first met Kennamer were your parents permitting you to have dates?" "He was my first date."

"How many dates did you have with him?" "Four or five."

They attended a progressive dinner, she said, four years ago.

Last "Date" in February.

"When was your last date with Phil?" "In February, last year."

"Where did you go?" "To dinner at the Mayo and a dance at the Sneddens. It was a Hy-Hat dance."

"Between this first date and the last you had one or two dates with Phil?" "Yes."

"He had asked for other dates." "Many."

"Had you heard from him or had telephone conversations with him?" "Yes, many. One time he asked me for a date two years in advance. I told him he could not have the date."

About Phone Conversation.

Moss then had her recount the conversation of last summer between herself and Jack Snedden about which Snedden had testified, saying Phil wanted her to write to him.

"Did you write to Phil?" "No."

"Why didn't you?" "I just couldn't see myself writing to Phil."

Kennamer's head was bowed, his hand over his eyes. He did not look up.

When asked if Phil sent her presents while he was in school at Durant, she replied: "I don't remember."

"Tell the court please whether you have thought Phil was in love with you for the last two years." "I did believe it."

"Has there been any change in Phil's attitude toward you since last August?" "Yes."

"You mean there has been no change?" "Yes, I think it is the same," she said.

Heard of Plot From Snedden.

"Did Jack Snedden tell you about the kidnap plot before your brother did?" "Before."

"After Jack told you about the plot did you tell your father or mother?" "No."

"Why didn't you?" "We didn't believe it, we didn't want to worry them."

"Didn't you think to tell authorities about the plot?" "No."

"Has Jack ever sent you any flowers?" "Yes."

"Or candy?" "Yes."

"You don't think there is anything strange about that do you?" "No," Miss Wilcox replied. She was excused.

Homer Wilcox Jr. on Stand.

Homer F. Wilcox Jr., brother of Virginia, testified Kennamer had told him Gorrell planned to kidnap his sister, Virginia Wilcox. Young Wilcox, who paid a fine for shooting out a street light in the Forest Hills neighborhood where Gorrell later was killed, testified Kennamer told him of the plot "between the 10th and 12th of October." Wilcox said he had not believed the story.

"Junior, you pleaded guilty to shooting out street lights in Tulsa the night of the murder?" he was asked.

A. Flint Moss of the defense objected but the question was sustained.

"Didn't you shoot a street light out near the scene of where you learned later Gorrell was killed?" "Yes," was the answer.

Another highlight of the day's testimony was the admission of the State that Gorrell wrote an extortion note to Wilcox, the oil man, demanding $20,000 on threat of death to his children.

Tells of Shooting Out Lights.

Wilcox testified he shot out three lights.

"One of the lights was about a half block from the scene of the killing," said Wilcox.

"Wasn't it true you were right there on the spot when that boy was killed?" a State Attorney shouted. "No," he replied in an almost inaudible voice.

Moss then drew from Wilcox that one of the two girls with him shot out one of the lights.

The State asked the names of the two girls with him at that particular time?" "It just happened."

"Did you leave soon after you heard Gorrell was killed?" "Yes, to Toledo."

The State's admission on the note followed brief testimony by Federal Judge Franklin E. Kennamer, father of the defendant, that "in my judgment" the handwriting was not his son's.

W. F. Gilmer Jr., of the prosecution, interrupted testimony of J. C. Shearman, Wichita, Kan., handwriting expert, to say: "If you are trying to show that Gorrell wrote that note, we'll save you time and trouble. We admit it."

"In view of this unqualified admission, we see no need of continuing this testimony," said A. Flint Moss, chief of the defense, and Shearman stepped down.

recovery, if we guess correctly what the administration contemplates."

For One Year Limit.

Previously, Republicans at a party conference agreed to fight for limiting the bill to one year as against two from next June.

Senator McNary, of Oregon, the minority leader, also announced an "overpowering majority" appeared to favor the McCarran prevailing wage amendment.

He said the Republicans were about evenly divided on the Adams amendment to reduce the appropriation by $2,000,000,000, that they seemed to favor the Metcalf proposal to give preference to war veterans in the relief set-up and also the Hayden amendment to require uniform wages and hours on public road projects and similar State projects.

The Republicans also discussed a proposal to send the bill back to committee so the $880,000,000 direct relief fund could be separated from it and voted immediately. There was a "mixture of support" for that proposal.

It was said that Senator La Follette of Wisconsin would seek to increase the works fund to eight or 10 billions. La Follette said he did not know when he would submit his proposal, predicting Senate debate on the bill would run well into next week.

The bill as it stands would appropriate $4,000,000,000 for public works and $880,000,000 for direct relief. It is proposed to report the latter back to the Senate for passage quickly so relief needs can be met, but to take plenty of time on the public works part, which contains discretionary powers for the President.

Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins, who places the total number now receiving Federal relief at 20,000,000, said the $100,000,000 allotted for February would be exhausted by the 19th or 20th of the month.

Debate on Bill Begun.

Efforts by Chairman Glass of the Appropriations Committee to gain immediate formal consideration of the bill failed when McNary of Oregon, Republican leader, objected on the ground that more time was needed to study the measure. Nevertheless, debate was begun yesterday.

Steiwer, a member of the Appropriations Committee, charged the measure "contains evils almost beyond description" due, he asserted, to "limitless discretion given the President." He said administration witnesses before the committee "admitted" that the measure was drafted in order "not to permit any legal restraint" on the President in the handling of the money.

Senator Johnson of California, Republican Independent, who has backed most of the Roosevelt measures, said: "I can't visualize any set of circumstances in which the money cannot be used under the measure."

Senator Byrnes (Dem.), South Carolina, reminded Johnson that the Appropriations Committee recommended an amendment to limit expenditures on projects now authorized or to be authorized.

Asserting he had no objection to voting for work relief rather than a dole, Senator Borah (Rep.), Idaho, joined in to say that "what troubles me is voting $4,000,000,000 when we don't know where it is going."

The entire bill, insisted Senator Glass, was "based on the theory that the President is going to do what he said he was going to do."

"I'm not challenging anybody's integrity or purpose," Borah said, "but you can't liquidate this relief problem in a few months."

Senator Long (Dem.), Louisiana, interrupted Borah to say "the Senator from Idaho will be a candidate for re-election," adding "he'll find out how some of it is spent."

New Prevailing Wage Fight.

A new fight over the amendment backed by the American Federation of Labor to force the Government to pay the prevailing wage rates was opened by McCarran, who offered his amendment requiring payment of prevailing wages on all public works projects. The bill now carries an administration-backed substitute, adopted by the Appropriations Committee, allowing the President to fix the wage rates and requiring him to raise them if he found the "security" wage of about $50 a month was threatening the private industry scale.

President Going Ahead.

President Roosevelt went ahead, meanwhile, on the apparent assumption that the bill would be passed substantially as written. He named Robert E. Wood, president of Sears, Roebuck & Co., to head a committee of business men to advise him in spending the works fund.

Wood visited the White House yesterday, accompanied by Secretary of Commerce Roper and H. P. Kendall, chairman of the Commerce Department's business advisory and planning council. Roper said the Wood committee would act only in an "advisory capacity to the President's board, or whatever instrumentality is agreed upon to handle the allocation of the proposed $4,000,000,000 work relief program."

CAMPBELL WILL SUIT 'CONSPIRACY,' LAWYER CHARGES

Trustees' Attorney Asserts Action Is in Interest of Relatives Unqualified to File Contest.

MOTION TO DISMISS PROCEEDING ARGUED

Contention That Wealthy Invalid's Guardian Was Coerced to Attack Bequest to Yale.

The attempt to set aside the will of Hugh Campbell, leaving his $1,250,000 estate in lifetime trust for his invalid brother, Hazlett Campbell, and after the brother's death, leaving most of the estate to Yale University, was discussed in argument, before Circuit Judge Ryan today by lawyers in the case.

Daniel N. Kirby, representing the trustees for Hazlett Campbell, called the will contest suit a conspiracy, and argued that Hazlett Campbell's legal guardian, Anton Schuler, in filing the suit, took an action that could not be of benefit to his ward. He said Schuler was coerced by threats of a suit on his official bond as Public Administrator to enter the "conspiracy." He asked that Judge Ryan dismiss the will contest suit, which he said was in the interest of relatives, who, themselves, were not qualified to file a contest, not being heirs.

Already Has $1,750,000.

Kirby said that Hazlett Campbell, who is now 77 years old, helpless and speechless, had an estate of $1,750,000, now held for him by the trustees, Allen C. Orrick and the St. Louis Union Trust Co. If the will of Hugh Campbell should be set aside, Kirby argued, Hugh Campbell's estate would be added to his own present estate, giving him a total of $3,000,000.

The lawyer said that an addition to his estate would be of no value or benefit to Hazlett Campbell, who is now receiving every care and comfort that money can provide. He is in the care of servants in the old Campbell home, 1508 Locust street, the house being a relic of the days when that neighborhood was fashionable Lucas Place. The present care, which follows the provisions of Hugh Campbell's will, is "100 per cent perfect," Kirby said.

Kirby spoke of another pending suit, to set aside the trust conveyance by which Robert Campbell, father of Hugh and Hazlett Campbell, covered his property in his lifetime. This suit, he said, had the same purpose as the will contest suit, namely, to place all the Campbell property in Hazlett's possession, with relatives waiting to claim it after Hazlett's death.

Counsel for University.

Jacob M. Lashly appeared as counsel for Yale University, ultimate heir to most of the Hugh Campbell estate under the will. He said the interest of Yale, being a property interest, was secondary to the human and personal interest, the welfare of an invalid, as argued by Kirby. He supplemented Kirby's argument in support of the will, and for dismissal of the will contest.

Lashly reviewed testimony adduced in the will contest suit, intended to show that Hugh Campbell was eccentric, therefore presumably of unsound mind. "They may regard it as eccentricity," he said, "that a man would renounce social life to care for a helpless brother. If so, they are looking at the matter from the viewpoint of property only."

In Support of Suit.

The argument against dismissal was made by W. W. Henderson, who declared the guardianship was perfectly proper in order to place Hazlett Campbell's interests under care of the court, where they were placed by law.

Stating that Orrick had opposed appointment of Fred L. English as guardian on the ground the appointment was sought to enable a will contest, Henderson asked if Orrick had not been fearful of a contest because he realized there was basis for one. The request for appointment of English came from Otey McClellan, New York attorney and relative of the Campbells.

There was nothing unusual in McClellan's desire for a guardian for Hazlett Campbell to protect the property for benefit of the ward's relatives, Henderson argued, declaring the desire was simply in accordance with human nature and pointing out the relatives could assert no claim until after Hazlett Campbell's death.

Judge Ryan remarked that "the attribute was quite human."

Before the contest was filed, Henderson continued, Schuler and his former attorney obtained authority from Probate Court to institute the suit if justified.

Answering Lashly's argument about Hugh Campbell's alleged eccentricities, Henderson said the evidence showed a full investigation of the supposed eccentricities had been made before the contest was filed.

$199,000 SUIT AGAINST SURETY FOR BOND FOR BANK

S. W. Souers Says Attorney Advised Him He Had Been Released From Liability.

Sidney W. Souers, a vice-president of the General American Life Insurance Co., was sued for $199,103 by the Government yesterday, as one of three sureties on a nine-year old bond guaranteeing payment of additional income taxes assessed against a New Orleans bank of which he was vice-president.

He said the deficiency was assessed for the year 1920 against two banks later merged into the Canal Bank & Trust Co., of which he became vice-president in 1925. On the bank's appeal in 1926, he said, he signed as surety with two other officers, both wealthy. Soon afterward one of the other officers died, he said, and after the bank was closed in the 1933 banking holiday it was released from liability as principal.

This release, he said his attorney had advised him, released his liability as surety. The Government's petition, filed in Federal Court here, asserted that on the bank's appeal the United States Board of Tax Appeals fixed the tax deficiency of the predecessor banks at a total of $390,140. Souers came here four years ago.

East St. Louis Primary Canvassing Board Reduces Nick J. Colgan's Total to 5432.

Tabulation of the East St. Louis primary vote by the canvassing board yesterday showed an error of 1018 votes too many in the count for Nick J. Colgan, candidate for Police Magistrate. The unofficial count gave Colgan 6450 votes, the recount, 5432. The other nominee for Police Magistrate, Dan Foley, received 6431 votes, a gain of five by the recount.

The tabulation showed small variations in returns for other candidates, not affecting the order in which they finished.

For City Commissioner: Herman E. Zierrath, 9937; Albert P. Lauman, 9659; John T. Connors, 8536; Leo J. Dougherty, 6363; Joseph W. Ganschinietz, 6223; Martin T. Flynn, 5766; Thomas J. Corrigan, 5624, and Dr. Stanley A. Wynn, 4930.

By the Associated Press.

BALTIMORE, Feb. 15.—An attack of sneezing which gripped Mrs. Edgar Harmon of Orrtanna, Pa., for more than five weeks, interfered with her sleep and caused her to lose 20 pounds, was said by her physicians here today to have been broken. Mrs. Harmon, said to have been sneezing almost continuously since Jan. 5, came to the Johns Hopkins Hospital for treatment. The sneezing stopped almost as suddenly as it began. Corrective treatment is being continued at the hospital.

John S. Schnepp, 68, Wanted at Springfield, Ill., Since 1932, Identified, Arrested in West.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 15.—A news vender under arrest here has been identified as John S. Schnepp, 68 years old, who is wanted at Springfield, Ill., on a charge of embezzling $400,000.

Schnepp, a former Mayor of Springfield and a real estate dealer, disappeared in January, 1932, after shortages had been found in three estates for which he was conservator.

He was known here as John L. Mason but four former residents of Springfield said he was Schnepp. He was arrested at a downtown intersection while he was selling newspapers.

"I may find out who I really am when I get back there," he told police, declaring he could remember nothing of his past except that two years ago he found himself in a Houston (Tex.) hospital. He has wandered over the country since then, he said, trying to identify himself. He signed a waiver of extradition.

In his room, police found manuscripts of two novels, "A Madman's Romance" and "She Coveted Him." Two powers of attorney authorizing Clyde Schnepp of Springfield to handle publication of the novels also were found.

Dated Feb. 9, a letter addressed to "Clyde," also was found. It read:

"Dear boy: I have been told by a couple of men that you are my son, that I formerly was Mayor of Springfield and that I have embezzled $400,000. I have never knowingly harmed anyone. My mental equilibrium has been shocked seriously recent. I would gladly return to Springfield and determine whether I am Schnepp, although I know myself as Mason."

No explanation was made of how he had been shocked.

Claims of $700,000 Filed in Bankruptcy Proceedings.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 15.—State's Attorney A. H. Greening said yesterday that John S. Schnepp, under arrest in Los Angeles, had never been indicted but that he was wanted here on embezzlement and forgery charges.

The Illinois State Register quoted several former Springfield residents now in Los Angeles as identifying Schnepp.

Schnepp was a bankrupt when he left Springfield in 1932, and the Probate Court had ordered him to produce money which he had admitted appropriating to his own use. Claims of about $700,000, most of them unsecured, were filed during the bankruptcy proceedings.

Schnepp's brothers, acting as bondsmen, paid $42,050 to cover the deficits in three estates for which he was conservator.

Schnepp served three terms as Mayor here.

J. I. CASE CO. EX-CASHIER CONFESSES EMBEZZLEMENT

Returned to St. Louis today from Racine, Wis., Russell T. Peterson, former cashier and bookkeeper for the local branch of the J. I. Case Co., dealers in farm implements, 4260 Forest Park avenue, admitted to Chief of Detectives Carroll that he had embezzled company funds, as was charged in a warrant issued Wednesday.

The warrant charged misappropriation of $941, but W. H. Sheffer, branch manager, reported to Assistant Circuit Attorney Murphy that the shortage would approximate $5000. Peterson declined to fix the figure in conversation with Chief Carroll, but admitted he spent the money. His salary, he said was $152 a month.

TEACHER IS KILLED IN FALL AT HOSPITAL

Miss Bertha Doellner Was Under Treatment for Nervous Disorder at Glendale.

Miss Bertha E. Doellner, a teacher in St. Louis public schools since 1900, died last midnight of a fractured skull suffered 12 hours before when she jumped or fell from the roof of a one-story building at Oakland Park Hospital, Glendale, where she was under treatment for a nervous breakdown.

Apparently she had climbed from the window of a second-floor bathroom and walked across the roof of the one-story addition. Hospital attendants heard the fall and found her unconscious. She also suffered a broken right leg.

She was 57 years old and resided at 4004 Cleveland avenue. Before going to the Fanning School she taught at the Monroe School.

Surviving are two sisters, Miss Adele and Miss Emma H. Doellner, with whom she resided, and two brothers, Henry J. and Tuisco M. Doellner. Funeral services will be held at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the Robert Funeral Home, 1905 South Grand boulevard. Burial will be in Valhalla Cemetery.

30-HOUR WEEK DEMANDED IN ONE AUTO BODY PLANT

Union Submits Contract to Fisher Corporation in Cleveland, Opening Fight for Policy in Industry.

CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 15.—A provision for a 30-hour week was included in a contract submitted to the Fisher Body Corporation yesterday by the United Automobile Workers' Federal Union.

Labor leaders regarded the contract as the initial step toward a "showdown" on their demand for a 30-hour week in the automobile industry with Cleveland as the proving ground. They said the contract probably would be used as a pattern by other union groups in the industry.

Fisher executives made no comment on the contract other than to acknowledge its receipt. The union asked that an answer be made within 10 days.

In addition to asking for a 30-hour week of five six-hour days, the contract was designed to solve problems of labor obsolescence, wages and other working conditions.

One clause provides that when new jobs "are created or occur in the respective departments, the oldest employe laid off shall be the first to be re-employed." This is supplemented by a clause providing that employes who have given long and faithful service and who have become unable to handle heavy work "will be given preference to such light work in their line as they may be able to do."

The contract asks for an annual minimum wage of $1560 for unskilled workers and $1820 for skilled workers. It calls also for arbitration of all difficulties which cannot be settled by mutual agreement between the company and the union, and reinstatement, with full pay for time lost, of any employe found unjustly discharged.

The contract, which does not call for a closed shop, provides for promotion on the basis of "ability, fitness, and seniority," a provision which appears to be akin to the much debated "merit clause" in the auto code, which labor in the past has opposed.

CHILD'S DEATH LAID TO SERUM

Poisoning Indicated in Case of San Francisco Diphtheria Patient.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 15.—Dr. J. C. Geiger, city health officer, today investigated the death of 4-year-old Natalie Rojnavsky, after an administration of diphtheria serum.

Four other children who became more seriously ill after treatment in Children's Hospital were under observation, but Dr. Geiger thought they would recover. Twenty children were given the antitoxin a week ago. It was not until the autopsy that the cause of the Rojnavsky child's death was determined. Dr. Sherman Leland, autopsy surgeon, said she died of poisoning. In the absence of other infection he considered the serum was the cause.

NEW INSURANCE CODE OPPOSED BY FRATERNAL BODIES

Chief Objection Is That It Would Put Them Under Law Taxing All Premiums 2 Pct.

700,000 MEMBERS WOULD BE AFFECTED

Spokesman Declares That the Various Societies 'Have Cleaned House' and Are on Sound Basis.

By CURTIS A. BETTS,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 15. — Objections were made yesterday by fraternal insurance societies to provisions of the State Insurance Department's proposed insurance code placing the fraternal groups under the supervision of the State Insurance Superintendent, at a hearing before the Senate Committee on Insurance. The societies were stated to have 700,000 members in Missouri.

Though several points were raised in opposing the code, the chief was that it would bring the fraternal insurance premiums under the law taxing all premiums 2 per cent. Officials of the department estimated that fraternal premiums amounted to $5,000,000 a year in Missouri, and that the total tax on them would be about $100,000.

Under the present law all fraternal insurance is free from State supervision. The societies are managed by boards selected by the members, and the only regulations are in the by-laws of the organizations.

"We Have Cleaned House."

It was brought out through questions asked by Senator Clark of Richmond, who interrogated former Senator F. M. McDavid of Springfield, representing particularly the Modern Woodmen of America, and generally speaking for all fraternal groups, that in early days rates had been fixed at such a low figure that many of the organizations encountered financial difficulties as their members grew older and death claims increased.

To meet the situation it became necessary to increase rates and build up reserves. "We have cleaned house, so to speak," McDavid said, "and fraternal insurance is on a sound basis. It has gone through these depression years without difficulty."

The proposed code would place all fraternal insurance on exactly the same plane as old line stock company life insurance. If the code should be adopted by the Legislature the fraternals would be required to meet the same requirements as to investment of their funds, deposit of securities with the State Department, and would be regulated as are the old line companies.

$3 Fee for Solicitors.

Whereas they now pay no fees for their members or employes who solicit insurance, they would be required to obtain a license for each solicitor and pay a $3 fee.

Though there were several representatives of fraternal organizations before the committee with arguments against the provisions of the bill affecting them, the principal presentation was by McDavid.

He brought out that this is the first attempt in any state to place fraternals under the same regulations as old line companies, and said that it would "crucify the societies," and that under the code they would be unable to hold their members.

He stressed the fraternal features, the lodges, the orphans' homes, hospitals and schools maintained by various fraternal societies, saying that under the code they would not be permitted to use funds for such purposes.

Exempt From Taxation.

"For 40 years," he said, "the laws of Missouri have classed them as charitable and benevolent organizations, and because they were that, the law exempted them from taxation. They have built up their entire structures relying upon that declaration in the statutes.

"Their members are now carrying as heavy a load as they can carry. If the societies should be compelled to pay this tax they would have to assess their members to pay it and they cannot stand it."

Adoption of the code in Missouri, he said, would be but the start, and other states would quickly follow.

Senator Clark, who said he was a policyholder in a fraternal insurance company, asked McDavid whether the societies would be willing to come under State regulation if the premium tax should not be assessed against them, but McDavid said he was not authorized to answer the question.

"We have now established rates which will guarantee there will never be any empty treasury," McDavid said. "We have rectified the mistakes of earlier years and just when we have our house in order, it is proposed to fine us by this premium tax."

Other Protests Heard.

panies and burial associations appeared to protest against being included in the code. All said it would eliminate them from the insurance field.

John Stapel of Columbia, representing farm mutual fire companies, said there was $500,000,000 of farm property in Missouri insured in mutuals on the assessment plan, and that these companies could not operate under the code. He said that there had been no failures in that class of companies, which insures property at very low rates, and that the service they give was satisfactory to 250,000 persons whose property was insured by them.

The proposed code provides that every farm mutual policy must contain on its face a statement that the company is not under the supervision of the insurance department. Strong objection was raised to this on the ground that it would carry the inference that the insurance was of doubtful value.

The committee will have another hearing next Thursday, when fire insurance interests will ask for several amendments to the code.

PLUMBING CODE CANCELATION

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 15.—The plumbing industry is canceling the marketing rules and fair trade practices of its codes immediately, R. Kennedy Hansen, secretary of the national code authority announced yesterday.

"Price chiseling has become unbearable," he said, "and the Government has failed to carry out prosecutions during the seven months of our code. Consequently the little manufacturers and honest concerns have suffered." Wages and hour provisions of the code are being kept intact, Hansen said.

TEN CANDIDATES SEEKING PLACES ON SCHOOL BOARD

FOUR MEMBERS' TERMS EXPIRING

Ben Weidle and A. A. Blumeyer to Run Again—Mrs. E. R. Kroeger and H. G. Cook to Retire.

With 31 days remaining for the completion of petitions of candidacy for the Board of Education, only 10 candidates are circulating petitions, while at least nine other persons have been considering whether they would run.

The last day for filing the nominating petitions will be March 18. A minimum of 5484 signatures of voters must be obtained in order for a candidate to get on the ballot.

For the first time, a law enacted by the 1933 Legislature for a bipartisan Board of Education will be operative in this election, which will be held at the time of the aldermanic election April 2. Under the law, two Democrats and two Republicans will be elected to the board. The candidates will be listed under the two parties and a voter will vote for two board members from each party. The two candidates of each party receiving the highest votes will be elected. The board, which now consists of nine Republicans and three Democrats, will have seven Republicans and five Democrats after the April election and, after the 1937 election, will be equally divided between the parties.

Four Terms to Expire.

Members whose terms are expiring are Mrs. E. R. Kroeger, director of the Kroeger School of Music; Howard G. Cook, patent lawyer; Ben Weidle, grand secretary of the Odd Fellows' grand lodge of Missouri, and Arthur A. Blumeyer, president of the Industrial Bank & Trust Co. Cook and Mrs. Kroeger, members since 1929, will not seek re-election. Blumeyer and Weidle, members since 1923, have announced their candidacies for third terms. All four are Republicans.

Cook, in announcing he would not run, said he feared the board was being used for political advantage, but added that he had no tangible information on the subject.

Candidates.

Candidates for whom petitions have been circulated are:

Blumeyer, 41 Washington terrace.

Edward A. Ferrenbach, lawyer, 5441 Bartmer avenue, Republican. He represented the Franklin District Neighborhood Association before the board last year in opposing the conversion of Franklin School, 814 North Nineteenth street, into a Negro vocational school.

Russell (Bud) Greer, jeweler, 5330 Pershing avenue, Republican. He announced his candidacy in the belief the election would be nonpartisan, but said today he would file under the party label.

George F. Koop, president-treasurer of H. D. Koop Hardware Co., 2022 Russell boulevard, Republican. He was defeated for the board in 1933.

Gerald B. O'Reilly, lawyer and president of the Humane Society, 5621 Waterman boulevard, Democrat. He said he would not file the petitions unless he received reasonable indications of support.

Thomas F. Quinn, president of the Building Trades Council and secretary-treasurer of the Steam & Gas Fitters' Union, 5206 Thrush avenue, Democrat. He said he had more than 25,000 signatures on his petitions, labor interests being active in his support.

C. George Saenger, bricklaying and general contractor, 3540A Minnesota avenue, Democrat.

Joseph J. Ward, lawyer, 2246 Mullanphy street, Democrat. He said he had more than 10,000 signatures, and expected support of the party organization.

Weidle, 3853 Lindell boulevard.

G. Howard Willett, general insurance broker, 5696 Kingsbury avenue, Democrat.

Prospective Candidates.

Persons who have been considering, with varying degrees of interest, whether they would run for the board, include:

Dr. Paul E. Eckardt, dentist, 2027 South Jefferson (Rep.), who was defeated for the board twice; Stewart D. Flanagan, lawyer, 3833 Bowen street (Rep.); Mrs. Lon O. Hocker, former Republican national committeewoman, wife of a lawyer, 39 Portland place; Dr. Rudolph Hofmeister, physician, 6101 South Grand boulevard (Dem.), who was highest among defeated candidates for the board in 1933; D. Calhoun Jones, lawyer, 4914 Argyle place (Dem.), who also was defeated for the board in 1933; Clarence L. Miller, salesman for the Measuregraph Co., 3440A Delor street, who has not declared his politics; Thomas E. Nester, member of the Republican city and State committees, 1300 Monroe street; William W. Phillips, publisher of fraternal directories and avenue (Dem.), who was defeated for the board in 1933.

Some of those considering running pointed out that their decisions would depend on what political support they could obtain. One of them declared: "It's going to be a straight political situation this time. I don't want to be running after the party committee for support; it's up to the committee."

Indorsements by Ward Groups.

Chairman Hannegan of the Democratic City Committee said his group would not act as a body on the election of board members, but would leave indorsements to the individual ward organizations. Chairman Pape of the Republican City Committee did not know what his group would do. Political observers have anticipated that support of the party organizations, possibly with trading between ward leaders of the two parties, might play a strong, if not a ruling, part in the election of the board members.

The Public School Patrons' Alliance has appointed a committee to consider qualifications of candidates for the board. It probably will report March 11. Directors of the League of Women Voters, which in the past has taken an active part in board elections, decided this year not to bring out candidates or vote indorsements.

Citizens' Committee Revived.

The Citizens' School Board Committee, a nonpartisan group, which functioned in the elections of 1925, 1927, 1929 and, to some extent, in 1931, has been revived, with the object of selecting, sponsoring and supporting suitable candidates. It has opened an office at 319 North Tenth street, but organization has not been completed.

Elmer B. Klein, a broker, is president. He is vice-president of the General Council on Civic Needs and the Federation of Improvement Associations. Other officers are: Vice-presidents, W. Scott Hancock, lawyer; Mrs. Arthur J. Krueger, education chairman of the eighth district, Federation of Women's Clubs; Mrs. Julius Kunz, president of the St. Louis Council of Parent-Teachers' Associations; secretary, Mrs. Charles L. Passmore; treasurer, A. O. Wilson, banker; co-chairmen of the Advisory Committee, William Stephan, coal dealer and president of the Downtown Lions' Club and the Gavel Club, and Mrs. Paul Blackwelder.

Terms of Board of Education members are for six years. They are not salaried. For a number of years heretofore the board has been elected on a nonpartisan basis, but previously there was an understanding between the Republican and Democratic committees whereby the board's membership was divided equally.

U. S. AGENTS RESCUED BY DEAL WITH GANG

Exchange of Hostages Frees Two Men Held by Boston Liquor Smugglers.

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, Feb. 15.—Joseph A. Maynard, collector of customs, announced the seizure last night of a liquor smugglers' boat and told how two customs inspectors had been saved previously from seizure and threatened death only after an exchange of hostages with the smugglers.

The vessel was the Clarence B. Mitchell, 38-year-old flounder dragger. When customs inspectors boarded it there was no evidence of a contraband cargo other than alcohol fumes in the hold and there was no one aboard.

It was the ship, Maynard said, that three customs inspectors came upon early Wednesday.

"There were 30 or 40 men taking alcohol off the boat and placing it in trucks," Maynard said.

"They put guns to our men. It's the first time they've done that in a long, long while. One of our inspectors, however, had remained at the head of the dock and had collared one of the fellows.

"The rest of them threatened that if their man wasn't let go, they'd carry our inspectors out to sea and kill them. So the exchange was made.

"They backed our men right off the wharf with guns and beat it out to sea with the boat. Trucks roared from the docks as the vessel left.

"We're going right out after them and show them they're not bigger than the United States Government," he added. He said he knew who the men were and that the evidence would be presented to a grand jury.

Garageman Abducted; Car Taken.

MAYSVILLE, Ark., Feb. 15.—E. F. Smith, who operates a garage and hotel here, was held up Monday night as he was closing his garage by three men who took his automobile after forcing him to drive with them three miles. The men had abandoned another car which Sheriff Earl Austin learned was stolen Jan. 24 in Texarkana.

THREE MEN CAPTURED AFTER 4-HOUR SIEGE

Accused Bank Robber Taken, Brother Shot in House in Hills Near Dora, Mo.

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Feb. 15.—After a four-hour siege by seven officers, Lando Gunter, alias Jimmy Harris, accused Richland bank robber and fugitive from the Pulaski County jail at Waynesville, was captured with two companions at 2 a. m. today in a farmhouse in the hills of Ozark County.

Clarence Gunter, a brother of Lando, was shot in the left shoulder as he ran into the house at the approach of officers. A doctor was called from Elijah to attend him this morning.

The two men taken with the Gunters gave the names of Dick Johnson and Jack White. All are in jail at Gainesville.

County officers and State patrolmen surrounded the house, hidden in a valley on a bend of Spring Creek, a few miles south of Dora, at 10 o'clock last night. Johnson was arrested as he sat in a car with a woman outside the house. Three other men fled into the house. The oficers fired, one of the bullets hitting Clarence Gunter.

No shots were fired from the house during the siege, officers said. The officers, however, fired intermittently at and over it, while calling on the occupants to surrender.

Early this morning six women came walking out, followed by Gunter, his wounded brother and White. One of the women, Sheriff S. W. Daniel of Ozark County said, was Gunter's mother, another his sister, and the third the wife of Clarence Gunter. The other three were not identified. None of them was held.

Charges of possessing a stolen automobile are to be filed against Johnson and White, Sheriff Daniel said. The car bore an Oklahoma license.

The men arrested had a pistol, an automatic and a sawed-off shotgun.

WATCH LIQUOR, WARNING GIVEN TO THE PUBLIC

Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the city board of health, today issued a warning to the public to be on watch against poisonous liquor in Chicago and asked that any place serving liquor that appears bad be reported to the police so samples may be analyzed.

During January, his bulletin stated, samples taken by police and analyzed by his chemists showed that a third were fair grades of drinkables. Eight samples were raw moonshine, containing fusel oil and other poisonous substances, although not in deadly quantity. Of these eight samples some were diluted with water to reduce alcoholic

Gloversville, N. Y., Jan. 30 (AP).—Medical skill sought to halt the ravages of a mysterious "creeping death" at a score of bedsides today as law enforcers looked for sources of poison alcohol which has killed 31 persons here and at Utica.

John Poyfair died here today, raising Gloversville's total to 15. Sixteen died at Utica since the first poison case was revealed last Thursday. Investigators established today that William Sinnot, 30, who was believed to have died in a Rome hospital, was clinging to a slender thread of life. He is blind and reported dying. WOOD ALCOHOL FOUND IN LIQUOR SOLD IN CHICAGO

Liquor containing wood alcohol, similar to that which caused an epidemic of deaths in New York state, is being sold in Chicago, Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the city board of health, warned yesterday.

Of seventeen samples of whisky from Chicago taverns, submitted by police to the health department for analysis, only about one-third were found to be wholesome, Dr. Bundesen said. Eight contained moonshine liquor and its at-

New York State is considering "certification of pure liquor," by way of discouraging bootleg liquor poisoning. Legislators were told of "more than thirty bootleg liquor deaths in Utica and Gloversville alone."

In Paris, any citizen who sends a bottle of wine or liquor to the municipal laboratory is told if there is anything wrong, and authorities do something about it. New York State plans to charge for the "certification," and make money. A citizen who buys wine or liquor should buy an established BRAND, and buy from a merchant whom he trusts.

35 Dead in Poison Liquor Mystery

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 29.—(By International News Service.)—Thirty-five persons lay dead in the central New York area this afternoon and other victims were expected to be reported momentarily as a man-made epidemic of "bottled death"—poisoned liquor—swept the up-state territory.

Appalled by the rapidly mounting death toll—the greatest isolated instance of this nature since "bowery smoke" claimed its hundreds of victims—the New York State Legislature moved for a thorough investigation coincident with the opening of a probe by the New York state liquor authority.

The legislative probe is expected to be based on a pending resolution of Assemblyman Anthony Canney, Buffalo Democrat, call upon proper authorities to ascert immediately how these trag could occur after more than of repeal.

The liquor authority's inv tion, already under way, ascertain whether any of the booze came from establishm der state license.

Actual clippings from recent Chicago newspapers!

Where does the DANGER LIE?

In December the Walgreen Company published a message to the readers of this newspaper entitled "12 Months of Repeal"—on the subject of illegal liquors. That page gave rise to several questions. Here are the answers to them—

1. "Are illegal liquors really dangerous?"

They may be merely sickening—bringing violent headaches or nausea, with no disastrous or permanent after effects. Or, at their best, they may be no worse than unpleasant to the taste.

They may be deadly. They may kill or blind you and your friends. The newspaper clippings pictured here tell how some thirty-seven people died in agony from drinking illegal liquors—of how wood alcohol and other poisons were found in moonshine whiskies in Chicago.

The unescapable point is this: Every bottle of illegal liquor involves a serious risk—one that no man has the right to take.

2. "Is the quantity of illegal liquors exaggerated?"

We have said that "it is estimated that 50% of the liquors consumed today are bootleg liquors—made from unknown ingredients at some unknown source." That estimate comes from one of the outstanding figures in the liquor industry, a high executive of one of the foremost distilleries and an officer of a national dealers' association (name on request). It is based upon unique sources of accurate information. We believe it to be true.

Leading distillers and organizations of reputable wholesalers and retailers agree emphatically that the quantity of spurious liquors foisted upon the unsuspecting public has grown to alarming proportions.

3. "Where are these spurious liquors sold?"

We have no specific answer to this question. If we had, it would be a simple matter to give the facts to the proper authorities so they could stamp out the present traffic overnight.

Illegal liquors MAY be sold by anyone willing to be tempted by odd-lot merchandise at bargain prices. They may be sold by any one who does not investigate his sources of supply—and check the quality and purity of his purchases.

They may be sold by a man who is greedy for extra profit—or by a man who is merely careless—or by a man who lacks the resources and facilities to test his merchandise in the laboratory.

WE DO KNOW THIS! The faintest shadow of a doubt is enough to shut out any wine or liquor from the Walgreen Drug Stores.

4. "Does the Walgreen Company aid the authorities in fighting bootleg liquors?"

WE DO! We have reported all the cases where suspicious lots of questionable liquors have been offered to us. The agents of both Federal and State governments have thanked us many times for information that has made it possible to uncover vendors of illegal liquors and to stop the flow from their stills and processing tanks. Our reputation in this matter is so widely known that such salesmen no longer risk calling on us.

Let us state very clearly the purpose of this page.

We have no desire to alarm the public. This is no attempt to frighten people into making all their purchases at Walgreen Drug Stores.

Once more we state that there are many other reputable retailers, large and small, who are careful of the quality and character of the wines and liquors they offer.

Such retailers join with us in pointing out the foolishness of "taking chances." To buy questionable liquors—for the sake of a microscopic saving in time, money, or convenience—is silly, and far worse. For even if you are willing to assume the risk yourself, you have no right to ask your friends to do so.

When you buy at Walgreen Drug Stores
you take no risk at all!

Every bottle on our shelves must be able to meet three tests.

1. It comes direct from a strictly reputable source.

2. The distiller's description of the product has met our own rigid requirements.

3. A consumer or market test has shown it pleasant to the taste.

Finally, the accepted brands are offered with a scrupulously accurate description of their quality and character.

To this vigilant protection you can comfortably entrust yourself and your friends.

G. O. P. TO HAVE FULL ALDERMANIC TICKET

City Committee to Meet Next Week to Make Plans for Campaign.

A meeting of the Republican City Committee to make campaign plans for the city election, at which the president of the Board of Aldermen and 14 Aldermen from even-numbered wards will be elected, will be called for next Monday or Tuesday, Chairman Pape said today.

Although the last day for filing as candidates for the March 8 primary election is Feb. 25, no Republican candidates have done so. Fifteen Democrats have filed, including William L. Mason, candidate for President of the Board.

Pape said Republicans had delayed filing with the expectation that the Missouri Supreme Court would give its decision on whether the Constitutional amendment adopted at the November election authorizing St. Louis to elect Aldermen by wards instead of at large became effective upon adoption, without a city charter amendment.

Democrats have filed as candidates subject to city-wide vote as in the past and the question was placed before the Supreme Court by Republican Committeeman Rudie Goerts after the Board of Election Commissioners had refused to accept his declaration of candidacy subject only to the votes of residents of the Fourteenth Ward.

Regardless of whether the Supreme Court makes its decision before Feb. 25, Pape said a complete Republican ticket would be placed in the field. He said he did not think it would be necessary to draft candidates.

Two Republican Aldermen, Charles A. Neumann of the Twelfth Ward, minority leader, and Frank L. Wetzel of the Sixteenth, announced today they would file their candidacies for re-election shortly, whether the election would be at large or by wards. Neumann has been on the board since 1919 and Wetzel since 1925. Two other Republicans, Alderman Schwartz of the Twentieth Ward, and Kralemann of the Twenty-second, have announced they would retire.

The city election will be April 2. President Neun and 12 of the 14 Aldermen whose terms expire are Republicans. Each of the 14 Aldermen from odd-numbered wards elected two years ago is a Democrat.

WILEY MADE A COMMANDER

Akron Skipper Among 65 Navy Officers Promoted.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—Among the 65 Navy Lieutenant-Commanders promoted to the rank of Commander by President Roosevelt today was Herbert V. Wiley, skipper of the dirigible Macon, which fell into the Pacific Tuesday with a loss of two lives.

Wiley also was aboard the Akron when it plunged into the Atlantic two years ago.

PROPERTY TAX TIED ONTO STATE OLD AGE GRANTS

Senate Amends Bill to Force Voters to Approve Direct Levy if Age Limit Is Fixed at 65 Years.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 15. — Old age pension legislation received something of a setback today when the Senate, by a vote of 19 to 14, adopted an amendment to a pending resolution submitting a constitutional amendment to the vote of the people by which the people must vote a direct property tax if they would fix the age limit for pension at 65 years.

The vote followed a bitter denunciation of Senator Phil M. Donnelly of Lebanon, president pro tem, by Senator Joffee of Kansas City, and the vote may to some extent be considered as having been a vote of confidence in Donnelly rather than solely a vote on the merits of the proposal.

The question was on the age limit in the constitutional provision authorizing old age pensions. The present provision provides that the Legislature may adopt legislation for pensions for all needy persons more than 70 years old.

Joffee's Resolution.

In view of the settled policy of the national administration for pensions for those above 65, Senator Joffee introduced a resolution fixing that as the age.

The present constitutional provision does not limit the Legislature in the providing of funds for pensions, though it could not levy a property tax for the purpose without a vote of the people.

Donnelly's amendment specifically would require the Legislature to levy a tax of not less than one-half cent or more than 5 cents on the $100 of valuation of all personal property and real estate in the State.

Under the Donnelly amendment, if the voters should reject the proposal for a property tax they also would reject the 65-year age limit, and pensions would be restricted to those more than 70 years old.

Senators Joffee and McDowell have pending a bill to place a 20 per cent tax on all tobacco products to meet the requirements for old age pensions.

Criticism of Donnelly.

Joffee, arising to speak in opposition to the amendment introduced by Donnelly, immediately began an attack on the president pro tem.

"We elected the Senator from Laclede as president pro tem," Joffee said, "with the expectation that we could rely upon his leadership. But we find that the Tobacco Trust is so powerful in this Legislature that we need new leadership.

"If his leadership is such that the property owners of the State are to be penalized while the special interests are dominating the Legislature, then I, for one, repudiate his leadership.

"The taxpayers are entitled to some leadership here. But we find that the representatives of the special interests are able to keep the tobacco tax bill and bills of other kinds to tax the special interests in the committees."

Defense of Donnelly.

Senator Rollins, who announced that he was opposed to Donnelly's amendment, delivered a strong defense of the president pro tem.

"I do not know what constitutes leadership in the mind of the Senator from Kansas City," he said, "unless it be agreement with everything he might say. Our leadership has been constructive and has not consisted of publicity stunts."

Closing the debate, Donnelly largely ignored Joffee's attack. He said there was no question of leadership involved in the offering of his amendment. He said it merely submitted to the people the question of whether they were willing to be taxed to pay old age pensions.

"If the Senator desires to repudiate any leadership," Donnelly said, "he can do so as far as I am concerned. I will say that I am not attempting to fool the people into the belief that they can pay old age pensions and not themselves pay the bill.

"There is no demagoguery in my position.

"I hold no brief for the tobacco interests or for any other interests, but I do say that any interests or any body of citizens have the right to come before this Legislature and petition for what they may believe to be their rights, just as a huge delegation of merchants came here a few days ago against the sales tax. I recognize their right to come, but I am not swept off my feet by them."

Defends Property Tax.

Donnelly said a property tax would mean security for the payment of pensions, while any other kind of tax voted by the Legislature might be repealed at some future session of the Legislature, and the aged left without pensions.

Several Senators, who had been expected to vote against the Donnelly amendment, voted for it, apparently considering the vote to mean an indorsement or repudiation of Donnelly.

Immediately after the vote was taken the Senate went to another order of business, leaving further consideration of the Joffee resolution as the first matter to be taken

TO SEEK SENATE INQUIRY IN GARMENT PLANT STRIKE

Resolution on Forest City Co. to Be Introduced at Labor Mass Meeting.

A resolution calling on the United States Senate to investigate the Forest City Manufacturing Co., 1627 Washington avenue, and the A. A. Ahner Detective Agency will be introduced at a mass meeting of organized labor at the Municipal Auditorium at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

The resolution charges that the Forest City Manufacturing Co. resorted to espionage in an effort to prevent workers from organizing under the Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, which recently called a strike at the plant. The meeting will call on Congress to amend the labor section of the NRA to give Regional Labor Boards power to send violators to prison. The resolution promises support of the strike at the Forest City concern, and calls on police to be neutral in handling strike demonstrations. The resolution will be presented by Martin Dillmon, of the Central Trades & Labor Union Laws' Committee.

Speakers at the meeting will include officers of the Central Trades and Harry Nelson, president of the Street Car Men's Union.

Dynamite Found on Train Tracks.

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 15. — Two watchmen discovered 113 sticks of dynamite between the tracks of the Chicago & Illinois Midland Railroad, north of Springfield, early today. Bombers apparently had been frightened away, abandoning the dynamite and 400 feet of wire. Railroad officials said the dynamite was found five minutes before a train was due.

SWINDLER SEIZED, DECEIVED CLERGY POSING AS PRIEST

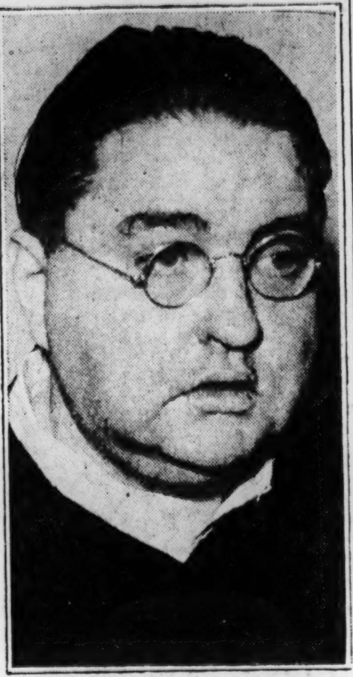
A plump, middle-aged man in the habiliments of a Catholic priest was held at Police Headquarters today as a fugitive from justice. He admitted readily when apprehended yesterday that the authorities at Chicago, Lansing, Mich., Springfield, Mass., Brookline, Mass., and Cambridge, Mass., want him for forgery and obtaining money under false pretenses.

The prisoner, who said his real name is John A. Duvall, had been posing as a priest for about a year, he said. He attended a Catholic seminary in Washington for about eight years as "Jack Lorenz," he added, but was not ordained when he decided that the priesthood was "no vocation."

Also held is his fair-haired companion, Harry Palmore, 19 years old, of Taunton, Mass., who has been posing as the nephew of the bogus priest.

HELD AS FORGER



—By a Post-Dispatch Staff Photographer.

JOHN A. DUVALL.

All They Wanted to Know.

Duvall was limping along Twelfth boulevard at Olive street—he was injured in an automobile accident 18 months ago—when Detective-Sergeant James Doherty and Detectives McCarthy and Harberding, spotted him. They followed and one of the officers called Palmore aside to inquire "Who is the priest with the cane?" "Oh," smiled the handsome youth, "that's the Rev. T. J. Buckley, my uncle."

That was all the officers wanted to know. They had been looking for a lame bogus clergyman who sometimes pretended to be the Rev. T. J. Buckley of Brookline, who sometimes said he was the Rev. James F. Davey of Boston. At headquarters, while the "nephew" was telling one group of officers about Duvall's affection for him, Duvall related to another group the details of his scheme.

He has been going to churches, he said, when a funeral was in progress and posing as a friend of the deceased. During the services it was his practice to become ill, whereupon he would be escorted to the rectory and usually left alone there, which would give him an opportunity to steal blank checks and letters which would indicate that he was the priest in whose church he had become "ill." Then, in a nearby town, he would cash the checks.

Took Checks in St. Louis.

He did this in Father Buckley's church in Brookline and in Father Davey's church in Boston, as well as in two churches in Chicago and one in St. Louis, the St. Boniface Church, 7622 Michigan avenue, where he says he stole three checks belonging to the Rev. Herman Nieters. However, he said, he has not cashed any of those stolen here.

Since they arrived in St. Louis, two weeks ago, Duvall and his "nephew" have been rooming at 1926A Geyer avenue, where yesterday afternoon, the police found a number of pawn tickets. Duvall explained that he purchased several watches on credit in Chicago, posing as a Chicago priest, and pawned them here.

SAYS NRA HAS SETTLED OR ADJUSTED 70,000 CASES

Compliance Director Rumely of Chicago Addresses Code Authority Council.

More than 70,000 of the 90,000 cases referred to the NRA in Washington in the past year have been settled or adjusted, C. F. Rumely, NRA Compliance Director for the sixth region with headquarters in Chicago, said in a talk before a dinner meeting of the Code Authority Council, of Greater St. Louis at Hotel Chase last night.

Keith Carlin, NRA compliance attorney for the region, said all but 2 per cent of industry has come under codes. The Chicago regional office, established at the beginning of the year, handles compliance cases from Missouri, Illinois, Indiana and Wisconsin without the necessity of their being sent to Washington for action.

HURT IN RESCUING GIRLS

Kansas City Policeman Tosses Two to Safety, But Is Hit by Truck.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 15.—Leaping in front of a truck which was bearing down on twin 6-year-old school girls here today, William Burch, 30 years old, a patrolman, tossed them to safety but was struck down himself. Burch suffered severe injuries to his right knee and left wrist.

Burch, on duty at the E. C. White School, had halted traffic to permit a group of children to cross the street. The truck, driven by Roy Hodessheldt, threatened to run down Sally Jean and Betty Jane Anderson. Burch caught the girls in his arms and tossed them out of harm's way as the truck struck him. Hodessheldt was arrested.

SCULLIN URGES SINGLE LICENSE FOR ALL LIQUOR

St. Louis Excise Commissioner Tells State Senate Group This Is Necessary to Law Enforcement.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 15.—Excise Commissioner Scullin of St. Louis told the special Senate sub-Committee which is drafting a revised liquor bill yesterday that unless there is but one license to cover the sale of all liquor, beer included, proper enforcement of the liquor laws would be impossible in St. Louis.

There is little likelihood that a bill containing such a provision will pass the Legislature because of certain rural opposition. If, however, the committee reports favorably a bill along the lines of Gov. Park's bill, which is before it for consideration, there is a way in which St. Louis could achieve the same end.

Gov. Park's bill repeals the present 3.2 per cent beer law and defines any liquor containing more than one-half of one per cent alcohol as intoxicating and places all liquors under the supervision of the Liquor Department. The license for sale by the drink would be $300 a year as now, and there would be a license of $500 for anyone selling only beer of not more than 5 per cent.

Power of City.

The city, however, has the power to make ordinances for the regulation and control of all intoxicating liquors, the ordinances not to be in conflict with State laws. With all liquor containing more than one-half of one per cent of alcohol defined as intoxicating, the city could regulate all beer and establish a city license for the dealer who gets only the State beer license so that the two together would approximate the higher licenses for the sale of all liquor by the drink.

This, Scullin and E. J. Becker, supervisor of liquor control, thought, would enable the city to get at the dealer who now has only a beer license and sells other liquors on the side.

If the Legislature, however, would approve a bill along the lines of the one introduced by Senator Phil M. Donnelly, which keeps the present definition of 3.2 as non-intoxicating, the city would have no control over the dealer selling only 3.2 beer.

"Could Clean St. Louis."

Scullin said that he "wanted no beer license at all." "We want to make it so that no man will have the urge or the need to cheat," he said. "With all liquor under one license and the inspectors and police given the power of search and seizure, we could clean up St. Louis in 90 days."

Scullin also asked that the present provision in the law which permits a wholesaler to sell small quantities of beer to persons without a license "for home consumption" be repealed. "That is the way all our beer flats get their beer," he said.

Scullin was the first person heard by the subcommittee. Regular hearings on the liquor bills before the combined judiciary and criminal jurisprudence committee have come to an end and the subcommittee will only hear a few persons at its own invitation.

Charter for Bank at Hermann.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 15.—A charter has been issued to the Hermann Bank of Hermann, Gasconade County, by the State Finance Department. A. B. Walker is president of the new institution, which will be capitalized at $25,000 with a surplus of $5000. Fred C. Whittrock is cashier.

BRYAN UNIVERSITY UPHOLDS ANTI-EVOLUTION STATUTE

Urges Tennessee Legislators to Kill Bill for Repeal of Teaching Law.

By the Associated Press.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 15.—Faculty and students of the William Jennings Bryan University, which came into being at Dayton as a memorial to the Commoner, following the famous evolution trial there in 1926, petitioned the Legislature today not to pass a pending bill to repeal Tennessee's anti-evolution statute.

The Legislature was told in a letter placed on members' desks that "passing of this bill would be a backward step of serious and far-reaching consequences. . . . Since the evidence for the teaching that man descended from a lower order of animals would not be sustained in any court in the land, we further hold that it should not be taught in tax-supported institutions at the expense of those whose beliefs are contrary to the unproven theory of evolution," said the letter which was signed by Judson A. Rudd, president of the university; D. W. Ryther Jr., dean, and Lloyd E. Fish, student representative.

Repeal of the law has been recommended for passage by the House Judiciary Committee. It was introduced by Representative Cecil Anderson, 22-year-old legislator and Vanderbilt University student.

DOCTOR TELLS WHY WOMEN MAY LACK SENSE OF HUMOR

Eye Strain, Improper Diet or "Insulted Feet" Often the Reason, Speaker Says.

Lack of a sense of humor in women often may be traced to eye strain, improper diet, or "insulted feet," Dr. Harriet S. Cory, executive secretary of the Missouri Social Hygiene Association, said yesterday in addressing the Zonta Club, a group of business women.

Dr. Cory said that modern medical practice had greatly strengthened the physical body of woman and minimized some of the traditional mental hazards which have long intimidated her. "Woman has passed beyond the foot-binding and waist-binding period," she said. "Her physical diaphragm is no longer constricted, but her mental diaphragm has not yet been given free play. Women are inclined to be too stoical or too complaining."

Discussing nutrition, Dr. Cory said that self-chosen diets were frequently dangerous and futile. "It is better to take a chance on a well-balanced diet than on fads," she said.

Huge Main Lock Nearing Completion at Alton Dam

Concrete Structure 600 Feet Long, 110 Feet Wide, With 50-Foot Walls—May Be Opened for Navigation in May.

Construction of the Alton dam—$10,000,000 link in the Government's Mississippi River improvement program—has progressed to a point where the huge main lock is nearing completion and may be opened to navigation in May.

After a year's work, entailing the driving of 650,000 feet of piling into the sands to support the 400,000-ton locks, the wooden forms are being removed from the main lock and preparations made to hang the electrically operated iron gates.

Both the main and auxiliary locks are scheduled for completion next autumn, representing an expenditure of $3,500,000. When the main lock—a structure 600 feet long, 110 feet wide and with 50-foot walls—is put into use in May, work will begin on the dam proper, stretching 1724 feet into the river.

Barring floods or unforseen mishaps, the entire project, instrumental in providing a 9-foot channel to revive river commerce on the Mississippi, will be completed in the late summer of 1937, army engineers announced today. The dam will create a pool flooding 18,000 acres and reaching up the Mississippi 40 miles to Cap A Gris, in Lincoln County, and up the Illinois to La Grange, mid-way to Peoria. A system of mechanized gates will permit the passage of flood water.

Work on the Lock.

Just now interest is centered in the work on the lock, which in the last few months has afforded tangible evidence of the size of the undertaking. It resembles huge cement battlements on the edge of the river, at the eastern approach to the Lewis and Clark bridges.

Finishing touches are being put on the concrete work on the main lock, which represents more than 75 per cent of the cost of the two locks. Construction activities are in the 26-acre pit of a big cofferdam. The auxiliary lock, which will be built next summer, will be 360 feet long and 110 feet wide.

The land wall of the locks will be 32 feet thick, rising about two feet above the level of the railroad track on the bank. The intermediate wall, 47 feet thick, alone contains more concrete than the entire locks of other navigation dams on the Upper Mississippi.

900 Men Employed.

About 900 men, representing a weekly payroll of nearly $40,000, are on the job now. Although bad weather last December and a cold period last month caused delays, the time has been made up and work is running ahead of schedule.

Workmen who complained of cold last month compared conditions then with periods last summer when temperatures around 125 degrees were common within the cofferdam area. Steel sheet piling—1800 tons of which were used to protect the main lock foundations—had to be handled with gloved hands.

The work of building a solid foundation on sand, entailing the driving of 12,000 timber and 4000 concrete piles, was completed by November and the pouring of concrete was started.

Then the lock began to take definite shape until today it bulks hugely along Alton's river front. The cofferdam area resembles a city of concrete, the work attracting constant crowds of spectators.

YEATMAN GRADUATES WANT NAME RESTORED TO SCHOOL

Ask That the Next Building Erected Be Named Central.

Graduates of Yeatman High School in 1910, meeting to celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary at the Missouri Athletic Association on Wednesday, adopted a resolution requesting restoration of the name of Yeatman to the high school building at 3616 North Garrison avenue. Central High School has used this building since its own structure was ruined by the tornado of 1927.

The resolution requested the Board of Education to transfer the name of Central to the next high school erected. The board soon will start construction of a new high school, as yet unnamed, at Kingshighway and Arsenal street. Yeatman, named after James E. Yeatman, a distinguished St. Louisan of a century ago, was opened in the building erected for it in 1904. It was disbanded as a senior high school in 1926, but for the next four years the Yeatman Intermediate School was conducted in the building, which was shared with Central from 1927 to 1930.

Central, first high school west of the Mississippi River, was established in 1853. A proposal to drop its name, a number of years ago, was abandoned after strenuous protests from its alumni.

MAN, THREE BOYS, QUESTIONED ABOUT COUNTERFEIT MONEY

Lad Says He Found 150 Coins in Basement of His Home.

A man and three boys were held today for Federal authorities in connection with the appearance of counterfeit half dollars in North St. Louis.

One of the boys, arrested yesterday, told police he found about 150 of the coins in the basement of his home. The man, he said, told him they were counterfeit, and took most of the coins from him. The boy said he gave several to two young friends and kept a few for himself.

The man who got most of the coins told police he had thrown them into the Mississippi River. The boy who found them told police that three years ago he had seen two men working with plaster molds in the basement of his home, and he thought the coins had been made at that time.

HOUSE COMMITTEE REPORTS ON 'UN-AMERICAN' ACTIVITIES

Investigators Recommend Laws to Bar Foreign Propaganda and Outlaw Agitation for Change by Violence.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—Legislation to protect the United States from foreign propaganda and revolutionary activity was recommended to Congress today by a House committee which spent more than a year investigating "un-American" activities.

In its unanimous report the committee, headed by Representative McCormack (Dem.), Massachusetts, charged in effect that Soviet Russia has violated its pledge against harboring groups which advocate the overthrow of this Government. It declared that tons of Nazi propaganda had been smuggled into this country, and complimented "twenty-odd-million Americans of German birth or descent" for resisting efforts "to bring them into the Nazi program."

Suggested Legislation.

These recommendations for legislation were made:

(1.) That all publicity, propaganda or public relations agents of foreign governments, foreign political parties or foreign commercial firms be required to register with the Secretary of State.

(2.) That the Secretary of State be empowered to shorten or end the stay in this country of a temporarily-admitted foreigner if he disseminates propaganda or engages in "political" work.

(3.) That the United States negotiate treaties with other nations for the deportation of undesirable aliens to their native lands.

(4.) That it be made unlawful to advise soldiers, sailors or reserves to disobey their laws or regulations.

(5.) That United States Attorneys be empowered to prosecute persons who refuse to testify before congressional committees.

(6.) That it be made unlawful "to advocate changes in a manner that incites to the overthrow or destruction, by force and violence, of the Government of the United States" or any state.

15,000-Word Report.

The committee reported it had "recently received evidence which justifies an inquiry into reports showing interference by a Consul of the Mexican Government assigned to San Bernardino, Cal., with the religious practices and religious freedom of some of our people."

"This evidence has been submitted to the State Department and assurances have been given that an immediate inquiry will be made," the committee said.

In the 15,000-word, 24-page report, the investigators repeated some of the testimony obtained in hearings throughout the country, and presented separate summaries dealing with Naziism, Fascism, Communism, the "Silver Shirts"—which they said were patterned after the Storm Troops of Germany—and other organizations.

The committee said that Nazis used "all kinds of efforts and influence, short of force and violence," to "consolidate persons of German birth and descent" in this country "into one group, subject to dictation from abroad."

At "youth summer camps" in different localities, the report asserted, children were taught to recognize Chancellor Hitler of Germany as their leader. The report added that the committee's disclosure in open hearings had started a "disintegration of the movement."

Findings on Fascism.

Of Fascism it said:

"There have been isolated cases of activity by organizations which seemed to be guided by the Fascisti principle, which the committee investigated and found had made no progress."

However, it reported there was evidence which would "justify an investigation" of alleged "Fascist activity by an Italian Vice Consul at Detroit."

The committee recalled the pledge, given by Soviet Russia at the time of American recognition. In December, 1933—a month after the pledge—the Communist Internationale in a meeting at Moscow approved a platform calling for the "overthrow" of the "exploiting classes," the commitee said.

That resolution plainly advocated "the bringing about by force of a change in the social or political order of the whole or any part of the United States, its territories or possessions," the committee contended, adding that it was approved by the Communist Party of the United States in a convention at Cleveland in April, 1934.

Although the committee held that communistic activity in this country was not such as to constitute an immediate danger, it warned that there must be protective action.

There were findings that Kurt Georg Wilhelm Luedecke, who gained access to White House press conferences and the congressional press galleries, used "his position of traveling representative for a German commercial house as a smoke screen behind which to disseminate his propaganda"; that Carl Byoir and associates of New York City circulated "propaganda" in this country for the German tourist agency; that the firm of Ivy Lee-T. J. Ross "sold their services for express propaganda purposes" to I. G. Farben Industries; that George Sylvester Viereck helped the Byoir firm get its contract.

It added that Dr. Otto H. F. Vollbehr, who sold some rare books to the United States recently for $1,500,000, spent his own money for distributing "memoranda" and was warned by Dr. Hans Luther, German Ambassador, not to "mix in American politics."

WITNESS ASSERTS CASHIER DID NOT FOLLOW ORDERS

Ernest Boyd Says Henry Giessenbier Failed to Credit $7000 to Wife's Account as Instructed.

Testimony in the trial of Henry Giessenbier, cashier of the closed Scruggs, Vandervoort & Barney Bank charged with misapplication of $19,700 of its funds, has turned to his handling of the financial affairs of the Boyd and Gibson families, the subject of much litigation pending in Circuit Court.

The trial was resumed today before a 13-man jury in Federal Judge Davis' court, with the Government seeking to show that Giessenbier used the money of depositors of the bank for his own stock market speculations in 1931.

Ernest Boyd of Baden, a public accountant, testified that Giessenbier had not followed instructions to credit one check of $7000 to the account of Boyd's wife, formerly Miss Cora Gibson.

Tells of $20,000 Loan.

He told of arranging with Giessenbier, who was then president of the Reserve Discount Co., in addition to being an officer of the bank, for a $20,000 loan, in October, 1931. The loan was made to him, Boyd testified, in the form of three checks for $8000, $7000, and $5000.

Subsequently, Boyd testified, he drew about $16,000 in checks against his wife's account, and learned that there was an overdraft of about $7000, because the check had not been deposited according to his instructions.

During the cross-examination of C. J. Prince, vice-president of the bank, who preceded Boyd as a witness, it was indicated that the $7000 check, and $2937 charged against the bank account of Miss Maude Gibson, a sister of Boyd's wife, had been used to obtain a cashier's check for $9937 which was made payable to a brokerage firm. The cashier's check paid off a debit balance in an account the broker carried under the designation, "Henry Giessenbier, agent." Prince, responding to a question by Forrest C. Donnell, of defense counsel, said he had heard that was done, but did not know it of his own knowledge.

Denies Giving Authorization.

Boyd denied, however, that either he or his wife had ever given Giessenbier authority to act as their agent in buying stocks.

Donnell brought out that Giessenbier had handled a great many financial matters for Boyd, his wife, and her sisters, and had never made any charge for his services. In 1929, the witness agreed, Giessenbier had aided him in obtaining loans with which he purchased $60,000 of Burroughs Adding Machine Co. stock.

The defense attorney asked if Giessenbier had not acted for Boyd and his wife in arranging loans of about $100,000 in October, 1931, from the Scruggs bank, and from other banks. Boyd answered that $41,000 of the loans to which Donnell referred was in controversy with the Scruggs bank, and that he was resisting that claim.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Feb. 15.—Douglas Fairbanks Sr. and Sylvia, Lady Ashley, sailed from Southampton today on the East Asiatic liner Europa for the Virgin Islands.

The American motion picture star was irritated because of the discovery of his plans for a world cruise. The Europa will land the pair at St. Thomas.

The titled former chorus girl appeared in high spirits. She smiled kissed her sister goodby just before the boat train pulled out for Southampton.

At St. Thomas Fairbanks will take possession of a yacht belonging to Jesse Livermore for the remainder of the cruise.

Friends who plan to join Fairbanks and Lady Ashley on board the yacht include Fred Astaire, the dancer; Donald Ogden Stuart, author; Benita Hume, British film actress, and her fiance, Jack Dunfee, automobile racing driver.

Fairbanks called a policeman to protect him against inquirers and became annoyed when the officer showed appetite for the task. Fairbanks thereupon strode about the station platform shouting, "Keep away from me or I'll sock you in the nose."

GETS 30 DAYS FOR THROWING HOT WATER ON DETECTIVE

Carl Casey, Negro, Sentenced for Resisting Liquor Raiders; "All in Fun," He Says.

Carl Casey, 22-year-old Negro, was sentenced to 30 days in the Workhouse today for throwing hot water on a detective, despite his plea that it was "all in fun."

Police Judge Vest imposed sentence on Casey and gave his companion, Joseph Garter, 22, a Negro, a sentence of 10 days in the Workhouse for selling liquor without a license.

Detective Keating, of the liquor squad, testified that in a raid on a bar at 1105 North Sixteenth street, on Jan. 30, Casey doused him with water. Casey was charged with resisting an officer.

MRS. DIONNE "ON A DIET"

Scrambled Eggs, Boiled Eggs, Bacon, Ham, Wheat Cakes for Breakfast.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Feb. 14.—The Dionnes parents arrived in Detroit today. Mrs. Dionne said she was hungry. She was, too, and made away with her share of this breakfast: Tomato juice, a double order of oat meal, scrambled eggs, boiled eggs, bacon, ham, wheat cakes, toast, tea and coffee. Through her interpreter, Mrs. Georgiana Rochon, she explained she was on a diet.

During the 11 days they have been away from their home in Northern Ontario, the Dionnes have received daily telegrams from Dr. Allan R. Dafoe containing the latest news of the quintuplets and their other children. The pair is here to fill a week's theater engagement. Asked how she enjoyed making stage appearances, Mrs. Dionne replied, in French, "Fine."

COMMITTEE KILLS 11 BILLS IN 25 MINUTES

"Graveyard" Group in Missouri House Functions as Expected.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 15.—The House Committee on Criminal Justice was in a bill killing mood last night and disposed of 11 of the bills pending before it, with adverse recommendations, in a committee session that lasted only 25 minutes. The wholesale slaughter of bills, most of which were opposed by House leaders, established a committee record for this session of the Legislature.

This committee has acquired a reputation as a "graveyard" committee, due to its tendency to report bills adversely. It is known that Speaker Christy refers to this committee many of the bills which are not viewed with favor by the House leaders, including some of the "old timers," imposing various taxes, fees or regulations on business and other interests, which have been introduced session after session in recent years.

The committee made no favorable recommendations of bills last night. The 11 bills it reported "do not pass" will die automatically, unless the authors or sponsors are able to muster a constitutional majority of the House to override the adverse reports.

Some of Bills Killed.

Among the bills killed by the committee were the following:

Prohibiting the practice of clairvoyance, fortune telling or palmistry, where money is obtained on a pretense of exercising occult power, introduced by Representative Fontana of St. Louis.

Prohibiting the erection or maintenance of advertising signs more than three feet in height, within 100 feet of a State highway, introduced by Representative Brady of St. Louis.

Making drastic changes in the present law on libel, and eliminating some of the defense to libel charges permitted by the present law, introduced by Representative Karst of St. Louis.

Repealing an act of 1933 which granted loan and investment companies certain additional powers to lend money and sell certificates of indebtedness, and limiting the "extra hazard" service charge on loans on automobiles to not more than $20, introduced by Representative Brady of St. Louis.

Small Loan Interest.

Reducing the interest rate for so-called "small loans," of not more than $300, from two and a half per cent a month, as authorized in the present law, to 1 per cent a month, introduced by Representative Caldwell of Ralls County.

Providing for separate assessment of a mortgage on real estate and the equity of the owner of the mortgaged realty for taxation purposes, introduced by Representative Falzone of St. Louis County.

Requiring county officers of St. Louis County to pay into the county treasury all fees collected, and requiring that the number of employes of such county officers, and the salaries of these employes, must be approved by the County Court, introduced by Representative Russell of St. Louis County.

Prohibiting the holding of lotteries of drawings by business establishments, theaters or other places of amusement, in which no consideration other than admission or attendance is an element of the gift enterprise or lottery, introduced by Representative Catron of Lafayette County.

The committee will meet again next Thursday night to take up another group of bills referred to it.

JEWELER PLEADS GUILTY OF POSSESSION OF LOOT

Alton Man Paroled and Two Other Indictments Are Dismissed.

Rudolph Munsinger Jr., Alton jeweler, pleaded guilty yesterday in the Circuit Court at Edwardsville to a charge of receiving stolen property, and was admitted to parole. Juries had disagreed twice when he was tried on the charge. Two other indictments for receiving stolen property were dismissed.

The indictments charged that jewelry stolen in a series of burglaries in Alton homes two years ago had been found in Munsinger's store. State's Attorney Geers is holding the jewelry, including 106 small diamonds, for proof of ownership.

Negro Industrial Commission.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—An industrial commissoin on Negro affairs, made up of five members to be appointed by the President, was proposed in the House yesterday by Representative Mitchell (Dem.), Illinois, Negro Congressman. An appropriation of $300,000 was proposed so that the commissioners might make a thorough investigation into the economic conditions of Negroes. Not more than three of the five members could be Negroes.

WOMAN, MAN FREED ON ROBBERY CHARGES

Indictment Based on Holdup and Rescue at Collinsville Nov. 21 Nolle-Prossed.

An indictment charging Mrs. Lorraine Marie Loppnow and John E. Lindley with attempted robbery of a filling station at Collinsville, Ill., Nov. 21, was nol-prossed by State's Attorney Geers at Edwardsville yesterday.

Geers said that none of the witnesses, who had identified photographs of Mrs. Loppnow as the woman with the rifle who rescued her male companion when he was overpowered by the men he had tried to rob, could identify her as the woman, although the filling station proprietor said she "might be" the woman. None of them could identify Lindley, Geers added.

The two were caught in Memphis, Tenn., a few days after the filling station was held up, in the company of Harold Clifford Bay, an escaped convict from Waupun, Wis., who has been returned there to finish his sentence.

The woman's husband, T. W. Loppnow, of Galena, Ill., from whom she had been separated, appeared in Edwardsville yesterday and took his wife home. Lindley, who said he met Mrs. Loppnow and Bay in Arkansas, departed for his home, Alicia, Ark.

OLD FRANKLIN SCHOOL GROUP TO HOLD REUNION

Class Which Was Graduated in January, 1910, to Have Faculty Members as Guests.

The class which was graduated from the old Franklin School in January, 1910, when the school was at Seventeenth street and Lucas avenue, will celebrate its twenty-fifth anniversary with a reunion at Hotel Jefferson at 7 p. m. next Wednesday. Members of the faculty in 1910 who will be guests at the dinner will include Miss Anna Merriman, Miss Margaret Bryant, Mrs. Otto Leffler and Miss Annie Cameron.

A committee appointed to direct the reunion consisted of Daniel Bartlett, Miss Sadie Roth, Mrs. Edwin Lewis, Harry Kaiser and Edgar Schreihagen. It announced that it wanted addresses of the following members of the class who could not be reached with invitations: Verneda Bannon, Alta Belle Miller, Nellie Cole, Ruth Loretta McCarthy, Vera Hoerle, Montrose Copeland and Victor Woloshen.

RUSSIANS MAKE MORE SOAP

Production Increased 67 Per Cent During 1935.

MOSCOW, Feb. 15.—Joseph Stalin has kept his promise to give Russians more soap, official figures for 1935 production show. The figures released yesterday, placed the year's output at 347,000 tons, an increase of 67 per cent over the previous year. In the spring of 1933 a delegation of collective farmers complained to the Soviet leader that farms were inadequately stocked with soap, and requested particularly the fragrant kind. It was then Stalin made his promise.

The statistics showed the Government's annual plan for increased food production was 98 per cent fulfilled in 1934. Beet sugar production was up 40 per cent, butter 5.

$7000 JUDGMENT AGAINST SAM BREADON AFFIRMED

Appeals Court Holds Him Liable for Associate's Obligations in Real Estate Deal.

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals, Eighth Circuit, has affirmed the judgment rendered by District Judge Davis here, holding Sam C. Breadon, owner of the St. Louis Cardinals, liable for about $7000, the obligation of a business associate, W. C. Anderson, in a deal involving exchange of Florida fruit land for St. Louis real estate. The Court of Appeals added to the judgment an item of interest at 6 per cent, from the date of the obligation, July 1, 1932.

Breadon, Anderson and a third partner obligated themselves to pay $35,000 in the realty deal, and their stock in the Eagle Fruit Co., owning the Florida land, was supposed to secure the obligation. It developed that Anderson's stock had been pledged for loans to two banks, one of them the Vandeventer National Bank, and the bank's receiver sued to enforce the claim against Breadon.

WRAP-CHECKING CONCESSION AT AUDITORIUM ABOLISHED

Commission to Have Management Conduct Service; Alleged "Split" of Profits Under Inquiry.

The Municipal Auditorium Commission, with several members absent, voted unanimously yesterday to abolish the wrap-checking concession at the auditorium and have the service conducted by the management. The motion for this was offered by Deputy Comptroller Cunningham and seconded by Alderman Slay.

From the time the auditorium was opened last April until Jan. 29 Leo E. Riley had the concession. He told the commission the day his privilege was canceled that he had divided $30.45 profits for the first six months of his contract with Aldermen Lietchen and Israel. Israel has denied the charge. Lietchen, a member of the commission, who was absent yesterday, has refused to discuss it. The charge resulted in an investigation by the Board of Aldermen, which has been started.

New bids for the concession were received by the commission Feb. 9, but yesterday's action ended consideration of them.

RELIEF WORKERS ON STRIKE

Some Frightened Away From Jobs Near Joplin, Mo.

By the Associated Press.

JOPLIN, Mo., Feb. 15.—About 50 per cent of relief workers whose turn it was to go on duty today were on strike, relief headquarters here said. The same condition prevails over the county, they said.

Various factory activities employing women here were operating with 100 per cent forces under police protection, but 12 Negroes employed on a ditch job refused to go to work for fear of trouble. Workers on a school project at Belville, near here, were frightened away by strikers who went to the scene from Joplin in automobiles.

BILL AIMED AT REDS IN STATE APPROVED

Would Bar From Ballot Any Party Advocating Overthrow of Government by Force.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 15.—The House Committee on Elections last night approved a bill which would bar from election ballots in Missouri any party which "advocates the overthrow of local, state or national government by force or violence" or carries on a program of sedition or treason against existing governments.

No one appeared to discuss the bill. It was introduced in the House by Representative Fyan, of Webster County, a World War veteran and member of the American Legion. It also provides that no newly organized political party shall be given a place on the ballot until its officers or representatives have made affidavits that the party does not advocate the overthrow of existing governments.

Absentee Voter Law.

Two bills changing the election law relating to absentee voters also were approved. They provide that an absentee voter may cast his ballot anywhere in the State, the ballot to be forwarded to the city where he resides. Another provision is that the voter can request an absentee ballot by mail. The present law requires the voter to ask for his absentee ballot in person and to vote it by mail in advance of the election.

The committee killed a bill requiring all voters at primary elections to State, in voting a certain party ticket, that they have voted for all of the candidates of that party at the last general election and to make an affidavit that they would vote for all that party's candidates at the next general election. It thus would have prohibited the voting of split tickets. Penalty for violation was to have been disfranchisement for five years.

The bill was introduced by Representative Bowling of Schuyler County. Bowling failed to appear before the committee and no one else appeared to discuss the bill.

Permanent Registration.

A bill permitting cities of more than 35,000 population to establish a permanent registration system on petition of 5 per cent of the legal voters was also killed. The measure would have exempted cities which set up permanent registration systems of their own.

The committee also voted down a bill to require the printing of non-partisan ballots in primary elections containing the names of all candidates who filed as non-partisans.

Representative Bourke of Kansas City, chairman of the committee, announced that a hearing would be held Feb. 28, at 8 p. m., on the St. Louis permanent registration bill introduced by Representative Walsh of St. Louis, and supported by the League of Women Voters of St. Louis, and the Young Men's Division of the Chamber of Commerce. Chairman Waechter of the St. Louis Election Board announced yesterday he was preparing a substitute for the bill.

H. I. HARRIMAN'S VIEWS OF JOB INSURANCE BILL

Wants Workers to Bear at Least 1 Pct. of 3 Pct. Payroll Tax.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—Henry I. Harriman, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, appeared before the Senate Finance Committee yesterday to present his organization's views on the administration's social security program.

He asked that workers bear at least 1 per cent of the 3 per cent payroll tax for unemployment insurance, that farmers, domestic servants and casuals be exempted, that the tax apply only to salaries over $250 a month and that permission be given for present company unemployment insurance plans to continue.

He asked, also, for exclusion of farmers, domestics and casuals from taxes and benefits under the compulsory old age pension plan, that existing private annuity plans be continued, and opposed Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau's proposal for an increase in taxes to set up annuity reserves.

Changes in Old Age Plan.

The House Ways and Means Committee completed tentative changes in the proposed old age pension system. The changes would let state agencies instead of the Federal Government fix the size of old age pensions and permit variations within a state between urban and rural centers. They will be submitted later for President Roosevelt's approval.

The committee figured out a way to reconcile its views on State control over old age pensions with the President's insistence on $15 a month as the maximum Federal contribution

As the plan was presented to the committee, a Federal agency could have fixed the amount of pensions in any State. As amended by the committee, the State may stipulate a $40 pension in New York City and a $20 pension upstate.

The Federal Government's contribution in such a case would be only $15 on the $40 pension and $10 on the $20 pension, under the amendment.

Also, the committee decided that instead of requiring a person to reside in a State five years out of the preceding 10 before he could be eligible for a pension, the residence requirement should be five out of the preceding nine years with one of the five immediately preceding that in which a pension application is made.

Amendments as to Children.

New restrictive amendments were written tentatively today into the administration's plan as it applies to dependent children.

The House Ways and Means Committee decided that instead of permitting lump sum allocations to states out of a $25,000,000 Federal fund, the allocations should be on a per capita basis.

Under an amendment tentatively accepted—subject to later approval by President Roosevelt—the Federal money will be limited to $6 a month for the first dependent child and $4 for each additional child.

The committee retained the proviso that each Federal dollar must be matched by two state dollars.

DOG KILLING TO HIGHER COURT

Prospective Jurors in Justice Court All Admit Bias.

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, Kan., Feb. 15.—This city's dog "murder" case may go to District Court. Otis Stevens, a relief worker, is charged with the "murder" of Duke, an 8-year-old Gordon Setter and the city's "dog about town." Technically the charge is destruction of a domestic animal.

Because prospective jurors said they were biased in favor of the dog, a six-member jury could not be obtained when the case was called yesterday in Justice Court. Learning of this, County Attorney C. E. Shouse said he would file the case in District Court so that an unprejudiced jury panel could be obtained. Stevens had admitted killing the dog because it annoyed his children. He is at liberty under a $100 bond.

CONVICTED OF KILLING STUDENT

Man Arrested in St. Louis Tried in California for Shooting.

OAKLAND, Cal., Feb. 15.—Damon Pease, 23 years old, was convicted last night of the murder of Hugh Malloch, Berkeley service station operator and University of California sophomore. The verdict carried a life imprisonment recommendation.

Pease was arrested in St. Louis, where he fled after the shooting of Malloch. The latter thought he recognized Pease's automobile as the one used by robbers in holding up his service station two days previously, gave chase and was shot.

HELPS JUDGE CONVICT HIM

Willie Johnson Jr., 34-year-old Negro, appeared in Judge Griffin's Court of Criminal Correction yesterday charged with larceny of $30 worth of scrap iron. He pleaded not guilty and waived a trial by jury.

"Ever been convicted before, Willie?" the Judge demanded sternly. "Yes, sir." "How many times?" The Negro hesitated, then answered reluctantly, "We-l-l, Judge, your honor, this'll be the third." And it was. Sixty days in the Workhouse.

Receivership Inquiry to Continue.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15. — The Senate voted today to continue its investigation into bankruptcies and receiverships. Senator McAdoo (Dem.), California, recently was chosen to head the committee in place of Senator Ashurst (Dem.),

WOULD UNIFY LAND, AIR AND WATER TRAVEL

Advisers to Co-Ordinator Propose Single Countrywide Passenger Service.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—Transportation experts are giving close study to a proposal for single country-wide passenger service in which all land, water and air facilities would be used.

The proposal originated with advisers of the Federal Co-ordinator of Transportation. It was suggested that the Association of American Railroads be charged with the establishment of the service by unifying railway terminals, equipment and schedules and working out contractural and rate arrangements among the highway, rail, air and water carriers.

The loss of passenger traffic by the railroads was laid by the coordinator's department to "failure to keep pace with modern methods of marketing, servicing and selling."

Result of Study.

An analytical study made by the co-ordinator of the cost of travel by private automobile led to the conclusion that if the railroads invaded that field successfully they must fix a rate of about 1 cent a mile. The division making the study said this was what the majority of travelers using private automobiles believed it cost them, although it fixed the average cost at 2¼ cents a mile, including depreciation and insurance.

Officials said experiments in reduced fares now beng made in the South and West pointed definitely to the need for drastic reductions in the basic fare, at least for local service.

A 1½-cent a mile fare in the South was said to have brought a 70 per cent increase in coach travel and an 8 per cent increase in coach revenues. Revenues from passenger service dropped 16 per cent, however, because of decreases in other classes of fares.

In the West, where a 2-cent a mile rate was in effect, travel miles increased slightly, but there was a 32 per cent decrease in revenue.

In the East, no general reduction was made and the travel remained about the same, but excursions and other special rates cut income 18 per cent.

Comparative Figures.

The latest figures so far compiled for passenger service covers the year 1933. During that period, the railroads received $503,000,000 from hauling passengers. Estimates were that it cost the railroads $706,000,000 to provide this service.

During the same period, highway carriers for which reports were available, received $44,000,000 from passengers and spent $43,000,000. Air carriers reported receipts of $26,000,000 from passengers and spent the same amount.

On this basis and that of additional data, it was figured that the railroads lost 8 cents for every mile they hauled passengers. the busses made half a cent a mile and the airplanes came out even.

GREECE ACCUSES BULGARIA; TO STRENGTHEN BORDER FORTS

Charges Neighboring Country With Violation of the Treaty of Neuilly.

By the Associated Press.

ATHENS, Feb. 15.—The Greek Government, charging Bulgaria with violation of the Treaty of Neuilly, today announced its intention to spend $15,000,000 on frontier fortifications. Greece is compelled to take this action, the Government announcement said, "to safeguard its integrity."

The fortifications are planned for the Greco-Bulgarian frontier in East Macedonia and Thrace.

In an official statement, Greece said Bulgaria was maintaining a military force superior to that sanctioned by the treaty and that Bulgaria was building a system of roads and railroads toward the Greek frontier.

The Treaty of Neuilly, signed Nov. 27, 1919, formally ended hostilities between Bulgaria and the Allied Powers. Besides depriving Bulgaria of sections of territory, the treaty limited its military establishments to a total of 33,000 men, including regular army troops, gendarmes and frontier guards. It also fixed the amount of reparations Bulgaria was to pay at about $450,000,000.

Indications are that about 25,000 persons signed the poll books in the supplementary registration of voters yesterday in preparation for the municipal election. Cost of the registration was about $60,000, which would make the cost for each additional voter enrolled about $2.40.

Only 40 of the 669 precincts had reported the number registered by this morning. The average enrollment in these precincts was about 35, the largest number being 62 in a precinct of the downtown Sixth Ward and the smallest about 15, in several scattered precincts. Complete figures will not be available until tomorrow.

Registration previously was 375,077. In the canvass to be started tomorrow there may be more names removed from the poll

GERMANY AGREES 'IN PRINCIPLE' TO AIR TREATY PLAN

Willing to Negotiate but Seeks Separate Discussions First on 'Basic Questions.'

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Feb. 15.—The German Government advised France and England tonigh that Germany had "a sincere desire to promote the safeguarding of peace" and advised those two nations that the European questions they raised in the recent London conversations would be thoroughly examined.

The reply was made to the Franco-British proposals to Germany, which were based on an agreement reached two weeks ago. The text of the German reply follows:

"Germany is in agreement with the British and French Governments in a sincere desire to promote the safeguarding of peace, the maintenance of which is in the interests of Germany's security as well as in the interests of the security of other European states.

"The German Government welcomes the spirit of trustful discussion between the individual governments which animates the reports from the British and French Governments.

"Sincere Desire for Peace."

"The German Government will thoroughly examine the whole documents concerning the European questions contained in them. This examination will be conducted in the spirit of a sincere desire for peace as well as a concern for the security of the German reich in its geographically especially exposed situation in the heart of Europe.

"The German Government will especially examine the question of with what means the danger of air armaments can be avoided in the future, which danger has arisen from the abandonment by the heavily-armed states of disarmament as prescribed by treaties.

"The German Government is convinced that only the spirit of free agreements between sovereign states as expressed in the Franco-British communique can lead to durable international regulations in the realm of armaments.

"The German Government welcomes the proposition to increase security against sudden attack from the air by a convention to be made as soon as possible which shall provide for the immediate employment of the air forces of the signatories in favor of the victim of an unprovoked attack.

Agrees "in Principle."

"The German Government is ready in principle to employ its air forces as a mean of deterring disturbances of the peace.

"It is therefore willing to seek, in free accord with the Powers concerned, ways and means by which such a convention can be realized, which shall guarantee the fullest possible security to all signatories.

"The German Government is of the opinion that negotiations on a large scale, which have not been sufficiently prepared, lead naturally and from experience to friction which in the interest of working out such a completely novel air convention should be avoided.

"Before the German Government participates in such negotiations, it believes it is desirable to clear up a series of basic preliminary questions by means of individual discussions with the Governments concerned.

"It would, therefore, welcome it if—after preliminary Franco-British discussions—the British Government were first to declare its readiness (as a partner of the London discussions which is, at the same time, the guarantor of the Locarno pact), to enter into a direct exchange of views with the German Government.

Point of Accord.

"The German Government is in accord with the British and French Governments in the view that the conclusion of an air convention would be an important step on the road to the solidarity of the European States, and may well be suitable to lead to a solution satisfactory to all the other European problems."

LUMBER DEALERS CRITICISE HOUSING ACT ADMINISTRATOR

Secretary Tells Congressional Committee That Moffett Does Not Have Sufficient Experience.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—The National Retail Lumber Dealers Association criticised James A. Moffett's administration of the new housing act yesterday before the House Banking Committee. I. P. Leven of Cincinnati, secretary of the association, told the committee:

"The Housing Act became a law and was put into operation nearly eight months ago, and I am frank to say that we have not yet got the results that we anticipated. Mr. Moffett is laboring under difficulties, but I don't think Mr. Moffet has gotten up to this time the best results he could under this act. I don't think he has had the necessary experience—he is primarily an oil man—and he doesn't have around him the men who have got the experience. We have tried to give him some advice, but we have not had much success."

SWEDISH PRINCE CALLS JOURNALIST "A LOUT"

Wilhelm Resents Editorial; Later Makes Apology for Remark.

By the Associated Press.

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 15.—The latest member of Swedish royalty to protest, in effect, against the restrictions placed on royalty, is Prince Wilhelm, once married to Maria Pavlowna, Grand Duchess of Russia.

Standing in a theater lobby, Prince Wilhelm exclaimed to a Swedish journalist, as near as it can be translated: "You are a lout!"

For that second Prince Wilhelm was a private individual, exercising the privilege to say what he thinks. The next day the Swedish Telegraph Agency sent out a short apology, signed by the Prince, to be published if desired by the Stockholm newspapers, despite the fact that the press carried no direct mention of the incident. In the offering of the apology Prince Wilhelm was once more, not a private individual, but a member of royalty.

Royalty Highly Respected.

In Sweden royalty is highly respected. It in turn is democratic and respectful toward the public. Even royalty, however, may rebel against the constant reminder that it may not act with the freedom of the man in the street.

The rebellion of Prince Wilhelm came about in this way. A Stockholm newspaper had been attacking a publishing house on the ground of monopoly and influence. In rebuttal another Swedish daily carried a proclamation defending the publishing house. The proclamation was signed by a number of Swedish writers—including Prince Wilhelm.

The first newspaper retaliated with an editorial in which, without mentioning Prince Wilhelm by name, it criticised a "certain person for forgetting that he was in no position to take part in such a quarrel."

Why He Made Remark.

One evening Prince Wilhelm came face to face, in the theater lobby, with the journalist he thought had written the editorial.

"Who wrote that editorial?" asked the Prince. The journalist bowed. "I can't reply. That is a newspaper secret that I can't divulge." Prince Wilhelm voiced his reprimand.

The next day Stockholm's newspaper circles talked over the incident. Sympathies ran both ways.

Prince Wilhelm is today at 50 one of the most popular, active persons in Sweden. He writes, directs travel films and participates in dozens of community enterprises. He was married in 1908 to Grand Duchess Maria, but the marriage was dissolved March 17, 1914.

His one child, Prince Lennart, married a commoner and lost his royal privileges.

ANNIVERSARY OF SINKING OF MAINE OBSERVED IN CUBA

U. S. Ambassador Caffery Tells of Progress of Two Nations in Reviving Hope and Confidence.

By the Associated Press.

HAVANA, Feb. 15.—United States Ambassador Jefferson Caffery today said the United States and Cuba in the past year have "made real practical progress in restoring people to work, in paying better wages, in increasing national income and in bringing about conditions that revive hope and confidence."

The address was delivered at ceremonies commemorating the thirty-seventh anniversary of the sinking of the battleship Maine in Havana harbor. President Carlos Mendieta also spoke, as did other Government officials.

"Although this act of commemoration painfully recalls a catastrophe that shocked the entire world," the Ambassador said, "at the same time its recollection serves once again to direct attention to the mutual interests of Cuba and the United States. Geographical propinquity brought Cuba and the United States into close contact with one another during the colonial era. These early relations were later amplified and strengthened by ties of historic sentiment. Cuba, therefore, occupies a special place in the relations of the United States with other countries of the world. It is not only geographically next door, but is also our closest neighbor in sentiment."

General Solicitation to Raise $24,000 to Begin Monday, Except in Webster Groves.

Girl Scouts have raised $5050 in advance of general solicitation in their $24,000 campaign, Mrs. Arthur Stockstrom, campaign chairman, has announced. Of the total, $1700 was reported at a meeting of the downtown campaign committee yesterday.

General solicitation will begin Monday, except in Webster Groves, where a house-to-house canvass was begun today in an effort to raise a $3000 quota.

More than 400 girls will participate in the Girl Scout Pageant at Municipal Auditorium Saturday, Feb. 23.

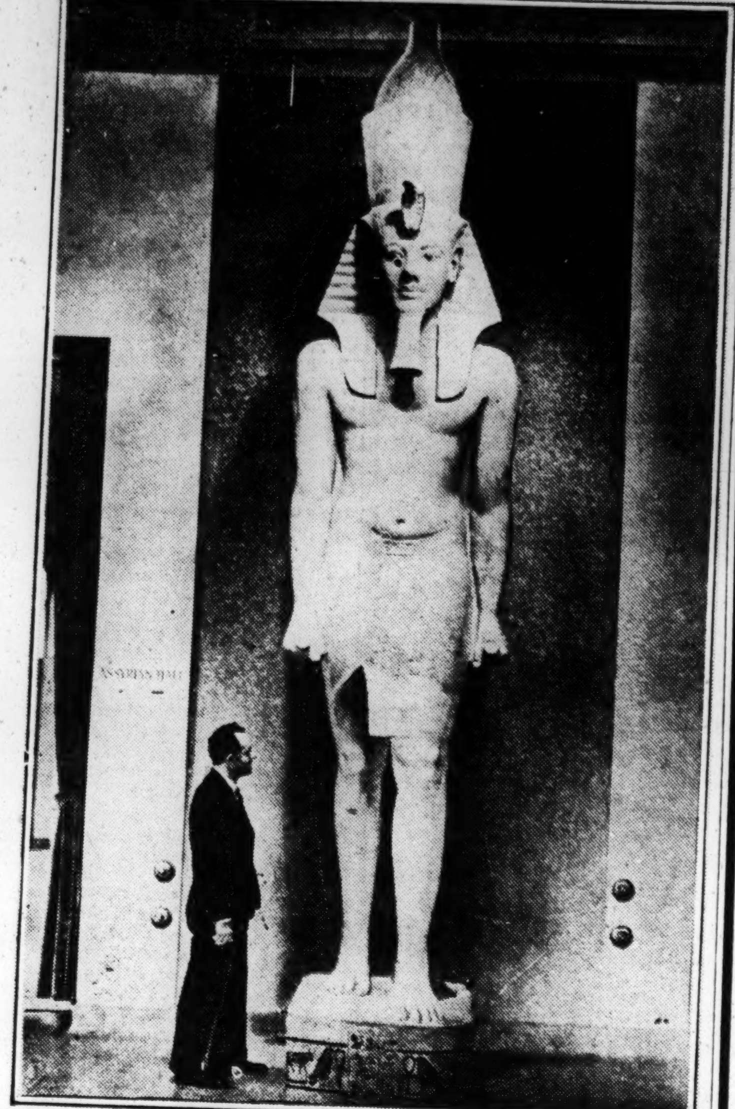
King Tut Statue Put on Exhibition



COLOSSAL representation of the Egyptian King, Tut-Ankh-Amen, of the 18th dynasty, which has been placed on exhibition in the Oriental Institute of the University of Chicago. The statue is one of two discovered by the architectural survey of the Oriental Institute. It was found in the debris of the broad columnar hall in the mortuary temple built by two Kings, Ay and Harmhah, north of the great temple of Rameses III of Medinet Habu, across the Nile from modern Luxor. The companion statue is on exhibition in the Cairo Museum in Egypt.

TRIAL OF EIGHT IN INCOME TAX CONSPIRACY PUT OFF

Judge Faris Defers Cases Until April Pending the Appointment of His Successor.

Federal Judge Faris today continued to April 22 the trial of eight former executives of the Universal Aviation Corporation and the Aviation Corporation on charges of conspiracy to evade income tax of $201,255.

The trial had been set for next Monday, but Judge Faris informed counsel that no District Judge would be available to try the case, and counsel consented to the continuance. Judge Faris has been promoted to the Circuit Court of Appeals and, although he is still sitting in the District Court in certain matters, he is not undertaking any extensive trials.

The defendants are Dan W. Jones, Halsey Dunwoody and George B. Schierberg of St. Louis, and William D. Loucks, Graham B. Grosvenor, A. O. Cushny, Frederick J. King and Alex H. Beard of New York.

MANSLAUGHTER INDICTMENTS IN TWO AUTOMOBILE DEATHS

Roy Woodson and Charles Divis Accused Following Two Fatalities.

Indictments charging manslaughter in connection with deaths due to automobile accidents were voted by the grand jury yesterday against Roy Woodson, 27-year-old parking lot manager, and Charles Divis, 22, of 3142 Cherokee street. Woodson also was charged with leaving the scene of injury to a person.

Woodson's automobile killed 12-year-old Charles A. Young Jr. last Jan. 12 as the boy was walking with his uncles, Oliver and Joseph Fischer, at Jefferson avenue and Utah street. Woodson did not stop. He was arrested at his home, 4108 Castleman avenue, the following day.

The charge against Divis grew out of the death of Frank Schoenborn, 3454 Louisiana avenue, who was fatally injured in an automobile collision while riding in Divis' car last Dec. 31. The accident occurred at Compton avenue and Chippewa street, Divis' car turning over after colliding with a machine driven by Monroe Garcelon, 4028A Lafayette avenue.

NAVY OFFICER ADMITS OFFER TO PRIVATE FIRM

Commander Weyerbacher Says He and Lieut. Harper Sought Places as Advisers to Plane Company.

THINKS ACTION WAS NOT UNETHICAL

Denies Rejecting Work of Cairus Co. Because His Proffered Services Were Refused.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—To a naval court of inquiry, Commander Ralph D. Weyerbacher, naval aircraft procurement officer, acknowledged today that he and another officer had offered their services as technical advisers to the Cairns Development Co. and Cairns Airplane Co. of Naugatuck, Conn.

In a brief he said he made the offer for himself and Lieut. C. B. Harper, now retired, in a letter to J. L. Livermore, Wall stret operator, who then was backing the inventions of Edmund Z. Cairns.

The court of inquiry is making an investigation at the behest of a House committee.

Weyerbacher said he wrote the letter in May, 1930, when he was commander of the naval aircraft factory at Philadelphia. He insisted he had "no consciousness of having committed any unethical, much less illegal act."

Before making a detailed offer, Weyerbacher said he had obtained a ruling from the Navy Judge Advocate-General that it was permissible for him to serve as adviser to a private concern if it did not interfere with his duties in the navy. The ruling, he said, was transmitted through Ernest Lee Jahncke, then Assistant Secretary of the Navy.

Capt. W. W. Wensinger of the Marine Corps, prosecutor for the court, contended that, although Wayerbacher "may have thought his activities were within the law" as long as the Cairns companies were not bidding for Government contracts, the result was such as to bring "suspicion" and discredit" on the navy.

Weyerbacher said that after his transfer to duty as a procurement officer for the navy, he had rejected one of Cairns' designs. He added that he had told Cairns the navy was not interested in the commercial planes the latter was designing. He insisted, however, that he had nothing to do with the rejection, and denied Cairns' assertion before a House Committee that he had brought about the rejection because the offer of his services was refused.

His duties, Weyerbacher said, required that he inquire into the testimony by Cairns, but he denied using "unauthorized" methods. He admitted having reproached Cairns for his statement, but said he did not know then it was before the House Committee.

In his brief, Weyerbacher said Cairns was "irrational" and that he had the "obsession" that he was being "persecuted."

Weyerbacher said the Rogers Committee had shown itself "sympathetic and eager to have Mr. Cairns tell all that he would."

CARDINAL ANDRIEU DIES; ARCHBISHOP OF BORDEAUX

Succumbs at 85 After Brief Illness; Famous as Pulpit Orator.

BORDEAUX, France, Feb. 15.—Paulin Pierre Cardinal Andrieu, Archbishop of Bordeaux and dean of French Cardinals, died here early today. He was 85 years old.

The Cardinal was ill only for a week. He was surrounded by members of the Cathedral chapter. He had heard a last mass Thursday and remained conscious until his death.

Born at Seysses, near Toulous, Dec. 8, 1849, Cardinal Andrieu worked his way through the seminary at Toulouse and was ordained a priest in 1874. He was stationed at Marseilles and soon became the most eloquent preacher that Southern France had heard in many years. His crusades against vice in that cosmopolitan seaport are still remembered.

He became a Bishop in 1901 and a Cardinal in 1907.

During the war he took an interest in the welfare of American soldiers and officers stationed in the permanent camps around Bordeaux. Several times he received Catholic chaplains attached to the various units arriving from overseas and he gave them advice as to how they should counsel the soldiers on moral matters.

ILLINOIS RELIEF BILL HITS NEW HIGH IN JANUARY

Total Is $12,528,243 Spent in Caring for 316,283 Families or 1,250,000 Persons.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 15.—Relief expenditures in Illinois hit a record high in January, the monthly financial statement of the Illinois Emergency Relief Commission showed today, with the total bill coming to $12,528,243.

The money went for the care of 316,283 families, estimated as comprising 1,250,000 persons. The total January "case load," while surpassed previously only by the relief list in March of 1933, is considerably below estimates for February, in which relief rolls are expected to reach the highest point in the State's history.

January's relief bill compares with a total cost of $12,019,666 for December. For the State as a whole, 29 per cent of the total or $3,632,944 was spent for work relief. Direct relief took 61.74 per cent, or $7,734,436. To administer relief in January cost $1,160,863, or 9.26 per cent of the total cost.

CONGRESS COMPLETES ACTION TO EXTEND AIRMAIL CONTRACTS

United Airlines to Be Permitted to Operate Two Primary Routes Till April 1, 1936.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15. — Congressional action on a bill extending present air mail contracts until April 1, 1936, was completed yesterday when the Senate accepted an amendment made by the House.

This legislation, if approved by the President, will permit United Airlines to continue its operation of the San Diego, Seattle airmail line in conjunction with its transcontinental route.

Under the terms of the Black-McKellar airmail bill passed last session, no airline could hold two primary mail contracts after March 1 this year. Since United's transcontinental line and its coastal route both were defined as primary the company would have had to abandon one within the next two weeks.

FRENCH RELIEF PLAN APPROVED

Deputies Give Premier Vote of Confidence, 444 to 124.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Feb. 15.—Premier Flandin won a vote of confidence in the Chamber of Deputies today on his policy of aiding the unemployed. The vote was 444 to 124. Flandin denounced the "money powers fighting his financial policy which tends to loosen credit."

He told the Chamber "powerful forces" were unwilling to give full co-operation. His statement was generally accepted as referring to groups within the Bank of France, that oppose the Government's desire to get the bank to discount treasury bonds. Flandin said his effort to ease money would be followed "despite the resistance particularly of a certain oligarchy."

REDISTRIBUTION OF WEALTH NECESSARY, NORRIS SAYS

Senator Declares It Is Essential to Preserve Civilization and Suggests Ways.

By the Associated Press.

LINCOLN, Neb., Feb. 15.—Senator George W. Norris, speaking at a University of Nebraska Charter Day program, said today redistribution of wealth was a necessity if civilization were to be preservd.

"This does not mean," said the Republican independent, who received an honorary degree from the university, "that we should take the property of A and give it to B. It means only the taking of money from the estates of the very wealthy, where it can perform no real service for humanity, and the giving of it, in the form of taxes, to all the people, from whom it was originally taken, and under whose laws it was accumulated."

Norris advocated a progressive inheritance tax to accomplish this purpose and described what he called the tendency toward concentration of wealth in America into a few hands.

"We are rapidly approaching a condition," he said, "where the dangers of accumulated wealth are becoming apparent to all. It will do no good to heap abuse upon the heads of those who have the courage to tell the truth. The cry of Socialism, anarchy, Communism, heaped upon the heads of those who are moved by the love they have for their fellow men to raise the dangr signal will not stay the disaster which must follow, unless heed is taken of Nature's warning sign."

BRITISH AND CHINESE UNITE TO CLEAR SEAS OF PIRATES

Campaign Started as Result of Captain of Vessel With Mission School Children.

LONDON, Feb. 15.—British and Chinese authorities have begun a co-operative campaign to sweep pirates from China's waters, it was announced officially here today.

Intensive effort to clear the seas of the marauders is the result of the recent pirate capture of the S. S. Tungchow, when mission school children were terrified for three days.

It was disclosed the plan of action was outlined at a conference between Canton officials and British Consular authorities.

Two British war vessels are cooperating in the campaign, but it was said policing activities ashore would be confined to Chinese service men. The wireless will be used extensively in tracing pirate craft.

SAYS RIPPING OFF OF FIN CAUSED MACON DISASTER

Petty Officer Tells Court of Inquiry Gas Cell Was Broken When Structure Was Torn Away.

HAD NOTICED LEAK IN HULL PREVIOUSLY

Witness Asserts Ship's Angle Was Too Great to Permit Dropping of Planes to Lighten Craft.

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 15.—A structural failure where the upper fin joined the hull of the dirigible Macon caused the airship to crash into the Pacific Ocean Tuesday evening, Chief Boatswain's Mate Robert J. Davis told a Navy court of inquiry today.

"It sounded to me as if the fin structure loosened from the frame at the extreme aft portion of the ship," said the petty officer, who completed an inspection of the stern of the airship shortly before the accident. "Immediately there was a rush of gas felt and the ship lurched as if struck by a severe but sudden gust of wind.

"It sounded to me as if the structure was pulling out where the fin was bolted to the structure. Undoubtedly the structure tore the gas cell. The fin was carried away.

Break in Cell Netting.

"Between 3 and 4 p. m. Tuesday the Macon hit some rough weather. I told the men to watch the fin surfaces and the control wires and gas cells.

"By this time it began to rain a little. I noticed a few leaks in the surface and the cell netting holding the gas cell was broken.

"A crew member brought some cord and in 10 minutes we repaired the break. In one place there was a bad leak where rain was coming in. We lashed a canvas bucket to catch the water.

"I heard a crash a little after 5 p. m. as I was inspecting the forward part of the top fin. I noticed a rush of gas. Steele (J. E. Steele, aviation ordnance man) was going forward. I called the control car. The phone was busy. Gas was rushing into the ship. We went forward.

Unable to Drop Planes.

"I sent the airplane crew to the hangar, but the ship was at such an angle we delayed launching the planes."

Lieutenant-Commander Herbert V. Wiley testified yesterday he had ordered one of the four planes dumped overboard as a means of lightening the ship as it fell.

In addition to the three members of the Court of Inquiry and its Judge Advocate, Wiley, in command of the Macon at the time of the wreck, was present as an "interested person" and his second in command, Lieutenant-Commander Jesse L. Kenworthy, as Wiley's counsel. Wiley and Kenworthy were so designated to permit their presence in the court throughout the inquiry, Navy officials said. It was emphasized there was no charge standing against Wiley.

All testimony at yesterday's board of inquiry placed the seat of trouble aft, but no definite cause was determined.

Testimony touched lightly on the wind and rain as possible contributing factors and bore heavily on intimations a break in the controls in the rear might have caused the "bad casualty" that started the Macon downward to its end and the

Refers Pottery Company Case to Compliance Board for Removal of Blue Eagle.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15. — The National Relations Board, in a ruling yesterday on the dispute at the Kokomo Sanitary Pottery Co. of Kokomo, Ind., declared it to be a "flagrant case" and ordered it referred at once to the compliance division of the National Recovery Administration for removal of the company's Blue Eagle.

The announcement said the board took this action on the ground that the company "engaged in a deliberate violation of Section 7A" and has exhibited an "undisguised hostility toward the law of the land and the authorities appointed to enforce it." Usually the board grants the employer time to make restitution in such cases.

The decision emphasized that "the facts show more than an employer refusing to offer counterproposals to unacceptable collective demands by his employes' representatives." "They demonstrate in addition, deliberate dawdling in a manner obviously intended to defeat the aims of collective bargaining, and an ultimatum by the employer that he will deal with representatives of his employes only if the form of organization suits his whim and fancy."

ETHIOPIAN KING DEFIES MUSSOLINI IN SECOND NOTE

Charges Italy Is Aggressor and Says Mobilization of Troops Hurts Peace Negotiations.

By the Associated Press.

ROME, Feb. 15.—A second defiant message from Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia was received by the Italian Government today. It charges Italy with aggression and calls its troop mobilization a threat to peace negotiations in the African border dispute.

Premier Mussolini maintained silence concerning the note and his future policy. He conferred with members of the Fascist Grand Council.

A meeting of the Supreme Council of Defense was called for this afternoon and it was understood the Ethiopian situation would be one of the principal matters for discussion.

Meanwhile there appeared to be no change in plans to send first contingents of the African expeditionary force from Cicily to Eritrea and Italian Somaliland tomorrow.

It is reported that native troops from Tripoli already have left for Eritrea. Another report says troops now being mobilized in Italy may be sent to Tripoli for a month to get them accustomed to the climate before dispatching them to the desert further south.

Hoover on Way Home by Auto.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 15.—Former President Herbert Hoover began a motor trip today to his home in Palo Alto, Cal. Arriving from New York this morning, Hoover met his son Allan, and they began their trip in fog and drizzle. John Shaw, a friend, said their route would take them through Kansas City.

RUSSIA WILL SIGN NO PACT THAT DOES NOT BIND JAPAN

Tells Disarmament Convention Soviets Won't Accept Any Agreement Unless Neighbors Also Agree to It.

By the Associated Press.

GENEVA, Feb. 15.—Soviet Russia will sign no convention for the control of manufacture and trade or arms to which Japan does not adhere, the Soviet delegate told the world disarmament conference here today.

The projected convention must be approved by all of the principal powers, the Soviet delegate said, "but particularly by all neighbors of Russia."

He approved the United States proposals as a basis for the arms control plan, but said he desired to see them strengthened especially by close supervision of the materials used in chemical warfare. Also, he said, raw materials employed in war industries must be harnessed and embargoes arranged against nations which engage in war.

Hugh Wilson, United States delegate, told the Powers that the people of the world want something done and done quickly to control the manufacture and traffic in war materials.

Replying to attacks made on the American plan, particularly by England and Italy, Wilson reminded the delegates the Americans merely fashioned their proposals along lines likely to command general support. The American plan contemplates supervision over both production and commerce.

England and Italy desire to have the convention restricted only to the traffic in war materials.

"Our plan," he said, "is founded on the conviction of people everywhere that something must be done and in a relatively short time."

Canada backed the American project, especially the feature for international supervision of arms manufacture.

Walter Alexander Riddell, the Canadian delegate, said, "Canada congratulates and thanks the Americans for their effort, which is certain to hasten the solution of the problem."

He added Canada was convinced the manufacture of armaments would eventually be restricted to state establishments. Until this is achieved, he said, adequate control is essential.

Switzerland characterized the American plan as "an important contribution to the cause of peace" and insisted the convention must deal with the manufacture as well as the traffic in arms if it is to receive Swiss support.

The conference was adjourned until Tuesday when it will hear the first reading of the American draft. Meanwhile, delegations will prepare amendments for submission.

ALFRED PEMBROKE THOM DIES, NOTED RAILROAD ATTORNEY

Associate General Counsel of National Organization of Carriers Succumbs at 80.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—Alfred Pembroke Thom, one of the foremost railroad lawyers in the country, died today at the age of 80.

Thom had been serving as associate general counsel of the Association of American railroads. For years he was general counsel for the Association of Railway Executives and American Railway Association.

He was born in Northampton County, Va., and was admitted to the bar in Norfolk. His widow and one son, Alfred Pembroke Thom Jr., assistant to the general counsel of the Association of American Railroads, survive.

JOBLESS ON HUNGER STRIKE

Alberta Single Men Want Care in Own Homes.

BLAIRMORE, Alta., Feb. 15. — Forty-five single unemployed men of this Crow's Nest mining town squatted in the town hall today on a hunger strike they said would last until something was done toward their relief. They started their fast last night.

The men had appeared before a council meeting and got the promise that two councillors would visit Edmonton and plead their case before the Alberta Relief Commission which insists the men must go to relief camps. The men demanded they be provided for in their homes here.

ADVICE FROM WASHINGTON

"Utmost Care" Urged in Backing Autos Into Locust Street.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—Employes of the St. Louis Federal Building were warned by the Treasury Department today to observe "utmost care" in backing automobiles into Locust street from the parking area on the north side of the building in order to avoid interference with pedestrian traffic.

The custodian of the building was directed to issue a letter of caution following a complaint to the Department by Representative Thomas C. Hennings of St. Louis.

M'DONALD WINS CONFIDENCE VOTE ON ISSUE OF DOLE

But Debate in House of Commons Brings Out Hints of Scandal in Collapse of Pepper Market.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Feb. 15.—Prime Minister MacDonald's Nationalist Government, safely past the Laborite threat of a vote of non-confidence, faced a new problem today in the disastrous pepper market speculations.

The House rejected the motion of censure for the Government's handling of the dole problem by a vote of 374 to 68.

The pepper gamble, however, was brought up in the debate and seized on by those who have been clamoring for an investigation of the identity of the prime movers in the ill-fated speculation.

Maj. Harry Louis Nathan, Liberal member from Bethnal Green, called attention to "ugly rumors" and "grave suspicions."

"Do not let the Government lead the House to believe," he said, "that it was fear of a general election which affected the city stock exchange.

Hints at Big Scandal.

"It was rumors and suspicions of what was taking place, what it has led up to, and who is involved in these speculations. The reason foreigners sold securities is that the wireless from Paris last Tuesday broadcast that these speculations would involve this country in a scandal which would equal the Stavisky scandal in France."

The Government has yet to answer a series of questions placed on the order paper dealing with activities in the pepper and shellac markets. They are to come up for discussion Monday and Tuesday.

The most pointed of these questions was fathered by the Laborite member, David Grenfell, who has prepared to question Neville Chamberlain, Lord Chancellor of the Exchequer, on whether he intends to take any action regarding loss of confidence as a result of commodity speculations.

Grenfell also has asked that the investigation of Walter Runciman, president of the Board of Trade, shall call for particulars regarding the persons owning shares and the names of the four companies which would have profited if the pepper gamble had succeeded.

Runciman said last night he had

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Child Labor.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I READ your editorial, "The Child Labor Amendment," with interest but without conviction. You were open-minded in regard to the issues, but it seems to me you are not giving enough weight to the movement as a whole, or to the health and welfare of the child and citizenry in general.

I suppose all the more enlightened students of social legislation will agree that the scale of exploitation of child labor has been lessened ever since the half-way mark of the nineteenth century was reached, when laws were necessary to curb the actions of the New England manufacturers.

At the present time, some of the states have enacted social legislation to remedy the evil of child labor. Compulsory school laws have greatly aided in keeping the child out of industry until he or she has reached a fairly mature age.

To your contention that, if the amendment were passed, it would only add to the number of towering and inefficient bureaucratic controls in Washington, I give due consideration. However, I am convinced that it would be the lesser of two evils. If the future of state child labor legislation and enforcement can be judged by the past, I would say that your state control argument is merely a confusion of ideas.

I would like to add that I am in favor of making the 1924 child labor law part of our Constitution, because it would go to the aid of labor, employment in general and further the cause of elevating standards of living, always a goal of all the nations and peoples. This in turn would improve business.

I know that it is a hard job to get any social work done in our "pure and efficient" democracy, of which we are so proud, but, perhaps, if the public leaders, business men and the public in general would look at the question of child labor from a purely business standpoint, that of profit only, I believe they would realize that long-run results of a more social and humanitarian nature are, after all, more profitable than our old methods and our present methods.

Oh, Mrs. Carr!

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

INCLUDE me in your list of mourners—mourning, of course, your fall from infallibility. Walter Winchell, Ripley and finally your editorial page have been caught napping, and to these I add the name of Mrs. Carr. Several nights ago, she erroneously stated that Jeannette McDonald played opposite Tibbett in "Rogue Song."

Just to keep the record straight, it was Catherine Dale Owen. I am absolutely certain about this, because her unforgettable beauty and unforgivable acting made such an impression on me.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

IN REPLY to the Rev. Mr. Kretzschmar's letter to the Post-Dispatch: I am unable to understand how an Evangelical Lutheran pastor can, in the light of Christ's teaching on the value of the child, state that the child labor amendment smacks of Communism. When Christ said, "Suffer little children to come unto me," He did not want them maimed by 10 to 15 hours of work per day in the cotton mills, in the shrimp canneries or in the beet fields. Is the church interested in saving souls, but not in saving bodies and minds? It is not necessary to go into the social, economic and political arguments against child labor here. However, does he favor the subjection of one human by another for the personal gain of the subjector?

The Mayor and the Plaza Commission.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

MAYOR DICKMANN is to be commended for many of the things he has done in connection with his administration. The great mass of people are with him, and this is equally true of most business interests.

His attitude regarding the Plaza Commission was wholly wrong, and it is a pleasure to see that he is big enough to reverse himself when he finds out he is wrong.

It would be the height of folly for the city to undertake to put up municipal buildings without the guidance, counsel and experience of competent architects.

ONLOOKER.

Applauds Mr. Richberg.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I AM opposed to the New Deal. I have always taken the pranks of those school boys at Washington with abundant salt. But it did my old eyes good, the way Richberg answered the labor leaders. I think that what he meant was that he wasn't going to stand for labor dictating to Uncle Sam, and I don't blame him. As I have said before, these labor unionists have broken the agreement that we as a race made at Runnymede, and what we as a nation reaffirmed at Philadelphia: that a man should be master of his own cave provided he digs it. But now they say that the cave belongs to anybody that can get up a big enough gang

THE NATURAL GAS INQUIRY.

The natural gas inquiry instituted by the Board of Aldermen opened this week with a statement by Robert M. Boyles of the firm of C. E. Smith & Co., consulting engineers for the city.

Mr. Boyles spoke from the point of view of the city—its necessity to solve the smoke problem, the abundance of natural gas in its southern and southwestern hinterlands, the virtual isolation of the city from a movement that is going around it to points as far away as Chicago, and the comparatively higher rates which the local community is paying for gas while soot and grime destroy property and impair the health of the people.

Mr. Boyles explained why the Laclede Gas Light Co. has not made natural gas available to the people of St. Louis at a price which would make it an attractive smokeless fuel for heating. It has not done so for reasons with which readers of the Post-Dispatch are quite familiar. We have stated them again and again. We have said that because of its financial practices and alliances, Laclede as now controlled is useless in the situation. We welcome the corroboration which Mr. Boyles brings to our own representations, as we welcome the inquiry which the Board of Aldermen is making into a state of affairs that has become intolerable.

It is more than a matter of comparative gas rates, though in this respect the position of St. Louis is bad enough to warrant inquiry. Mr. Boyles' report shows that in 15 other cities of Missouri, all using natural gas, the cost is lower. The table follows:

City.	Population.	Cost of 20 therms.
St. Louis	822,000	$3.34
Kansas City	400,000	2.19
St. Joseph	81,000	2.80
Springfield	58,000	2.50
Joplin	33,000	1.54
Hannibal	23,000	2.92
Jefferson City	22,000	2.80
Sedalia	21,000	2.80
Columbia	15,000	2.80
Independence	15,000	2.80
Carthage	9,700	2.50
Mexico	8,300	2.80
Marshall	8,100	3.00
Nevada	7,800	1.60
Poplar Bluff	7,500	2.50
Webb City	8,600	2.50

The major consideration is the smoke problem. Make no mistake about the seriousness of the smoke problem. It has progressed to a point where there is no dissent from the necessity to come to grips with it. Nor is there any wide dissent from the belief that the smoke problem can best be attacked by making available to the community smokeless fuel which can compete with the cheap cost of raw soft coal. Mr. Boyles pressed this point effectively in his report to the aldermanic committee. He said:

> For all practical purposes, St. Louis is at the very door of the greatest natural gas fields in the country and has been in the heart of natural gas activities ever since the development of long-distance pipe lines. But, in spite of this, St. Louis is being denied the benefits of this fuel while the supply which logically belongs to it is diverted to neighboring communities and even to the distant Eastern markets.

Of course it is. So are many other cities being deprived of a great natural asset, the abundance of which has become one of the revelations of our time. It is estimated by the United States Bureau of Mines that in the Texas Panhandle a single petroleum company is wasting 700,000,000 cubic feet of natural gas per day; that at only one of its plants more than 400,000,000 cubic feet of natural gas are going up into the air daily, or twice as much gas as both St. Louis and St. Louis County would consume for domestic purposes in a day.

Imagine this natural wealth being thrown away to get at oil; a wealth which might be a convenience and comfort to the people, a means of purifying the very air they breathe, a means of making their cities clean and wholesome, a means of letting sunlight into the festering gloom which results from an insufficient combustion of carbon. If one company is wasting 700,000,000 cubic feet of natural gas per day, as the Bureau of Mines says it is, how many years of comfort and convenience, of health, of light where there is no light, of value where there is no value, might be possible, save for the appalling folly of having this treasure thrown away by many companies!

The inquiry at the City Hall will be resumed next week. It serves the purpose of bringing into the open a matter which the people of St. Louis should know all about. The committee will, of course, hear everybody. It has no prejudice against any smokeless fuel. It seeks only the way out of this Black Hole of Calcutta in which we live. That is what we all seek. More power to the investigation.

AN ENGLISH VIEW OF HUEY LONG.

How Huey Long's fame is spreading is shown by an editorial in the Manchester Guardian entitled "The Kingfish." The English newspaper ridicules the Square Deal Association's revolt against Long, and continues:

> The man is not a mere mouthing demagogue. He has executive capacity. The archaic machine of State Government has been reorganized during his regime; he has built good roads; he ran a remarkable campaign to stamp out illiteracy; in pursuance of his slogan, the equalization of incomes, he has shifted the main burden of taxation from the poor to the rich. He has triumphed in Louisiana not merely by his methods of political campaigning, but because his opponents have had nothing to offer as an alternative.

Considering that thousands of American citizens have not yet waked up to the growing importance of Long as a national political factor, and insist on regarding him as a mere buffoon, this editorial, written thousands of miles away, across the Atlantic, has an added significance.

ON THE ITALO-ETHIOPIAN FRONT.

The conflict between Italy and Ethiopia has consisted, thus far, of border clashes, mobilization and repartee. Each side accused the other of responsibility for the border clashes. Italy's mobilization of 250,000 men was met by Ethiopia's boast of 1,000,000 soldiers available to fight for their country. The Ethiopian defiance, in fact, is more worthy of the ancient Roman tradition than Italy's announcement of readiness to spend $850,000,000 in a two-year military campaign.

Says Ethiopia: "We will not attack, but we will defend ourselves. We will pay no indemnity. We expect no allies, and will need none." For this audacious frankness, she is rebuked by France and England. The spectacle of a "backward" country defying a major European Power is disturbing to other bearers of "the white man's burden."

Italian repartee is voiced by a familiar, though shot back: "The Ethiopians said they could not have attacked Afdub because the Italians had already evacuated it, but that they did not enter. How, therefore, could they have known the Italians had evacuated it?"

Latin forensic talent is not at its best in that effort. Modern war differs from the pre-Machine Age model, but it still has outposts, patrols, spies and reconnoitering parties.

PLYING THE PARTY LASH.

Senator McReynolds of Jasper County is getting a taste of the party lash. He offended the Democratic rulers of the Senate the other day by opposing the thoroughly bad Quinn bill. This bill would put all the departments of the State Government, excepting that of the public schools, on a partisan basis, by requiring employes to register politically—either as Democrats or Republicans, or whatever affiliation they professed. Mr. McReynolds tried to purge the measure by striking the word politics from it. His proposed amendments were scowlingly rejected. Take politics out of the Quinn bill and there's nothing left but a carcass.

Now, it happened that Senator McReynolds had previously introduced a bill to provide decently adequate medical attention for the patients in the State hospitals. No objection had been offered when the bill was perfected and placed on the informal calendar, with a statement from its author that he would call it up in ample time for action by the House. But objections poured in when he offered his hospital bill for passage. The Old Guard was alertly on the job. The omnipresent Casey was there with an amendment. Senator Kinney deplored the additional cost that would be imposed on the always available taxpayer. Senator Brogan gravely approved the Casey amendment. Other voices regretfully intoned their fears. McReynolds was taken for a parliamentary ride by skillful, experienced legislators who know how to punish party insubordination with a solemn, righteous air.

True, the cost of the McReynolds proposal is inconsequential, being only $25,000. Its necessity was impressively presented. Medically, our State institutions are seriously understaffed. Comparative figures from neighboring states were cited. But what are facts as against the enterprise of party patronage? As for the unfortunate wards in public institutions—well, a Senator concerned for their proper treatment must first learn to play the game of spoils politics.

That is the moral of Mr. McReynolds' experience in Jefferson City. It is a typical instance. The Senator from Jasper is trying to serve the people. His opposition to the vicious Quinn bill may be offered in evidence. His hospital bill, now held up in reprisal by the senatorial board of control, is an admirable measure written out of the author's personal knowledge of conditions.

But such is the tyranny of the Casey-Kinney-Brogan rule of the Senate that it brooks no opposition. At the least sign of opposition from Senators who are not members of the inner clique, out comes the party lash. Only once during recent years has the Casey-Kinney-Brogan group been successfully challenged, and that was by Russell Dearmont and his following. The time is over-ripe for another revolt against the triumvirate.

THE HAUPTMANN VERDICT.

We imagine that the public feels a great sense of relief at the conclusion of the Hauptmann trial. It had people on edge. The publicity it received was beyond all precedent in the reporting of trials; that was natural, in view of the high place of the Lindberghs in the affections of the people, and the atrocious nature of the crime of which they were victims. They stood in the public mind as the symbol of the American home, menaced by the terrible forces loosed by modern crime.

In the public's attitude as it followed the trial day by day, there was far less than the usual amount of misplaced sympathy for the defense. The people were thinking in this case, primarily, of the victims of the crime.

Nor do we believe, notwithstanding unseemly demonstrations at the scene of the trial, that the people were moved by the blood lust that actuates a vengeful mob. There was the hope, the sober and prayerful hope, that the evidence in the case would be so convincing, on one side or the other, as to lead the jury to a verdict beyond the challenge of any reasonable doubt.

We believe that the State did present such evidence and that the verdict of the jury finding the defendant guilty, without recommendation of mercy, is upheld in the court of public opinion.

PROGRESS ON PERMANENT REGISTRATION.

Following Mayor Dickmann's announcement that he is in favor of the principle of permanent registration, Chairman Waechter of the Election Board declared he was drafting a bill for that purpose to submit to the Legislature. The Walsh bill, sponsored by the League of Women Voters and the Young Men's Division of the Chamber of Commerce, is now before the Legislature. However, Mr. Waechter, along with Chairman Hannegan of the Democratic City Committee and Miss Emma Bobb, former chairman of the Election Board, claims it is open to numerous objections.

As we have said before, we are not wedded to the Walsh bill and do not question the sincerity of Mr. Waechter and the others in their disagreement with certain of its provisions. It does not matter who writes a permanent registration bill, so long as it conforms to certain standards set up in other states, and, as a matter of fact, it is possibly preferable that those charged with its administration should draw it up. That places responsibility where it belongs, as well as deepening it.

We believe that any bill worthy of commanding the support of citizens, however, will contain strong safeguards against fraud, and that first among these safeguards should be the signature requirement. That means that voters who go to the polls must write their names and that election officials must compare the handwriting with that on the registration card, filled out previously. This is a common feature of permanent registration laws elsewhere and has proved highly successful in identifying voters.

We welcome Mayor Dickmann and Chairman Waechter into a field of election reform that has long been neglected, and await with interest the Election Board's bill.

THE latest bulletin from the front is that Mr. Roosevelt has taken "a turn to the right." Before long, there will be another bulletin saying he has turned to the left. For I have a strong suspicion that Mr. Roosevelt will continue to use all his political gifts to continue on this zig-zag course.

Though it is disconcerting to those who want to nail fast the rudder and drive ahead, Mr. Roosevelt is no mean navigator and he knows that in the teeth of the wind and amidst hidden rocks, the good sailor moves most safely if he can tack and turn.

As a matter of historical experience, it is clear that a responsible and effective statesman can rarely be classified as all conservative or all radical. George Washington led an armed revolution against the established order and then helped to make a Constitution which has conserved the results of that revolution. The Tory party in Great Britain introduced political democracy into the British Constitution. Bismarck established social insurance in Germany. Theodore Roosevelt brought the railroads under regulation, and Woodrow Wilson, aided and abetted by William Jennings Bryan, presided over the making of the Federal Reserve System, which is now regarded by many conservatives as sacrosanct.

It is all very confusing to those who would like their politics neat and simple, black or white, right or left. But human affairs are more complicated than human formulae and, therefore, especially bewildering to those who are so conservative that, as someone has said, they will not look at the new moon out of respect for the old, and to those who are so radical that, as George Santayana once said, they redouble their efforts when they have forgotten their aim.

One useful clew to what is going on in Washington behind all these "turns," now to right and now to left, is to realize that all kinds of pressure groups have converged upon the President and his lieutenants. If they happen to be composed of trade unionists or farmers or debtors or unemployed, their demands are classified as of the left. If they happen to be business men or bankers, their demands are described as of the right. But when a responsible legislator or administrator begins to examine these demands in their concrete detail, he soon discovers that this classification is more often than not quite meaningless.

Take, for example, the demand of Mr. Green and the A. F. of L. leaders that the "prevailing wage" shall be paid on public works in order to safeguard existing wages in the construction industries. Mr. Green would rather have a man earn a very small income by his working a few hours at a high rate than have him earn a larger income by working at a lower rate.

Take next the case of the old-line steel companies under NRA. They have tried to keep up their unit prices just as the A. F. of L. has tried to keep up its hourly wage rates, because, like the old-time unionists

Now, if the administration resists Mr. Green's monopolistic theory of wages, it is promptly called conservative. If it resists the Steel Corporation's monopolistic theory of prices, it is called radical. But almost certainly the truth of the matter is that if the administration accepted the rigid wages of labor and the rigid prices of business men, it would make unemployment and depression rigid, too. This would drive it either to inflation, which is an indirect way of breaking down rigid wages and rigid prices, or to state socialism, which is a way of regulating rigidity.

Under inflation, Mr. Green and the Steel Corporation would find that their wage and price structures had been reduced, though the dollar return was the same. Under state socialism, they would find that the monopolies they have created were being administered not by them but by the Government.

Thus an administration which opposed monopolistic wages and monopolistic prices would appear to be conservative when it was dealing with wages and radical when it was dealing with prices. That is, as a matter of fact, the present tendency.

A year and a half ago, the New Deal was approving monopolies for labor and for business men under the NRA, and when it was doing that, the conservatives cried out that it was owned by labor and the radicals cried out that it had sold out to big business.

There has been a fundamental change in policy. But it is not a change from left to right. It is a change from acquiescence in monopoly to resistance against monopoly. It is a change of national policy, brought about by the discovery through practical experience that the early theories of the New Deal led either to inflation or to socialism, whereas the country and the administration want neither.

Another point to bear in mind amidst all the rumors about the rise and fall of radical or conservative members of the administration is that it requires one state of mind to grow indignant and to agitate about a social evil, another state of mind to invent a legislative remedy, and still another state of mind to administer the remedy so that the reform sticks and works. A few men, but very few, can agitate, legislate and administer; most men are good at one stage in a reform and not at another. And, therefore, a President who is interested in reforms that endure because they work is bound to use different men at different times.

To the men themselves, except those who have some philosophy, this raising of officials to prominence and then reducing them to relative obscurity usually looks like ingratitude, the betrayal of the cause, surrender to the enemy and what not.

A very good illustration is to be found in the Securities and Exchange Commission under the rule of Joseph P. Kennedy. When the abuses of the security markets were be-

But once the laws had been enacted, the men who had the courage and the ardor to write them are far from fitted to administer them. They had fought a victorious war, and, like so many warriors, they do not make peace. Then came Mr. Kennedy, as suspect by the warriors as a Tory by triumphant Generals, and in a short time by sheer political and administrative wisdom, he made the new financial system a practicable reality and then insured its survival.

He illustrated very well the remark of F. S. Oliver that revolutions can be successful only if at just the right moment politicians take charge. For it is the politician, using the word in its favorable sense, who knows

Perils of Forced Arbitration

From the New York Post.

A FEW weeks ago, it was reported, on the authority of unnamed persons in Washington, that labor advisers of the President had suggested application of the terms of the Railway Labor Act to all of industry. This act provides for compulsory arbitration of grievances and for compulsory mediation of wage and hour disputes.

Now the Washington correspondent of the New York Journal of Commerce declares that an administration bill has been put into private circulation which calls for establishment of compulsory arbitration for all of industry. A new National Labor Board would be established, given power to intervene in any labor disputes. Its decisions would be "valid and irrevocable other than by court action."

Thus the right to strike would be taken away from labor as it has been in Italy, Austria and Germany. That the administration would support such a move is incredible, and the Post hopes that the White House will publicly dissociate itself from any such policy. Legislation of this character would be wholly alien to American tradition.

No one denies the waste, for both capital and labor, involved in strikes. Industrial peace would be to the benefit of both sides. Voluntary settlement of disputes is almost always beneficial, even if it involves sacrifices on both sides. But peaceful dealings rest upon equality of strength, and to deprive labor of its only weapon—the right to strike—would leave it helpless to deal on equal grounds with capital.

The promise of the New Deal was the promise of a better distribution of the national income. A larger share for labor means more stable purchasing power, more stable business, a more stable society.

Labor cannot win that larger share of the profits of industry if it has no weapon of last resort to force consideration of its demands. It cannot depend on the Government to win its battles.

Compulsory arbitration might transform a free nation into something the Founding Fathers would shudder to behold.

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.

NOTHING in the Nation's Capital is more pitiful these days than the long and dolorous face of Henry Wallace.

He is going around telling all his friends how much he regretted the "purging" of the AAA, what stanch support he had from the liberals he was forced to put on the street.

Undoubtedly this is true.

And this brings out a certain fundamental but interesting difference between Wallace and Big Jim Farley, his direct opposite in the Cabinet.

Jim will fight for a man to the last ditch, provided he has contributed to the cause of Democracy. He never wavers. You can always be absolutely certain where he stands.

Wallace, on the other hand, has a fine and idealistic conception of fitness for public office, has picked an above-average group of men to run his department.

But under pressure he will surrender.

One explanation of Henry Wallace these days may be the secret which some of his best friends are whispering regarding him—that he cherishes presidential ambitions.

Wallace is young, could wait until Roosevelt filled another term, then be just about ripe for the White House.

And the Federal Council of Churches, realizing this, has sent him a letter urging that he groom himself for the "succession."

RFC Loan.

HERE are the highlights of a bona fide application from a wholesale grocer in Danville, Ky., for a loan from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation:

"History of my Cash Wholesale Grocery Business. Established June 7, 1932. We done a business of $600,000 a year. The market crashed in 1929 and I never recovered financially.

"I married into a Prominent Family of Kentucky people. I work hard every day I have no bad habits strictly all Business all the Time. I never bet on horse races. Never attended one in my entire life. I live with my mother-in-law in Danville.

"Danville is the Greatest Little City in Kentucky has Two Million Dollars worth of Paved Streets. Thousands of Railroad People live here. Cattle sheep and hogs to Day are Living off Blue Grass fields that Blue Grass is a foot high. My father sold a Lot here for Two Hundred and Fifty Dollars per foot.

"No banker here was ever sent to Prison. . . . My wife is heir to $50,000. I have a son who is a government radio wizard.

"We are firm believers in the NRA Greatest thing since God was here on earth."

Rewarded.

WHEN the President gave Alabama's veteran Representative John McDuffie a life-job appointment on the Federal bench recently the news received scant public notice.

But there is an interesting story behind the reward.

In the historic special session of 1933, one of the major measures sponsored by the President was the economy bill that slashed hundreds of millions from Government payrolls and veterans' allowances.

Speaker Joe Byrns, then majority floor leader, was asked to take charge of the measure in the House.

But he demurred.

The bill was political dynamite. And although, as administration spokesman, it was Byrns' job to handle it, he shied away.

In this dilemma McDuffie came to the President's rescue.

Taking his political life in his hands, he accepted formal responsibility for the bill, did a masterful job in ramming it through the House.

The President was deeply grateful and when a Federal Judgeship became vacant in McDuffie's district he offered him the choice plum in appreciative remembrance of his loyal service "under fire."

Career Censorship.

THERE is no brotherhood like that of career diplomats. It makes no difference what the administration in power—Republican or Democratic—they stick together.

Not long ago, Sumner Welles, Assistant Secretary of State, but not a career man, was scheduled to deliver an address in Atlanta. Shortly before the date of delivery he was taken ill and his speech had to be given by a substitute.

But before delivery, what he had to say underwent a surgical operation. It contained some references to past State Department policies which career diplomats thought reflected on their ex-colleague, Francis White, former Assistant Secretary of State.

So they cut them out.

Roper-Conscious.

YOU will soon be hearing more about "Uncle Dan" Roper. He has taken steps to see that you do.

Long distressed over the inconspicuous role he filled in the public eye, the ambitious little Secretary of Commerce finally decided to remedy the situation.

So he has employed Harry R. Daniel, one-time newspaper man and more recently high pressure publicity wangler, to make the public Roper-conscious.

Daniel has the title of "publicity co-ordinator." But his real job is to publicize Roper.

According to inside Commerce Department reports, it is to be a far-flung campaign, with the press, radio, movies and lecture platform rallied to the cause.

Merry-Go-Round.

CHAIRMAN FRANCIS BIDDLE, of the National Labor Relations Board, and Lloyd Garrison, his predecessor, have launched a vigorous campaign to build up public sentiment for Congressional enactment of the Wagner labor disputes bill, which the White House scuttled last year. In an article in "Survey Graphic," Garrison, now dean of the Wisconsin University law school, bitterly assails company unions, demands a law banning them. Biddle, in a recent speech in Cincinnati, declared that enforcement of section 7A "has broken down," and called for the enactment of new measures to safeguard the right of workers to bargain collectively. . . . Financed by a PWA grant of $570,000, Government forestry agents have begun a determined fight to eradicate the Dutch elm disease from the Northeastern section of the country. All trees infected with the blight will be cut down and destroyed. . . . Mrs. Caroline O'Day, New York's Democratic Congresswoman-at-Large and close friend of Mrs. Roosevelt, says that she is not interested in "society," but does believe that "our most intelligent and 'best' people should have more representation in Government."

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

MR. AND MRS. FREDERICK B. EISEMAN, 6463 Cecil avenue, have announced the engagement and approaching marriage of their second daughter, Miss Mary Butzel Eiseman, and Benjamin Harris Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Harris, 9 Kingsbury place.

Miss Eiseman is a graduate of John Burroughs School and of Sarah Lawrence College, Bronxville, N. Y., in the class of 1932, the same year in which her older sister, Miss Justine Eiseman, received her degrees at Vassar Colleg in Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

The prospective bride took a third year at Sarah Lawrence during which she studied sculpturing and assisted in dramatic work. For the past 18 months she has been a student at the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts in Philadelphia, with which Walker Hancock of St. Louis is associated. Miss Eiseman returned to St. Louis Saturday to make plans for her wedding which will take place late in March.

Mr. Harris is an alumnus of Harvard College and after a number of years in business here he returned to take his law degree at Harvard last June. He arrived in St. Louis yesterday from Washington, where he is serving on the NRA staff, and will remain over the week-end.

A Valentine luncheon for debutantes was given today by Miss Sallie Morfit, at the home of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. John C. Morfit, 5531 Clemens avenue. The party was in honor of Miss Virginia Burns, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Stanley S. Burns, and Miss Madeline Rogers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Murray Rogers.

Mounds of strawberries spilling from a red and white box on a large silver platter replaced the usual floral centerpiece. Silver candelabra holding lighted red tapers rested on mirrors at each end of the table. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas O. Moloney, 6309 Pershing avenue, have

MRS. HAROLD WILLIAM KRAMER JR., 622 Forest court, Clayton, entertained at a Valentine tea at her home late yesterday afternoon to announce the engagement of her sister, Miss Janet Wilson, daughter of Mrs. Alvah M. Wilson, 5900 McPherson avenue, to James William Sims, 6140 Washington avenue. Marjory Kramer, young daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Frederick Kramer, presented each guest with a red rose to which was attached two small red hearts on which were written the names of Miss Wilson and Mr. Sims.

The tea table was suggestive of St. Valentine's day, with a centerpiece of deep red roses and heart-shaped candies and cakes. Miss Virginia Candy and Miss Virginia McDonald, classmates of Miss Wilson at Mary Institute, where she was graduated, and Miss Dorothy Deibel, Miss Louise Wilson and Mrs. Calvin Stark served at the tea table. Miss Wilson wore an afternoon gown of blue-flowered crepe, fashioned with a short jacket of the crepe and a floor length skirt. She wore a shoulder corsage of gardenias.

Mr. Sims is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elijah Sims of Carrollton, Ill. Sixty guests were invited to the announcement party.

Friends of Mrs. Charles Oswald Liddell, the former Mrs. Loyal L. Leonard of St. Louis, will be interested to know that she recently made a trip to this country from England, her present home, having been called here by the death of her father, Mr. Farquhar of Boston. Mrs. Liddell's home, "Shirenewton Hall" in Chepstow, is a show place of rural England. Mrs. Liddell is prominent in British society, and was presented at the court of St. James a few months ago. For several years, as Mrs. Leonard, she made her home at 5305 Delmar boulevard. She was Miss May Farquhar before her first marriage.

Mrs. Greenfield Sluder, 4935 Maryland avenue, is expected home Wednesday from Leon Springs, Fla., where her mother, Mrs. Alex G. Cochran, is spending the winter.

Before going south Mrs. Sluder visited her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Hyatt Mayor of New York and their young son and another son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John Glessner of Cambridge, Mass.

Mrs. Paul F. Ring, 1112 Center drive, Hampton Park, has returned from visiting her mother, Mrs. Edward Murray of Boston, Mass. Mrs. Ring was away for a month.

Miss Alice Ruth Stanton, daughter of Mrs. Ruth Gannett Stanton, 7812 Pershing avenue, and Norman Arthur Cobb, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur F. Cobb, 3735 Sullivan avenue, were married at 8 o'clock last night at the home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Vickers Beck, 6012 Clemens avenue. The Rev. Alfred L. Greue officiated in the presence of about a hundred guests.

Miss Sue Stanton was maid of honor for her sister and Mr. Cobb had his brother, Russell Cobb, as best man. Miss Marian Waugh was bridesmaid and Paul Brinkman, groomsman. The bridal party stood before a bower of Easter lilies and clusters of white snapdragon arranged about the fire place in the living room. More of the blossoms against greenery also decorated the room, which was lighted by ivory tapers.

Wyllys Gannett Stanton gave his sister in marriage. She wore a gown of off-white satin shading to a delicate shell pink made simply with long sleeves and a train. The tulle veil fell from a cap of lace and she carried a bouquet of calla lilies. The maid of honor and the bridesmaid wore frocks of light blue lace made on princesse lines with short trains. They carried Joanna Hill roses. Mrs. Stanton, mother of the bride, was gowned in dark blue crepe and wore a corsage of gardenias. Mrs. Beck wore a gown of brown lace and green orchids arranged in a shoulder corsage.

After the ceremony an informal reception was held. The dining room was decorated with spring flowers in pastel shades. More of the blossoms adorned the supper table which was illuminated with ivory candles. Mr. Cobb and his bride will spend their honeymoon in New Orleans, La., where they will be guests of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Gannett. They will be entertained there during the Carnival and will attend several of the Mardi Gras balls. On their return they will live in St. Louis.

Announcement has been made in Columbus, O., by Dr. and Mrs. Robert L. Tucker of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Theodora Grace Tucker, and Charles B. Hart of Madison, O. Dr. Tucker is former pastor of the Maple Avenue Methodist Church in St. Louis. He and his family left here several years ago and he is now pastor of the Indianola Methodist Episcopal Church in Columbus.

Miss Tucker is a senior in the School of Social Administration at Ohio State University, and her fiance is enrolled in the Arts Graduate School of the same university.

BROILING REQUIRES SIMPLE PROCEDURE AND CAREFUL TIMING FOR SUCCESS

Connoisseurs tell us that broiled foods are more easily digested than fried foods since very little grease has actual contact with the food. Besides the digestible part of it broiled steaks and chops, crisp and brown on the outside and oozing juices, are much more appetizing than those that are fried. The first requisite for good broiling is a hot flame. This seals in the juices that really make the steak or chop delicious. The meat should be turned every 10 seconds for the first minute of cooking and less frequently later.

With this approximate time table broiling becomes quite simple. Rare beef steak one to two inches thick should broil for 15 minutes. Medium to well done requires 20 to 25 minutes.

Rib lamb chops one to two inches thick require 10 to 12 minutes; loin lamb chops must broil for at least 12 minutes.

Rib veal chops should broil 15 minutes if they are cut medium. A half inch thick veal cutlet requires 15 minutes.

A slice of ham one-half inch thick should cook 20 to 25 minutes.

Chicken requires from 20 to 30 minutes under the flame.

Seasoning with salt and pepper should be reserved until the meat is almost done. The steak or chops should be removed to a hot platter, the meat juice poured over it and a garnish of crisp parsley or water cress should not be omitted.

PEPPERMINT FROSTING TOPS PLAIN OR DARK RICH CAKE

Even the simplest one egg cake need not be downcast when it can flaunt a fancy icing. And when that icing is pink and carries the pleasant bite of peppermint the cook too can hold up her head. The recipe given below combines especially well with a chocolate cake and the flavor is an excellent foil for its rich sweetness.

Pink Peppermint Frosting.

Two egg whites, unbeaten.
One and one-half cups sugar.
One-third cup cold water.
One tablespoon light syrup.
Ten drops oil of peppermint.
Pink coloring.

Put all the ingredients except the flavoring and coloring in the top part of a double boiler. Beat with a rotary egg beater until thoroughly mixed. Place over boiling water and add a bit of coloring to make a delicate pink. Beat steadily with the rotary beater until the frosting will stand in peaks or about seven minutes. Remove from the fire, add flavoring and continue to beat until thick enough to spread.

RECIPES FOR NEXT WEEK

Baked Oysters.

Use individual large scallop shells, oyster shells or a shallow baking dish. For six portions, three dozen large oysters will be needed. Drain the oysters and look them over carefully to remove any bits of shell. Cut eight slices bacon in small squares and fry them until crisp and brown. Remove the bacon from the pan, add to the fat three tablespoons minced green pepper and one teaspoon minced onion. Cook slowly for three to five minutes, but do not brown. Divide the bacon, peppers and onions evenly between the six shells or baking dishes, arrange the oysters on top and pour two tablespoons thin cream over each portion. Sprinkle lightly with salt, pepper and very fine dry bread crumbs. Bake in a hot oven 10 minutes or until the oysters are plump and the edges curled. Serve immediately in the shells.

Pear and Watercress Salad.

Use halves of canned pear, or the ripe winter pears. If the fresh pears are used, chill them, peel, cut in half and place on a plate with the rounded side up. Coat each half with a layer of mayonnaise thinned slightly with thin cream and seasoned with a little sherry and a few grains of sugar. Just before serving place the pears on lettuce, cut each piece of pear across in slices without separating them and arrange sprigs of crisp watercress between the slices. Canned pears should also be chilled but may be spread with the dressing any time. The fresh fruit discolors on exposure to the air and must be covered with the dressing to prevent this.

Colonial Custard.

Scald one quart of milk. Mix two-thirds cup granulated sugar with two teaspoons cornstarch and one-fourth teaspoon salt. Add four eggs and beat to a thick light cream. Pour the hot milk slowly onto the eggs, stiring constantly. Return to the saucepan and stir over a slow fire until the custard is thickened to the consistency of thick cream. Remove at once from the fire and let cool. When almost cold add rum or sherry flavoring or one-third cup of either rum or sherry. Crumble a small square sponge cake into a serving dish large enough to hold the custard also. Melt one glass of currant or raspberry jelly in two tablespoons hot water and pour over the cake. Sprinkle with chopped almonds and then pour the custard over it. Chill for several hours and serve garnished with whipped cream and chopped candied or maraschino cherries. Serve six.

Sponge Cake.

Beat the yolks of six eggs until very light. Then gradually add one cup fine granulated sugar and continue beating for five minutes. Stir in one teaspoon grated lemon peel, two tablespoons lemon juice and two tablespoons cold water. Sift one cup flour with one teaspoon baking powder and one-fourth teaspoon salt. Sift again and stir into the egg yolk mixture. Beat the whites of six eggs until stiff enough to hold their shape and fold them thoroughly and lightly into the cake. Pour into a large, very lightly greased angel cake pan and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 50 minutes. Reduce the heat the last 15 minutes of cooking if necessary. When done, remove from the oven, invert the pan and let stand until cold before attempting to remove the cake.

Corn Fritters.

Mix one and one-half cups canned whole kernel (shoe-peg) corn with one cup milk, one teaspoon sugar and one teaspoon salt. Add pepper to season. Mix one and one-half cups flour with two teaspoons baking powder. Beat two eggs until light. Add the eggs to the corn mixture then stir in the sifted flour. Beat to mix and fry in a hot frying pan one-third full of hot fat. Drop the fritters from a tablespoon into the hot fat, cook until brown on one side then turn them.

A LITTLE CHAT ABOUT NEXT WEEK'S MENUS

Use of Low Cost Meat Cuts Helps Reduce Meat Bill for the Week.

Sliced oranges make a good change from orange juice and on Sunday mornings there is usually more time to prepare the breakfast fruit than during the week. Peel the oranges, selecting firm, large ones. Remove the white rind down to the pulp, then cut across in thin slices, allowing one or more oranges to each portion. If the fruit is tart, sweeten slightly with powdered sugar or honey, and be sure the oranges are well chilled before serving.

Roast veal is the choice for Sunday, a cut of loin, rump or shoulder weighing about five pounds for a family of four to six. If you have it boned, be sure to use the bones for soup stock. The roast may be cooked in the oven or pot-roasted, but whichever method is used, be sure to cook it slowly, allowing about 25 minutes per pound. If oven roasted, baste frequently with the drippings that form in the pan.

Veal Croquettes for Monday.

Veal croquettes made from leftover veal form the meat course for Monday dinner. Put the meat through the meat chopper or cut it in small dice. There should be about two cups of the chopped or three cups of diced meat. Season the meat with salt, pepper, one-half teaspoon grated lemon rind, two tablespoons minced parsley, one teaspoon minced onion and one-half teaspoon Worcestershire sauce. Make two cups white sauce from four tablespoons butter, one-third cup flour and two cups milk. When thick and boiling, add the seasoned meat and spread out to cool on a platter. When cold, shape into croquettes, roll in beaten egg diluted with one teaspoon cold water, and then in very fine, dry breadcrumbs to completely cover the croquettes. Fry in deep hot fat or bake in a very hot oven. Croquettes should be crisp and brown on the outside and moist and creamy within.

Lamb Cut Inexpensive.

Breast of lamb makes the casserole mixture for Tuesday's dinner. Buy four or four and one-half pounds for six servings and have the meat cut in medium sized pieces. Sprinkle them with salt, pepper and flour and brown in a frying pan with a little hot fat. Place the browned meat in a deep baking dish, or casserole, with a dozen small white onions, a shredded green pepper, one cup diced carrots, one cup diced white or yellow turnips and one-half cup sliced celery. Add one cup boiling water, sprinkle with one teaspoon salt, cover closely and bake in a slow oven for two or three hours. The oven temperature should be about 325 degrees. Before serving, one cup canned peas or one cup sliced mushrooms may be added. Thicken the gravy with one tablespoon flour mixed with cold water and serve the meat and vegetables from the dish in which they are cooked.

Another inexpensive meat dish is the short ribs of beef served on Saturday. Make allowance for the large amount of bone in buying these, and buy about four or five pounds for a family of six. Have the short ribs cracked and cut in pieces for serving. Sprinkle with salt, pepper and flour and brown quickly in a little hot fat in a frying pan. Place in a deep sauce pan and add water to about half cover, two tablespoons vinegar, two large onions, one teaspoon Worcestershire sauce and four tablespoons tomato catsup. Cover closely and cook very slowly for two to three hours, or until the meat is very tender. Thicken the gravy and serve the meat with boiled noodles or mashed potatoes and grated horseradish or mustard pickles.

NEW BEAN SOUP WILL WORK MIRACLES WITH A MENU

Since winter time is bean soup time it may just as well be lima bean soup time for a welcome change. A cream soup of this kind may get your nicest luncheon off to a proper start or it may put your family in the dress-for-dinner mood.

Cream of Lima Bean Soup.

One and one-half cups cooked lima beans
One tablespoon finely minced parsley.
One cup milk or cream
Three tablespoons butter
One tablespoon flour
One teaspoon salt
One-fourth teaspoon pepper
One small onion sliced thin

Put beans through a coarse sieve or ricer. Melt the butter in a saucepan, add the onion and cook for five minutes. Remove onion and add flour to the remaining butter. Stir until smooth, add salt, pepper, milk or cream and bean puree. Bring to boiling point. Serve hot in bouillon cups and just before serving top with a little island of whipped cream and sprinkle with the finely minced parsley.

Molded Supper Salad.

Dissolve one package of lemon flavored gelatin in two cups of boiling water. Add two tablespoons of vinegar, one teaspoon salt. Let it cool until it begins to thicken. Then fold in one cup chopped cel-

APPLES MAKE MODERATELY PRICED FOUNDATION FOR MANY DISHES

Apples are a relatively cheap winter fruit and their uses are many. When combining them raw with other foods, keep in mind that their firm texture makes them best with celery, nuts, pineapple, cabbage, grapefruit, etc. Cooked, they combine best with tapioca, rice, bread, custard, pastry mixtures. They may be used in muffins, in gingerbread, in fritters and croquettes, as a filling for omelets or a spread for pancakes. Fried apples and bacon make a whole-meal sandwich when placed between slices of white or wholewheat bread.

Apple Rye Bread Pudding.

Run stale rye bread through the meat chopper (drying the slices in the oven if necessary to make them dry enough) to make two cupfuls. Mix them with one-half cup melted butter and press in the bottom and around the sides of a baking dish. Fill with chopped raw apples, one-half cup seeded raisins, two tablespoons chopped walnuts, sugar to sweeten and the grated rind and juice of one lemon. Cover the top with more crumbs and bake in a moderate oven for 45 minutes, having the pan covered the first 25 minutes. Serve warm with hard sauce.

Apple Sauce De Luxe.

Mix four cups slightly sweetened, strained apple sauce with one cup crushed, drained canned pineapple and two tablespoons finely chopped preserved ginger. Chill and serve with sponge cake for dessert, or pour over cold boiled rice and serve for dessert.

ECONOMY PUDDING

One cupful of fine dry bread crumbs.
One cupful of milk.
One cupful of sugar.
One-fourth cupful of shortening.
Two tablespoonfuls of molasses.
One-half cupful of flour.
One teaspoonful of cinnamon.
One-half teaspoonful of cloves.
One-half teaspoonful of allspice.
One teaspoonful of soda.
One-half cupful of nuts.

Soak the bread in the milk. Cream sugar and shortening together, add molasses, then flour which has been sifted with spices and soda. Add the softened bread crumbs and mix. Add nuts last and stir in thoroughly. Bake 45 minutes in a slow oven (325 degrees). Serve cold with whipped cream.

Chopped mushrooms sauted in a little butter with a tiny bit of minced onion, then mixed with salad dressing and spread on small rounds of toast make a fine appetizer to serve with tomato juice cocktails.

USE COLONIAL DISHES FOR FESTIVE SUPPER

For Washington's birthday celebration what is better than a Colonial supper or dinner (the evening meal was always "supper" in Colonial days) made up of some old-time southern foods? George Washington was noted for his hospitality and open house was always kept at Mount Vernon. Although Washington once wrote: "My manner of life is plain and I do not mean to be put out of it. A glass of wine a bit of mutton are always ready and such as will be content to partake of them are always welcome. Those who expect more will be disappointed," Martha Washington's cookbook which is in the possession of the Pennsylvania Historical Society, proves that much more than the "bit of mutton" was provided for such guests!

Most Dishes Adaptable.

Time or labor meant nothing to the colored cook of Washington's time, as is evidenced by reading some of these old-fashioned recipes. The quantities of foods used are also amazing until we stop to consider the number of people who were sometimes on hand and the prodigious appetites of the day! However, there are some of the recipes that may be readily adapted, without changing their flavor or appearance, to present day customs. A menu such as used below might well have been found at Mount Vernon or any of the other Colonial estates.

Oysters were a favorite food and the waters of Chesapeake Bay provided a goodly supply for Virginian tables. Oysters then must be on our menu; chicken of course in some form; corn was one of the few vegetables available in the winter months for it could be dried and then freshened and stewed. Salads were practically unknown, but relishes and pickles and jellies were used liberally. Custards in various forms always appeared, and some kind of hot bread, usually biscuits, Sally Lunn, hoecakes or cornbread.

Washington Birthday Supper.

Oyster Stew or Baked Oysters
Virginia Chicken Pudding
with Gravy
Stewed Corn Celery Jelly Pickles
Colonial Custard or Jellied
Fruit Ring.

The recipe for baked oysters given in another column may be used in the menu, as may the Colonial Custard.

Oyster Stew for 12.

Pick over three pints of small oysters and remove any bits of shell. Drain the oysters, saving the juice. Melt one-fourth pound butter in a deep saucepan, add one teaspoon salt, one teaspoon celery salt, one teaspoon paprika, one-fourth teaspoon pepper and a dash of cayenne pepper. Let boil up, then add the oysters and let simmer, stirring occasionally, for 10 minutes. Meanwhile scald three pints rich milk. When the oysters look plump, pour in the milk, and serve at once in hot plates. If you have an old-fashioned soup tureen, now is the time to use it. Pour the stew in the hot tureen and serve at the table, ladeling it out into hot soup plates.

Virginia Chicken Pudding.

Cut up two young chickens as for frying, put in a saucepan, cover with hot water, add two teaspoons salt, an onion, parsley and two pepper corns, and boil gently for an hour, or until tender. Remove the chicken when it is tender, and cool slightly. Slip out the bones, as many as you can—it will not be possible to remove them all. Discard the necks. Put the chicken in a deep, large earthen dish. Make a batter by mixing four cups milk with four well beaten eggs and one-and one-half cups sifted flour. The batter will be very thin, but must be free from lumps. Beat with an egg beater if necessary. Pour the batter over the chicken and bake in a moderate oven for about an hour, or until the pudding is firm and well puffed. Serve as quickly as possible, with plenty of gravy made by thickening the chicken stock (obtained from boiling the chicken) with flour and seasoning it with salt, pepper, a little grated lemon rind and, if liked, a little sherry.

Stewed Corn.

Use the shoe-peg or whole kernel canned corn, allowing two No. 2 size cans for 12 servings. Drain the corn. Melt four tablespoons butter in a saucepan, put in the corn with salt and pepper to season, and add one-third cup thin cream. Stir until well heated.

SPANISH SANDWICH

Two tablespoons chopped onion.
Two tablespoons melted butter.
Three cups canned tomatoes.
One green pepper chopped.
One-half cup chopped celery.
One tablespoon flour.
Salt and pepper, chile pepper if you wish.
One-half pound sliced bacon.
Ten slices bread.
Thin slices American cheese.

Cook the onion for a few minutes in one tablespoon of the fat. Add the tomatoes, green pepper, and celery. Simmer uncovered for 15 to 20 minutes. Blend the remaining fat with the flour. Add it to the sauce with the salt and pepper. Stir until it thickens slightly. Fry the bacon until crisp. Toast the bread on both sides until golden brown.

SAVORY, SAUSAGES MAKE AN EXCELLENT SUPPER DISH

Sausages for Sunday morning breakfast is the good word with some housewives. They overlook the fact that sausages in combination with a vegetable make an excellent, quickly prepared supper dish.

Savory Sausages.

One pound small sausages.
One-fourth cup diced celery.
Four tablespoons ketchup.
One tablespoon hot water.
Salt and pepper to taste.
Creamed potatoes.
Minced parsley.

Prick the sausages and fry slowly until done. Remove to a hot platter and pour off all the fat from the pan except two tablespoons. Cook the diced celery in this, stirring well to keep from burning. Add ketchup, seasoning and hot water to make a sauce. Pour over the sausages and surround with creamed potatoes. Sprinkle parsley lightly over the top and serve piping hot. Buttered onions and deep dish apple pie complete the menu.

EASTERN DISHES ADD TO SUPPER PARTIES

Smart Hostess Who Likes the New and Different Can Make These in Advance.

Now that ingredients from the Far East are available, the smart hostess who follows the rule of being just a bit different in her choice of food for informal suppers can serve dishes that have always been associated with places of mystery. Chop suey, not Chinese at all but concocted for American tastes they tell us, makes a delicious supper dish. It can be prepared in advance and then reheated, a thing that most busy hostesses with many last minute tasks to perform will appreciate.

If you want to carry through the Oriental touch, serve those tiny crisp noodles with the lettuce, and be sure to have a side dish of cocoanut. This is supposed to be the last word in contrasting flavors which refined palates enjoy. The macaroons can be prepared the day before and the fruit cup too can be put in the refrigerator until time for serving. Tea is the drink, served with lemon and sugar or without any trimmings as the Chinese take it.

Menu.

Chicken Chop Suey Steamed Rice
Lettuce Salad With French Dressing
Fruit Cup
Oriental Macaroons Tea

Chicken Chop Suey

Two cups cooked chicken.
One cup diced celery.
One-half teaspoon salt.
Dash of pepper.
Two tablespoons chop suey sauce.
One can chop suey vegetables.
One tablespoon bead molasses.
Two small onions sliced, or mushrooms cut thin.

Cook celery, onions and mushrooms in a skillet in lard or butter until tender, taking care that they do not burn. Add cooked chicken and vegetables and stir all together. In another saucepan thicken one cup meat stock or water with one tablespoon flour or cornstarch, add molasses, seasonings and sauce and pour over the chicken mixture. Heat thoroughly, adding a little more stock if the mixture looks too dry.

Fruit Cup.

Three large oranges peeled and diced.
Two cups pineapple, diced.
Three bananas, diced.
One cup thinly sliced water chestnuts, toasted, shredded cocoanut for garnishing.

Mix the diced fruits and sprinkle with the juice of half a lemon. Add water chestnuts and chill thoroughly. Sprinkle with toasted cocoanut just before serving. Serves eight.

Oriental Macaroons.

Two egg whites, beaten stiff.
One cup sugar.
One-half cup nuts, chopped.
One can chow mein noodles.
One-half cup shredded cocoanut.

Fold the sugar into the stiffly beaten egg whites, then the nuts and last of all the noodles and cocoanut. Drop from a teaspoon on a greased cookie sheet and bake in a very slow oven for 15 or 20 minutes.

Dip marshmallows in beaten egg, then completely cover with fine dry bread crumbs and fry for one minute in deep, hot fat. Drain, place each on a slice of sauted pineapple and serve with pork, with roast duck or goose, or as a luncheon entree.

PLAIN STEW DESERVES GOOD TREATMENT

Good Combinations and Proper Cooking Make Excellence of Homely Dish.

Someone should rename the stew, that good, substantial deliciously blended dish which has a flavor combination not to be excelled by even the juiciest and tenderest roast. Somehow stew is always so plebian in name that we steer clear of it as a company dish.

Perhaps, it's because most stews are rather anemic looking concoctions carrying all the bits of left-over vegetables, rather scrappy bits of meat and always too much gravy. With a few leading suggestions, we leave you to solve the riddle of when a stew is not a stew.

Many of the least costly cuts of meat may go into a stew. Neck, breast, shoulder, flank and even the shank are tender and good flavored if properly cooked. The first requisite is to have the meat and vegetables cut in good sized individual pieces, not tiny little bits that lose all identity in cooking. If the breast cut or short ribs are purchased, ask the butcher to saw the bones into lengths of about two inches.

Brown Meat Thoroughly.

For the best meat flavor, be sure to brown the meat thoroughly before adding the water. This simple expedient does away with all chance of an insipid color in the stew. It will help both the meat and the gravy to roll the meat in flour before browning it in fat. The flour browns easily, and later cooks out into the water to form a thin gravy.

It makes no difference whether the water that is added to the browned meat is hot or cold, but which ever is used should be brought to the boiling point quickly, then the fire turned very low. And remember that if the gravy is not to be excessive, the water added must not quite cover the meat. The final secret of success is the slowness with which the stew is cooked. Even the simmer burner on your gas stove will give enough heat to keep the water hot, but not boiling. Keep the lid on tight and the fire low and you'll not need to worry about adding more water as it cooks.

Give It Individual Touch.

So much for the cooking process in general. It's the specific and individual touch that make the stew "different." A beef stew combines well in flavor with tomatoes, whole potatoes, whole carrots or onions. Some celery and sliced onion browned together before adding them to the stew take on new flavor. Sometimes tomato juice is used for part of the liquid and other whole vegetables added. Just one bay leaf and a clove does wonders for a beef stew. Both should be removed before serving the meat.

A veal stew is remarkably helped by browning small pieces of ham or salt pork with the meat. Celery, cut in one-inch lengths, wide noodles and a green pepper cut in strips makes a good combination with veal. Lamb stews are made the same way, but seem to need other vegetables. Slices of carrot, whole small onions and new peas make a perfect blend of flavor.

Chicken Stew Delicious.

Chicken is delicious when first browned in butter, then simmered slowly done with an eighth of a teaspoon of cinnamon in the gravy. Serve this with hot fluffy biscuits, dumplings, noodles, spaghetti, even cubes of toasted bread are good additions to the stew and serve to change its every-day dress.

When the stew is done and the aroma makes the whole family sit up and take notice, don't spoil the picture by pouring it into an uninteresting bowl. Put it into your best casserole, with a fluting of mashed potatoes around the edge, or arrange in a deep platter with meat in the center and vegetables over the top, and garnish with some fresh crisp celery or endive, or some crisp rings of green pepper. Pour just enough gravy over it to moisten the meat.

Veal Stew With Noodles.

Cut two pounds of breast of veal or neck of veal into pieces the size of individual servings. Flour them and brown in the fat fried from cubes of salt pork. Add cold water to cover, season, cover, and allow to simmer for two and one-half hours. Thirty minutes before the stew is served, add one cup broad noodles and one cup of celery cut in short lengths. Serve the stew with the meat in the center of the platter, surrounded by the noodles and celery, and garnish with parsley or a sprinkle of paprika.

Lamb Stew.

Cut two pounds of lean raw lamb into small pieces and roll in flour. Melt two tablespoons of butter in a skillet, add one-half cup sliced onion, cook until it turns yellow, and add the meat. When the meat and the onion have browned delicately, transfer them to a kettle, and add one quart water, after first pouring it into the skillet so as to get full benefit of the browned fat. Cover and simmer for one hour. Then add three cups diced turnip, one green pepper, chopped, and salt and pepper to taste. If the stew is not thick enough, add one tablespoon of flour mixed with two tablespoons of cold water, and cook for several minutes longer, stirring constantly. Serve piping hot with browned potatoes and garnished with parsley.

WAYS TO SERVE SPINACH INFINITE AND VARIOUS

When you have just about exhausted your ingenuity for finding different ways of serving spinach try it this way. As mushrooms are a meat substitute you can cut down the amount of meat used for the meal and the family won't miss it.

Creamed Spinach and Mushrooms.

Two cups cooked spinach.
One-third pound mushrooms.
Two tablespoons butter.
Two tablespoons flour.
Salt and pepper to taste.
One-half cup liquid from spinach.
One cup milk.

Put the butter in a skillet and add the mushrooms which have been peeled and sliced. Cook until delicately browned. Sprinkle flour over the mushrooms and blend well. Add spinach liquid and milk and seasoning, stirring and cooking until slightly thickened. Fold in spinach lightly and heat thoroughly before serving.

HONEY DATE DESSERT

Two cups of dates.
One-half cup of nutmeats.
Two eggs.
Three-fourths cup of honey.
One-half cup of flour.
One teaspoon of baking powder.
One-fourth teaspoon of salt.
One-half cup of bran.

Seed the dates and chop them finely. Cut the nutmeats fine. Beat the eggs lightly, then add the honey alternately with the flour and baking powder and salt, which have been sifted together. Add the bran, the dates, and the nutmeats. Mix the ingredients well, then bake 20 to 30 minutes in a moderate oven (325 to 350 degrees). Cut into squares or break into irregular pieces and serve with cream, whipped or plain; or roll strips of it in powdered sugar and serve as fruit sticks of the type of date bars.

Asparagus Continental.

Make sauce of three tablespoons butter and four tablespoons flour, mixed, and two cups milk. Add one-half teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon paprika, one-half cup grated cheese. Place three cups cooked asparagus in baking dish,

A WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY CAKE FOR ENTIRE FAMILY

It is quite possible that the original of this recipe which called for huge quantities of butter and eggs might have been put together in the kitchen at Mount Vernon. The old recipe calls for an ingredient which would disconcert most modern cooks, pearlash for leavening. The recipe has been modernized and in place of currants a mixture of currants, raisins and citron is recommended since the cake is a kind of light fruit cake.

Washington Cake.

One-half cup butter.
One cup sugar.
Two eggs.
Two and one-fourth cups flour.
Three and one-half teaspoons baking powder.
One teaspoon vanilla.
Two-thirds cup milk.
One-half teaspoon grated nutmeg.
One-half cup currants.
One-half cup raisins.
Three tablespoons chopped citron.
One-fourth teaspoon cinnamon.

Cream the butter, add sugar gradually and beat in the beaten egg yolks. Sift the dry ingredients and add to the mixture alternately with the milk and vanilla, beating well after each addition. Add floured fruit and mix thoroughly and fold in the beaten egg whites last. Bake in a greased loaf or angel cake pan for one hour and fifteen minutes in a slow (300 degrees) oven. When cool cover with a fluffy white icing and decorate with halves of maraschino cherries in honor of the occasion.

PRUNE BREAD

One and one-half cups flour.
One cup graham flour.
One cup sugar.
Two-thirds teaspoon salt.
One teaspoon baking powder.
One teaspoon soda.
One egg.
One cup sour milk.
One-half cup prune juice.
Two-thirds cup broken nuts.
Two tablespoons fat, melted.
Two-thirds cup chopped cooked prunes.

Mix ingredients and pour into one large or two medium sized bread pans lined with waxed paper. Let rise 15 minutes and bake 50 minutes in moderately slow oven.

Cranberry Jelly Salad.

Cut stiff cranberry jelly in small squares, place on lettuce and surround with finely cut celery mixed with French dressing. Rub cream cheese through a coarse strainer over the cranberry jelly to alm cover it. Serve as a luncheon, d ner or supper salad. For lunche or supper add nut or date muffi made with wholewheat flour a precede the salad with a cup thick cream of vegetable soup.

HONEY KRUSHED WHEAT BREAD PRAISED BY THANKFUL FATHER

"I have three growing children," writes J. E. Ehrhardt of Blaine Avenue, "all of whom eat your new Honey Krushed Wheat Bread at every meal. In the mornings—toasted—they prefer it to anything else. It certainly has taken a worry off my mind, for the roughage and other ingredients it contains have completely eliminated the necessity of giving them cathartics for faulty elimination. I have only the highest praise for this delicious bread, and urge others to try it."

Many who have eaten Honey Krushed Wheat Bread regularly report that constipation has been permanently relieved. This is accomplished because Honey Krushed Wheat Bread contains the entire wheat kernel, pure honey and other ingredients which give the diet required roughage and thus eliminates the necessity for dosing with drugs or purges.

MAKE THIS 10-DAY TEST

Are you constipated, run-down, pepless? Are you forced to take purges or perhaps habit-forming drugs? Then eat Honey Krushed Wheat Bread regularly with each meal for ten days. Make this pleasant test. See for yourself—as thousands of others have—how Honey Krushed Wheat Bread relieves constipation and helps to restore your vitality.

Your independent grocer receives sliced, cellophane wrapped Honey Krushed Wheat Bread oven-fresh daily. Ask him for it—accept no substitute. Made by the St. Louis Bread Company, who also bake Toastmaster White Bread. Tel: FOrest 4381.

MOIST DARK CAKE WILL FIND WELCOME IN ANY HOUSEHOLD

There are very few households in which moist devil's food cake is not a welcome dessert. With a contrasting icing such as a peppermint flavored seven-minute frosting which forms a smooth complement to the richness of the cake, you have a combination that is hard to equal.

Devil's Food Cake.

Two cups flour.
One teaspoon soda.
One-half cup shortening.
One and one-fourth cups brown sugar.
Two whole eggs.
Three squares melted unsweetened chacolate.
One cup milk.
One teaspoon vanilla.

Sift flour and soda. Cream shortening well, add sugar gradually and cream until light and fluffy. Add eggs one at a time and beat well after each addition. Now add melted chocolate and blend. Add sifted flour alternately with the milk beating until quite smooth. Add flavoring last of all. Bake in two greased nine-inch layer pans in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 25 minutes. When cool spread with fluffy peppermint frosting.

ONE EGG CAKE

2 cups flour.
2 teaspoons baking powder.
¼ teaspoon salt.
4 tablespoons shortening.
1 cup sugar.
1 egg, unbeaten.
¾ cup milk.
1 teaspoon vanilla.

Cream butter, add sugar and beat well. Add egg and beat, and then flour and baking powder, which have been sifted together, alternately with milk, beating well after each addition. Add flavoring and pour into two greased cake tins and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees for 25 minutes).

Put together with your favorite icing.

A Cookie Note.

Cut cookies carefully to get as many as possible from the first rolling. Cookies cut from dough that has been rolled more than once are never quite as tender. Save all scraps of dough until last and roll them together.

PROPER WINTER DIET FOR YOUNG CHILDREN

Must Include Vegetables, Milk, Eggs and Energy Foods to Keep Them Healthy.

This is the time of year when some children get droopy and appetites seem to be at lowest ebb. Grandmother thought it was high time to get out the sulphur and molasses bottle but we turn our thoughts to food.

Children eat with less coaxing, it has been found, if the surroundings are pleasant and the table, chairs and eating utensils are their own small size. If the food is interesting both as to texture and flavor, and in each meal one crisp, one soft and one chewy food is served, there will be fewer "you must eat this."

Daily Diet Has Variety.

Be sure that the daily diet of the two to five year old includes three to four cups whole milk (meaning milk and the accompanying cream) a whole egg; a serving of meat; three or four vegetables (one raw, one leafy and one starchy); two to three fruits; an ounce of butter and a serving of whole grain cereal.

Be sparing with salt when cooking a child's food and never use sharp seasonings. Too much sugar or any ingredient which tends to mask the natural flavor of the food is not good. Remove excessive amounts of fat from meat which is to be cooked and see that it is cooked thoroughly. Bacon should be cooked until it is crisp and dry. Vegetables should be cooked in a small amount of water, that is, all except strong flavored vegetables. Care should be taken not to overcook.

Baked Egg in a Nest.

Three-fourths cup tomato.
Three-fourths cup cooked rice.
One-fourth teaspoon salt.
Six eggs.
One-half teaspoon butter.
One-half teaspoon chopped parsley.

Place rice, tomato, salt, in six ramekins. Drop an egg (raw) into each ramekin after the tomato rice mixture is in. Sprinkle a few grains of salt, one-half teaspoon butter and one-half teaspoon chopped parsley on top. Place the ramekins in a pan of water and bake in a moderate oven until the white of the egg is firm.

Vegetable Timbales.

One-fourth cup diced potatoes.
One-fourth cup cooked peas.
One-fourth cup cooked carrots.
One cup milk.
Two tablespoons butter.
Two tablespoons flour.
One egg yolk.

Make a sauce of milk, butter, flour, salt and egg yolk. Add the cooked potatoes, peas and carrots. Place in individual baking dish; set in a pan of hot water and bake in a hot oven (400 degrees) until the mixture is firm.

Prune and Rice Fluff.

One-half cup cooked rice.
One tablespoon gelatin.
One-fourth cup cold water.
One-fourth cup orange juice.
One tablespoon lemon juice.
Two cups strained prunes.
Two tablespoons sugar.
One egg white.
One-half teaspoon salt.

Soak gelatin in cold water about 5 minutes and then dissolve over boiling water. Heat together rice, orange juice, lemon juice, sugar and salt. Add dissolved gelatin and blend together very thoroughly. Allow mixture to cool slightly and then add prune pulp. Again allow mixture to cool and when starting to thicken fold in egg white which has been beaten stiff and dry. Fill sherbet glasses and chill. Top with whipped cream or finely cut nuts. Serves six.

Oatmeal Wafers.

Mix two tablespoons butter with one-third cup hot milk. Add four tablespoons sugar, one cup of flour mixed with one-third cup rolled oats and one-half cup fine oatmeal, one-half teaspoon salt and one teaspoon lemon juice. Roll very thin, shape in squares and bake in a slow oven until light brown.

CHEESE BARS

Two cups flour.
Four teaspoons baking powder.
One-fourth teaspoon salt.
Four tablespoons fat.
Two-thirds cup milk.

Mix flour, baking powder and salt. Cut in fat and, mixing with knife, slowly add milk. When soft dough forms, pat it out until one-eighth inch thick. Spread one-half with the following mixture:

Four tablespoons soft butter.
One-half cup grated cheese.
Two tablespoons salad dressing.
One-eighth teaspoon salt.
One-eighth teaspoon paprika.

Turn other half over on to cheese and press well with spatula. Using sharp knife, cut into bars, one-fourth by two inches. Carefully remove to greased baking sheets. Bake seven minutes in moderate oven. Serve warm.

Use for Fruit Juices.

Dried fruits, canned fruit juices, and canned fruit that is put up in water instead of syrup may all be used to make a winter supply of jams, conserves and jellies if your regular supply runs short, or if your storage space is so limited that small amounts must be made at a time. Grape juice, dried peaches apricots, prunes, canned apples, peaches, cherries, all make excellent jellies, jams or conserves.

ONE DISH MEALS ARE LAST WORD IN THRIFT

Combinations That Have Full Quota of Food Values to Meet Rising Prices.

With food prices beginning to spread their wings, the old watchword, "It's smart to be thrifty," is coming to have much significance for the thoughtful housewife. Simple dishes that have their full quota of food values, use of left-over meats that will not cause the family to grumble, all these are of great import to the woman who is trying to keep food costs within moderation.

Food combinations that are not stews but are baked to improve their flavors and retain their identities are always good news. A scallop which is a kind of one dish meal can be served with lettuce salad and cottage pudding with apricot sauce for dessert. With a menu of this kind you can feel that you have done your duty by your family.

Meat Scallop.

Two cans spaghetti.
One and one-half cups ground left-over meat.
Buttered bread crumbs.

Chop spaghetti so that the pieces are about two inches long. Arrange a layer in a greased baking dish. Spread a layer of meat and alternate, topping with a layer of spaghetti. Cover with buttered crumbs and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for about 20 minutes. Serves four generously.

For the dessert, use any recipe for plain cake and bake in muffin tins. For the sauce use one cup of cooked apricots, add sugar to taste. Thicken the juice, about one cupful, with one tablespoon cornstarch and cook until the sauce is thick. Put one or two whole apricots on each cup cake and pour the sauce over all.

Fricasse of Lamb.

Two pounds stewing lamb.
Twelve small onions.
Eight carrots.
One teaspoon salt.
One-half bay leaf.
Two teaspoons worcestershire sauce.
One can spaghetti.

Cut lamb in pieces, place in a kettle and almost cover with boiling water, add salt and bay leaf. Cover closely and simmer for two hours or until lamb is tender. Add onions and carrots half an hour before lamb has finished cooking. Heat spaghetti and when ready to serve, arrange lamb and vegetables in the center of a platter and garnish with a border of spaghetti.

Thicken the gravy with a little flour and serve with the main dish. For dessert, apple sauce cooked with a little lemon rind and juice and served with sugar cookies is delicious.

Savory Salmon.

One can salmon.
One tablespoon butter.
Three small onions, sliced.
Two cans spaghetti.
Buttered bread crumbs.

Remove skin and bones and flake salmon. Melt butter in frying pan and cook sliced onions until light yellow. Mix salmon and onions and spaghetti and turn into a greased casserole. Cover with buttered bread crumbs and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for about 20 minutes or longer.

The dessert, apple brown betty with hot lemon sauce may be baked at the same time.

Green vegetables and milk are necessary to make an adequate supply of calcium. The diet of growing children should include these to the sake of well formed teeth and bones.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Corrects Constipation*

An enthusiastic and voluntary letter: "We have a daughter who has been troubled all her life with constipation.* About three months ago, we discovered ALL-BRAN. From that day to now we have not given her any form of laxative.

We have become "ALL-BRAN" users, and now it is a part of our daily diet. We have told many of our friends and they, too, are getting results."—Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Pope, 562 Maple Ave., Elmira, N.Y.

Constipation due to insufficient "bulk" in meals.*

ALL-BRAN provides gentle "bulk" to aid regular habits. It also furnishes vitamin B and iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is often more effective than the "bulk" in fruits and vegetables, as it does not break down within the body. Two tablespoonfuls daily are usually sufficient. If not corrected this way, see your doctor.

Sugar in Cookery Has Way Entirely Its Own

Good Cook Must Know About the Uses of Sugar and Its Near Relatives if She Wants Complete Success.

Sugar is a food that has ways entirely its own and a good cook must know about them if she wants to have complete success, says the Bureau of Home Economics of the Department of Agriculture.

All fruits and milk contain sugar; so do some vegetables. Besides these natural sugars many made dishes are sweetened by the addition of sugar or syrups or molasses. Sugar in its refined form is known variously as granulated, cube and powdered or confectioners' sugar. These are so highly refined that their only flavor is sweetness and their only food value is energy value. There is also brown sugar.

Two Kinds of Sugar.

White sugar is made from sugar cane and sugar beets. Chemically it is exactly the same substance and in cooking it behaves exactly the same way. Experts who tried to distinguish between cakes, jellies and candies made of both types of sugar were unable to do so. Brown sugar is partially refined cane sugar. It cannot be made from the sugar beet. The different grades sold run from a light cream color to a very dark, moist brown, varying in richness of flavor according to the depth of color.

The chemical name for sugar is sucrose, a carbohydrate that behaves quite differently from its near relative, starch. For one thing, sucrose dissolves in cold water and still more easily in hot water. A solution of sugar and water thickened by cooking is wonderfully useful in cooking, canning and preserving. Fruit that is cooked in water goes to pieces and makes a sauce. When, on the other hand, fruit is dropped into hot syrup, it takes up some of the dissolved sugar and the flesh stiffens enough to hold together. This happens when fruit is cooked for dessert or when it is cooked for canning. When it is cooked longer in a thicker syrup, a preserve is the result.

Melted Sugar Has Real Flavor.

Sugar flavor can be developed by melting the sugar. This is done by heating the sugar in a saucepan over a slow fire until it turns into a clear liquid which is known as "barley sugar." This is the kind of sugar that one reads of in the older English literature which doubtless went into the making of sugar plums and barley sugar horses and figures. Additional heating of "barley sugar" will cause it to caramelize slightly, producing a new flavor and a different color. When this liquid is cooled it becomes very brittle. Here is the foundation for brittle candies. In baking a cake or other sweet food some caramelization takes place on the surface and makes the cake brown more quickly. Some of the browning of course, is due to the starch in the flour.

When sugar is cooked with fruit or any other acid such as cream of tartar, an "invert sugar" is produced. A chemical action takes place which breaks up the sucrose into two other sugars. "Invert sugar" does not crystalize or "go to sugar." Therefore when you do not want candy to go to sugar you add acid (vinegar, corn syrup or cream of tartar), producing enough invert sugar to do the trick.

Syrups Excellent Flavoring.

Most of us think of syrups in connection with the breakfast pancake or waffle. Sauces and candies are flavored with syrups, gingerbread, spiced cakes, brown breads and puddings are made with molasses or sorgho. The chief difference between the syrups is the amount of acid they contain. Molasses and sorghum syrup contain most and it is for this reason that soda is used for leavening gingerbreads and cakes made with these syrups.

There are so many varieties of table syrups on the market that it is worth while to know just what goes into the making of these products. Cane syrup, sorghum syrup and maple syrup are not made from sugar as such but from the concentrated juice of sugar cane, sorghum, and sap of the sugar maple tree before any sugar is taken out. The law prohibits the use of these names in labels on syrup made from the sugar instead of the juice.

Molasses Source of Iron.

Molasses is the "mother liquor" left from the cane juice after the raw sugar has been removed. In the refinery, another crystalization leaves a liquor which is sold as "refiner's syrup" and is thinner and less sweet than molasses. Corn syrup is manufactured from cornstarch turned, for the most part to sugars (dextrose, glucose or maltose) which are not very sweet. It is usually flavored with refiner's syrup or maple syrup or perhaps cane or maple sugar. Honey which is a natural syrup is composed chiefly of levulose and dextrose the two sugars derived from sucrose. Levulose is quite sweet and this accounts for the sweetness of honey.

Molasses and cane sugar are excellent sources of iron and contain food sources other than sugar. Sugar is purely an energy food. Therefore it is well to remember that concentrated sweetness cloys the appetite and too much of it will keep one from eating the other foods that are needed to make up a balanced diet.

WHITE LAYER CAKE

Three-fourths cupful of butter.
Two cupfuls of sugar.
Two and one-half cupfuls of flour.
Two and one-half teaspoonfuls baking powder.
One-eighth teaspoonful of salt.
One cup of milk.
Five egg whites.
One teaspoonful of vanilla.

Cream the butter thoroughly and add the sugar gradually. Cream together until very light and fluffy. Sift the flour once before measuring. Measure, add the baking powder and salt and sift together. Add this to the creamed mixture alternately with the milk. (Be sure to add some of the flour before adding any of the milk). Fold in the egg whites and the vanilla. Bake in two greased and floured 9-inch layer-cake pans in a 350-degree oven for 25 to 30 minutes. Cool and ice.

Tomato Cauliflower Puree.

Cook one medium head of cauliflower until tender. Press through a sieve. Press the contents of one can of tomatoes through a sieve also, and add with the contents of one can of consomme and one cup of water to the caulflower. Bring to boiling. Saute one tablespoon of minced onion in two tablespoons butter for a few minutes. Add three tablespoons flour, stir until smooth, thin with a little of the hot soup, and then add the remainder of the soup and cook until creamy. Season to taste with salt and pepper. This serves six persons.

TOP SUNDAY DINNER WITH ICE CREAM

New Flavors Add Distinctive Touch to the Usual Sunday Dessert.

Ice cream as a dessert to follow the Sunday dinner has much in its favor. With mechanical refrigeration so universal the making of this dessert is no longer the chore that it used to be and the choice ranges from simple custard foundations with fruit and flavoring additions to elegant concoctions of heavy whipped cream.

Ice cream made in freezing trays must be stirred or beaten to keep it from becoming grainy, that is, those made with a custard foundation. The mousse or whipped cream dessert can be put in the refrigerator and all but forgotten. Here are some distinctive recipes:

Cherry Brandy Ice Cream.

Two-thirds cup condensed milk
One-half cup water
Sixteen large maraschino cherries, finely chopped.
One teaspoon brandy or brandy extract
One cup whipping cream.

Blend condensed milk and water thoroughly. Add maraschino cherries which have been finely chopped, and brandy or brandy extract. Chill. Whip cream to custard-like consistency and fold into chilled mixture. Pour into freezing pan and place in freezing unit. After mixture has frozen to a stiff mush (one to two hours) remove from refrigerator. Scrape mixture from sides and bottom of pan. Beat two minutes. Smooth out and replace in freezing unit for one hour or until frozen for serving. Two to five hours is the total freezing time. Serves six.

Biscuit Tortoni.

One cup sugar
One-half cup water
Six egg yolks
One pint cream whipped
One cup pounded macaroons
Two tablespoons sherry.

Cook sugar and water for five minutes and pour slowly on the beaten egg yolks. Add macaroons, sherry and whipped cream and pack in small paper cups. Set in the freezing tray and freeze for four hours. Just before serving sprinkle with chopped toasted almonds.

Date Ice Cream.

Two-thirds cup condensed milk.
One cup water
Six dates cut fine
One cup whipping cream
One-half teaspoon vanilla.

Cut dates in small pieces and cook in one cup water until tender. Blend condensed milk, one-half cup liquid drained from dates, dates, and vanilla. Chill. Whip cream to custard-like consistency and fold into chilled mixture. Pour into freezing pan. After mixture has frozen to a stiff mush (one to two hours) remove from refrigerator. Scrape mixture from sides and bottom of pan. Beat for two minutes. Smooth out and replace in freezing unit for one hour or more, or until frozen for serving. This recipe serves six.

Economical Steak.

Take the end of a steak, cut it up into small pieces and boil. Add carrots, celery and other vegetables. Place all in a baking pan, covering with bread crumbs and put it in the oven to bake. This dish is simple and economical and just the thing when unexpected company drops in.

Industrial Shares Lead Upturn in Prices—Scattered Utilities Give Ground During Session.

By the Associated Press

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—Renewed demand for industrial equities, both preferred and common, gave the stock market a rallying appearance today. The utilities later turned soft, however, and stemmed the rising tide. The close was a little irregular, but the trading volume stepped up to approximately 750,000 shares.

While the news was not exceptionally stimulating, the boardrooms were much more cheerful. A substantial upturn in some of the mining stocks helped sentiment and investment buying was reported in various parts of the list. There was said to have been a mild revival of inflationary phychology. Grains and cotton pointed upward, bonds were better and foreign exchanges quiet.

Shares up around two to three points included U. S. Smelting, Cerro de Pasco, Howe Sound, American Smelting, McKeesport Tin Plate, Coca-Cola, American Can, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, Allied Chemical and Continental Can. Among gainers of fractions to a point or so were U. S. Steel, National Distillers, Johns-Manville, American Sugar Refining, Great Western Sugar, South Porto Rico Sugar, Dome, McIntyre, General Motors, Chrysler, American Chain, J. C. Penney and Caterpillar Tractor. American Chain preferred jumped about four points. The rails lost early gains and finished about even. United Corporation preferred dropped three, Consolidated Gas preferred was off more than two, and Columbia Gas and Commonwealth & Southern were down about a point each. American Telephone was slightly higher.

Sterling Eases Late.

Wheat ended with gains of ¾ to 1¼ cents a bushel and corn was up ½ to 1. Oats, rye and barley firmed around ¼ to ⅞. At Winnipeg wheat was up ⅜ to ½. Cotton advanced 30 to 45 cents a bale. Bar silver was raised ⅜ of a cent an ounce to 54¾ cents.

Sterling, at mid-afternoon, had eased ¼ of a cent to $4.87½ and French francs were .00¼ of a cent lower at 6.59¼ cents. Guilders, Swiss francs and belgas were about unchanged to down .02 of a cent. Canadian dollars were also unchanged at 99.81¼ cents.

The rails were not particularly disturbed by a decline in car loadings for the week ended Feb. 9, of 5604 cars under the previous week. The decrease was a little more than seasonal but the total of 592,560 was 18,662 over the corresponding week of 1934.

Weekly Bank Summary.

Banking circles saw in the weekly Federal Reserve Bank report the disappearance of one of the last reminders of the currency circulation troubles attendant upon the crisis of 1933.

The New York Reserve Bank reported the complete retirements of its Federal Reserve Bank notes, outstanding in the amount of $24,324,000. This left only $1,192,000 of this kind of money extant for the entire system. These bank notes which were an outgrowth of the banking crisis two years ago at one time reached a peak of $208,000,000.

More clement weather conditions resulted in a revival of retail trade activity, Dun & Bradstreet reported.

GRAIN FUTURES HIGHER AT CLOSE IN CHICAGO

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 15.—Influenced by correct guesses beforehand that Government figures as to livestock on farms would show big reductions, grain prices went higher today.

A leading unofficial specialist said the Government report indicated that in grain-consuming units the livestock total is about 20 per cent less than a year ago and 19 per cent less than the five-year average, 1928-1932. He added that stocks of feed grains on farms are about 40 per cent less than a year ago and 43 per cent less than the five-year average.

Wheat closed firm, ¾@1¼ above yesterday's finish, May 97½@97⅝, corn ½c to 1 cent up, May 86¼@86⅜, oats ½-¾ advanced, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 5 cents.

Fresh advances of hog prices were a stimulus to the corn market, and there were suggestions that considerable domestic winter wheat southwest must depend on one chance out of 10 for frequent and heavy rainfalls in May. Opening ¼c lower to ⅛c higher, May, 85¼c, corn soon rose all around. Wheat started unchanged to ¼c off, May 96½c, and subsequently made a general advance.

A good deal of notice in some quarters was taken of semiofficial assertions that the Canadian wheat carryover Aug. 1 next would be under 100,000,000 bushels and perhaps only 81,000,000. Trade authorities here said, however, this would apparently require average export of 6,000,000 bushels of wheat from Canada throughout the remainder of the season. Winnipeg messages today said overnight export business had been done from boat coasts, with seaboard houses taking all offerings at today's opening in Winnipeg.

Wheat in Chicago advanced moderately on fair commission house buying, but met with enlarged selling at above 97c for May. Some of the selling was regarded as due to speculative operations in the nature of spreads against corn. Demand for corn, though, proved for the time being to be insufficient to hold the corn market higher than 86c for May.

Oats were responsive to upturns of corn and of wheat.

Provisions averaged higher, responsive to action of grains as well as hogs.

Wheat futures purchases yesterday totaled 6,908,000 bushels, corn 7,455,000. Open interest in wheat was 99,585,000 bushels, and in corn 64,814,000.

GENERALLY HIGHER CLOSE TO BONDS

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—Under leadership of U. S. Governments and better grade corporation issues, the bond market closed generally higher today in all sections except utilities, which were inclined to drag.

Gains up to ¼ of a point were well scattered among U. S. Treasury, Liberties and indirect obligations to the Government, with trading heaviest in the short-term Treasuries.

Among corporation issues selling a point higher were Santa Fe 4s at 110⅜, Chesapeake & Ohio 4½s at 118 and Union Pacific 4s at 102⅝. Transfers aggregated 10,663,000, par value.

Although utility loans failed to share in the general upturn to the extent that industrials did, several of them ended a shade higher including American Telephone 5s and North American 5s. Columbia Gas &Electric 5s were a shade lower.

The foreign section was quiet with slight improvement shown by French Government 7½s and Polish 7s.

McDONALD WINS CONFIDENCE VOTE ON ISSUE OF DOLE

no power to take action against persons or companies financing the transaction.

Financial editors particularly have been campaigning for exposure of the pepper gamble names in order to restore confidence.

Chamberlain's speech which wound up the debate last night was interpreted in some quarters as a rejection of the "new deal" program advanced by David Lloyd George.

Chamberlain again set forth the Cabinet's opposition to a public works policy, adding:

"We won't jeopardize the success of our policy for dealing with the unemployed by departing from the financial policy we have hitherto pursued."

He said the increase in our exports has been remarkable. There is no other country in the world, unless it be Japan, that can show a similar increase."

MacDonald Faces Uproar.

MacDonald, striking out in reply to his critics in the Labor and Liberal camps, charged the Labor party with "making political capital out of the unemployed."

He had a difficult time getting a hearing. He was constantly interrupted and heckled by Laborites. Amid such an uproar that the speaker had to interfere at one point to restore order, MacDonald said:

"The Laborites, instead of making party capital out of the unemployed, would have done better to co-operate with the Government in devising practical schemes to end unemployment."

George Lansbury, veteran Labor leader, who moved the motion of non-confidence in the Government, asserted MacDonald's Ministry had "forfeited the confidence of the country" in handling the unemployed assistance bill.

As loud cheering echoed from the labor benches, Lansbury said:

"I do not want to say we are charging the Government with dishonorable conduct in the ordinary sense of the word, but we are charging it with gross incompetence."

A financial crisis would result if the Labor party ever came to power, MacDonald told the House, thus increasing instead of decreasing unemployment.

He attacked sharply those responsible for circulating rumors concerning the likelihood of general elections soon. These rumors, the Prime Minister said, were causing much uncertainty. He declared the reports were spread for financial rather than political purposes.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—Representative Pierce (Dem.), introduced a bill yesterday to check straw polls to be announced prior to the official elections.

The bill would make any matter relating in any way to a poll "where candidates and issues are different" non-mailable matter. Mailing any such material would be punishable by a $1000 fine, one year's imprisonment or both.

EIGHT SEIZED FOR QUESTIONING IN ILLINOIS COAL BOMBINGS

Investigation Started by United States Agents, State Officials and Railroad Detectives.

By the Associated Press.

HARRISBURG, Ill., Feb. 15.—Co-operating directly with the Illinois Attorney-General's office, Department of Justice operatives, within the last 24 hours, have seized for questioning eight men allegedly connected directly with or in possession of information concerning the recent series of bombings in the coal fields. One man has been arrested and warrants have been prepared for the arrest of several others, it was learned today.

Many suspects have been questioned and a lie detector has been used. For months 300 secret agents for railroads, coal companies, State and Federal authorities have been combing the coal fields.

Rewards totaling nearly $50,000 have been offered by four railroads and other victims of bombers and incendiaries.

Prominent in the action are Emory Smith, assistant to the Attorney-General of Illinois; Charles Wilson, research engineer of the Scientific Crime Detection Laboratory of Northwestern University; Hinton W. Clabaugh, former chief of the Department of Justice office in Chicago and former head of the Parole Board of Illinois; T. P. Sullivan, superintendent of the Illinois State Bureau of Criminal Investigation and Identification; L. M. Taylor, acting chief of the State Highway police, and members of the Chicago police "bomb squad."

CUTTEN'S ATTORNEYS ASSAIL GRAIN FUTURES TRADING ACT

CHICAGO, Feb. 15.—Counsel for Arthur W. Cutten, grain trader, barred from further trading by Federal order, denounced the decree of the Grain Futures Commission and asserted the constitutionality of the grains futures act would be tested through the courts, even to the Supreme Court, if necessary.

Effective March 1, the commission barred Cutten, the man who made a $1,500,000 "killing" in corn in 1924 and controlled $7,000,000 worth of wheat in 1931, from American exchanges. It left him the alternative of moving his activities to the Winnipeg exchange or of paying a quarter of a cent commission to brokers on each bushel traded, double the amount he had paid as a member of the board. Cutten, however, remained silent on his business plans.

Should he and his counselors make an appeal, the Circuit Court of Appeals at Chicago would be the scene of the action.

SAYS RIPPING OFF OF FIN CAUSED MACON DISASTER

death of two members of the crew of 83.

Thinks Fins Failed.

In an interview Lieut. Scott E. Peck, chief navigator of the Macon, who will be called to testify later, gave as his opinion that 'if the fins had been constructed strongly enough the accident never would have happened."

Peck also expressed the belief that the edge of the fin next to the body of the ship was first to give way and that jagged pieces of the fin's metal work finally pierced the helium gas cells.

Commander Wiley said he felt no particular severe wind at the time of the disaster.

He reminded the court he had opinions as to the cause of the trouble, but was told the board "would come to that later."

Construction of Fins.

Kenworthy said if the rear structure crumbled first it would probably have torn the gas cell, disintegration of which was the first notice the Macon was doomed. A second cell followed in a few moments.

Touching on the same structural phase brought up unofficially by Commander Peck, Wiley testified both the Macon and its sister ship, the Akron, were different in construction from other dirigibles, in that "the leading edges of the fins extended for some distance forward of the point where they were secured to the ship's frame."

Taps for the two navy men who lost their lives—E. M. Dailey, radio operator, who stood by his post until the last moment, and Florentino Edquiba, Filipino mess boy—will be sounded in memorial services Sunday at Sunnyvale.

All of the 28 Macon men treated for various minor injuries suffered in the disaster have been released from the hospital.

Airships Mishandled, Foolish to Give Them Up, Mitchell Says.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—A defense of the dirigible and excoriation of the Navy Department for mishandling those airships the United States has lost marked testimony by William Mitchell, former assistant chief of the Air Corps, before the House Patents Committee yesterday. He pronounced even the decommissioned Los Angeles—lone survivor of four—"perfectly sound right now." He told the committee that "for us to abandon airships would be just a sign of moral decrepitude."

Mitchell said the Shenandoah, which was destroyed in a storm over Ohio in 1925, came to its end because it was sent on an "advertising" junket, over protests of its commander, "to visit county fairs."

"It was due absolutely to the culpability of the Navy Department," he declared.

"Stupidity, Nothing Else."

The Akron, which plunged into the Atlantic, was lost, he said, because of "stupidity, nothing else."

Mitchell, who is out of the army because of differences with the high command over aviation policies, said he did not know what happened to the Macon night before last, but did say "it is silly to try to keep an airship above the fleet all the time when it should maneuver around storms, if it has to go a thousand miles."

"It would be very foolish to give up our airship development," he said, "particularly in view of conditions in the Far East at this time. If we continue to disarm we will be an easy target for any Asiatic country that comes along. If we had 50 Zeppelins properly manned and equipped we could go straight to any Asiatic country and destroy it."

Testimony on Material Incorrectly Reported, Aluminum Co. Says.

HARTFORD, Conn., Feb. 15.—Denial that Dr. Karl Arnstein, chief engineer of the Goodyear-Zeppelin Corporation at Akron, O., testified in Federal Court Tuesday, a few hours before the Macon disaster, that material used in constructing the dirigible had a yield point and denial is borne out by the transcript of the testimony.

Dr. Arnstein testified in the $3,000,000 suit of the Bausch Machine Tool Co. of Springfield, Mass., against the Aluminum Company of America, which is being retried in Federal Court here before Judge Harland B. Howe and a jury.

Edward F. McClennen, chief counsel for the aluminum company, said Dr. Arnstein, in his testimony, referred to first bids by the aluminum company and that materials actually used in the dirigibles came up to the expectations of Dr. Arnstein and were "fully in line with the yield point offered by other sources," namely, a guaranteed yield point of 44,000 pounds.

Counsel said Dr. Arnstein testified that it was the guarantee and not the actual material that was not at first satisfactory to the Goodyear Company.

HUSBAND'S FAKE SUICIDE CAUSES WIFE TO SHOOT SELF

She Is in Serious Condition; He Fired Pistol, Sprinkled Catsup After Quarrel.

YONKERS, N. Y., Feb. 15.—John Rosendale faked a suicide so realistically that his wife, in remorse, tried to kill herself.

She is in serious condition in a hospital with a bullet wound near her heart.

The Rosendales, married two years, quarreled last night and Mrs. Rosendale left in anger, saying she would never return. While she stood outside their apartment waiting for an elevator, Rosendale, a policeman, got a bottle of catsup, sprinkled it generously over his head, then took his service pistol and fired a shot into the living room sofa.

When his wife entered the apartment, after summoning the apartment house superintendent, she saw Rosendale sprawled on the sofa apparently dead. Hysterical, she seized the pistol and fired a bullet into her side.

Rosendale was arrested.

$20,000 AWARDED WORKMAN AT THIRD TRIAL OF INJURY SUIT

The third trial of the personal injury damage suit of Harold Poe of Clinton, Ky., against the Illinois Central Railroad Co., resulted in a jury verdict in his favor of $20,000 in Circuit Judge McAfee's court yesterday. While employed in a yard of the railroad in East St. Louis, Dec. 18, 1928, Poe stumbled over a pile of gravel, as a result of which, he alleged, his left leg was permanently injured.

At the first trial a verdict for $9150 was returned but the Supreme Court ordered a new trial because of error in instructions. Last November, at the second trial, Poe obtained a verdict for $10,000. Circuit Judge O'Malley, who presided, sustained the railroad's motion for a new trial on the ground the verdict was against the weight of evidence.

In his suit Poe alleged negligence on the part of the company in not providing a reasonably safe place to work. The company contended that the ailment said to have resulted from the accident was due to an old injury suffered prior to his employment.

It was also asserted that Poe had accepted $850 in settlement of the claim. He explained he accepted the sum believing it was back pay.

CHARGED WITH AIDING ESCAPED SUSPECT IN BREMER KIDNAPING

CHICAGO, Feb. 15.—The arrest of Matthew Gleason, Aurora (Ill.) tavern keeper, was disclosed yesterday when Federal agents who seized him last Thursday brought him before United States Commissioner Walker on a charge of harboring Volney Davis, Bremer kidnaping suspect.

Davis escaped Feb. 6 from agents of the Department of Justice who were returning him by plane from Kansas City. The prisoner slugged one of his captors and fled after

TESTIMONY MUSCLE SHOALS HAS CREATED NEW FERTILIZER

TVA Official Tells of "Triple Super Phosphate" in Suit Against Government Program.

By the Associated Press.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Feb. 15.—A new fertilizer, "triple super phosphate," has been developed in the remodeled nitrate plant at Muscle Shoals, J. C. McAmis, head of the agricultural division of the Tennessee Valley Authority, testified in United States District Court yesterday.

McAmis' testimony came after several forestry and soil experts had been on the stand to defend the TVA program against a suit for an injunction to restrain the authority from continuing with its "electrification program" in North Carolina. The suit was brought by 14 preferred shareholders of the Alabama Power Co., after the utility had entered a contract to sell to the Government agency about $2,200,000 in property in Northwest Alabama.

Local Option Bill Approved.

By the Associated Press.

ATLANTA, Feb. 15.—The House temperance committee voted yesterday to report favorably a local option liquor bill which would repeal the State's old bone dry laws and make every county dry until it voted wet. It was the first time in years that a committee had approved a liquor repeal bill in Georgia. The vote was 18 to 8.

Earl J. Lurtz, Officer of Brewery Supply Company, Victim of Accident on Market Street.

Earl J. Lurtz, vice-president and treasurer of the Meyer Supply Co., 22 South First street, was killed when his automobile collided with the concrete base of a traffic beacon in Market street, at Garrison avenue, last night.

Miss Bessie Lambert, 1506 North Forty-fourth street, East St. Louis, said she was driving east in Market street at 10:20 o'clock behind Lurtz's sedan, which swerved and hit the traffic beacon. From the description given by Miss Lambert and her sister, Tessie, riding with her, police believe something went wrong with the steering gear of the Lurtz car. Lurtz, thrown against the windshield, was pronounced dead at City Hospital, and the body was taken to the morgue.

Lurtz, 46 years old, resided at 6537 Walsh street. At the time of the accident he was on his way to Union Station to board a train for Chicago. Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Mildred Lurtz, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry F. Lurtz, and a stepson, Marvin Hegg. The Meyer Supply Co deals in brewery supplies.

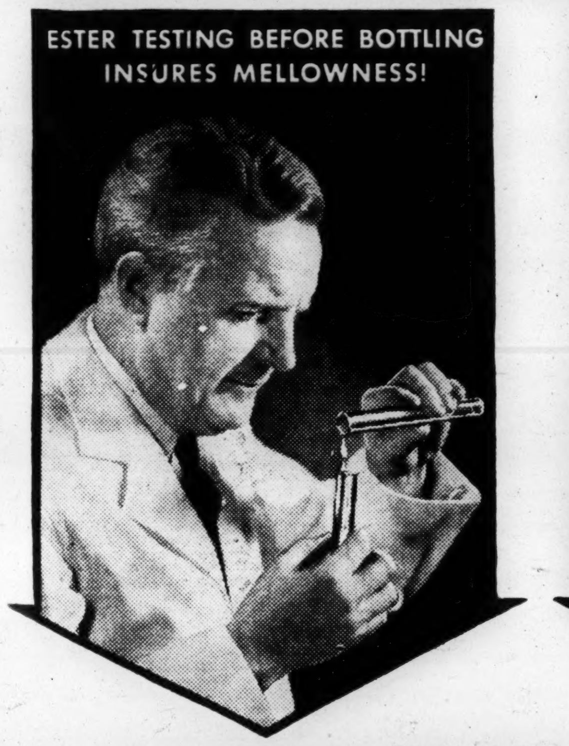
ESTER TESTING BEFORE BOTTLING INSURES MELLOWNESS!



PROVE THIS EXTRA MELLOWNESS FOR YOURSELF...THIS EASY WAY!

The MATCH TEST
The volatile, aromatic esters are quickly driven off by heat. Hold a lighted match under a little "BOTTOMS UP" in a glass. Smell the extra mellow fragrance in this ester-tested whisky.

WANT WHISKY PRE-TESTED FOR Mellowness?
. . TRY "BOTTOMS UP"

If you are like thousands of others, you have been asking for a Kentucky straight whisky, low in price but made and aged in a way that would give it a definite degree of mellowness. Here it is.

The mellowness of "BOTTOMS UP" is now definitely proved by the ester test before any of it is bottled. Esters give whisky its finer qualities of flavor and smoothness. They develop by aging. Each quantity of "BOTTOMS UP" is ester-tested before bottling. Unless it meets the necessary high requirements, it is left in the deep-charred oak casks for further aging.

"BOTTOMS UP" is high in esters, and in other fine whisky qualities, for a number of very definite reasons. First, it is made by a formula that has been famous in Kentucky for more than 65 years. Second, it is made with a high percentage of more expensive small grains, which produce a more delicately flavored, smoother, pleasant-tasting whisky. Third, it is aged in warehouses kept at warm summer temperature and controlled humidity the year round. Fourth, it is now being aged a year, present distillation being December, 1933.

You can now get this finer, seasoned, quality product for your money. The price is surprisingly low. Dealers everywhere are offering "BOTTOMS UP" for its fine qualities which brought it into instant popularity.

CORBETT SIGNED BY RUSSOS FOR MUNY SOCCER ELIMINATIONS

J. SHELDON OF WELLSTON HIGH SCORER FOR LEAGUE GAMES

By Dent McSkimming.

Bob Corbett, a center forward who scored seven goals in one game for the Hellrung-Grimms in the Municipal League, has been drafted by the Russo New Deals to assist them in the elimination series, starting Sunday. In permitting this post-season addition to the Russo roster, the Executive Committee of the muny league departed from its rules because the Russos had lost one of their outstanding stars, Les Hatchard, through an automobile accident. Hatchard, a city fireman, was seriously injured when the pulmotor truck he was driving crashed into a coal truck, two weeks ago. The Russos were operating with a small squad and could put only 12 men in uniform, according to Manager Pat Di Maggio.

Corbett was booked for graduation to the Hellrungs of the professional league.

Sheldon Topped Scorers.

A list of the leading goal scorers of the Municipal Soccer League race just concluded discloses among other interesting things that few of the leaders are members of clubs that won their group championships. These group winners were of necessity excellent goal producers, but the particular business of putting the ball into the net did not fall to the lot of one player. Here are the leaders for the season:

14 goals—J. Sheldon (Wellstons).
13 goals—R. Corbett (Hellrungs).
12 goals—P. Marino (Balsanos).
11 goals—E. McInerny (Wellstons).
10 goals—H. Maher (Voglers); G. McGann (St. John's).
9 goals—G. Rudloff (Alpen Braus); W. Fogarty (Alpen Braus); G. Parker (Russos); J. Green (Balsanos).
8 goals—J. Prindable (Russos); W. Rogles (Germans); E. McDonnell (American Zinc).

A total of 214 players participated in the scoring of goals in the senior division.

Among the junior clubs, Oscar Menendez of the Spanish Caballeros led with 11, followed by W. Murphy of Holy Rosary with 10. Other leaders were: G. Dunn (Unbacked Wonders) with 9, A. Weiss and E. Dueker (18th Ward Democrats) with 8.

Fine Game Is Expected.

The winner of the third game on Sunday's program should go a long way in the elimination series. On the season's record the Balsanos would appear to have just as tight a defense as the Alpen Braus and a better attack. The Alpen Braus scored 37 goals and permitted only 8 by the opposition, and the Balsanos scored 47 times while allowing only 8. It is generally admitted, however, that the Alpen Braus were playing against stronger opposition, which may make a big difference in scores.

As is customary in Municipal League playoff games, there will be six officials in charge of each match; two referees, two side linesmen and two goal linesmen. Ten of the 18 officials are former professional league players.

EAGLES REFUSE OFFER FOR FORWARD BRYDSON

Glen Brydson will be in the Eagles' lineup tomorrow night when the St. Louis National League Hockey Club opposes the Boston Bruins. This was definitely announced by Clare M. Brunton, general manager of the Eagles, who said that the Chicago Black Hawks' bid for the forward has been refused. President Quain recently said that no more stars would be sold.

The St. Louis team will need all its best men when the Bruins call. The Boston sextet is staging a thrilling race with the New York Rangers and the Black Hawks for first place in the American Division.

Granite City Is Favored to Win From Wood River

Wood River's game at Granite City features the Madison-St. Clair High School Basketball Conference's schedule for tonight.

East St. Louis goes to Collinsville and Alton entertains Belleville. A non-league game of importance will send the Edwardsville Tigers against Heath High of Paducah, Ky., while Cleveland High is guest of Madison.

Granite City went to the lead in the standings with a victory over Collinsville last week, and now owns a half-game margin. Wood River extended Collinsville to two overtime periods last week and is expected to give Granite City plenty of opposition.

Collinsville is favored over East St. Louis, with the Belleville-Alton game a battle for last place.

Heath High of Paducah, Ky., won the prep school championship of Kentucky last year and has a point average of 50 a game this year. Edwardsville has met defeat but one time on its home court.

All games are scheduled to begin

The Season's Surprise—Valley Park's Team, County Basket Leaders

Valley Park Five Favored To Win League Title in Second Year of Competition

By Reno Hahn.

With a squad made up of players who have played basketball for only two years and are competing for the first time in a league, Valley Park High School's basket five is leading the county division of St. Louis County Basketball League with a record of seven victories and no defeats. They will play Jennings tonight in a game that may decide the league title.

Basketball started last year at Valley Park and naturally the team didn't win many of the few games played. But this season, with five men carrying most of the burden, the Valley Park team has won nine of 10 games played, its only loss coming from the Jennings five, which defeated Valley Park in the opening round of the Ferguson tournament.

Team Has Strong Defense.

Defense has been mainly responsible for the success of the team, Jennings and Hancock scoring the most points, 22, made against the team. Ferguson, which had averaged 39 points a game in nine previous contests, could make only 19 against their defense.

Five men have done most of the playing. They are Dale Holland, forward, 5 feet 6 inches; Aubrey Slavens, 5 feet 9 inches, the forwards; William de Rousse, 6 feet 2 inches, center; Henry Dennis, 5 feet 9 inches; and Raleigh Singleton, 5 feet 7 inches, the guards. Singleton is the leading scorer, with 85 points in the 10 games.

A. R. Motteshead is the squad's coach. He coached one year at the Hartville (Mo.) High School and there he coached a championship team that was undefeated in 1929 and won the title in the Altitude League.

Worried Over Jennings' Game.

Tonight's game has Coach Motteshead worried, and with reason, for playing Jennings, a strong team every year, on its own court, is a tough job. Jennings owns the only victory scored over Valley Park this season, and is tied with Ferguson for second place in the standings. A defeat for Valley Park would place the three teams in a tie for the lead.

If Valley Park wins, it has only Brentwood, victor in but two of its six games, to defeat.

Valley Park's record this year:

Valley Park	18	Bayless	12
Valley Park	24	Fairview	21
Valley Park	33	Riverview Gardens	10
Valley Park	23	Fairview (non-leag.)	19
Valley Park	22	Eureka	15
Valley Park	36	Brentwood (non-lea.)	21
Valley Park	23	Hancock	22
Valley Park	19	Jennings (Fer. tour.)	22
Valley Park	48	Affton	20
Valley Park	23	Ferguson	19
Valley Park	269	Totals	181

CENTRAL-SLAVIA SOCCER CUP GAME SET BACK A WEEK

The second round national soccer cup match between the Centrals of St. Louis and the Slavia club of Cleveland, scheduled for Sunday, has been postponed one week to Feb. 24, it was announced this afternoon by Phil A. Riley, president of the St. Louis Soccer League. The postponement was obtained through the United States Football Association Cup Committee at the request of the Central club management, which is seeking to avoid a conflict in attractions with the Municipal League elimination series, which opens here Sunday.

An effort is now being made by the professional league and the Centrals to induce the executive committee of the Municipal League to leave Feb. 24 open, to avoid a conflict with the national cup game.

Slavia Club Has Won 18 Straight Soccer Games

CLEVELND, Feb. 15.

THE Slavia Club, which opposes the Centrals at St. Louis in a second round national soccer cup match, are Ohio State champions for the fifth straight year and have won 18 straight games: They have already clinched the American League championship (Cleveland's major soccer league).

Several individual stars, among them Goaltender Ramsey, are rated Ohio's best.

Bears to Open Trip With Game Against Tulsa

TULSA, Ok., Feb. 15.—With their hopes for the Valley basketball title in the balance, the Washington University Bears were here today to open a three-game trip with a game against Tulsa University tonight. In a previous game between the two, the Bears won at St. Louis by a 21—13 score. The Bears play the Oklahoma Aggies at Stillwater tomorrow night and, Monday, meet Washburn at Topeka, Kan. Victories over their three opponents would give the Bears an excellent title chance.

Coach White's Washington five has shown remarkable improvement in recent games as attested by victories over Drake and Creighton, both of whom have won from Tulsa. In the starting lineup to-two kids, Tommy Ozment and Louis Sauer. Mickey Martintoni will be at center while Capt. Moller and Bob Hudgens will take care of the guard posts.

Tulsa has been inconsistent in the season's play. Now and then the combination shows a real punch but, in most games, the team has

Champion Baer Opposes Poreda In Benefit Bout

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 15.

THIS city, scene of a tragic episode in Max Baer's' early fight career, tonight will get its first chance to view Baer in action since he won the world's heavyweight championship.

Baer will battle Stanley Poreda, the New Jersey warrior with the record of 18 knockout victories, in a four-round bout. Poreda, conqueror of Primo Carnera and Tommy Loughran in 1932, is eager for his "crack" at the championship.

Tonight Baer fights in the memory of Frankie Campbell, the unfortunate San Francisco fighter, who died a few hours after fighting Baer here nearly five years ago.

Baer is donating his purse to Campbell's widow and small child. He volunteered his services and insisted upon paying his own training expenses.

NAVY REFUSES TO COME HERE TO PLAY BEARS

By a Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 15.—The Navy has declined to travel to the Middlewest to play a football game with Washington University, on the ground that to do so would interfere with the scholastic work of the players on the Naval Academy team, according to correspondence made public by Congressman John J. Cochran of St. Louis today.

For several weeks Cochran has been in correspondence with the superintendents of West Point and the Naval Academy at Annapolis in an effort to arrange a game in St. Louis with one of the service teams. The Army has definitely replied that a full schedule for 1936 and 1937 prevents consideration of a possible game with the Bears until a later date.

But the high hat stand of the Navy has called forth a protest from Cochran. In a letter to Admiral D. F. Sellers, superintendent of the Academy at Annapolis, he pointed out that the Navy team has played in Chicago and on other occasions has journeyed long distances from the Eastern seaboard.

"We have a park that will comfortably take care of 40,000 people," Cochran said in his letter of yesterday. "I admit that this is not as large as some of the parks that you play in, but Washington University is willing to give to the Naval Academy any per cent of the gate receipts that they desire that will make up the loss of money that might result by not having 40,000 people at the game. The value of the Navy in playing a game in St. Louis cannot be underestimated. It would, I feel, stimulate interest in the Navy."

NYIKOS NAMED FRESHMAN COACH OF BILLIKENS

Spring Practice For Tiger Eleven Begins, March 4

COLUMBIA, Mo., Feb. 15.

DON FAUROT gave Missouri's lean and lethargic football tiger a big kick in the ribs yesterday.

The new head coach, beginning months in advance to restore the university's gridiron prestige, sounded a call for more interest.

"There are not enough football men reporting for gymnasium work," he said.

"These gymnasium practices are most important. Plays which will be used during the football season are now being introduced."

Seventy men have reported for the daily drills.

Coach Faurot announced that the starting date for spring football practice has been changed from March 1 to March 4.

Mike Nyikos, basketball coach at St. Louis University, this year will have added duties which will make him an all-year member of the Billikens' athletic department. Nyikos, last night, was named freshman football coach.

Nyikos, who has done splendid work with basketball teams at St. Louis since 1929, played football at South Bend (Ind.) high school but, during his college days at Notre Dame and Indiana U. specialized in basketball and was awarded all-star honors in the Big Ten one year at Indiana.

MEMBERS OF NEGRO BOXING SCHOOL DOWN TO ACTIVE TRAINING

Boys in the St. Louis Argus free school of boxing which opened two weeks ago under the direction of James G. Brown in the gymnasium of the Pine Street Y. M. C. A. have settled down to a steady grind that will carry them to the eliminations which is scheduled for March 1 at the Coliseum. Ninety-five Negro youths between the ages of 16 and 21 years have submitted to some pretty stiff workouts and hard drills for the fistic contests next month.

The three Kesslers—Benny, Sol and Harry—have taken turn about each school night to assist Brown, physical director at the Pine Street Y. in training the boys in the rudiments of boxing.

Tonight the boys under the direction of Benny Kessler will be instructed in foot-work and how to handle the gloves. Getting the muscles into shape and wind into regular breathing was a harder task than instructing the boys in how to handle punches.

Winners in the Coliseum card March 1, will get an opportunity to meet the outstanding stars in the national boxing contest which will be conducted here in April at the Arena.

CHINESE DAVIS CUP STAR IS ELIMINATED

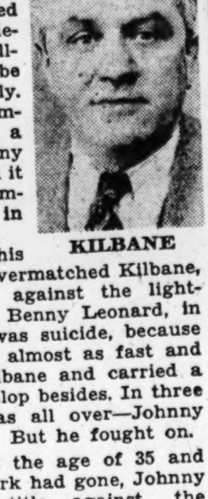
MANILA, P. I., Feb. 15.—Leonardo Gavia, top ranking tennis amateur of the Philippines, yesterday eliminated Guy Cheng, newly named member of China's Davis Cup team, in the second round of the annual "all-comers" tournament here. The score was 6—2, 6—1, 6—4.

The Chinese team of which Cheng is a member will meet the United States team in the first round of the Davis Cup sectional elimination tournaments this year.

WRAY'S COLUMN

One of the Finest.

JOHNNY KILBANE, press notices relate, is selecting and training the team of Cleveland boxers which will oppose a St. Louis team in amateur intercity matches at the Arena next week. If Johnny has been able to impart even a part of the skill which he himself possessed and, on occasion, displayed in this city as a featherweight champion, our Mound City warriors are going to have a busy evening.



KILBANE

Kilbane's name means little to the current crop of boxing followers, but a quarter of a century ago he was internationally famous as the cleverest man in all fistiana. He had proved it in 1910 by defeating that will-o'-the-wisp Abe Attell decisively. It took a champion to lay a glove with any weight behind it on the phantom-like Abe, in those days.

Late in his career they overmatched Kilbane, sending him against the lightweight king, Benny Leonard, in 1917. That was suicide, because Leonard was almost as fast and clever as Kilbane and carried a knockout wallop besides. In three rounds it was all over—Johnny was kayoed. But he fought on.

In 1923, at the age of 35 and when his spark had gone, Johnny risked his title against the Frenchman, Eugene Criqui, and was stopped in the sixth round. Criqui couldn't have laid a glove on Johnny in his prime, but he gained the world's featherweight crown by defeating a burned-out relic.

Kilbane Could Hit.

FANS of his day were inclined to consider Kilbane a "powder-puff puncher." But that was erroneous. Against hard-hitting, clever foes, Kilbane usually fought cautiously.

But it is on record that he flattened in three rounds the most dangerous hitter of his day and class. "Knockout" George Chaney, who had a record of 100 KO's. Patsy Kline, Willie Jackson, George Kirkwood, Kayo Mars, Eddie Moy and many other noted boxers were knocked out by Johnny.

It was in St. Louis that Kilbane showed his knockout punch on one occasion. That was against Oliver Kirk, Olympic champion of 1904 and St. Louis' finest hope at that time.

Kirk, a graduate amateur, was matched with Kilbane in 1913 for a bout at the Future City Athletic Club. Kilbane at the time was champion and entitled to the courtesies usually conceded to top-ranking fighters. One of these was the privilege of entering the ring last and getting the benefit of the crowd's applause.

But Kirk decided it would help him if he worried Kilbane. So he allowed Johnny to enter the ring first and then kept him waiting. Kilbane fidgeted and fumed internally—perhaps he had to catch a train. His temper mounted and perhaps his original plan to go easy with the local pride went astray.

At any rate, it was a grimfaced fighter that Kirk faced when the referee finally waved them together for the fight. Or, rather, for the finish. Kilbane overwhelmed Kirk and took him in the second round.

Dedicated to Ban Johnson.

PROFESSIONAL baseball officials like to remind the world that baseball is the national sport. But they have been singularly remiss in leaving any permanent memorials to men who pioneered the game through early difficulties—men whose genius made it possible for the enormous development that followed.

It is a fact that as far as Organized Baseball is concerned, there is no permanent public memorial to Ban Johnson, through whose aggressiveness and genius baseball was rescued from the doldrums and parlayed into the big money.

This, perhaps, is due to the fact that Johnson went down fighting for a regime which modern baseball men felt was obsolete, and he became so embittered that he alienated even friends. Still, it does seem that the league at least owes him a "Day" or some other courtesy that would perpetuate its founder's name.

Yesterday, in Hot Springs, a gesture was made toward establishing a permanent though unofficial memorial to Johnson. George Sisler, the first man officially to be awarded the honor of the "most valuable player" by Johnson's league—that was in 1922—dedicated a baseball field at Hot Springs to the memory of "Uncle Ban." The field is the permanent grounds of the Ray Doan baseball school, in which Sisler, Hornsby, the Dean boys and other noted players are "professors."

The choice of Sisler was appropriate because it was Johnson who named Sisler as first baseman of his all-time, all-American League team; and he also had Sisler used as a model for his baseball statue, when he presented a silver trophy to Mexico.

The new "Ban Johnson Field" was the gift of the City of Hot Springs to the cause of baseball.

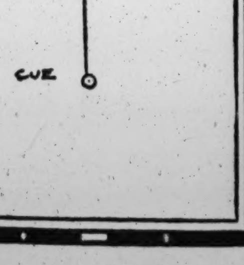
Congress Disapproved.

JOHNSON, during his lifetime, once tried to get national recognition of baseball. He wanted the Government to permit the erection of a monument in a Washington park, dedicated to baseball. Senator George Wharton Pepper interested himself in the project which, however, failed.

* * *

It seems strange that no city in the American circuit has seen fit to honor the man who devised the first national agreement, by naming a field or a stadium after him. In the American League today we have only locally significant names like Fenway Park, Yankee Stadium, Shibe Park, Griffith Stadium, Sportsman's Park etc. Why not "Ban Johnson Stadium," for one of them?

HELPFUL TIPS ABOUT BILLIARDS by C. A. STORER



No. 4—Follow Shot.

Before attempting to make shots one should repeatedly review and practice the four preceding lessons—they are the most important of all because they constitute the development of the necessary "follow through" stroke.

"Follow" means that the cue ball goes forward or follows after contact with the object ball. The follow action is attained by striking the cue ball about center. (See Lesson No. 4.)

Diagram No. 7 explains the different courses the cue ball will take according to the different speed it is traveling when it contacts the object ball. To practice the "follow" place the balls approximately as shown in Diagram No. 7. The heavy black line between the two object balls indicates the course the cue ball will take when shooting with slow or medium speed. The center dotted line indicates the course of the cue ball when you increase the speed of your stroke. The outside dotted line indicates the course of a ball when using extreme speed in your stroke. From this you will understand the speed of your stroke has much to do with accuracy.

To become acquainted with the different actions according to tice this first fundamental of the follow shot. Deliver the stroke with your cue as near level with the line of aim as possible, but be sure to let your cue follow

McKinley High School basketball Goldbugs ended their season with a 39 to 27 decision over Soldan yesterday afternoon in the Emmaus gymnasium. That gave McKinley a final record of five victories and one defeat, while Beaumont so far has won all four of its league engagements.

Soldan Stars Out.

That Soldan suffered its second defeat in five stars, was due partly to the absence of John O'Connell, who is hobbling around on crutches and of Sanford Werner, who has been out of school with a throat infection. Both these boys are regular guards and guarding was something that the West Enders were very much in need of against McKinley.

The Goldbugs enjoy playing on their own floor—three of their five decisions were gained there—and their familiarity with its confines simplifies their scoring problem. During the time that Soldan was endeavoring to orient itself in the short Emmaus gymnasium, McKinley had jumped into a commanding lead.

At the end of the first quarter, the Goldbugs were out in front, 13 to 4, and at the close of the half, 27 to 10. Coach Harry White was of the opinion that his second team could perform as well against McKinley, so at the beginning of the third period the second stringers started.

Soldan's reserves out-manuevered the Goldbugs and out-scored them, 6 to 5, in the third quarter. The regulars returned to the battle in the final eight minutes and also out-scored McKinley, 11 to 7, but the handicap gained by the Goldbugs in the first half was too much for Soldan to overcome.

Walter Songer, McKinley right guard, added eight points to put his season's total at 62 for six games. This is 11 more than Ray de Greeff, in second place, owns. Ray January of Soldan retained third place by also getting eight points to put his total at 49.

Russell High Scorer.

Charles "Mickey" Russell was the high pointer of the afternoon getting 12 of McKinley points. Songer was next and then came Bill Roberts with seven. Gene Globig, Singler and Carl Willman each counted four points. Carl Steimnitz was second to January on the Soldan side with six points.

Inter-City Bouts Feature Olympic Club's Program

Jack Nichols, light-heavyweight ace of the Business Men's A. C., and former Western A. A. U. champion of his division, and Ralph Puhse, rugged Madison A. C. bantamweight, have been paired with Cleveland scrappers in two of the inter-city events heading the Olympic Athletic Club's amateur boxing tourney at the Arena next Wednesday night. Nichols will be pitted against Mike Minnich of the Cleveland team, while Puhse is slated to oppose Frankie Kara. Matchmaker Willie Miller announced both bouts today.

Nichols' sparkling triumph over Paul Luptak of Chicago, and Sailor Jack Nelson of Peoria, on the last two Arena programs, earned him Miller's selection for the match with Minnich, a fighter recommended by Johnny Kilbane, former featherweight champion of the world, as one of the best boxers in the Cleveland district.

Puhse numbers Gene Sutcliffe, Western A. A. U. bantam king; Louis Wallach, last year's Community Center champion, and Jesse Robinson Jr., winner last year of the Century of Progress flyweight crown, among the crack amateur boxers he defeated this season.

Kara won the Cleveland flyweight title a year ago and fought his way to the semifinals of the annual Golden Gloves tourney in the Ohio metropolis last month. Kara is 18 years old.

Other Cleveland boxers on the coming Arena card include Al Anderla, Ohio American Legian champion and Golden Gloves finalist, and Frank Bojack, winner of lightweight title honors in both the Chicago and Cleveland tourneys last year. Anderla will trade punches with Irwin Streibel of the South Broadway A. C., Western A. A. U. heavyweight champion, and Bojack engages Johnny Martin of Springfield, Ill.

McKinley High School basketball Goldbugs ended their season with a 39 to 27 decision over Soldan yesterday afternoon in the Emmaus gymnasium. That gave McKinley a final record of five victories and one defeat, while Beaumont so far has won all four of its league engagements.

Soldan Stars Out.

That Soldan suffered its second defeat in five stars, was due partly to the absence of John O'Connell, who is hobbling around on crutches and of Sanford Werner, who has been out of school with a throat infection. Both these boys are regular guards and guarding was something that the West Enders were very much in need of against McKinley.

The Goldbugs enjoy playing on their own floor—three of their five decisions were gained there—and their familiarity with its confines simplifies their scoring problem. During the time that Soldan was endeavoring to orient itself in the short Emmaus gymnasium, McKinley had jumped into a commanding lead.

At the end of the first quarter, the Goldbugs were out in front, 13 to 4, and at the close of the half, 27 to 10. Coach Harry White was of the opinion that his second team could perform as well against McKinley, so at the beginning of the third period the second stringers started.

Soldan's reserves out-manuevered the Goldbugs and out-scored them, 6 to 5, in the third quarter. The regulars returned to the battle in the final eight minutes and also out-scored McKinley, 11 to 7, but the handicap gained by the Goldbugs in the first half was too much for Soldan to overcome.

Walter Songer, McKinley right guard, added eight points to put his season's total at 62 for six games. This is 11 more than Ray de Greeff, in second place, owns. Ray January of Soldan retained third place by also getting eight points to put his total at 49.

Russell High Scorer.

Charles "Mickey" Russell was the high pointer of the afternoon getting 12 of McKinley points. Songer was next and then came Bill Roberts with seven. Gene Globig, Singler and Carl Willman each counted four points. Carl Steimnitz was second to January on the Soldan side with six points.

CAVALCADE'S FOOT SO SORE HE IS UNABLE TO WEAR SHOE

CATAWBA ENTRY IS FAVORED TO WIN IN $20,000 DERBY AT ANITA

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 15.—What price Cavalcade starting in the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap? Just about 10 to 1 to 500 to 1 that he won't, according to the various degrees of certainty on the part of practically every competent trainer on the grounds here.

It may be good publicity to let on as if the mighty Cavalcade has a good chance to go in the $100,000 Santa Anita, and maybe he has. But, if he does, then every reliable horseman at the track has guessed wrong.

Cavalcade's right front foot is so sore that he can't endure a shoe on it.

Mrs. Isabel Dodge Sloane, Cavalcade's owner, arrives from the East tomorrow morning, but decision to withdraw the horse may hang fire until the day before the race. The nomination fees have been paid for Cavalcade and his owner has a right to wait until 10:30 a. m., next Friday, to decide whether he is fit enough to try for the hundred grand.

Equipoise's trainer, Tom Healey, has decided to give old Ekky another race before the big event. If he can find a heat with the conditions right, over a short route, about Teusday, he will enter the Whitney champion, believing that one more race will put the horse right on edge.

Catawba Entry Will Be Favored for First Derby.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 15.—Silvio Coucoi, star jockey of the Greentree Stables, was due here today to ride Preadventure, Mrs. Payne Whitney's three-year-old, in the $20,000 Derby tomorrow.

Sound Advice and Polar Flight, Catawba Stable entry, were expected to be the favorites for the event, the result of which was expected to have much affect on the Kentucky Derby future book since the top thoroughbreds here have been nominated for the annual classic in May.

Both Sound Advice and Polar Flight have shown to good form here, but at least half a dozen others have better than an outside chance. Along with Preadventure will be Gillie as the Greentree entry. C. V. Whitney has Rough Diamond. Pitter Pat will carry the colors of the Belair Stud. Bluebeard, owned by W. R. Coe, also is liked.

Most of the Derby starters worked yesterday. Gillie breezed six furlongs in 1:14 3-5. Preadventure went the mile in 1:42, while Bluebeard took the same distance in 1:43 and Rough Diamond was clocked in 1:48.

Roman Soldier to Carry Top Weight in Race.

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 15.—Roman Soldier, which W. Sachsenmaier bought for $7500 from Max Hirsch early in the season, draws top weight of 126 pounds for the Bahama Handicap, one of Hialeah Park's major stakes for three year olds, tomorrow.

Mrs. Charles S. Bromley's Brannon, winner of two races at Hialeah, will pack 122 pounds, as will F. Spatowa's Wise Prince. The Maemere Farm's Mantagna is allotted 119 pounds and the B. B. Stable's Good Harvest 117.

An emergency clause, making the bill a law immediately upon signature by the Governor, was attached by the Senate.

Lewis Surprises by Defeating Browning; Now for Return Bout

By Damon Kerby

About once every season or two an upset takes place in wrestling. The upset doesn't hurt anybody and it gives the customers something to talk about for a while. When critics of wrestling point to the many, many build-ups that take place with monotonous regularity, the faithful follower can say:

"But what about that match between Goofus and Palookas? You yourself said Goofus was due to win and he didn't. It looks all right to me."

Getting around to the point, the season's upset, if you care to call it that, took place at the Arena last night when the ancient Strangler Lewis slugged and headlocked his way to victory over Jim Browning of Verona, Mo., before 5396 paid customers. Lewis, eliminated by Champion Jimmy Londos here only two weeks ago, was picked as the probable loser.

It had been announced that Browning, if victor, would be sent against Londos here, early next month. Now it is considered a possibility that Browning and Lewis will be signed for a return bout with the winner (and it may be Browning) getting a shot at Londos on a later card.

Rest, Not Wrestling Holds?

Despite the outcome of the bout, which was obviously a surprse to a majority of the customers, the affair in many spots was drab and dreary. Some of the cynical ringsiders charged the performers with using an unusual number of "rest holds," but those weren't "rest holds." They were punishing holds. Of course they were! You wouldn't let yourself believe for a minute that athletes of Lewis' and Browning's standing would put it on for the customers, would you?

Browning gave the spectators two or three glimpses of his airplane scissors, but the job of picking up Lewis and whirling him with the legs appeared just a little too tough for Big Jim. And why wouldn't it be, granting that Lewis weighed only the announced 248 pounds? If Lewis weren't the man of his obvious high standing in the pure and wholesome wrestling world one would almost be inclined to believe that he co-operated the two or three times that the flying scissors hold was applied.

In the final flare-up, without which no headline wrestling event is official, Browning punched Lewis several times, Lewis returned the blows and then slapped on headlocks. He bounced to his feet, a winner in 46 minutes 15 seconds.

The earlier events left much to be desired and the saddest of all was the 30-minute draw between Ray Steele and Hans Kampfer. They apparently could not enter into the spirit of the occasion. Spectators booed throughout the affair. But they were both in their trying. Of course they were!

A bright spot in an otherwise dull evening, at least to those around ringside, was furnished by the addition of a "knockdown" timekeeper, whose duty it was to toll off the seconds when a wrestler was under the ropes or out of the ring. During the early bouts this worthy counted by hitting the ring post with a hammer, much to the delight of those around him. In the final bout he put away the hammer and counted with his arm. It was said at ring side that the Missouri Athletic Commission was responsible for this pleasing local innovation, which gave an extra touch of tone and class to the proceedings.

A performer in the first event, Jack Warner, was counted out in his bout with Joe Herman after 7:35. He still was part way out of the ring when the timekeeper reached "20."

Otto Kuss, a clean cut appearing young fellow who says he's from Pine City, Minn., won over Tommy Marvin with tackles and a body block after 14:19, and Bronko Nagurski won over Joe Cox with tackles and a body block in 14:39.

Receipts were $4151.40. Federal tax was $386.73, State tax was $215.70, aud city tax was $186.24.

Lovelock and Beccali Are Sought for Mile Race With Cunningham on March 16

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—A plan to bring at least three of the world's greatest mile runners together for a race in Madison Square Garden the night of March 16 was announced yesterday by the Knights of Columbus Games Committee.

The committee has asked the Amateur Athletic Union to invite Jack Lovelock of Oxford, and Luigi Beccali, Italy's 1500 meter Olympic champion, over for a race against Glenn Cunningham, America's ace of aces, as a climax to the annual K. of C. meet. If Bill Bonthron and Gene Venzke would like to join they probably will be given the opportunity.

Cunningham holds the present outdoor record of 4:06.7 for the mile and the indoor standard of 4:08.4. Lovelock held the former [illegible]

ond from it last summer at Milwaukee.

Cunningham has won the Columbian mile, feature of the annual K. of C. indoor games two years, doing 4:12 in 1933 for the best mark of the season and his record 4:08.4 last March.

Venzke set the then world mark of 4:10 in winning it in 1932 so the last three times have seen the race the climax eight furlongs of the indoor campaign.

As neither Lovelock nor Beccali is familiar with indoor running it is considered doubtful if they will

Crowd of 15,689 Sees Rangers Win From Toronto, 3-0

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.

EVERY goal-tender may have his "on" day, but it's an unusual coincidence when three of these well-padded heroes of ice hockey pick the same night for their most sensational exploits.

That happened last night. The New York Rangers, Chicago Blackhawks and Montreal Canadiens rolled on to new national hockey league triumphs each by a shutout. Young Wilf Cude of the Canadiens; Dave Kerr of the Rangers and Lorne Chabot of the Blackhawks were the goalies who repelled all rival thrusts.

The Rangers, whose spectacular comeback has amazed the hockey world, whipped the Toronto Maple Leafs, 3—0, to remain in a tie with Chicago for first place in the American section. Chicago, meanwhile, trounced Detroit by the same score while the Canadiens, third in the International section, turned back their Montreal rivals, the Maroons, 2—0.

The largest crowd of the season, 15,689 customers, jammed the garden to see the Rangers triumph.

SEVEN BIRD DOGS STAND OUT IN U. S. FIELD TRIALS

MEXICO, Mo., Feb. 15.—As finals for the National Quail Championships for bird dogs, conducted by the Association Amateur Field Trial Clubs of America, neared a conclusion today, a poll of observers in the mounted galleries showed several decided favorites, based on performances to date over the 16,000-acre game sanctuary in Central Missouri, near here, where the events are being held.

After today's braces, only two dogs of a field of 26 entries, remain to be shown before the judges confer the 1935 title of quail champion tomorrow, or call for an added runoff series of heats devoted to speed, range, consistency and endurance, to guide them to a final decision.

Favorites with staunch backing among the Western dogs are Black Hawk Kid, owned and shown by C. E. Duffield of Tyler, Tex., president-elect of the National Field Trials Association; Proctor's Star, owned by Cecil S. Proctor of Oklahoma City, as Proctor bids for a third leg and permanent possession of the national association's circulating cup, and Sand Hill Ted, a field trial winner on 26 occasions, who is owned and shown by Harry W. Hart, Wichita, Kan.

Eastern dogs with loyal supporters are General Jackson Jr., setter, owned by Dr. F. J. Boyd of Cincinnati; Four Winds Arrow, 1934 national pheasant champion, owned by Dr. H. E. Longsdorf of Mount Holly, N. J., whose performance was not quite what was expected; Shore's Frosty Mist, owned by Dr. N. J. Ford of Winston-Salem, N. C., and Radio Matilda, owned and shown by Raymond Hoagland, New York sportsman, who is president of the national field trials body.

Among the younger dogs, observers were pleased with Fort Sill Ranger, Oklahoma two-year-old, owned by Maj. J. J. Waters of Fort Leavenworth, Kan., and handled by Harry McNamara, Sedalia, Mo., amateur. The field was reduced from 27 to 26 dogs today by the scratching of Nepken's Carolina Bill, withdrawn by Jay F. Carlisle, New York City.

Football Rules Committee Begins Annual Tinkering

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—The annual overhauling of the football rules begins today at the Seaview Country Club in Absecon, N. J.

For the next three days, the National Football Rules Committee will study the playing code and changes suggested in it. On Monday the committee through its veteran secretary, W. S. Langford, will make public what changes, if any, have been decided on.

Three Possible Changes.

The discussions will center largely on three changes suggested by the associations of officials and coaches whose representatives sit with the committee in an advisory capacity.

The officials have proposed that the goal posts be returned to the goal line and that forward passing be permitted at any point behind the line of scrimmage instead of a minimum of five yards. The coaches want a clearer explanation of when a ball carrier's forward progress appeared as though a majority of the committee was in favor of letting the rules stand as they are on the ground that they have succeeded in opening up the game without sacrificing the safety of the players.

Members of the Rules Committee in addition to Langford and Chairman Walter R. Okeson are Amos Alonzo Stagg of College of Pacific; W. J. Bingham, Harvard; Dana X. Bible, Nebraska; H. J. Stegeman, Georgia; Fielding H. Yost, Michigan; Ray Morrison, Vanderbilt; W. O. Hunter, Southern California; W. G. Crowell, Philadelphia, and L. Mahoney, Rocky Mountain Conference.

WOMEN'S TITLE TRACK MEET SET FOR MARCH 22

Missouri Valley Indoor Meet Will Be Held March 2

By the Associated Press.

DES MOINES, Ia., Feb. 15.

THE Missouri Valley Conference indoor track and field meet will be held at Drake University March 2, it was announced yesterday by Franklin (Pitch) Johnson, Drake track coach.

Preliminaries will be held Saturday morning and all finals will be staged at night. Entries are expected from all the seven conference schools.

The women's national indoor track and field meet of the National Amateur Athletic Union will be held at the Arena, Friday night, March 22, it was announced yesterday by Charles J. Gevecker, president of the Ozark division of the A. A. U., and Dr. Jesse Robinson, president of the Olympic A. C., which is sponsoring the meet.

A dirt track will be used instead of the usual boards, this being made possible by the fact that the national meet will follow a program of indoor automobile racing.

The track has been tried by runners following the last two auto shows, and has been found to be firm and as fast as the board track. The track is 10 laps to the mile and 25 feet in width, which is wide enough to allow eight runners to start at one time.

In addition to the women's events, it is planned to have several exhibition events. Invitations have been extended to Glenn Cunningham, former Kansas University miler, who holds the world's record for the mile run; Charles Hornbostel, middle distance runner, and Ivan Fuqua, sprinter, both former runners at Indiana University.

A special university relay race and possibly a high school relay race are also being planned.

30-DAY SUSPENSION BY NATIONAL A. A. U. FOR STELLA WALSH

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 15.—Stella Walsh, Polish-American running champion, today was ordered suspended for 30 days, effective immediately, by Daniel J. Ferriss, chairman of the National A. A. U. Registration Committee.

She was charged with professionalism by the Niagara Association of the Amateur Union, which contended she violated two A. A. U. rules by playing on a basketball team at Buffalo against an unsanctioned team and participating on the same program with two professional quintets.

McBride Skaters Triumph.

McBride High School's skating squad won a meet from the Downtown Y. M. C. A. skaters yesterday at the Winter Garden. McBride swept the three places in the half-mile race, with Kalbfleish first, Schaff, second, and McCarthy third, and the first two places in the 440-yard dash, with Schaff first and Fritche second. Walter of Downtown was third. Point totals were: McBride 110, Downtown 10.

When it comes to throwing a monkey wrench into a smoothly running baseball banquet the gents who pay the freight will tell you that Will Rogers is second only to Heywood Broun.

Of course Will is in the big money and his sense of values is predicated on a Hollywood basis where 25,000 smackers look like pocket money.

The N. Y. U. basketball team under the coaching of Howard Cann has been cleaning up everything in sight. We take it their slogan reads "In the bright lexicon of Cann there's no such word as can't."

Babe Ruth says he'll take Manila for golf and comfort. They do say Manila is a great place when you get on to the ropes.

"Niblack Thorne Wins Glenview Trap Shoot."

What did he use, a mashie Niblack?

While in Paris Babe Ruth posed for Bruce Douglas, the American sculptor. As a work of art it may be okay but as a portrait the picture of it indicates that it is a complete bust.

The only way to get a true picture of Babe on a bust is to show him in the act of busting one.

As a singer they say Jack Doyle, the Irish tenor, is a knockout. Unfortunately the demon matchmakers don't pay off on Mother Machree.

Bill DeLancey, who became a first-string catcher overnight, has been added to the list of satisfied Cardinals. The way Sam Breadon is lining up his stars maybe it should be Signin' Sam instead of singin'.

Joe Medwick, the big delicatessen and free lunch man of New Jersey, is still awaiting a boost in his stipend. Confucius has said the man cannot live on fruit alone.

YOUNGSTER WON $2900 IN PLAY; WHITE, ST. LOUIS COLLECTED $444

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 15.—Youth walked off with the greater share of California's golfing gold this season.

Figures compiled here yesterday showed that Harold McSpaden, 26-year-old Kansas City, Kan., professional, gleaned $2904.05 to head the parade as the golfers moved East after $33,000 worth of tournaments in California and Lower California.

Second to the Midwesterner, who won three championships, was Henry Picard, 27-year-old Hershey, Pa., professional and Agua Caliente Open champion. The Pennsylvanian won only one title, but collected cash in all but one of the other events and tied for second in the Oakmont Open, Glendale, a day after taking the Lower California event. His total was $2324.16.

Following closely in third, was Vic Ghezzi, Deal, N. J., youth, who captured the classic Los Angeles Open. His earnings for slightly more than two months of play were $2195.03. John Revolta, the fourth of the youngster quartet to set the pace, received $2154.33, although the Milwaukee player failed to take a title.

Horton Smith, Oak Park, Ill., was fifth with $2068.73, and MacDonald Smith, sixth, with $1960.

Four others won better than $1000—Ky Laffoon, of Chicago, $1809.66; Henry Cooper, Chicago, $1563.90; Willie Goggin, San Francisco, $1267.50, and Jimmy Hines, Los Angeles, $1117.66.

It was a tough season on most of the veterans. Olin Dutra, National Open champion, earned only $215.46, finishing thirty-first.

Paul Runyan, White Plains, N. Y., National P. G. A. champion, failed to compete in three of the events, but collected the small sum of $211.66 in the others for thirty-third postion. Gene Sarazen, New York, who set the pace in 1930 by winning the Agua Caliente championship and $10,000 first prize, gathered $670 this season.

Walter Hagen, Detroit, winner of more than 50 championships in his long career, earned $849.58 to finish twelfth. Craig Wood, Deal, N. J., leading money winner of 1933 when he walked off with most of the major events and $3982.39, was thirtieth this season, getting $227.50.

Others of the past leaders also fared poorly. George von Elm, who amassed $7447 in 1931, received only $55. Fred Morrison, leading cash collector in 1932, when he earned $5746.66, bagged $425.

McBRIDE WINS FROM WESTERN FIVE, 18-17

McBride High School's basketball team won a close preparatory league contest from Western Military Academy, 18-17 last night at Alton. The lead changed often, with both teams concentrating on defense, resulting in a low score game.

Renaissance and Celtics to Continue Series at Coliseum

Teamwork, built in many years of playing together, and individual brilliancy will be on exhibition tonight as the original New York Celtics and the Renaissance battle at the Coliseum in the second of their series to determine the world's professional cage supremacy. The game is scheduled to get under way at 9 o'clock.

Teamwork, such as has been seldom attained in sport, is exemplified by the Celtics. For years this combination of players has worked together and, playing in almost 2000 games together during that time, has developed an almost uncanny passing and smooth-flowing game.

Dutch Dehnert, who devised the pivot play and has worked it to its highest capabilities; Captaip and Manager Joe Lapchick and Pete Barry, who rely on Dehnert's passing to work in for dead-eye shots, and Davey Banks, tiny speed merchant of the back court, have been playing together since the team was organized 20 years ago.

Besides their other capabilities they are also regarded as the "iron men" of basketball. Only one substitute is carried by the team and he, Pat Herlihy, and Nat Hickey change off at the standing guard position.

The Rens, on the other hand, boast some of the greatest individual stars the game has ever known. Captain "Fat" Jenkins is regarded as the speediest dribbler in the game. "Pappy" Ricks is said to be the most accurate shooter ever to don gym shoes, having averaged, in 140 games last year, over 14 points per game. "Tarzan" Cooper, giant center, is a strong man in addition to being an accurate shot and amazing ball handler.

Last Friday, in Chicago, the Celtics downed the Rens, 28-20, in the first of the title series so both teams will be "out for blood" tonight. A year ago, 8000 saw the Celtics nip the Negro team, 38-35, at the Coliseum here.

ST. FRANCIS DE SALES WINS SODALITY TITLE

The St. Francis de Sales basketball team won the Thursday night division title of the South Side Sodality League last night by defeating the Holy Trinity five, 22—19. The winner will play St. Joseph's Croatians, Wednesday night at the St. Joseph's hall in the first of a three-game series to decide the league champion.

St. Joseph is the champion team of the Wednesday night division.

In the other game last night, the St. Agatha five won from the SS. Peter and Paul squad, 28-21.

32 WOMEN WILL PLAY IN INDOOR TENNIS TOURNEY

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—With the entry of Mme. Sylvia Jung Henrotin, second ranking woman tennis player of France, furnishing the international angle, 32 players yesterday were drawn for the United States women's indoor tennis championships opening Monday at the Seventh Regiment Armory.

Mme. Henrotin, surpassed only by Mme. Rene Mathieu in her own country, was given top ranking in the seeding together with Dorothy Andrus of Stamford, the United States' No. 4 player, who was placed at the head of the four seeded American stars.

Outranked by Miss Andrus nationally, Norma Taubele of New York, the defending champion, was seeded second above Jane Sharp of Pasadena, the country's sixth ranking player, and Helen Pederson, also of Stamford. Miss Taubele, who also was on the winning doubles and mixed doubles teams last year, holds seventeenth place nationally, while Miss Pederson is unranked.

The French star will have two of the seeded players to contend with. She was placed at the bottom of the lower half of the draw, which also includes the defending champion and Miss Pederson. Miss Andrus heads the upper half, in which Miss Sharp also was seeded.

Washington U. Swimmers Meet Illinois Team

Opening their varsity swimming season, Coach Artie Eilers' Washington University team tonight opposes the strong squad from Illinois College. Nine events are on the program which will start at 8 p. m. in Wilson Pool.

Coach Eilers' squad is regarded as a strong contender for the Missouri Valley Conference championship. Two of his outstanding performers are Fred Varney in the free style events and Capt. Paul Payne who swims the 440.

Illinois College's team is built about Capt. Dewey Morberg, who takes part in the sprints and fancy diving.

NORMANDY FIVE AGAIN LOSES CONTEST IN LAST PERIOD; CLAYTON WINS

That habit of Normandy High School's basketball team of losing games in the final period continued last night, when the Vikings played Clayton on even terms throughout most of the game, and then let its offense bog down in the final minutes to let Clayton win, 27-21, and go into a second-place tie with Webster Groves in the Suburban League standings.

It was the ninth defeat in 10 games for Normandy and most of them came after the Vikings had led or been close to the lead throughout the game. Last night, Clayton jumped into a 7-0 lead, but the Vikings replied with 11 points before Clayton could score again. Clayton held a 12-11 lead at the half.

The score changed repeatedly during the third period, with Normandy ahead, 19-18, after three quarters. But one field goal was all the Vikings could score in the last session, while Clayton made nine points, three on free throws.

MARQUETTE U. BOXER WILL OPPOSE EVANS IN COLISEUM BOUT

A St. Louis boy who is a member of the Marquette University boxing squad, Johnny Fisher, is returning to display his wares before a home town crowd. Fisher has agreed to meet Floyd Evans, East St. Louis featherweight, in one of the five inter-city matches, featuring Benny Kessler's amateur boxing show next Thursday night at the Coliseum.

Fisher recently won over Dave Stanfield of St. Louis. A wrist injury prevented Stanfield from meeting Fisher in a return bout.

In two recent bouts, Evans handed those Madison (Ill.) sockers—Tommy Starr and Ralph Puhse—lacings.

In three other inter-city matches already closed, Paul Spica, North Side Italian, meets Clem Kopydolowski, Wisconsin A. A. U. featherweight champion; Bruce Fero, 118-pounder, who is another Badger State monach, takes on Louis Wallach and Harold Smercina, St. Louis U. dental student, battles Henry Dutkiewicz, Milwaukee Golden Gloves star.

VASHON AND SUMNER BASKET TEAMS MEET

The Vashon High School and the Sumner High basketball teams will play the second contest of the three-game series at 8 o'clock tonight in the gymnasium of the Pine Street Y. M. C. A. In a previous meeting, Vashon won by a 50 to 29 decision.

A preliminary game between the alumni teams of both schools has been scheduled to precede the

MUNY TENNIS BODY PLANS INSTRUCTIONS FOR YOUNG PLAYERS

A program for increasing interest in tennis on the public parks courts of St. Louis has been planned by the Municipal Tennis Association. The three principal parts of the program are:

First—Coaching for beginners, a need which has long been felt, but which has hitherto been lacking.

Second—A membership campaign to be carried out by the different park clubs and which is necessary to the growth of the organization.

Third—Ranking of the first 10 players in each park club to facilitate the Municipal Tournament Committee in seeding players in the various tournaments and putting players in their proper positions on the teams playing in the Municipal Interpark Tennis League.

Detailed plans to carry out these three major and the other minor details will be submitted to the next meeting of the association in March.

14 SKATERS TO START HERE IN PRO MARATHON

By Harry McKanna.

Eight professional speed skaters, four from Cleveland headed by Ben O'Sickey, co-winner of 1933 six-day race at Madison Square Garden, New York, and four from Detroit including Charles Delphier are due to arrive in St. Louis late today for the first professional marathon at the Winter Garden Sunday night.

The eight stars will be joined tomorrow, by other speedsters from Syracuse, Schenectady and other New York points and a field of 14, including two St. Louis entrants, will work out at the Winter Garden Saturday to fit themselves for the 26-mile, 385-yard race.

The track will be laid out tomorrow afternoon. It will be 16 laps to a mile and the winner will have to travel 419½ laps to pull down first money.

O'Sockey, who with Bobby McLean of Chicago, won the team race in New York, is the pre-race favorite. His competition will include Tony Rogers and Herman A. Perleberg, runnersup to the O'Sickey-McLean duo. Strodel of Syracuse and Eddie O'Herin of Cleveland, fourth place winners in the Madison Square Garden event. Others entered are Paul (Pop) Boudreau of Syracuse, an endurance skater, who is expected to be the "dark horse," John Tobias of Detroit, fifth place winner in the seven-day Pittsburgh race last year, Ford Hatfield of Detroit, State pro champion, Maurice De Loof, runnerup to Art Staff in the Canadian pro championship, Peter C. Dubo, trainer for Staff and McLean, Bobby Lamb of Astoria, N. Y. and Jimmy Jamieson and Bill Minster of St. Louis.

Ben Blanke, promoter of the marathon, will hold an ice circus in connection with the marathon, and among the attractions will be Renee Flemmer, four-year-old figure skater, Lela May Wideman, a five-year-old fancy skater, Douglas Duffy and "Red" McCarthy, two stunt skaters.

GAERDNERS DEFEAT PABS FIVE, 26-21

The Gaerdner basketball team of Belleville, Ill., scored its second victory in three games with the St. Louis Pabs last night at Belleville, winning 26-21. The fourth meeting between these teams will be Sunday afternoon at the Maplewood High School gymnasium.

The first half was a see-saw battle, with the lead changing eight times with the Belleville team leading 11-10 at the half. The Pabs took a lead at the start of the third quarter, but then the Gaerdners went into the front and held the lead until the end of the game.

Death for Hauptmann.
Useful Warning.
$850,000,000 for $49,000.
Poor Ethiopia.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.

(Copyright, 1935.)

HAUPTMANN, in the language of crime has been sentenced to "burn" in the electric chair the week of March 18. Few of the delays that make our legal system more profitable to lawyers than to justice will play any part in this matter. Public opinion would not tolerate it, although granting one appeal is mandatory.

Organized crime is warned, once more, that kidnaping means death. The warning means little, for you cannot deal successfully with smallpox by attacking each sore as it appears on the surface, or imitating savages who scrape the entire body with sharp shells. It is necessary to go deeper and stop the smallpox.

The United States must go deeper than killing an occasional criminal. It must find a way to inspire respect for law.

Newspaper men and others trained in the observation of crime had no doubt of the prisoner's guilt. The Judge's charge clearly expressed his belief that guilt had been proved, and one of Hauptmann's own lawyers told a reporter what the verdict would be, before the jury had been out five minutes, although he did not speak for publication.

All four of the women jurors wept after sending Hauptmann to death; their tears due to emotion caused by painful duty.

No male juror wept, and in New York State, where a law is proposed permitting women to sit on juries, some will say that weeping indicates woman's unfitness for jury work. Others, more intelligent, will say it proves that women should sit on juries, the tears demonstrating higher emotion and conscientiousness.

One miserable creature, more or less, in the death chair, does not help justice.

But cold-blooded criminals, planning for profit crimes not based on sudden impulse or the desperation of hunger, will consider carefully the profit and loss possibilities in kidnaping.

Bruno Richard Hauptmann may convince other professional criminals planning a "snatch" that kidnaping with its uncertainties, plus the electric chair, when convicted, does not pay.

The conviction of Hauptmann confirms the statement that Al Capone, jailed in Chicago for failure to pay his income tax, made to this writer who visited him immediately after the Lindbergh kidnaping, urging him to help trace the child through his many crime connections.

Capone said "if they let me out I will put my kid brother here in my place, as hostage. I don't suppose anybody would suggest that I would double-cross my own brother. I'll go out and see what I can do. I have many angles, and if this kidnaping is a regular job by any regular mob, some one of my angles ought to turn up something. But take it from me, this is not the work of a regular mob. They would know too much to try that kind of crime. It is the work of some fool operating on his own account."

Capone was not released to utilize his "angles" and it turns out that his judgment was sound. "A fool, working on his own account," did commit the shocking crime.

Mussolini, who uses "airplane language" wants from Ethiopia $49,000 for injuries inflicted on Italians by wild Ethiopian tribes. To get $49,000 Mussolini is prepared to spend $850,000,000 on a war.

That seems a good deal of money to send after $49,000, but possibly, "national honor" is involved. Also, there may be gold mines and other things in Ethiopia that might be worth collecting.

We marvel at any nation suggesting a "war" to cost $850,000,000. In this land of 'easy marks' if we even talked about war European nations would borrow $5,000,000,000 or $6,000,000,000 from us instantly, and Ethiopia, itself might get $850,000,000 of our foolish dollars. If we had war, the first group of dollar-a-year patriots, would spend at least a billion for us, without any results. You remember two billions' worth of airplanes that would not fly and floating ships that never left the harbor. How do Europeans wage war so cheaply?

France also would like a little change from Ethiopia, s'il vous plait, for Ethiopian border tribesmen killed some French policemen, very valuable. Perhaps England will make it unanimous, then the poor Ethiopian Emperor, direct de-

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

WHEN I was a girl, and a young housewife, the veranda rocking chairs got busy about 1:30 p. m.

Elsie Robinson

Creak—creak—creak! Up and down the long, shaded streets you'd hear their slow, comfortable chorus..see the plump pleasant figures swaying above them, hair released from frizzing pins, scoured faces beaming rosily, white aprons tied crisply over "second best" alpaca or mohair.

Busy institutions, these rocking chairs. Nine-tenths of the dressmaking of our American world was done on these porches and verandas. Stockings to darn, petticoats to patch, father's old suit to be cut down for Junior. Miles of lace—acres of unbleached cotton—tons of buttons! Yet there was no hurry. The needle-pricked fingers took their time.

Leisurely Life.

Creak—creak—creak! And in between, the slow clopety-clop, clopety-clop of the old horses and buggies—the whining whirr of the lawn mowers—the thud of a cane whacking someone's carpet in a backyard—the lazy chat of a neighbor dropping in for a cookie recipe.

A leisurely life. A life in which slow bodies and sluggish minds could function readily without fear of defeat. For little had happened, yet, to quicken the human tempo. In 1885, 1895—even in 1905—life still moved at much the same gait it had followed a thousand or a million years before.

Somewhere, in those vague and alien districts beyond the veiled horizon, automobiles were beginning to toot, telephones were shrilling, the Machine Age was getting under way. But these things had not yet touched our common village life.

Disruption.

No shining 60-cylinder monster competed with old Dobbin or tempted the youngsters down back lanes. No sleek and silky stenographer, swift and sophisticated, challenged Mom's slow, hit-or-miss technique. No movies to make home life a tiresome, meaningless discipline. Life still ambled along—

Then, with the sudden, disruptive violence of an explosion, all that old, slow life went up—never again to be assembled. And today our world is filled with pitiful people who can't snap into the tempo of 1935.

But why—they wonder, in pitiful bewilderment—should that be held against them? They are all the good things their parents taught them to be a scant thirty years ago. They're industrious, reliable, honest, careful, patient, thrifty, kind. And utterly loyal to anyone associated with them.

They've no bad habits. Their "word is as good as their bond." They are immeasurably more conscientious than the current young squirts who got all the good jobs. Then why—why can't they find a place, or hold one, in this modern world?

The Reason.

A pitiful chorus. And most pitiful of all are the voices of the wives and mothers whose hearts still cling to The Rocking Chair Brigade. They haven't, they passionately assure you, "a thought outside their homes and families." They're willing—so tragically willing—to "work their fingers to the bone." Then why—why—isn't that enough?

Because—cruel as this answer may seem—they prefer the shelf.

They CAN go ahead with life—if they wish. But it means haste and pressure. Harder yet, it means competition and criticism—this hideous, impersonal modern criticism which ruthlessly strips away all sentimental pretense and insist on Brass Tacks.

And they can't—they WON'T—take it! Vainly, pitifully, they still hope that the good old rocking chair will come back!

Cranberry and Raisin Marmalade

One quart cranberries, one cup raisins, one cup sugar, one cup water. Pour water over the cranberries. Cover the saucepan and bring to a boil quickly. Mash with a wooden masher. Boil for three minutes and then put through a strainer. Add sugar and chopped raisins and boil slowly for 30 minutes, stirring frequently. A lovely little winter relish.

Both Together

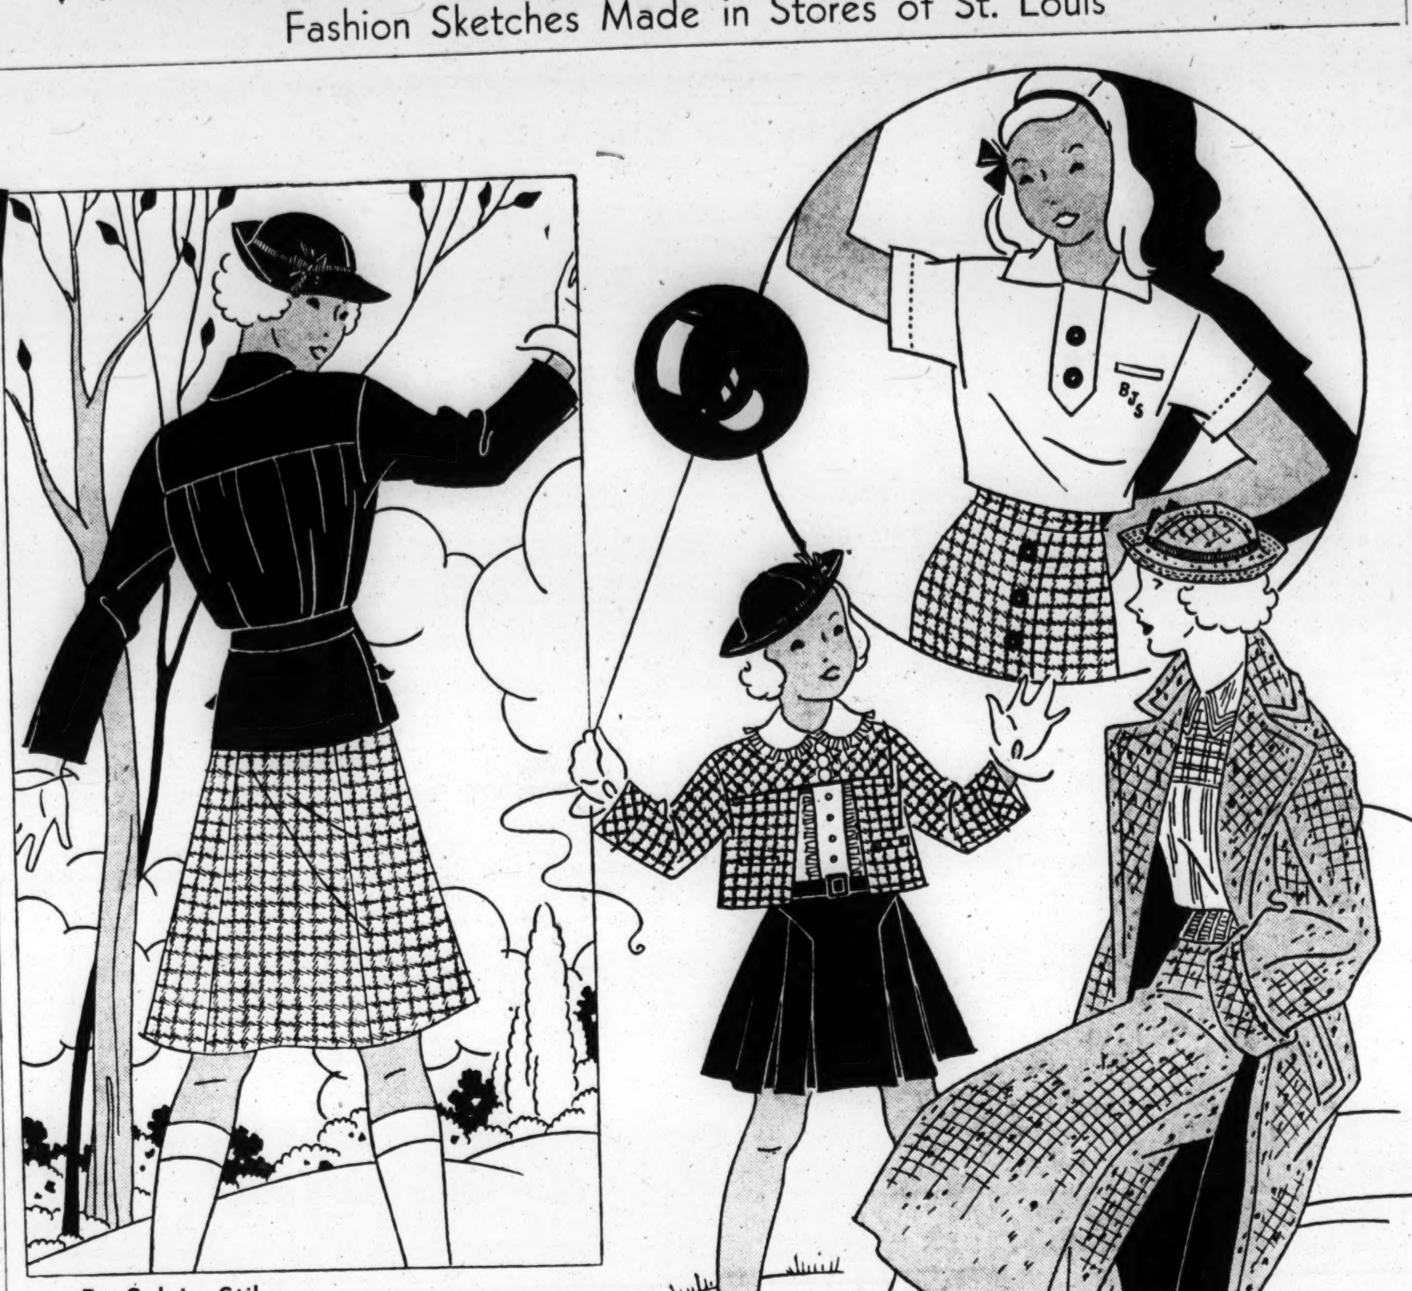
VARIETY in GIRLS' ENSEMBLES

Fashion Sketches Made in Stores of St. Louis



By Sylvia Stiles

JUGGLING may not be listed as one of the requirements for a high school diploma but smart girls are adding it to their second semester curriculum. They consider it as important to a thorough 1935 education as the study of French and English. Younger sisters, too, who aren't more than seven years of age are following the example of the 14-year-olds.

To become proficient in the art as it is practiced by youthful enthusiasts certain essentials must be considered. There is the matter of a good teacher and also that of materials or properties, if such they may be called. Everyone who has watched a skilled juggler at work knows that good showmanhip is one of the tricks of his profession, so the instructor must be a good showman besides having the prescribed articles with which to juggle.

Since the art in which school girls are so primarily interested has to do with the juggling of clothes, Dame Fashion is the cleverest and most exacting teacher. No one can doubt her showmanship and no one can question her familiarity with the trickiest properties. She takes five or six different garments that she considers distinctive and by certain slight of hand performances produces a variety of costumes.

In teaching girls how to juggle their clothes according to the latest rules of style, Dame Fashion prefers to start with a suit as the basis. She does this because suits are primarily important now and because a suit which has a warm topcoat can be used immediately in the juggling process. Girls can get started with their lessons without waiting for spring weather.

The more pieces a suit has, the easier a girl learns to perform juggling tricks. It may consist of a boyish topcoat, skirt, hat and sweater or it may include a short-jacketed suit and reefer style of topcoat. Both are chic this season and both are practical for experimentation.

Add to these properties a blouse or two, an extra skirt, a clever jacket and a few well chosen accessories, and there is scarcely any limit to the fun she'll have. Hats, even, can be juggled this spring to suit individual whims—a brim being turned up in Breton fashion in the morning and pulled down over the right eye during the afternoon.

The girls' departments of St. Louis stores are concentrating now on clothes which help in teaching a school girl to juggle a spring wardrobe. Those that are sketched are typical. The suit which the older girl is wearing has four parts—a full-length boyish coat, skirt, hat and sweater. The suit material is tweed in a warm beige tone. The coat has a vent at the back, rather wide lapels and a squared line to the raglan shoulders. Three brown wooden buttons that fasten it are decorative. The most interesting feature of the skirt is the slit at the side seams.

The short-sleeved zephyr wool sweater which accompanies this suit has a novelty stitch forming a decorative yoke and a turn-over collar. It has a fitted waistband which is worn over the skirt. The hat is made of the suit material, its brim stitched and upturned. A bow of the tweed and a small green and tan feather form the trimming.

With a skirt of such an indefinite pattern, a girl who wants to purchase an extra jacket may select one that is plain or has a definite checked design. The little jacket illustrated is a sample of the styles which young girls like. It is available either in the plain or checked material and in navy blue or brown flannel. The Clark Gable back with the gathers below the yoke and at the belt is a popular feature.

The selection of an extra skirt for wear with this jacket depends upon other parts of the costume. To be very smart this season, a plain skirt is worn with a checked jacket and a checked skirt with a plain jacket. The yoke sketched with the jacket is of checked material. It buttons at the center front and is gored, this goring assuring graceful lines.

The hat which the girl in contrasting jacket and skirt is wearing is of brown felt. It has a snap brim that is pulled down at the front and turned up at the back, but may be worn several other ways. The crown has a graduated tuck.

Several blouses are essential to a juggling wardrobe and one of these is certain to be a strictly tailored model. St. Louis girls have been enthusiastic about the one sketched, its chief claim to fame being the monogram below the pocket. This blouse, or shirt, as the girls prefer to call it, is of broadcloth and most popular in shades of blue or honey as well as white. The collar is convertible and quite small. Two dark buttons appear on the front. Sleeves are short.

To demonstrate how the smaller girl is following her older sister in a costume that has parts that may be juggled, the suit for a 7-year-old is included. The skirt is of navy wool crepe and has pleats at either side of a front panel. It buttons to the white pique blouse, a belt concealing the buttons. A pleated frill adorns the collar and the front of this blouse. The jacket is of navy and white checked wool. A bias yoke, bias pocket binding and a bias band at the bottom of the sleeves supply all of the trimming that is needed. The hat is of navy felt and has an upturned brim that may be snapped down if preferred. A tuck marks the center of the crown. Grosgrain band and a little red feather carry out the tailored theme.

Necessity of Co-operation In Contract

Rule That Two Hands Be Played as One Still Most Important.

By P. Hal Sims

I CAN think of no better way to start this article than to give the following quotation from Chambers' Encyclopedia on whist:

P. Hal Sims

"And, lastly, and most important of all, players should play to the score. Thus, wanting but one trick to save or win the game a winning card should be played at once. The example is stated as for one trick, but it should be kept in mind how many tricks are requisite to save or win the game, or even a point, and the play should be varied accordingly. In order to become a skillful player, it is necessary to bear in mind that the game is not one of any given player's hand against the other three, but a combination of two against two. In order that two partners shall play their hands to the best advantage, they must strive, as much as possible, to play the two hands as though they were one. To this end, it is advisable that they should pursue some uniform system of play, in order that each player shall understand the plans of the other, and be so placed in the most favorable position to assist him in carrying them out."

And no one has been able to improve on these precepts for the last 200 years. The following hand is given as an illustrative example of the correct play:

	♠A 2 ♥Q 8 7 5 ♦Q J 7 2 ♣9 6 5
♠K Q 5 ♥6 4 2 ♦10 8 4 3 ♣K 8 4	NORTH WEST EAST SOUTH	♠10 3 ♥K J 9 ♦A K 6 5 ♣A 10 3 2
	♠J 9 8 7 6 4 ♥A 10 3 ♦9 ♣Q J 7

Bear in mind that there is no dummy in whist. The four of hearts was turned up in West's hand, and North, the leader, opened the deuce of diamonds. East went up with the king, showing that he held the ace. He returned a small club. East and West took the ace and king of clubs, and put South in with the queen. South returned his best suit—spades. West played the queen and North the ace, returning the seven of diamonds. South's play of the nine guaranteed the 10, or none. East played the ace and South ruffed with the trey of hearts, playing back another spade, which West won with the king.

West played back the five of spades, which North trumped with the seven of hearts, and East over-trumped with the nine. To get out of his hand, East played the thirteenth club. North over trumped West's six with his eight and returned the queen of hearts. East covered. South won the ace and played back the 10. East won the trick, but held nothing but diamonds, so he had to give North the last two tricks.

North and South scored the odd trick. Today East and West would play the hand for one no trump and make exactly one no trump.

An inverted pie plate over the top of the apple pie will cook the apples more quickly and thoroughly and prevent the crust from becoming too brown before the apples are done.

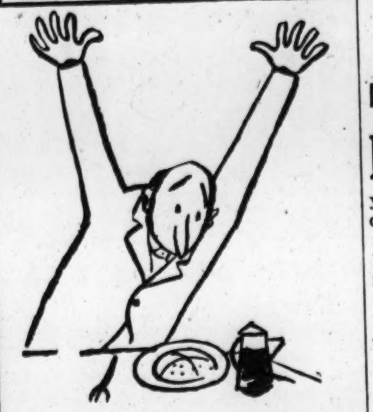
HOW TO TORTURE A HUSBAND



A father and husband, in middle age,
Can work for a microscopic wage
Month in, month out, and never whine,
Though shirts are frayed and trousers shine.
He'll dry a wife or daughter's tear
With dresses chic and stockings sheer;
He'll walk, chin out, on the narrow path,
Weather storms of domestic wrath,
Pay the doctor, butcher and try
To keep up appearances—Lord knows why!
But there comes a crisis, a turning point
That throws a husband out of joint,
Unleashes anger, breaks the dam
And makes a lion of the lamb—
And that is when he sits him down
To eat a waffle crisp and brown
But gets, instead (it knocks him groggy),
A waffle that is limp and soggy.

Views Shown In Quotations About Doctors

Many Harsh As Well As Kind Things Are Said of Them.

By Logan Clendening, M. D.

I ENJOY books of quotations. Not for reference only, but for reading. They are like the stew you find in the restaurants on Monday—the concentrated essence of the delicacies of the past. So I have had a good time with Burton Stevenson's "Home Book of Quotations."

He has a novel section on doctors. Not entirely flattering to our ego. "A physician is a person who pours drugs of which he knows little into a body of which he knows less."—Voltaire. Pausanius said to a physician who remarked on his great age, "That happens because you are not my doctor."

The costs of medical care loom ever—

"The alienist is not a joke;
He finds you cracked and leaves you broke." —Keith Preston.

And grave (usually unfounded) suspicions. "There are worse occupations in the world than feeling a woman's pulse"—Sterne.

"The physician is superfluous among the healthy"—Tacitus, who lived before the modern doctrine of the annual physical examination or health audit. Along the same line is Mrs. Piozzi's, "A physician can sometimes parry the scythe of death, but has no power over the sand in the hourglass"—a doctrine I have long expounded, but less pungently.

Some of these will be more appreciated by the profession than the laity. For those who are always wanting consultations—so one doctor can "check" on the other, as if they were a pair of accountants—we recommend:

"A single doctor like a sculler flies,
And all his art and all his physic tries:
But two physicians, like a pair of oars,
Waft him right swifty to the Stygian shores."
—John Booth.

Rabelais' proverb: "Happy the physician who is called in at the end of the illness," applies to the familiar fact that some diseases run their natural course, uninfluenced by treatment. The patient blames the succession of doctors who fruitlessly treat him during the course of the disease, and gives all credit to the last who arrives just at the time it is going to get well anyhow.

But we get some praise. "A country doctor needs more brains to do his work passably than the 50 greatest industrialists in the world require"—Walter B. Pitkin. And I like the description of the surgeon: "In a good surgeon, a hawk's eye, a lion's heart, and a lady's hand"—Leonard Wright in 1589, mind you.

The most familiar of the quotations is perhaps "A good bedside manner." It is ascribed to George du Maurier in Punch, 1884. The complete text—"What sort of a doctor is he?" Well, I don't know much about his ability, but he has a good bedside manner." Next most familiar is "Physician, heal thyself," flung at every sick doctor by every egregious ass to the point of fury. And next, "Every man is a fool or a physician at 40." Some, I may add, are both.

But the most familiar of all doctor quotations is not here. "Elementary, my dear Watson." Watson is that Dr. Watson who was associated with the only fictional character of modern times whose name is universally a household word—Sherlock Holmes.

ON THE FLICKER FRONT -:- -:- -:- By H. H. NIEMEYER

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 14.

ANY TIME you really want to find out something, anything, about making motion pictures get in touch with the average studio stenographer. She has a wider knowledge of screen material, production costs and what the well-dressed extra should wear than any one else in the business. Yet she is unsung in film history and the fans never hear of her. She can tell you all about camera angles, building up interest in a story, sub-plots and what ought to bring money into the box office. These stenographers—we are not speaking of the so-called "secretaries" to each and every official, big and little—have not been taught all this knowledge. You see they have a roving commission in the stenographic department of their studio and are assigned to wherever they may be needed. Today they may be called in as an extra worker for some front office executive who is planning a big production and who can't spell the words. Tomorrow she is sent to help a high salaried writer prepare his story which has been put off until the last minute and the next day is likely to find her acting as "script girl," a sort of assistant to the director of a picture great education. So what? There is no record of it having led to anything and the pay is considerably less than that of an extra girl although more regular. The one requirement is ability to spell. But don't get excited and rush to California. Hollywood is full of good spellers now—except in the front office.

acting but when it comes to retirement and secretiveness it's about a toss up between Edna May Oliver and Greta Garbo. One gets the impression after watching Miss Oliver in a film, that she is a whole souled, lively sort of a person. Perhaps she is but she keeps it under cover. Her intimates in the film colony are few and far between and she never goes around night clubs or other public places. She will consent to an interview, if cornered, but dodges one whenever possible. She raises flowers at her quiet home far from the movie colony and next to that enjoys swimming. But she has no pool at her home and goes alone, and unrecognized, down to one of the ocean beaches. She was married just once, was divorced 10 years ago and does not expect to try it again.

Cabannes Carry on.

Julie Cabanne is among the youngsters signed up by Fox for a screen career. Julie is a daughter of Christy Cabanne who jumped from St. Louis into the movie business when pictures were just getting under way and became a director with D. W. Griffith. He has

Maybe You're Next.

If you happen to be a handsome young man with stage ability perhaps you will live to be Marlene Dietrich's leading gentleman in one of her future films. For eight pictures in a row now Marlene has had a different love interest in each one and she says she will never repeat on 'em. Just doesn't believe in continuous romantic teams. "It may be all right for comedy," she says, "but when it comes to drama the fans want a quick change of environment and with it, leading men." Now film history, in a good many cases, would seem to prove Miss Dietrich wrong but that's her story, or Von Sternberg's, and she's going to stick with it. Most stars, however, do consider it bad business—bad business for them—to share the spotlight and screen prominence, with a player of the opposite sex, more than once. One would imagine that the stars' personal ego would make them believe that no other actor could steal their glory but, all the same, few want to take the chance.

So, you see, you've got a chance. She is bound to run out of leading men some day.

Views Shown In Quotations About Doctors

Many Harsh As Well As Kind Things Are Said of Them.

By

Logan Clendening, M. D.

I ENJOY books of quotations. Not for reference only, but for reading. They are like the stew you find in the restaurants on Monday—the concentrated essence of the delicacies of the past. So I have had a good time with Burton Stevenson's "Home Book of Quotations."

He has a novel section on doctors. Not entirely flattering to our ego. "A physician is a person who pours drugs of which he knows little into a body of which he knows less."—Voltaire. Pausanius said to a physician who remarked on his great age, "That happens because you are not my doctor."

The costs of medical care loom ever—

"The alienist is not a joke;
He finds you cracked and leaves
you broke." —Keith Preston.

And grave (usually unfounded) suspicions. "There are worse occupations in the world than feeling a woman's pulse"—Sterne.

"The physician is superfluous among the healthy"—Tacitus, who lived before the modern doctrine of the annual physical examination or health audit. Along the same line is Mrs. Piozzi's, "A physician can sometimes parry the scythe of death, but has no power over the sand in the hourglass"—a doctrine I have long expounded, but less pungently.

Some of these will be more appreciated by the profession than the laity. For those who are always wanting consultations—so one doctor can "check" on the other, as if they were a pair of accountants—we recommend:

"A single doctor like a sculler flies,
And all his art and all his physic tries:
But two physicians, like a pair of oars,
Waft him right swifty to the Stygian shores."
—John Booth.

Rabelais' proverb: "Happy the physician who is called in at the end of the illness," applies to the familiar fact that some diseases run their natural course, uninfluenced by treatment. The patient blames the succession of doctors who fruitlessly treat him during the course of the disease, and gives all credit to the last who arrives just at the time it is going to get well anyhow.

But we get some praise. "A country doctor needs more brains to do his work passably than the 50 greatest industrialists in the world require"—Walter B. Pitkin. And I like the description of the surgeon: "In a good surgeon, a hawk's eye, a lion's heart, and a lady's hand"—Leonard Wright in 1589, mind you.

The most familiar of the quotations is perhaps "A good bedside manner." It is ascribed to George du Maurier in Punch, 1884. The complete text—"What sort of a doctor is he?" Well, I don't know much about his ability, but he has a good bedside manner." Next most familiar is "Physician, heal thyself," flung at every sick doctor by every egregious ass to the point of fury. And next, "Every man is a fool or a physician at 40." Some, I may add, are both.

But the most familiar of all doctor quotations is not here. "Elementary, my dear Watson." Watson is that Dr. Watson who was associated with the only fictional character of modern times whose name is universally a household word—Sherlock Holmes.

IF YOU ASK My OPINION

By MARTHA CARR

Dear Mrs. Carr:

I AM A young mother, 31 years old, and, sorry to say, almost white-headed. I have crowded enough into these years to make it the ordinary 50. Although my face and body do not look older, people think I am older. I love life, though, and all there is in it, and so I understand young people very well. However, life has been none too kind to me ever. But perhaps I am the stronger and somewhat broader-minded for what I have lived through.

The question right now concerns my 14-year-old daughter. I would give my whole life for my two girls. But I wonder if I have fallen below the mark I have set, as a mother. This daughter makes me think perhaps I have. She is a sweet child and has always loved her school, but since she started to high school she has changed so much I hardly know her.

To illustrate: The other day her sister found a letter which she had written to another girl and brought it to me. It was a shocking thing. I went to her kindly and talked to her, and she cried like her heart would break, saying she was sorry. The worst of it was the language she used. I was lenient because I know it is the association she has out here in the country where we had to move in order to get work. It is one of the lowest places I have ever seen and it drives me crazy to bring up my children where they can never hear a word spoken without an oath. My girl has to take a bus and go five miles to school, after walking two miles to get it.

I try to get these children to turn a deaf ear to the rough talk they hear and let it pass and see the ugliness of the thing. She promises, but I am afraid for her, because the company you are with so often makes you what you are.

We are barely getting by and I would like to do something to help. I have some skill with my hands in everything I do. And would like to take a course in beauty culture. Do you think I would be unwise to give up everything here and take the chance of doing better for my children elsewhere?

You will say, "What about your husband?" My husband refuses to look facts in the face and makes no attempt to better himself. Where is the backbone men used to have? I am full of energy and ambition for myself and to save my children; shall I sit down, too, and barely eke out existence, when I am sure there is something better? A YOUNG MOTHER.

Probably you could not be stolid and indifferent, if you tried. You could not give up if you wanted to. Your intense appreciation of better things which life might offer will direct you and your intelligence, will keep you from growing. It seems to me a wonderful opportunity, where you see so few people, to take up special study of some kind which you might use not only for yourself, but for your children. Build interest for the children and yourself and your husband to take the place of the unworthiness which you say is all around you. The daughter who is in high school might have her studies supplemented and her interest diverted by magazines and books. Then you would feel her interests too important to worry over these swear words which probably mean far less to her than to you. They are not ladylike, but not tragic. There is even a silly fad for them now among some who ought to know better. Send for my "Occupations for Women."

I AM hard of hearing and I would like to hear from someone who has used mechanical aids. MRS. MAUD N.

I feel sure you would get dependable information about these at the St. Louis League for the Hard of Hearing, 4527 Westminster place, where they have a service for helping those who are handicapped by deafness. Miss Margaret M. Ratican is executive secretary and the organization is sponsored by well-known physicians and other citizens.

I am tired of this and getting so I almost hate him. And then there is a boy who lives closer and I like him better. I am not picking a husband yet, so I don't think I'll heed the first boy; would you? Your answer will be most approvable. JUST LONELY.

No, indeed. I should say not! You are not under bond, are you? For one so young, he is a rather sophisticated young man and none too modest about his worth.

Have friends among the boys for a few years and do not "pick" any one for "steady company" either.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

WILL you please tell me what I may do to keep my hair from becoming oily within three days after I wash it? I use warm water with a mild soapsuds and a vinegar rinse. I do not use waving fluid of any kind.

NAOMI.

Your scalp needs some treatment, such as massage, and the use of an astringent lotion to keep the oil doing its duty, nourishing the hair and scalp and not giving out too much. You should see a hair specialist once, at least, for a diagnosis and ask what kind of astringent and home treatment you can give your hair.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

MY sincerest sympathy to "Caesar." As a graduate nurse, I have only to read her article to appreciate, thoroughly, the fact that there are misfits in every profession.

As for her advising "Young Hopeful" of the necessity of being "hard as nails" and the probability of her religion sliding from her grasp—the very opposite is true.

There is no profession that so essentially stresses and develops the spiritual side of one's life. And with this development comes a satisfaction merited by those who are guided by the highest ideals of service; forcing her to realize that she is dealing with the most intricate and vital construction of the highest form of creation—the human body.

As to "being thrown with all kinds of girls," I have traveled rather extensively and have been engaged in social, commercial and professional work and, needless to say, the above is true in every walk of life. The inference I draw from "Caesar's" statement above is that the fault lies within herself or she is from a very inferior and non-standardized School of Nursing with a complex of being attracted to the wrong type of person.

I shall conclude by saying that nursing is the most natural and noblest calling in which a woman can be engaged. And by virtue of this very fact, it fits her to become the highest type of citizen; able to render the highest type of service—as a wife, mother and professional woman. M. R., R. N.

Child's Attitude Toward Home And Permanency

By Mrs. Brooke P. Church

THERE was a time when a child could be brought up to consider the house it lived in as a home for all time. Houses and lands were handed on from generation to generation and parents and children alike had a sense of possession and permanence in what was about them.

But this state of affairs, which was in any event true only of part of the world's population, is today a thing of the past. No child views with pride of future possession a tenth floor apartment or a tiny house in the suburbs. What is home to the parents is only a hostelry to the young.

And it is right that it should be so. Inevitably, the child eventually must go out into the world, and it should not become so attached to one place as to make the final break distasteful.

Home is a state of mind rather than a place, and to every child it should connote serenity, security, happiness. But there must come also the realization on the part of both parents and children that the time will come when the children in turn must create the same atmosphere for themselves, and make a new home of their own.

Parents are very apt to resent the child's desire for independence, to go away and start its own life. They feel that it is thankless and unappreciative of all they have done. Often the child fears to make the move, or feels guilty and unhappy at its desire to leave the home of the parents who have devoted their life to building it.

But in reality the parents have or should have built it for them-

Trimming Gives Ensemble New Attractiveness

Hats, Suits and Dresses Acquire Distinction Through Accessories.

By Sylvia

FABRIC and cut of a costume both may be commonplace but a small bit of trimming uniquely applied may be the redeeming feature. Hats as well as suits and dresses are thus elevated to fashion distinction. Cork knobs, bits of glass, ribbon bows, dyed lace, and many other decorative notes are apparent for spring. The cork knob you are likely to see on a chapeau as well as a dress, one brown felt street hat displaying two of them to mark the deep dent in the crown.

The bits of glass are really buttons but they have such irregular edges they look as though a window pane had been smashed and the pieces used without recutting. A printed silk frock of the shirtwaist type uses them from the neckline to the hips. Stripes of the fabric have been employed to fasten the buttons to the front closing band. Full sleeves, gathered into straight band cuffs also have the glass trimming.

A shirred neckline may look like all of the others in town or it may have bright colored velvet ribbon laced in and out as though drawn through beading. A youthful printed crepe frock is given this unusual trimming. The ribbon is rosy red, repeating one of the shades on the navy background of the crepe. The sleeves which have shirred ruffles at the bottom also add ribbon bows.

A collar of white handkerchief linen featuring handmade cut-out designs is so elegant that the dark sheer dress it adorns becomes a distinctive creation. Narrow linen tubing not only forms ties but is cut into strips and fluffed to form novelty ball trimming. Drawnwork designs scattered through the dress material emphasize its sheerness.

The more unusual the color of a sub-deb's frock, the more determined its designer is to tint lace trimming a matching shade. Berry rose, aqua blue and turquoise are three highlighted shades of the season that indorse the vogue of dyed lace trimming. One of these frocks has a collar, jabot and sleeve edging of the lace. Another has wide lace ruffling on either side of the shirtwaist front, reaching from neck to hemline.

Pale pink organdie ruching lightens many sombre frocks in the spring collections. One dress of navy blue crepe has one row of the frilling standing up around the neck. Down the front of the blouse there are three rows sewed tight to the crepe to give a novelty jabot effect. The sleeevs are draped and have little frills of the crisp material finishing the shaped cuffs directly below the elbows.

The most tailored suit this season is likely to adopt some dressmaker details. This is true of a tan tweed model which has a hip-length fitted jacket belted at the waistline and trimmed with wooden buttons. Instead of the sleeves being tight, they are of the kimona styling. The back dares to be different, too, by inserting two fan-shaped sections across the shoulders to provide a novel yoke.

If a blouse or sweater contrasts with the suit it accompanies look for a matching 'kerchief in a breast pocket. A beige colored angora knitted suit has a brown knitted blouse and the tiny handkerchief of the same brown yarn peeps out of a pocket. Other things that will impress you about this suit are the action back of the jacket and a dotted silk triangle.

When mention is made of a "scottie" print, don't reach the conclusion that this has something to do with Scotland's manufacture. It means that tiny black scottie dogs are imprinted on its surface. At first glance you may not recognize them, so the fabric is not as startling as it sounds. A suit of this material consists of dress and matching fitted jacket.

Floating Island

The perfect dessert when vitamines are needed throughout the family. One quart milk, four eggs, four tablespoons sugar, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one-fourth cup strawberry preserves, two teaspoons vanilla extract. Beat the yolks of eggs, stir in sugar and salt and add milk gradually. Cook slowly until mixture begins to thicken, stirring constantly. Add flavoring and pour into serving dish. Make a meringue of the egg whites, add one tabelspoon sugar and preserves and pile on custard in little dabs.

Stuffed Egg Appetizers

A delicious addition to the hors d'oeuvres platter. Six hard-boiled eggs, six chopped stuffed olives, one-fourth cup minced ham, lettuce, mayonnaise. Shell eggs and cut lengthwise. Remove yolk from white and mix with the ham, olives and enough mayonnaise to make it creamy and smooth. Season to taste with salt and cayenne. Re-

A V. P. QUEEN STUDIES LAW

By Marguerite Martyn

MRS. THOMAS C. BIRDSALL.

THE title, Veiled Prophet Queen, means a lot in St. Louis, not only to society of which the Queen is always representative, but to the populace which feels a proprietary interest in the big fall civic-social festival, the ball and the mystery of the Queen's selection as well as the public parade. The Queen, after the one year of her reign in the spotlight does not shed the distinction conferred with the jeweled platinum crown. People continue to watch with interest each step of her social career, always attended by the glamorous phrase, "Former Veiled Prophet Queen."

But which of all the V. P. Queens will be remembered the longest? Which at the time succeeded in setting the whole town talking, tongues wagging as they'd never wagged before about anything connected with this conspicuous event? Wasn't it the girl who, in 1928, the golden jubilee year, walked out on the Prophet, abdicated within a week of her coronation, sent back her crown and let society and the "court" get along as best it could without a Queen for a year?

You'd think so if you knew how many people, when the name, Mrs. Thomas C. Birdsall, appeared in print the other day called up to ask if this wasn't the same girl who deserted the Veiled Prophet and left the Queenship vacant. Her name was noted in the list of patronesses of the dinner dance to be given by the students of the City College of Law and Finance, Feb. 27, at Hotel Jefferson.

Possibly you are a little vague about the name of that Queen. As Mary Ambrose Smith she had such a short reign in the news, although the name of her father, the late J. Sheppard Smith, who was president of the Mississippi Valley Trust Co., and the names of her grandfathers, Dr. Elsworth F. Smith and J. Charless Cabanne, many of a large connection in the old French set and her forebears on both sides of her house back to Pierre Laclede, the founder of St. Louis, have been prominent enough.

But you remember the upheaval caused by the precedent she broke. How amazed people were when they learned the Veiled Prophet really had been jilted by his chosen queen two months before her coronation, that she had eloped and had been secretly married to young Dr. Birdsall while away with her family on a summer holiday.

You'd have thought she had committed bigamy or something, so serious in their make-believe were the courtiers of the mythical monarch, so stunned when they found the "crown of love and beauty," always reserved for a debutante, had been bestowed upon a married woman, young and fair though she might be!

Whatever became of her, the one girl who sidestepped the honor of reigning over society as a V. P. queen? a curious public may be excused for wanting to know. Little has been heard of Mrs. Thomas C. Birdsall. She seemed to have foresworn much of the social career that was her due even without the special honor by which she had been singled out.

The question answers itself, if one stops to think of it. By her one conspicuous action it should be obvious that decidedly she preferred a quiet, retired life and any of her personal friends could have told an inquisitive public she was enjoying just that. That, at 26, she is the mistress of a pretty home at 38 Crestwood drive, mother of two daughters 4 and 5 years old, and mother also in the home to her stepdaughter, Virginia Birdsall, aged 10.

At the time of her abdication, asked why, since she had chosen matrimony in preference to a brilliant social debut, she had let the coronation go on, she was quoted as saying that, dreading to disappoint the hopes her family and friends had set their hearts upon, "I didn't know what to do, so I didn't do anything."

That sounded like bewilderment. Still, in her great renunciation there must have been conviction and there has been the courage of conviction in the way she has persisted in keeping out of the public eye. So now, don't be surprised at finding her doing something else unprecedented in the annals of Veiled Prophet Queens. She still knows what she wants to do and is doing it without regard to precedents. She is studying law.

Discovered with her husband at the City College of Law and Finance where, with 450 other serious minded, hard-working adult, employed-by-day types of students, they are taking first year law. Mrs. Birdsall, revealing in a happy smile a flash of white teeth and snapping black eyes behind shell rimmed spectacles, said, "Of course I am serious. You have to be a very serious student to keep the pace in this school. It is the stiffest law course offered in the city. The most thorough. It is the largest law school in the city and a larger proportion of graduates from this school pass the State bar examinations than from any other.

"We wanted to do something to improve our minds and our time. Though a doctor, my husband comes from a family of lawyers and has a leaning in that direction. We usually do things together so when he took up the study of law, I just came along. Three nights a week we come here. I find it intensely interesting. Quite the most interesting thing I've ever done either as a study or a diversion."

ASKED if he expected to become a medical counselor, Dr. Birdsall said he had not considered combining law with his established practice of internal medicine. He merely was sold on the idea of adult education. Thought what you learned after you'd had practical experience in the world was of more value, more definitely applicable to your needs, than knowledge gained through textbook teaching in your earlier school years and that night school, under men engaged by day at their professions, was the best place to gain that practical kind of knowledge.

"It is not, then, that you believe in independent careers for wives? Mrs. Birdsall was asked.

"I don't know," she replied. "That depends entirely upon individual circumstances. Why not a partnership with your husband? Yes, certainly we intend to go on, take the full four-year course and try to pass the bar examinations. Then hang out our shingle? Well, I don't know about that, but you never can tell! It really would be more to the point to ask us that question at the end of the course instead of just at the beginning."

"It takes an argumentative type of mind to be a lawyer, doesn't it?" I asked tentatively.

"You tell her, Tom. Am I an arguer?" she appealed to her husband. He evaded the question with a good-natured laugh coming from his robust frame, but became quite serious when he said, "She has an analytical mind and makes a very good recitation."

"Do you find the social world well lost for all of this?" I knew this would be what all the would-have-been "subjects" of this should-have-been Queen would want to know.

"I am afraid the social world never was a serious enough consideration to me," she replied.

"Anyway, she hasn't much time to consider social life now," amended her husband, hustling her away to the lecture about to start in the classroom. "With a houseful of daughters, two who are exactly like herself, a home and a hard working husband always coming home hungry, and now this very tough law course on her hands, her life is pretty well filled."

Rules Governing Hand-Shaking—Professional Announcements.

By Emily Post

Dear Mrs. Post:

IS it considered very improper or rude for a woman not to shake hands when she meets a man? And would the fact that the man I'm writing about is my husband's employer—in fact, president of the organization — make any difference?

Emily Post

Answer: In the circumstance you mention it might be better to let him offer his hand first. But there is no rule. The only rules are that a hostess always offers her hand to every guest; a man always shakes hands with another man and everyone always takes a proffered hand. Beyond these three exactions, shaking hands has become very much a question of inclination in present-day greetings.

Dear Mrs. Post: My son is a physician and is moving his office, and he would like to notify all his patients and friends, at the least expense possible. What is your suggestion?

Answer: The only suggestion I can make is the conventional one. He should order professional cards, which are exactly like visiting cards in style but squarer in size, engraved with his name, his new address, his office hours and his telephone number, put them in envelopes and mail to all who are on his list. Professional cards should be engraved, but if this is too expensive, choose a simple and clear type of printing.

Dear Mrs. Post: I was married a year ago and at that time had announcements engraved, but we did not send them out because we found that we had to keep our marriage a secret to every one but the families. Several months ago my mother died and I suppose there isn't anything we can do with the announcement because they are engraved to read Mr. and Mrs.

Answer: I am sorry but I doubt if the plate can be used because leaving out "and Mrs." would leave a space, and if "Mr. and" were left out and Mrs. changed to Mr. the line would be out of balance.

Gaining Weight More Difficult Than Reducing

By Edna K. Forbes

IT is such an easy matter for persons with an active assimulative system to put on weight, that it is almost unbelievable that any one could have much difficulty to add a few needed pounds. The person who is much underweight has a much harder task to gain, than the stout one has to lose. Fortunately, most of the trouble comes from giving oneself the wrong start, and when this is known, the gaining may go on easily.

You must begin a diet to get fat by a thorough cleansing of the system. There should be a few colonic irrigations, or a cleansing with fruit juices following an effective laxative. If possible, there should be plenty of sleep, as much as an extra hour or two over the day and night; and if this is not convenient, then some extra relaxation should be encouraged until the system shows there is some gain. It need not be in the number of pounds, but there should be a relish for food, and perhaps a better digestion than formerly. It is a mistake to force the appetite; also, it makes a bad start to take food that is fattening when the digestive system cannot assimilate it, as this causes an acid condition that only delays the improvement.

After the cleansing preparation, begin the day with a glass of citric fruit juice, or water in which there is the juice of a lemon. Breakfast after that of a fattening cereal like oatmeal with cream as part of the meal. Jonquils Cutwork Design

SPRING is not so far off now, and we can indulge ourselves in looking forward to it by embroidering these cutwork jonquils. The work is much simplified because the design has no bars. The simple lines of the flowers lend themselves to cutwork. You can carry the flowers out in yellow with the leaves in green, if you like, or you can do them entirely in one color or white. The motifs lend themselves to a wide range of linens from a table cloth to such small articles as towels and tray cloths.

Pattern 915 comes to you with a transfer pattern of four motifs 7x7½ inches, four 5½ inch corner motifs; two motifs 5x8 inches and four motifs 2¾x3 inches; directions for doing cutwork; material requirements; illustrations of all stitches needed.

Send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) for this pattern to St. Louis Post-Dispatch, Needlecraft Dept., 82 Eighth Avenue, New York, N. Y.

A New Serial

By ANNE GARDNER

The Crash Comes, but Jerry Is Kept in Ignorance of the True Situation Through Gordon's Efforts.

CHAPTER SEVENTEEN.

JERRY put comforting arms around her friend, but was still incredulous. "It just doesn't make sense, child. Your father has one of the oldest, biggest, solidest businesses in Huntington. I've heard dozens of people say so. He couldn't lose it."

"It was the market. Terrible things have been happening today. Father got wiped out. It was something about margins. You read about it all the time in books and stories, and now it's happened to us!" Barbara sobbed against Jerry's shoulder.

But, darling, your father may have lost money in the market, a lot of money, but that wouldn't affect his business. That would go on just the same."

"It took all of his money, you see, money he needed to pay for the new addition, on lots of things. He won't be able to now, and they'll take the business. Oh, I suppose not tomorrow or next day, but as soon as they can conveniently get around to it."

Jerry smoothed Barbara's hair lovingly. "Oh, darling, I'm so sorry. So sorry."

"They can't take the house, Daddy said," Barbara went on between sobs, "because that's our homestead. But they'll take everything else, practically, and Daddy will have to start all over again. And he's 52 years old!"

This, however, savored too much of melodrama. "Now listen, Babs dear." Jerry reasoned in a sensible voice, "it just can't be as bad as all that! Things don't happen that way. Your father was upset, and this afternoon everything looked black to him. He'll get a good night's sleep and things will seem different. Come on over here and lie down, honey. You rest until Gordon comes, and then we'll do something gay. And tomorrow everything will be all right."

It did not enter her mind for one minute that Gordon could be affected by whatever had happened. Gordon was the financial wizard, the money making genius. Gordon couldn't lose.

She was sincere in what she had said to Barbara. Ugly things, horrid things, didn't happen. Sometimes you thought something unpleasant was headed toward you but it never arrived. Someone or something always came along in time and saved the situation. What cause had the youth of prosperity to be afraid of life?

Six o'clock came, 6:30. Gordon was never so late in coming from the office, and for just a moment a shade of worry crossed Jerry's heart, but she put in quickly from her. At 7 he called.

"I'm sorry I've kept you waiting, sweetheart. A big deal came up late. We've all been working on it. Are you all right?"

"Fine. But is anything the matter, dear? Barbara says there's been trouble on the market."

"A little flurry, nothing serious. These are bound to come every so often, and they're a good thing. Serve to steady the market." Jerry gathered from the way Gordon spoke that he had anticipated the downward movement and fully approved it. "After one of these drops, stocks always go higher than ever."

"I'm glad there is nothing wrong. Will you be here soon?"

"Well, listen, honey, would you just as soon go ahead and eat dinner without me? I may be tied up here for quite a while."

JERRY laughed. "Do you know, Gordon, that's the first time you've ever really made a noise like a business man? I believe I'm supposed to come back with. 'Is it really business?' but I refuse. All right, dear. Barbara is here with me. We'll go ahead and order up."

"That's fine. I'm glad there is someone to keep you from being lonesome. I'd hate to think of your having to eat all by yourself. Get something real nice for dinner, will you, precious?"

"We'll do our best. And how about you?"

"Oh, we'll send a boy out for sandwiches. It won't hurt us this once."

"You must be tired, though. Can't you get away pretty soon?"

"Not very tired. Not tired at all, really. I'll come as soon as I can, but don't wait up for me. 'By, dear."

"Goodby."

He had sustained the cheerful note to the last. Yet after Jerry had replaced the receiver, she stood frowning thoughtfully at the instrument, took it down and rang Gordon's office.

"Jeanie," she said to the switchboard girl, "is there anything wrong at the office? Why are you all there so late?"

But one of Gordon's first cares had been to warn the staff that Mrs. Brock was on no account to be given any disturbing information.

"Oh, nothing's wrong, Mrs. Brock!" Jeanie caroled faithfully. "Just a lot of extra work that came up."

"Mr. Brock isn't worried?"

"Oh no, I should say not." From her switchboard the girl could see, through the turmoil in the customers' room, glimpses of the ground glass partition which gave Gordon's office some privacy. The door was open and he was sitting at his desk, his face strained, his shoulders drooping wearily. Jeanie, though, like everyone else, knew that Mrs. Brock was expecting her

> JERRY BROCK is waiting for the birth of her baby. She has not been married very long, but life so far with GORDON, her husband, has been one long dream of luxury and happiness. He has been coining money in the stock market, and Jerry spends as much of it as she can manage. On the day of the stock market crash in October, 1929, Jerry is having a Junior League meeting at the hotel where they live. BARBARA HILTON, her closest friend, slips in, looking pale. When the rest have gone, she tells Jerry that her father has lost his business.
> NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

blight came, as the frost suddenly denudes the rich autumn landscape. The beanstalk quivered, collapsed. And fast as its growth had been, its fall was a thousand times more fast. With it tumbled the magic country in the clouds, down to hard earth, its dwellers groping unbelievingly amid the wreckage of their castles and their dreams.

All but that part where Jerry Brock waited for her baby to be born, her castle and her dream intact, kept for her, miraculously upheld by the love of the man she had married.

After the first succession of shocks, society gathered itself together and went on, as nearly as possible as before. Some had vanished, and would never be seen again. Others, sorely wounded, lagged far behind. Change became the order of the day. Businesses failed, were absorbed by others, families moved away as the heads were forced out of their positions and had to seek their livelihood elsewhere.

Yet the ranks closed up, things went on. Everyone was hopeful. This was only a temporary setback, it could not last. Soon the beanstalk would be revived, would start its upward climb again, and up they would all go with it. Meanwhile the thing to do was to keep up appearances, not let others know how badly you were hurt. After everything was right again, then you would tell how closely you had been to the edge, and laugh.

• • •

IF it were possible, Gordon spent more lavishly than before. Jerry's condition was entirely normal, Dr. Harmon was good, but Gordon insisted that for her accouchement a famous specialist should be brought from Chicago. She must, of course, have the finest room on the maternity floor of the leading hospital. To insure that it would be available, Gordon engaged it and held it empty for two weeks before the baby was expected. Two trained nurses, for day and night duty, were likewise kept in readiness.

"I believe Gordon is disappointed that we can't find some way to use four," Jerry laughed.

Gordon did not leave her side during those last hours of waiting. He hung over her, darkly anxious, in the quiet room at the hospital. She had been given Gwathmey and lay in a semistupor, now and then exclaiming with drowsy surprise at a pain.

Then she would hasten to reassure Gordon. "Really, it's not half bad. I could have a baby every day of the week, except that I don't know where we'd put them all."

As the hours dragged on, she moaned and tossed with increasing unease. The specialist looked at her, conferred with Dr. Harmon, who for this important patient had waived his prerogative of turning the early stages over to an interne. Jerry was transferred to a rubber-tired cart, wheeled to the delivery room, Gordon following.

Suddenly she gave a shuddering moan, that ended in a shriek. Gordon shrank back against the wall, put his hands over his face.

"Oh, God!" he cried, "I can't go in there. I can't watch her suffer!"

The hospital staff had seen fathers go to pieces before. A nurse took Gordon's arm, guided him back to the waiting room. A few of their intimate friends were there, Barbara Hilton, of course, and Bob Hamish, who had offered to see Gordon safely through his ordeal. Mrs. Richards, it had been decided, was not to be informed until everything was over.

"She's all alone in there!" Barbara exclaimed in a shocked whisper to Bob, when Gordon entered. "I'm going to her. Somebody ought to be with her! Suppose something went wrong?"

"They wouldn't let you," Bob objected.

"One person can go in. Jerry said so," the girl snapped.

She flew down the corridor, her high heels clicking on the cement floor, to the door which was the white garment. The door closed behind her.

And so only Barbara, watching fascinated and terrified the grotesque and magnificent drama of birth, knew that just before Jerry's last animal cry of agony had been stilled by the anesthetic, she had called a name, and the name was Ross.

Comparison Of Poverty And Wealth

By The Rev. J. F. Newton

IN his new story, which has everybody guessing, Thornton Wilder says: "A poor person, even if he's a millionaire, is the person whose head's full of anxious thoughts about money; and a rich person is a person whose head's not full of anxious thoughts about money."

There it is, plain enough; and it explains why the world is a bankrupt poorhouse today, and all of us are poor as church mice. We think about money, talk about money, dream about money, all fussed up, mussed up, messed up about money, as if money were the be-all and end-all.

Some have no money at all, others have too much, more than they know what to do with, not knowing how to give it away without doing as much harm as good. No matter, in our present state of mind, even if we have billions, we are paupers, beggars and bums, every one of us!

The richest man on earth is a pauper if he has nothing but money, and a man who has not a single penny may be rich beyond the dreams of avarice. It is not fancy talk, but a fact. Ruskin is right; life is the only wealth, not money, nor bonds, nor gold, nor silver!

The men who have done most for the world, the men who have made life richer, deeper and more lovely because they passed through it, had no money, did not want any money, and did not need any. They have shown us that life is not what we have, but what we are, what we do.

Jesus and His disciples had a purse with a little money in it, which He no doubt earned before He began His work. And a part of that was stolen. Yet what He did for our poor, stumbling race is worth more than all the gold in all the marble hills; worth many times more.

Saint Francis wedded Lady Poverty and went singing through the world, his very name a fragrance to this day. Gandhi, in our day, refuses money, too busy trying to lift millions of "untouchables" from the animal to the human level. Who is rich, Gandhi or a man with money bags?

Let us lay off the talk about money, and learn how to live, how to love, how to look up at the stars, and lend a hand to a man in need!

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

» by WYNN «

For Saturday, Feb. 16.

KEEN mentally today; vibrations urging change. Can be for the better if you use the top half of your intellectual bottle. Consider well your possible future relationships with superiors, social, business and governmental.

Develpoment.

Like the psycho-analyst, the good astrologer goes over what you are, as revealed by your nativity, and he or she also studies the various influences through which you have passed and endeavors to find out which of them has had the most effect on your development, or lack of it, on the four big planes of living; the physical, the intellectual, emotional and spiritual.

Your Year Ahead.

Your year ahead includes speeded-up mentality, restlessness, desire to expand and get around. Do so particularly in occupation, cover distance. Danger: Sept. 3 to Oct. 18; and Dec. 29 to Feb. 12, 1936.

Tomorrow.

Excellent for future picking; but avoid selfishness and indulgence.

"At least it shows I know a good deal," laughed Christopher, who had learned before this that you didn't show anyone you minded teasing, you were left alone.

Mrs. Quacko Duck, who had been so pleased because she thought it showed her popularity when there was a great pile of valentines before her place was becoming more and more ruffled.

"This is an outrage," she exclaimed. The valentine showed a picture of a duck with a very large mouth and underneath it said:

"Attention, Mrs. Duck. We recommend our latest styles in large mouths. Gives you plenty of room so you can swallow gossip and plenty of space in which to hold gossip until you can find someone with whom to talk."

And now the Puddle Muddlers were walking around looking angrily at each other.

"We'll have jelly now, which I have made as a surprise for dessert," said Willy Nilly, and eating dessert made them forget their little huffs.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

THE MONITOR WAS OWNED BY A SWEDE—Before the United States awarded the formal contract for the construction of the "Monitor," the Naval Board insisted on inserting a clause guaranteeing complete success of the battery. ("The Government cannot consent to receive the vessel until she shall have been tested for 90 days as proposed.") In case she proved a failure the Government was to be refunded the amount advanced on construction. The contract price was $275,000, of which $68,750 was not paid until March 14, 1862, that is, 5 days after the famous engagement with the Merrimac (rechristened "Virginia.") The "Monitor" was built at Greenpoint, Long Island, from designs by and under direction of John Ericson. It was launched Jan. 30, 1862. On March 6th, it started for Hampton Roads, where it arrived on March 8th, just in time to engage the Merrimac the next morning. This engagement was the most important and decisive in naval history, but the United States did not even own the vessel outright until five days later.

VALENTINE'S DAY—Valentine's day was originally Gallantine's day. A "Valentine" was a young man or woman betrothed on the first Sunday in Lent. According to ancient rural custom, the betrothal was to be annulled if the man failed to give the young woman a present or entertainment before mid-Lent. The word "valentine" is a variation of the word gallant, gallantine, meaning a "dashing, bold lover."

TOMORROW: WHERE TIME STANDS STILL.

Attic Foray

By Glenn R. Negley

THE quiet of the room was broken only by an occasional crackle of paper as the professor turned a page. His studious attitude increased the almost academic atmosphere created by the shelves of books and the inexpensive but carefully selected collection of prints and photographs, although the latter were now barely discernible in the subdued light of a single desk lamp. Academic the room really was, for this was the professor's study.

The sacred quiet was suddenly disturbed by a tangent thought which came rushing through the peaceful atmosphere to smite the professor full force, catapulting him out of his chair with startling abrutpness. Out the door and down the hall he went, further disturbing the peace with his cry:

"Jane! Oh, Jane! Where the devil are you?"

The young face that appeared at the bedroom door wore a mask of amused resignation. "Now what? Don't tell me you've had another thought, dear. You have already had one this morning; when you upset the coffee at breakfast—remember?"

The professor's students would have reveled in the inelegance of his reply: "Nuts! Listen, bane of my existence, what time did Ellen says she would be here?" Only his wife's restraining hand kept him from rushing back down the hall.

"Wait a minute, idiot. What's the matter with you? Are you so anxious to see Ellen that you can't wait?"

One could hardly appreciate the sarcasm of this last remark unless it be known that "Ellen" was none other than E. B. Adams, the famous art critic, recently characterized by one columnist as "the feminine embodiment of physical vigor and intellecutal vitriol."

Although he had known her for several years, the professor had never ceased to regard the Adams woman as some new species of amazon.

"I'm going to the attic, my dear, to look for the wedding present Ellen gave us."

"Oh!" The professor's simple statement had the immediate effect of multiplying the Brown agitation by two.

"Oh, Art, we must find it. She would never forgive us."

"Hm." The professor was more than dubious in regard to the Adams disposition. "She'd probably throw things."

The expedition to the attic revealed three important facts, two of which were already well known to the Browns. First, as to the nature of Ellen's gift; it was a large painting in a gilt frame, there being affixed to the latter a plate which announced to the world at large that this was "Sunset on Dream Mountain." Second, immediate testimony was given to the professor's oft-repeated verdict that the "thing was goshawful."

There followed 10 minutes of heated debate, the resulting decision being worked out in syllogistic form. Inasmuch as they were afraid to risk washing the picture, they must hang it in a place where the light was dim and where the shadows would, they hoped, blend in with the soot and dust.

Jane's contention was that the only appropriate place was the professor's study.

"You can turn on the desk lamp, honey."

"Yes; but I'm afraid she'll want the lights on so she can admire the thing. Don't you remember the two-hour lecture she gave us on its symbolical significance, or some such nonsense?"

"Well, there's nothing more we can do. Let's forget it—at least until she gets here."

"Like asking Rome to forget Hannibal."

UNLIKE Hannibal, however, Ellen did not forego invasion. Within an hour she came marching in, with a full force of vigor and enthusiasm.

"Now, listen, you children: Go right on about your business and leave me alone. I'm not a guest. As long as I'm here, here is where I live. Go do your work; and if you haven't any, you ought to have."

Jane knew that argument was useless; and the professor would as soon have taken on a lioness barehanded; so, after the trite injunction that she "make herself at home," they left her to her own devices.

Ellen's devices were not long in making themselves manifest, stridently and vociferously manifest. Not five minutes after they had left her alone in the front room the Browns heard a crash.

As they approached the study, the light streaming through the doorway confirmed their worst fears. The room fairly blazed with light; but the blaze of electricity was insignificant compared with the fire that emanated from the figure in the center of the room.

On the mountain created by her own hands stood E. B. Adams, vigorously engaged in ripping and otherwise mutilating beyond repair the sunset which had so recently cast its valiant rays upon that same mountain. When she saw the Browns she halted momentarily; and as she spoke, the professor had a subconscious vision of a train-caller.

"Say, are you trying to make fun of me? The idea of having an outrage like that on your wall—and my name on it so big you can read it from the other side of the room. Don't you think I have enough trouble trying to forget my 'art' without you advertising it?"

The ripping and tearing continued.

1 DO PERSONS ENGAGED IN AN OCCUPATION OR PROFESSION RATE IT HIGHER SOCIALLY THAN DO THOSE OUTSIDE?

YES OR NO

HAS THE INCREASING COMPLEXITY OF THE PROBLEMS OF GOVERNMENT CAUSED WOMEN TO BE MORE RELUCTANT TO RUN FOR PUBLIC OFFICE?
COPYRIGHT 1935 JOHN DILLE CO.

AUTHOR'S NOTE: These answers are given from the scientific point of view. Science puts the rights of organized society above the rights of individuals.

1. —Strange to say they do not. Dr. George Hartman, University of Pennsylvania, recently presented to a science group a research based on 430 personal interviews with people in all walks of life, as to how they rated the social standing of a large number of occupations. Doctors were ranked the highest socially. Next in order, came Senators, professors, lawyers, civil engineers, dentists, clergymen, high school teacher, factory manager, merchant, salesman, nurse, actor, mail carrier, etc., with miners, barbers, cooks and fishermen at the bottom. But the curious and encouraging thing is that the people in these occupations ranged them practically the same in social prestige as did those outside. Those who ranked their occupations low seemed to see it in its real light without discontent or an inferiority complex.

2. —It is rare that any one wishes to know another's private affairs from a wish to do him a service. It practically always comes from a snooping, gossipy person who hopes to find something derogatory. It is only people who are still emotional adolescents who even wish to know the private affairs and lives of their neighbors. An honest desire to keep your nose out of other people's business is the surest sign of genuine culture.

3. —Far more women than ever are eager to run for public office, and properly so, because, while formerly government was mostly concerned with tariffs, taxation, etc., now government is involved in the price of milk, electricity, gas, sidewalks, schools, working conditions, minimum wages, old age pensions and a thousand things that come close to the life and heart of every woman and challenges her interest, intelligence and courage to aid in solving them. More power to her!

The Radio in the Large Family

If the family is very large, it is not wise to install the new radio in the room where the entire family congregates every night. The arguments this has brought about are without number. The sewing room, play room or upstairs den are suggestions, where one can hear plainly without confusion and any one who really does not want to hear a certain thing has a chance of fulfilling his wish, also.

Monday Morning

The wise woman will let her upstairs work go until afternoon on Monday as it is a morning when the door bell rings constantly. Usually the living room needs plenty of attention after its Sunday occupants

Vulnerable and Redoubled

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

IN spite of all our efforts to stop the game of contract bridge it is getting more popular East and West.

* * *

Everybody has become an expert. You can tell a good bridge player by his walk. He shuffles off.

* * *

Also by shaking hands with him. He counts your fingers.

* * *

At breakfast your expert card player orders a stack of flapjacks and discards two. When they pass the collection plate on Sunday he gives himself a take-out double.

* * *

When he gets clubby with central on the telephone he is bidding. When his wife asks where he was last night he refuses to divulge valuable information. Once you get the bridge habit, it's yours and you're its. There is no way to break it, and nobody wants to.

* * *

He is always looking for a chance to make up a game wherever he goes. If three people fall overboard he yells, "How about a fourth?"
